THREE KILLED, TWO INJURED IN HEAD-ON AUTO CRASH

Machine Taking Four to Jefferson City for Birthday Party Collides with Another on U. S. 66, Near Union.

MOTORISTS FIND VICTIMS ON ROAD

Ross Jones, 25, of Glendale, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Davis Dead—Rex Upshaw and Wife Seriously Hurt.

Three persons were killed and two seriously injured in a head-on collision of automobiles on United States Highway 66, three miles west of State Route 100, near Union, at 6:30 o'clock last night.

The dead:

Ross Jones, 25 years old, 919 Brownell avenue, Glendale.

Lester Davis, 53, a bartender, 3907A Folsom avenue.

Mrs. Davis, 46, of Jefferson City, formerly of St. Louis.

The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Upshaw of Jefferson City, son-in-law and daughter of the Davises. Upshaw, 28, agent for a typewriter concern, suffered compound fractures of both legs, fractures of both arms and a skull injury. Mrs. Upshaw, who is 23, suffered fractures of the leg and jaw and shock. They were taken to St. Francis Hospital at Washington.

The accident occurred at a point where Highways 66 and 50 coincide, six miles west of Grays Summit, on a three-lane level straightaway. There were no witnesses. When other motorists reached the scene they found the cars smashed together, dead and injured thrown to the road or crushed in the cars. Engines of both machines were pushed back into the drivers' seats.

Mrs. Upshaw, after partly recovering from shock at the hospital, told police her husband had been driving, but was unable to tell how the accident happened.

The Upshaws, accompanied by Mrs. Davis, had driven to St. Louis yesterday morning and were returning with Davis, planning to celebrate his fifty-fourth birthday Tuesday. He was employed at a tavern at Thirty-ninth street and Park avenue. Mrs. Davis had moved from St. Louis to the Jefferson City home of the Upshaws about a month ago.

Jones was returning home from a hunting trip in the country. He resided with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Jones, and was employed in his father's building contracting business.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Davis were taken to the Nieberg & Vitt Funeral Home, Washington, and that of Jones to the Otto parlors in Washington.

MERCHANT MARINE TRAINING SHIP DISABLED IN STORM

Barkentine Marsala, With Crew of 25 Aboard, Is Towed to Port.

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 26.—Dismasted except for a portion of its foremast, the Barkentine Marsala was towed into Hampton Roads tonight by the Coast Guard cutter Mendota.

The cutter picked up the disabled ship about 40 miles southeast of Cape Charles at 8 a. m. today. The Marsala was dismasted in a storm Thursday night.

A crew of 25 was aboard the the Marsala, used as a training ship for officers of the merchant marine. The Barkentine, operated by the American Nautical Academy of Washington, was last reported at New London, Conn., and was en route to Hampton Roads.

WPA DROPS 14,043 MORE

Total of 3,243,529 Still on Rolls Nov. 19.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The Works Progress Administration reduced its employment rolls by 14,043 during the week ended Nov. 19, by not replacing those who left WPA employment. Records made available today showed that on Nov. 19, the employment rolls stood at 3,242,549, as compared with 3,257,592 for the week ending Nov. 12.

This was the second time in two weeks that WPA enrollment lists showed a decline. The first, showing a drop of 5232, took place between Nov. 5 and Nov. 12.

POPE SUFFERS SLIGHT CHILL AFTER HE LEAVES SICKBED

Seizure Passes Quickly but Doctor Warns Him to Curtail Activities—Pontiff Insists on Resuming Audiences.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 26.—Vatican sources said tonight that Pope Pius XI suffered a slight chill about 5 p. m. after he had left his sickbed to carry on his official duties. The chill lasted only a few minutes.

The Pope had been helped from bed and had sat up part of the day despite the attack of cardiac asthma from which he collapsed yesterday morning. He had been warned that his weakened heart might not survive another such attack. Nevertheless he held a long conference with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, Papal Secretary of State.

Most of the day the Pope, who is 81 years old, matched his will against that of his chief physician, Dr. Aminta Milani. Dr. Milani said his patient expressed for tomorrow the firm desire to receive Cardinal Pacelli, Mgr. Filippo Soccorsi, director of the Vatican radio station, and Camillo Serafini, Governor of Vatican City—receptions which have been part of the Pope's Sunday routine.

The physician was firm in his objections. He said he would not permit the Pope to receive even members of his family let alone any other visitors.

A source close to the Pope said he hoped to attend mass tomorrow in his private chapel and also intended not only to hold the customary official conferences but to receive a delegation of Hungarian pilgrims.

This informant said early this evening that the Pope "could not hope to be better."

Drinks Weak Coffee.

Dr. Milani permitted his patient to drink a small cup of diluted coffee this afternoon after the Pope took some broth and sipped a little champagne.

The physician was seen leaving the Papal apartment in late afternoon for a brief stroll. He intended to spend another night near his patient.

Dr. Milani supervises medical care of Vatican employes at a four-room clinic-pharmacy-first aid station, but when the Pope is ill he devotes all his time to him. Dr. Milani is 61 years old, tall and distinguished. His hair and moustache are iron gray.

Except for the conference in the library with Cardinal Pacelli today, the Pope spent his time while sitting up beside the stained glass window of his bedroom, a chamber hardly larger than a monk's cell.

He wore a long white robe, skull cap and slippers of silk and wool. With him constantly were two male nurses—monks of the Do Good Brotherhood.

People from all walks of life went to St. Peter's Cathedral to kneel in prayer for the Pope's recovery. The Vatican received word that millions of faithful elsewhere in the world were offering similar prayers.

Messages Pour In.

Messages continued to pour in. Among notables calling to inquire as to the Pope's condition was the German Ambassador to the Holy See, Diego von Bergen.

Occasionally during the day hushed, reverent persons formed small groups in the vast square in front of St. Peter's and stood in the fine mild weather gazing toward the window of the Pope's bedroom, high on a corner of the Papal palace.

The Pope sat up for a while in an armchair in the bedroom before he was carried to the library on a lower floor for his conference with Cardinal Pacelli.

Members of the household marveled at his strength in frailty and affliction. The Pope talked for more than an hour with his Secretary of State. The Cardinal called to get authorization to receive a group of newlyweds and a group of Hungarian pilgrims, whom the Pope was to have received.

"More or Less Normal."

An official communique said the Pope passed "a calm night, resting without any disturbance."

"The improvement which was noted yesterday evening continued, happily, so that this morning His Holiness has returned to a more or less normal condition," it added.

Thousands who had prayed for the Pontiff were reassured by the communique. Their fears had been augmented by his advanced age and the fact that he had been weakened by grave illness nearly two years ago.

Cardinal Pacelli told the Hungarian pilgrims, "The Pope is feeling well." There was still some respiratory difficulty but the Pope found some relief from this in sitting up.

The communique said that Dr. Milani had advised "several days of rest before the Pontiff should resume his customary rhythm of life.

"Therefore, His Holiness limited himself this morning to receiving only the Cardinal Secretary of State."

Whereas the Pope himself had celebrated mass in the private chapel adjoining his bedroom before his collapse yesterday morning, today he lay in his simple brass bed, un-

10 KILLED WHEN BIG GERMAN PLANE CRASHES IN TEST

Five Others Injured—40-Seat Craft Said to Have Caught Fire Near West African Airport.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—An officer of Lufthansa, German air line, reported 10 airmen were killed today in the crash of a Lufthansa plane during an experimental flight in Gambia, on the west coast of Africa.

Three others were injured seriously and two were hurt slightly. The plane carried a crew of five and 10 technicians, the latter from the Air Ministry and from Junkers, Bavarian motor works.

The Lufthansa executive said the flight was made to study the plane's performance, especially under tropical conditions.

One of the victims was identified as an aviator named Blankenburg who was said to have had 107 ocean crossings to his credit.

Dispatches from Bathurst, Gambia, near the scene of the accident, failed to explain the cause of the tragedy.

Reports received in London said the plane, a 40-seat airliner, caught fire in taking off and crashed into a palm tree just off Jeshwang Airport.

Two Navy Flyers Killed in Crash at Fort Bliss, Tex.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 26.—A naval airplane crashed shortly after its takeoff from Biggs Field Army Airport at Fort Bliss today, killing two men and slightly injuring a third.

The dead: Aviation Cadet L. T. Rowe, the pilot, of San Diego, Cal., and Machinist's Mate C. K. Wise of San Diego. Howard Willis, a mess attendant, was injured.

BODY OF QUEEN MAUD IS RETURNED TO NORWAY

Thousands Line Quay, Nation in Mourning; Funeral Not Yet Arranged.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Nov. 26.—The body of Queen Maud of Norway was returned to her adopted land today aboard the British warship Royal Oak.

Escorted by Norwegian naval units, the Royal Oak entered Oslo fjord as thousands lined the quay. The nation was in mourning and schools were closed.

A salute of 21 guns was fired as British bluejackets carried the coffin ashore. Then it was borne through crowd-lined streets to Akershus Castle, where the body will lie in state until the funeral, not yet arranged.

Queen Maud, daughter of King Edward VII of Great Britain and Queen of Norway since Haakon was called to the throne in 1905, died in England last Sunday.

SEC ATTACK BEGUN ON 'DEPARTMENT STORE OF FINANCE'

Transamerica, A. P. Giannini's Far-Flung Banking Venture, Faces Hearing on Jan. 16.

FALSIFIED REPORTS, IT IS ALLEGED

Holding Company Must Show Why 11,590,784 Shares Should Not Be Withdrawn or Suspended

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — A major offensive against the dominant banking empire of the Pacific Coast, that of the Italian-American financier and philanthropist, Amadeo Peter Giannini, was launched late yesterday by the Securities and Exchange Commission. An order was published for a hearing, which will begin in this city on Jan. 16, to determine whether his top holding company, the $200,000,000 Transamerica Corporation, shall be required to suspend or withdraw 11,590,784 shares of its outstanding capital stock, with a par value of $2, on the New York, Los Angeles and San Francisco stock exchanges.

Transamerica, with its maze of subsidiaries nested one within another and its far-flung range of activities, including farm lands, vineyards, securities and even amusement resorts, has been nicknamed "The Department Store of Finance." Until recent months trading in its stock absorbed for years one-fourth of a total volume of business on the San Francisco Stock Exchange. Recognizing the probable effect of its order upon exchange trading, the S E C took the unusual precaution of forbidding correspondents to file their dispatches until the closing hour of the San Francisco and Los Angeles exchanges.

False and Misleading.

The commission has reasonable grounds to believe, it is alleged, that Trans-America's application for registration with that body, and accompanying reports and schedules, under date of Dec. 31, 1936, contained "false and misleading statements of material facts, including financial statements of the corporation and its subsidiaries, which do not correctly reflect the true financial condition of the corporation and its subsidiaries."

It is related that on Aug. 7, 1937, the Transamerica Corporation, through its president, John M. Grant, filed an application for registration with the SEC under the "truth in securities" act of 1934, and that on June 27 last it further submitted a copy of its annual report for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1937, also signed by Grant. It is alleged that both these documents contain "false and misleading statements of material facts," so that there was an erroneous reflection of "the true financial condition of the corporation and its subsidiaries."

Committee of Three Men.

The first of the order's list of 18 charges is that in its application and annual report the registrant failed to disclose a material fact, in that its supreme control for seven years was vested at a stockholders' meeting of 1934 in a committee of three men—A. P. Giannini, Transamerica's chairman of the board; its president, John M. Grant; and the former's son, L. M. Giannini. This control was still in effect, it is stated, when the application and report were filed.

"Materially misleading" is the commission's verdict on the registrant's response to its call for information with respect to the remuneration paid its officers and directors. The elder Giannini's recompense as chairman of the board during 1936 is stated to have been $1, it is alleged, whereas, in that year, he drew $65,914.28 from one of Transamerica's former subsidiaries, the Bankitaly Co. of America.

Withdrawals Are Cited.

This was the last of a series of such payments, according to the commission, which began in 1930, when $1,400,000 was placed to Giannini's credit in the Bankitaly Co. By September, 1931, Giannini had drawn $608,000 of this sum. At this time, the charge continues, counsel for the then existing management of Transamerica advised that further payments would be illegal. Nevertheless, it is declared, Giannini withdrew from the balance $134,826.58 in 1932, $132,896.92 in 1933, $100,596.24 in 1934, $251,952.03

TWO POLL CLERKS SAY THEY SIGNED RETURNS IN BLANK

Women on Election Duty in Hannegan's Ward Admit They Attached Names Before Vote Count.

ONE SAYS SHE WAS "TOLD TO DO SO"

Precinct One of Eight in Which Recounts Were Held Because of Obvious Discrepancies.

Blank forms for returns of the Nov. 8 election in the eighteenth precinct of the Twenty-first Ward were signed by the two woman clerks of the precinct the afternoon of the election, before the polls were closed, the women told Post-Dispatch reporters yesterday.

The law specifically provides that the statement of returns shall not be signed "in blank."

The clerks were Miss Elizabeth Barry, 4039 Labadie avenue, Democrat, who said she signed the forms at 1 p. m., six hours before the polls closed, and Mrs. Alvera Hoffer, 4201 Sacramento avenue, Republican, who said she signed about 5 p. m.

One of the Republican judges of the precinct, M. C. Hippler, 4017 Ashland avenue, said to a reporter that the officials of the precinct divided the ballots into batches for counting at the close of the voting day. He and Miss Barry counted one batch, he said. The law provides that the judges of opposite politics—there are two Democrats and two Republicans in each precinct—shall count the ballots while the two clerks keep tally.

Hannegan's Ward.

This precinct, in the home ward of Robert E. Hannegan, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, had its polling place at 4114W Natural Bridge avenue. It was one of eight precincts for which a recount of the vote was conducted by the Election Board because of obvious discrepancies between the report on the number of votes in the precinct returns and the number indicated as cast by the poll book.

The recount of this precinct showed that all Democratic nominees were credited with from 23 to 34 votes more by the precinct statement of returns than found in the recount, while the Republican nominees were credited with from 19 to 31 fewer votes. On the State propositions the precinct returns showed from three to 120 more votes credited in favor of seven of the nine propositions than found in the recount, and from eight to 69 fewer votes against the items. There were other variations on the other two propositions.

In addition, on the two city bond issue proposals, the precinct returns showed variations in comparison with the recount.

The precinct returns did not give Socialist candidates any votes, but the recount showed one vote each for Socialist candidates for United States Senator and State Superintendent of Schools.

The Election Board voted last Monday to certify the findings of extreme discrepancies in the returns of this precinct to United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton, Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller and Prosecuting Attorney James P. Finnegan. Blanton announced that, if there was any indication of violation of Federal statutes, his office would make an investigation. The detailed reports to the prosecutors have not yet been made by the board.

It was learned by the Post-Dispatch yesterday that Miss Barry had appeared before Chairman William H. Woodward and other members of the board Monday, making a full statement of what had occurred in the precinct. Woodward, declining to make public the details of Miss Barry's statement to the board, said copies of it would be furnished the prosecutors. He would not comment on the statements of the woman clerks to Post-Dispatch reporters.

"Began to Wonder."

Miss Barry, a stenographer, wept as she related to a reporter what had gone on at the polling place.

"It was the first time I had ever served as a precinct official," she said. "After it was over, I began to wonder about what was done, and I voluntarily went down and talked to Mr. Woodward.

"I told him that I was told to sign the blank forms in the afternoon. I told Mr. Woodward who told me to sign the forms."

She declined to give the informa-

MAIDS IN BRITAIN NEED NOT WEAR CAPS, UNION RULES

Also, Each May State Name She Is to Be Called By.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The British maid, after three centuries, has won a battle. The National Union of Domestic Workers has laid down a rule that "the wearing of caps should not be required."

The union also has ruled that maids should have contracts and that the contract should state the name by which the maid wishes to be addressed. Regulations of the union indicate it is preferable to call her, the maid, "Miss So and So."

Limitation of hours, fixed and regular mealtimes and bedroom privacy are other regulations demanded. Girls 18 years old or older must get 18 shillings ($4.32) a week if they "live in," and they must get two weeks' vacation.

DIONNE REJECTS PLAN TO SHOW QUINTUPLETS AT WORLD'S FAIR

"Exploitation," He Says; Dr. Dafoe Asserts Guardians Have Not Considered Offer.

By Canadian Press.

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 26. — Oliva Dionne, father of the quintuplets, rejected today a plan to exhibit them at the New York World's Fair next year. He said it looked like "a clear case of exploitation."

(World Fair officials said that despite Dionne's attitude they still hoped to have the quintuplets at the fair. A spokesman expressed surprise at the father's comment and said he had been informed Dionne previously had been willing.)

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, medical guardian of the quintuplets, who was said by a fair spokesman to have been the first to agree—on the premise that the rest of the guardians also consent—said the board had never considered the offer.

Dionne recalled censure in some quarters for a vaudeville tour he and Mrs. Dionne made in 1935. He said that as one of the guardians of his daughters, he never would consent to exhibiting them at the world's fair, and "as father I am against it."

Soon after the quintuplets were born in 1934, Dionne signed a contract for their appearance at the Chicago fair, but canceled it.

NEW YORK CITY POLICE FORCE BIDS FOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Credits Up to 4 Pct. in Physical Examination to Be Offered Athletes Who Apply.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — College backfield and line stars were offered special inducements today to join the New York City police force.

Credits up to four per cent in the physical examination were offered football-playing applicants. With that advantage, police predicted old gridiron stars would come out on top of the other 30,000 candidates for Civil Service examinations.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" CALLED UNDESIRABLE BOOK BY NAZIS

Education Counselor Tells Hitler Youth Meeting "It Runs Counter to Our Racial Ideals."

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" is not a suitable book for Germans to read, in the opinion of Nazi education leaders.

Education Counselor Hans Meinshausen, addressing a Hitler Youth gathering recently, said "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was not a desirable book, "because it runs counter to our racial ideals."

MAYOR AND FIRED COP FIGHT AT MADISON, ILL.

Dismissed Captain Who Returned to Duty Jailed After Row at Police Station.

Frank Onesky, who with three other officers of the Madison Police Department, was dismissed Nov. 16 by Mayor Robert Dron because of gambling that prevailed in the town, was placed in jail last night by the Mayor, after a fight between the two at the Madison police station. The fight began when the Mayor found that Onesky had returned to work in uniform.

Mayor Dron said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that Onesky had struck him first with his fist and later with his billy, after he had ordered the discharged police captain from the station. He said he would apply for warrants against him.

Onesky was disarmed of his revolver and billy by the Mayor, and the desk-sergeant, and Edward Reiskee, brother-in-law of the Mayor, after the three of them had overcome him.

Reports for Duty.

Appearing before Peter Boehm, village clerk, Onesky and the other three officers were sworn in yesterday as new officers and all reported for work. Onesky, however, was the only one at the station when Mayor Dron arrived. Boehm has expressed himself as antagonistic to the Mayor over discharge of the officers.

"I did not know any of the discharged men were working," Dron said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, "until I was passing the station and saw Onesky inside in uniform. I went in and told him he could not work on the department as long as I was Mayor, and that he could consider himself under arrest.

"He tried to get out of the door, which I blocked, and he hit me with his fist. We then cornered him, when he tried to get out of another door, and disarmed him. In the fight we both fell to the floor."

Attorney Kept From Cell.

Reporters were not permitted to talk to Onesky. Harold Bandy, attorney who is representing the discharged officers, also was refused permission to see him. Besides Onesky, those fired by Mayor Dron, are: Raymond Bachman, who was Chief of Police; Hilbert Hoekstra, former captain, and Edward Sparajcar, former patrolman.

Slot machines and dice tables, which had flourished unmolested in Madison, were stored away in back rooms after Mayor Dron took the first step toward a clean-up in Madison County after the Nov. 7 elections, which swept anti-gambling candidates into office. The discharged officers charged the Mayor was moved by political ambition. He has been in office 18 months.

Two hours after the fight, Austin Lewis Acting State's Attorney of Madison County, Madison resident defeated for re-election by City Judge R. W. Griffith of Granite City, who declared against gambling in his campaign, sent four deputy sheriffs to the police station "to preserve law and order and prevent any outbreak of violence."

Family of 4 Killed in Auto.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 26. — A family of four was killed today when their automobile failed to make a turn near Laguna Junction, on the San Diego-El Centro Highway, and plunged over a 25-foot embankment. The man killed was named Henry Schultz. The others were his wife and daughters.

DALADIER ORDERS ARMY CONTROL OF RAILWAYS

Decrees Requisition of Roads, Placing Under Military Control Workers Who Planned to Join Strike Set for Wednesday

LABOR MEETINGS OF PROTEST HELD

Thousands Attend Peaceful Gatherings Assailing Premier's Rule — Armed Forces Used to Break Up Walkouts.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 26.—Premier Edouard Daladier decreed tonight military control of all the principal railroad lines of France in his campaign to crush in advance the one-day general strike called by French labor for next Wednesday.

The decree, affecting railroad workers who had voted to join the general strike, will be effective on its publication in the official journal tomorrow.

Earlier in the day similar tactics smashed strikes among miners, metal workers and local railroad hands in the north of France, where 50,000 workers had walked out.

The French Confederation of Labor which ordered its 5,000,000 members to strike Wednesday in protest against Daladier's decree laws suspending the 40-hour week, had ordered a stoppage in every phase of work, excepting only such necessary services as water, gas and electricity. These services were to be manned by skeleton staffs.

Unions Give In.

Daladier won the first round of his battle with labor by using army measures in the north, mobilizing striking workers and ordering them to work as part of the army. Courts-martial were established for those refusing to work.

The unions quickly gave in by ordering strikers to resume work pending the general strike.

The railroad decree said simply that "in view of present circumstances" requisition is authorized for the lines of the National Railway Co. This extended the move to six great networks covering more than 26,000 miles which were banded into a single nationalized company on Aug. 31, 1937.

Although the decree will become effective with publication in the official journal, it was not disclosed when the actual commandeering would be carried out. This is left to the Ministries of War and Public Works.

Radio Campaign by Cabinet.

By the decree, Daladier apparently intends to mobilize the railroad workers as soldiers—cut to soldiers' pay—only if they strike.

In a radio address which began the Government's counter-offensive against the projected general strike, Finance Minister Paul Reynaud declared the Government was determined to enforce its decrees and added:

"I do not admit that the laws of the French republic merit less respect than those of Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin."

The Government has power to requisition plants and mobilize workers by drafting them into the army.

In the Paris region, where 50,000 metal workers, in addition to the 50,000 strikers in the north, went on strike, all factories were cleared of sit-in strikers.

The northern unions in ordering their members back to work, asserted their action was taken only "to give greater significance" to the scheduled general strike. Coal trains began running and mine and metal works operations are to be renewed Monday, although a few thousand men in chemical and other industries remained on strike.

Labor Mass Meetings.

France's Left Wing labor ranks shouted defiance at the Government in nationwide mass meetings late today, with 50,000 workers attending meetings in Paris and hundreds of thousands turning out in the provinces. The meetings were held peacefully under the watchful eyes of armed mobile guards.

Unions of the Paris region published an appeal to their followers to maintain order.

"It is necessary," said their mee-

NAZI ANTI-JEWISH ATTACK EXTENDED TO SYMPATHIZERS

Those Friendly to Oppressed Race 'Do Not Belong Longer to German People,' Paper Says.

NEW RESTRICTIVE DECREES ISSUED

'Pawn Shop' Set Up by Government in Order to Facilitate Collection of $400,000,000 Fine.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 26. — Nazi anti-Semitism was extended today by sharp attacks on those who sympathize with Jews.

"These creatures, these friends of Jews, these servants of Jews deserve no other treatment than that accorded Jews themselves," the Nuernberg newspaper Fraenkische Tageszeitung declared. "Such contemporaries do not belong any longer to the German people if they insist upon championing Jewish murder gangs. They, too, should leave the Fatherland. Nobody is holding them back."

The Westdeutscher Beobachter of Cologne maintained that "Our fellow citizens must not commiserate where commiseration is out of place; the elimination of the Jew from our life must be carried to the bitter end."

Some observers believed these attacks were the beginning of a wider campaign against Germans who think Nazi treatment of Jews unworthy of German traditions.

Many Jews Evicted.

Letters kept piling up in foreign consulates, meanwhile, indicating hundreds of landlords were evicting Jews from their homes.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff reported approvingly how a Jewess was evicted and her four-room apartment made available to an Aryan family of seven.

There were other restrictive measures:

Indigent Jews were forbidden, under a decree of the Ministry of the Interior, to seek aid from public welfare bureaus but must turn to Jewish agencies.

All Jewish student loans were canceled and repayment ordered within two weeks. All hunting licenses held by Jews were ordered canceled by Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, acting in his capacity as national Master of the Hunt.

Temper of Other Nations Sounded.

Newspapers were alert for evidence of a more favorable reaction toward Germany in other countries.

Nachtausgabe reported from New York that United States Ambassador Hugh R. Wilson, recalled from Berlin for "reports and consultation" conferred only 14 minutes yesterday with Secretary of State Hull before the latter departed for Lima, Peru, to attend the Pan-American conference.

The newspaper inferred Wilson could hardly have said anything very bitter about the anti-Jewish violence here Nov. 10 in the brief time between his arrival in New York and Secretary Hull's departure.

The paper also quoted Ambassador Wilson's secretary as saying Wilson's return to Berlin was scheduled soon.

(A secretary said in New York Friday night that he felt sure "we will return to duty in Berlin soon," but acting Secretary Welles of the State Department said Wilson would be assigned to the State Department in Washington for an indefinite period.)

Fine May Exceed 20 Pct.

Jews faced the prospect that a billion mark ($400,000,000) punitive levy for the slaying of the German diplomat Ernst vom Rath in Paris by a Polish Jew might, for many of them, exceed the 20 per cent tax decreed on each fortune above $2000.

It was officially reported that if any Jews failed to pay their share of the assessment for any reason, then other Jews would be held responsible for this deficit.

To help Jews turn valuables into cash to enable them to pay their part of the fine or to emigrate, a special "pawn shop" office was established by the Chamber of Commerce and Industry on orders of the Economics Ministry.

These Nazi financial officials will buy, at their own evaluation, jewelry and other articles from Jews. The office will begin operations probably next week.

Value of Fortunes Changed.

How much property emigrating Jews will be permitted to take with them remains problematic.

Jewish circles feared there would be practically nothing left for most emigrants after selling their belongings for whatever they can get to obtain cash to pay regular taxes, the flight tax on emigrants and their share of the $400,000,000 fine.

Jewish leaders pointed out that figures regarding Jewish fortunes were based on many factors which have changed since—such as the evaluation on business enterprises when they were going concerns before the anti-Jewish violence Nov. 10, the investment in goods and wares and the value of real estate.

A Specimen Case.

One Munich Jew, for instance, received 18,000 marks ($7200) for real estate valued at 100,000 marks ($40,000). Hence he failed to get enough from its sale to pay his share of the fine. According to earlier figures given the Government regarding his property, he has to pay 20 per cent of the 100,000 marks, or $8000. But should he now claim his property to be worth only 18,000 marks, he would be in conflict with another regulation providing that any Jew who gave the incorrect evaluation of his fortune is liable to criminal action. He must, therefore, abide by the 100,000-mark evaluation and pay the Government 20,000 marks as his part of the penalty.

Jewish leaders feared the Finance Ministry might refuse to give any prospective Jewish emigrant a certificate showing all obligations had been met because he might have to make up for the failure of some less fortunate Jew to deliver his contribution.

From Vienna came the information that anti-Jewish actions were at a standstill pending further instructions from Berlin on arrests and efforts to liberate Jews from concentration camps. The Viennese press, however, was continuing its sharp articles on past activities of Jews in Austria.

Heads Powerful French Labor Group

sage, "that today's demonstrations keep the great power and great character of discipline and order which will help assure success of the general strike Wednesday."

The Government's steel-helmeted mobile guards, with carbines slung over their shoulders, mounted guard around the meetings.

Basis for Protests.

Workers by thousands flocked to three major meetings in the capital region. About 50 meetings were held in the provinces. Resolutions were adopted protesting against the Government's three-year recovery plan decrees approved by the Government Nov. 12, terming them an unfair taxation burden on the lower classes.

They protested against abandonment of the People's Front social reforms, especially the 40-hour week.

The workers protested also against the Government's use of police to break the sit-down strikes.

In the background of the conflict, however, there was the growing political enmity between Premier Daladier's Radical Socialists on the one hand, and their former allies, the Socialists, Communists and the General Confederation of Labor, on the other.

The crisis promised either to leave Daladier in power with a new conservative majority in the Chamber of Deputies, or to set up a new Government.

The Confederation of Labor planned its walkout of Wednesday carefully, designing it to involve factories, stores, banks, theaters, newspapers, taxis, radio broadcasting, railroads, telephones, subways, busses, schools, postoffices and even the Government ministries.

Daladier expected to broadcast to the nation over the week-end, appealing for a disregard of the strike call.

$20,000,000 Increase in French Air Budget Proposed.

Acting on its promise to increase the military air strength of France, the Daladier Government proposed today for parliamentary approval a 1939 air force budget higher by 766,000,000 francs (about $19,992,600) than that of last year.

The budget, copies of which were distributed today, calls for credits amounting to 2,322,000,000 francs ($60,604,200). Credits were approved at the outset of 1938 for 1,556,000,000 francs ($40,611,600).

The budget figures provide for nearly a 50 per cent increase in the number of officers in the air force and increasing the number of non-commissioned officers and men by nearly one-third.

By a decree in June, 1937, the number of officers was brought to 3085 and the number of non-commissioned officers and men to 59,410. In 1939 the numbers will be 4432 and 77,700, respectively.

The number of planes to be built or ordered from abroad in 1939 was not given, but Premier Daladier is reported to have promised in his talks with Prime Minister Chamberlain of Britain on Thursday that France would add 6000 planes to its air force within the shortest possible period.

AMERICAN CHARGES JAPANESE PROMOTE DRUG USE IN CHINA

Nanking University Officer Says City Is Divided Into Districts, With 200 Smoking Dens.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 26.—Dr. S. M. Bates, the American vice-president of the University of Nanking, published a documented statement today charging the Japanese-sponsored Chinese reform government with encouraging the use of narcotics through 200 smoking dens and other establishments in Nanking.

Nanking is divided into five districts, his report said, with a licensed wholesale distributor, 10 retail stores and 30 smoking dens in each district. In addition, many individual licenses are granted, Dr. Bates declared.

Tens of thousands of persons, including children, are becoming addicts, Dr. Bates said. He estimated there were 50,000 users of one kind of narcotic in Nanking alone.

VAN SWERINGEN BUYERS SUE BALL FOR $5,000,000

They Allege He Induced Them to Pay "Fraudulent and Excessive Price" for Railroad Lines.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 26.—Purchasers of the 23,000-mile Van Sweringen railroad empire, alleging they paid too much for it, filed suit for $5,000,000 damages today against George A. Ball, 75-year-old Muncie (Ind.) fruit jar manufacturer and capitalist, from whom they bought it.

The suit, filed in United States District Court, was instituted by Robert R. Young, Newport, R. I.; Allan P. Kirby Convent, N. J. and the Seaboard Co., Ltd., of Nassau, Bahamas Islands, under the Federal Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

It asks for damages on the ground that Ball after control of the vast railroad holdings was dumped into his lap by death of the Van Sweringen brothers, violated the Securities Act by engaging in certain transactions on the New York Stock Exchange for the purpose of creating "both actual and apparent active trading in the securities of the Alleghany Corporation," parent Van Sweringen company.

Ball's transactions, the suit alleges, were intended to induce the plaintiffs to buy the securities "at the false, fraudulent, fictitious and excessive prices" provided in the purchase agreement.

Original Transaction.

Securities of the Alleghany Corporation were sold by Ball to Young, Kirby and Frank F. Kolbe of New York for a reported price of $6,375,000, of which $4,000,000 was in cash and the rest in a promissory note maturing May 5, 1939. Kolbe then sold out to Young and the Seaboard Co. Young now is president of the Alleghany Corporation.

At Ball's office in Muncie, it was said he was out of the city. His secretary reached him by telephone, however, and issued this statement:

"Mr. Ball stated he had not yet been advised of the basis of the lawsuit . . . and called attention to the impropriety of entering into any discussion of the matter except in the course of the trial of the lawsuit."

The George and Frances Ball Foundation, a charitable and benevolent organization founded by Ball, is named as co-defendant.

The Alleghany Corporation, through the Chesapeake Corporation, a subsidiary holding company, has substantial stock holdings in many railroads. Among them are the Chesapeake & Ohio, Erie, Pere Marquette, Nickel Plate, Missouri Pacific, Wheeling and Denver & Rio Grande.

Real Estate Holdings.

The Mid-America Corporation, another Alleghany subsidiary, holds real estate interests, mostly in Cleveland, where the Van Sweringen brothers, O. P. and M. J., climbed from obscurity to the throne of an industrial empire.

One of the attorneys for Young, Kirby and the Seaboard Co. is Frank McHale, Democratic National Committeeman from Indiana and manager of Paul V. McNutt's campaign for the party's 1940 presidential nomination.

Ball formerly was the State's Republican National Committeeman. He invested with and advised the Van Sweringen brothers in their operations. Suddenly, after their deaths, he found himself the directing head of the enterprises they had built.

'OLD MILL STREAM' BEING MADE FIT FOR ROMANCE AGAIN

WPA Clearing Blanchard River at Findlay, O., for Sanitary Reasons.

By the Associated Press.

FINDLAY, O., Nov. 26.—The original "Old Mill Stream" is being made fit to wander "down by" once again. During the 30 years since the late Tell Taylor's ballad was written, the banks of the stream have become overgrown with brush and its waters polluted.

The "Old Mill Stream," really named Blanchard River, became so malodorous it discouraged romance and reverie.

Then officials took a hand, not out of sentiment, but for the sake of sanitation. WPA workers are removing debris along the 12-mile course of the river and next year Findlay residents will picnic along its banks.

POPE HAS CHILL AFTER LEAVING BED TO HOLD AUDIENCE

der a painting of the Madonna of Good Counsel, while Mgr. Carlo Confalonieri celebrated mass within his hearing.

He had been given absolution yesterday in fear that the end was near, but today he took communion.

He was represented as being in amiable spirit. "Professor, help me get up," he was quoted as saying to Dr. Milani. "The Pope must not stay in bed."

He had taken no solid food since the heart attack yesterday and it was expected he would have only the lightest of food henceforth—such as broths, fruit gelatins and milk. He has been a light eater for years.

Respiratory difficulty marred his night's rest and his sleep was fitful. A radiator kept his barely furnished bedroom warm and he was wrapped in woolen blankets. He lay in a long white nightshirt with a warm calotte, or skull cap, on his head.

George Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago, who had left for Naples yesterday when the Pope was stricken, resumed his homeward journey after receiving a reassuring report on the Pope's condition. The Cardinal sailed on the liner Conte di Savoia.

HOW CZECH INDUSTRIES FARED IN ANNEXATIONS BY GERMANY

Only Porcelain and Musical Instrument Trades Completely Crippled, Relief Group Reports.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Only the porcelain and musical instrument industries in Czechoslovakia have been completely crippled as a result of the German annexations, according to a report issued today by the American Committee for Relief in Czechoslovakia. Czechoslovakia still has all of its iron and manganese mines, 45.3 per cent of its hard coal, but only 30 per cent of its brown coal, while 70 per cent of both iron and steel production, 76 per cent of its brass mills and 64 per cent of its coke ovens remain.

"The foremen and mechanics of the Skoda works, from which the builders of the Normandie ordered their largest steel castings, are still at work and remain among the best skilled in Europe," the report said. "Sixty per cent of the textile mills remain on Czechoslovak soil, 90 per cent of the shoe and leather factories, 40 per cent of the famous Bohemian glass works. The cottage industries of lace, embroideries and toys are preserved.

"Of the population which lived by agriculture and forestry, Czechoslovakia retains 69 per cent, and 61 per cent of her industrial workers. Never having had a seacoast, Czechoslovakia early in her history developed a large fishing business in artificial ponds covering hundreds of acres of infertile soil in South Bohemia. This vital element in its food supply has all been retained."

Hunger, Not Bombs, Gravest Threat To Loyalists, Says Gen. Miaja's Son

In New York on Way to Cuba, He Asserts Food Shortage Is Causing Many Deaths From Anemia and Malnutrition.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26. — Loyalist Spain is suffering severely from a serious food shortage which has caused many deaths from anemia and malnutrition, it was admitted today by Enrique Miaja, son of Gen. Jose Miaja, commander-in-chief of all Loyalist forces outside of Catalonia. Miaja, who arrived in New York on Thursday on the French liner Normandie, is on his way from Spain to Havana, Cuba, where he will be Spanish Consul-General.

Although Miaja would not admit the possibility that the Loyalists might lose the war, he made clear his conviction that if they do lose they will have been conquered by hunger and not by force of arms.

"The Loyalists are fighting because they expect to win," he said. "As long as one man is alive, the war will go on."

Miaja was interviewed at the Arden Gallery, where an exhibition of portrait busts of Spanish Loyalist leaders by Jo Davidson is being held for the benefit of the Spanish children's milk fund, of which Dorothy Parker is chairman. One of the most imposing of the busts is that of Gen. Miaja.

Real Hunger in Cities.

Miaja, dark and of medium height, looks younger than his 30 years. Before the war he was an official of the Ministry of the Interior, and recently served for several months as a member of his father's staff. He spoke in Spanish and his remarks were translated by an interpreter.

"The seriousness of the food situation is not exaggerated at all," he said. "There is real hunger in places like Madrid. It is very difficult to say this, but people have been dying of an anemia and malnutrition, especially among the old people and the children."

He said he was unable to comment on the food situation in territory held by Gen. Francisco Franco, the insurgent leader, but observed "we hold only one-third of Spain and have two-thirds of the population. Whenever Franco has taken a town or district, people have deserted to loyalist Spain. Now we have four to five million refugees from Franco's Spain to support."

All food in Loyalist Spain is rationed, he said, and the army usually, but not always, "eats a little better" than the civil population. It has been impossible to get sufficient quantities of such staples as beans and rice, and the people have taken to eating algorrobas, a kind of sweet bean which ordinarily is fed only to cattle, and various herbs that have never been used for food in normal times.

Insurgent Blockade a Factor.

He said that Loyalist Spain needs great shipments of food supplies, but is unable to buy food in the open market in sufficient quantities, partly because of the insurgent blockade and partly because of the huge cost of such an undertaking. He said he did not have sufficient knowledge of the subject to comment on reports that Loyalist Spain still has the fourth largest gold reserve in the world.

Loyalist Spain is producing "a normal amount" of munitions, he said, "and that is not a very serious problem." The Loyalist army, he added, is now a modern army, well-equipped, with a far better organization than it ever had.

"The morale of the Spanish people has never been higher," he said. "The people are more determined than ever to win."

No Religious Persecution.

Miaja denied that religious persecution exists in Loyalist Spain in any form. He admitted that there are some limitations on the practice of religion, and that many churches in Madrid and Barcelona are closed, but explained that these limitations are inspired entirely by fear of bombardment.

"It would be a terrible thing," he said, "for hundreds of people to gather in a church and perish by bombardment."

He said that religious services are held regularly in the Loyalist army, though most of the soldiers no longer carry rosaries or religious medals.

"They don't need those things—they carry their religion here," he said, placing his hand over his heart.

Miaja expressed the opinion that the withdrawal of foreign troops made little difference to either side. There were so few foreigners on the Loyalist side, he said, that their withdrawal made little difference, and he does not believe that more than a handful of Italian and German soldiers were withdrawn from the Insurgent side.

"Early to Bed, Early to Rise" Order for Insurgent Spain.

By the Associated Press.

BURGOS, Spain, Nov. 26.—An "early to bed, early to rise" order was promulgated for insurgent Spain today.

The insurgents are prohibited old habits of rising at 10 a. m., lunching at 2:30 p. m., working until 7 p. m. and dining at 10 p. m.

The official order instructed restaurants to "fine" customers an extra 10 per cent on the bill if they arrive for lunch after 2 p. m., or for dinner after 10 p. m. Theaters and revues must start their programs punctually and close at 12:30 a. m.

KING CAROL ON WAY HOME AFTER TALK WITH GOERING

Rumanian Monarch and German Field Marshal Discuss Nations' Economic Relations.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Nov. 26. — King Carol of Rumania and Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering met here today for what the official German news agency decribed as "a detailed discussion particularly regarding the state of economic relations" between Rumania and Germany.

The talk was believed to be a continuance in detail of a conversation the King had with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler Thursday at Berchtesgaden.

Late in the afternoon Carol headed homeward on a special train, and Goering returned to Berlin.

POLAND AND RUSSIA AFFIRM PEACE PACTS

Move Regarded as Bolstering Wall Between Germany and Ukraine.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Nov. 26.—Poland and Russia affirmed today their existing treaties in a move regarded as strengthening the wall separating Germany from the Ukraine.

An announcement issued in Warsaw and Moscow said existing agreements, including the non-aggression pact which was extended last year until 1945, would continue to serve as a "basis for peaceful regulation of all questions between the two countries."

The move was a surprise, as Polish-Russian relations were strained during the Czechoslovak crisis.

It was regarded as illustrating the independent policy of the Polish Foreign Minister, Joseph Beck, who has been accused by many European politicians of being a "blind follower" of Adolf Hitler.

3 MORE IDENTIFY DOWLING, SOUGHT IN BAKER SHOOTING

Southeast Missourians Say Photographs Are Those of Man Who Lured Negro Witness From Farm.

F B I AGENTS JOIN IN INVESTIGATION

Nationwide Search Under Way for Ousted Secretary-Treasurer of Bartenders' Union.

With the identification of Elmer Dowling as one of the two men who attempted to murder Lee Baker 10 days ago reinforced by three residents of Southeast Missouri, agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined yesterday in the nationwide search for Dowling.

The three Southeast Missourians, the Post-Dispatch learned, have identified photographs of Dowling, ousted secretary-treasurer of the Bartenders' Union, as pictures of one of the men who lured Baker, Negro witness in the bombing case against Isadore Londe, from the cotton farm which was his hideout.

At least one of these witnesses, it was learned, said he saw Dowling with Baker. Another of the three said only that he saw Dowling in the vicinity of the farm on the day that Baker was induced by two men to accompany them.

Baker himself has identified a picture of Dowling as "the big fat man," one of the pair who took him from the farm to an abandoned St. Louis County clubhouse, shot him twice and left him for dead.

Agents of the FBI entered the search yesterday, Congressman C. Arthur Anderson was informed, after he had sent a telegram to J. Edgar Hoover, director of the bureau, urging co-operation with local police agencies in the hunt for Dowling.

All officers of the bartenders' union were sought for questioning about the assault on Baker and Dowling was the only one who could not be found. With other officers of the union he was ousted by the international president of the organization last Wednesday.

EAST ST. LOUIS AUTHORIZED TO MAKE SEWER SURVEY

Property Assessments to Be Computed in Lansdowne District for $332,478 Job.

The City of East St. Louis was authorized yesterday by City Judge William F. Borders to make a special assessment survey of property in the Lansdowne district, in preparation for the construction of a $332,478 lateral sewer system.

It has been estimated that an assessment of about 89 cents a front foot will be made against the property in the district, which comprises an area of about a square mile in the northeast section of East St. Louis. The assessment will be paid by property owners in 10 yearly installments.

The city has been assured of receiving a Federal WPA grant of $222,478, and the remainder is to be obtained from the assessments. Judge Borders directed L. E. Davenport, superintendent of special assessments, to make the survey, and gave property owners until Dec. 15 to file objections.

DRIVER IN AUTO-BUS CRASH GETS 10 DAYS, FINES OF $175

Claude Hinton, Negro, Charged With Operating When Intoxicated, Carelessness.

Claude Hinton, Negro laborer, 2765A Chouteau avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in the Workhouse and fined $150 by Police Judge James F. Nangle yesterday on a charge of driving when intoxicated.

He was also fined $25, and his driver's license was suspended for a year, on a charge of careless driving. A policeman testified the Negro was intoxicated Oct. 25 when his automobile collided with a Public Service Co. bus at Twenty-first and Market streets.

Hinton denied he was drunk or that he drove carelessly and testified he did not see the bus. A report from Homer G. Phillips Hospital showed that Hinton had been pronounced "slightly intoxicated" when examined there after the accident.

MRS. LAWRENCE McDANIEL

DEMOCRATS EXPECTED TO PICK MRS. M'DANIEL

Wife of Excise Commissioner Said to Be in Line for Committeewoman's Post.

Mrs. Lawrence McDaniel of 5936 Waterman avenue, wife of Excise Commissioner McDaniel, is said by politicians to be assured of election to the position of Democratic National Committeewoman for Missouri, to succeed the late Mrs. Nat S. Brown of St. Louis.

A meeting of the Democratic State Committee will be called soon by Chairman James P. Aylward of Kansas City, to fill the vacancy caused by Mrs. Brown's recent death.

Mrs. McDaniel's candidacy, it is understood, has the indorsement of Senator Bennett C. Clark, Senator Harry S. Truman, Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and the Democratic City Committee. Aylward, National Committeeman as well as State chairman, is understood to take the position that St. Louis is entitled to the place, and that anyone favored by St. Louis Democrats will be acceptable to him and to the Kansas City organization.

Mrs. McDaniel was a candidate for the position in 1936, but withdrew before the State convention in Joplin, leaving Mrs. Brown to be elected without opposition. Mrs. McDaniel was at that time president of the State Federation of Women's Democratic Clubs. She is a member of the Public Library Board, by appointment of Mayor Dickmann.

Her husband, Excise Commissioner by appointment of Mayor Dickmann, is a former Circuit Attorney. He was the Democratic nominee for Mayor against Victor J. Miller in 1929, when Miller was re-elected.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Fresh winds from the Pacific spread a brush fire tonight over the ridge of the Santa Monica mountains across a highway to endanger Encino, where many movie notables live.

In two or three places the flames were within a mile of the homes of Al Jolson and Joel McCrea, Edgar Rice Burroughs, author of the Tarzan stories, and Phil Harris, orchestra leader.

Ralph Scott, Los Angeles fire chief, used 1700 reserve firemen along the mountain ridge.

Elsewhere in Los Angeles and San Bernardino counties, where damage may reach $5,000,000, the brush and forest fires were held well in check.

CHARLES E. SHARP, EXPORTER FOR 40 YEARS, DIES AT 73

Memorial Services to Be Held for Him Tomorrow at Grace M. E. Church.

Charles E. Sharp, exporter of electrical supplies, died of a cerebral hemorrhage at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday. He was 73 years old. He lived at 7490 Teasdale avenue, University City.

Most of his business over a period of more than 40 years was with firms in Mexico, and he was active in St. Louis organizations for sponsoring foreign trade. He was president of the World Trade Club of St. Louis in 1926 and had been a member of the official board of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church for 25 years.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Letitia Sharp; a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Mooney, and two sons, Charles E. Sharp Jr. and McKinlock Sharp. Memorial services will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. at Grace Church.

PLAN TO CUT OFF PHONE SERVICE FOR HANDBOOKS

Circuit Attorney Refuses to Give Details After Meeting With City and Bell Representatives.

Efforts to eliminate telephone service to handbook shops will be made, it was announced yesterday by Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller following a meeting at his office with representatives of the Police Board, the City Counselor's office and of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The Circuit Attorney, spokesman for the group, declined to reveal details, explaining "that will be disclosed from time to time by the actions to be taken."

"We will not give information now, which would expose what we would intend to do," Miller told reporters.

Attending the meeting, besides Miller, were Samuel Liberman, vice-president of the Police Board; Associate City Counselor Oliver Senti, and Earl H. Painter, general counsel for the telephone company. The same group met Nov. 15 to discuss an opinion of City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman that telephone transmission of racing information was a violation of State law.

Wayman's opinion was given at the request of the Police Board after officials at Louisville, Ky., had taken steps to stop telephone service to handbooks.

The City Counselor advised the board that police could lawfully arrest persons "whom they believe, and have reasonable ground and probable cause to believe, to be using telephones for unlawful purposes in connection with racetrack gambling." The police had made arrests, but found it impossible to obtain convictions.

The opinion also cited an ordinance relating to the stringing of wires, which might be used against the telephone company furnishing service to bookmakers provided it could be shown the telephone officials knew the lines were to be used unlawfully. Wayman added that he was not expressing an opinion as to the character of proof necessary to obtain a conviction under the State law.

VICTIM OF TRAIN ACCIDENT GETS $55,000 VERDICT

Man Who Lost Legs in Yards Wins Suit Against Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

A $55,000 verdict was returned yesterday by a jury in Circuit Judge Robert J. Kirkwood's court in favor of Robert Draper, 31 years old, a Negro, of Louisville, Ky., against the Louisville & Nashville Railroad for injuries suffered in a train accident.

When at work for a wrecking firm in the yards of the railroad at Louisville Aug. 15, 1937, Draper was struck by a train and it was necessary to amputate both of his legs.

In his suit for $85,000 damages Draper alleged negligence on the part of the train crew. The railroad denied negligence on its part and made a defense of contributory negligence. It also asserted that Draper has a suit pending in Louisville based on the same accident.

SIT-DOWN AT CHEVROLET UNIT IN DETROIT ENDS

200 Workers Who Kept 7000 Idle for a Day to Return to Jobs Monday.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Nov. 26.—A sit-down strike which halted operations of the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors Corporation ended today and 200 workers who had held one plant since last night left, agreeing to return to work Monday.

International officers of the United Automobile Workers and company officials opened negotiations to settle the dispute, which centered around the 60-day suspension of two shop stewards after a fight with a non-union worker.

The strike at the plant crippled operations at three other Chevrolet units here, leaving approximately 7000 employes idle for a day.

CURTIS DALL LICENSED TO WED

Roosevelt's ex-Son-in-Law to Marry Pennsylvania Girl.

By the Associated Press.

MEDIA, Pa., Nov. 26.—Curtis B. Dall, former husband of President Roosevelt's daughter, Anna, obtained a license today to wed Miss Katherine Miller Leas of Haverford, Pa. The bridegroom-elect, a New York broker, gave his age as 42 and his fiancee's as 21. Their engagement was announced in September. The wedding will take place Dec. 15.

Dall and Anna Roosevelt were divorced in 1934. She later married John Boettiger, newspaper man.

St. Louis Fancy Skaters Want Foreign Teacher

Can't Find Satisfactory Instructor in U. S., Club Tells Immigration Officers — Norway Junior Champion Sought.

MISS INGER KRAGELUND.

The St. Louis Skating Club is seeking to convince immigration authorities that, after a search since mid-summer, it is unable to find a satisfactory American professional ice skating teacher and must, therefore, hire a foreigner.

Just now the club wants to hire Miss Inger Kragelund of Oslo, former junior champion of Norway and a teacher with experience in many countries. But she cannot stay in this country unless she obtains a labor permit and such a permit will not be issued until immigration authorities are convinced there are no Americans available for the job. She is now in Duluth, Minn.

"We have culled the list of professional American skaters for months," Charles Hermann, secretary-treasurer of the club, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. "For one reason or another every single one has been eliminated. Our club of 75 or 100 members includes some very fine skaters and it therefore requires a highly capable teacher. Some of those to whom we wrote admitted frankly that we were out of their class."

Teachers in Traveling Shows.

Another reason why American professional teachers cannot be found is that most of them are now in traveling shows, like Sonja Henie's or the group featuring Maribel Vinson, both of which have been seen in St. Louis.

"The skaters are in love with the glamor of traveling with those show companies and won't come here to teach," lamented Earl Reflow, skating promoter. "We tried every nook and corner of the United States."

After finding it impossible to engage an American teacher, the club sought to hire Miss Emmy Anderson, a Dane, widely known as an expert teacher. But when she found it would be necessary to go through a "long rigamarole" before being permitted to come here, she decided to take a job in Switzerland, Hermann said.

"Then we went after Miss Kragelund," he continued, "she had been teaching in Australia and we got in touch with her when she came through en route to Norway last month. We saw at once that she would be a good teacher. She went on to Duluth and we made application with immigration authorities to get her a work permit. Her passport will expire Dec. 1.

Application to Washington.

"The immigration office consulted many state employment services but none of the applications they referred to us proved satisfactory. Now our application for Miss Kragelund has been forwarded to Washington."

The Chicago Skating Club, Hermann pointed out, had to go through the same procedure before hiring two Canadian instructors.

The club here, formed about 1920, performed at the Maribel Vinson skating carnival at the Arena. But since they have no instructor the more-advanced members of the class teach the others. Last year's teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Windsperger, Austrians, are now working in Cleveland. The club here meets three times a week at the Winter Garden, works on skating figures for 45 minutes and then spends the last half hour dancing to music.

TWO POLL CLERKS SAY THEY SIGNED RETURNS IN BLANK

tion to the reporter.

"I had no intention of committing any fraud," Miss Barry said. "The only reason I signed before the count was made was because I was told to do so. I was told they were doing it all over the city. I didn't know any better then, but when I thought about it I decided to tell Mr. Woodward what happened."

Miss Barry said she was acquainted with Chairman Hannegan, but did not receive her appointment as a precinct official through him.

"Not Quite Sure."

Mrs. Hoffer, the Republican clerk, said she had served as an election official previously and was "not quite sure" it was proper to sign the blanks before the count was made.

"But I didn't want to be the only holdout," she said to the reporter, "and I was told everybody was doing it throughout the city."

Mrs. Hoffer said she could not recall definitely who told her that, but thought it was Miss Barry.

Miss Barry said she and three other precinct officials went home at 9:15 p. m., leaving the counting and return of votes to the two remaining precinct officials. But Mrs. Hoffer said she had stayed until shortly before midnight, after the four judges had completed the count of the ballots.

"I don't think there was any irregularity in the counting," Mrs. Hoffer said. "Being a Republican, I certainly would not be interested in seeing the Democrats get any excess votes."

Judge's Statement.

Hippler, a Republican judge, said to a reporter that he could not recall whether the form for the returns was signed early in the afternoon or on the conclusion of the count, after 9 p. m. The payroll was signed in the afternoon and "a lot of papers" were signed after the count was completed, he recalled.

To the best of his recollection, Hippler said, all six officials were present at the time of the count and, he asserted the count was accurate, as far as he knew. He left the polling place about 10 p. m., he said.

The other Republican judge of the precinct, F. B. Rehmund, 4186 Sacramento avenue, employed by a downtown tailoring firm, declined to answer questions about the election day events, telling a reporter he would rather wait until interrogated officially.

One of the Democratic judges, Frank Reader, a salesman, 4141 Natural Bridge avenue, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter last evening that he knew nothing of any irregularity in the precinct, either in procedure at the polls or in the counting of ballots. When asked at what time the blanks were signed, he said he did not remember, but that he did not recall that anyone told the woman clerks to sign them before the polls closed. In the count, he said, while the ballots were divided, all six officials "looked at" all the ballots.

The other Democratic judge listed in board records, Glennon Larkin, a City Sanitarium employe, was not at his home, 3611 Paris avenue, when the reporter called there, and was off duty at the institution.

The Election Board announced last Monday that it had not learned anything about what happened in this precinct that it did not already know or could not tell from handwriting on various precinct records. As to the handwriting element Chairman Woodward said then: "The handwriting on several reports, such as statements and tally sheets, is not that of the officials who would ordinarily fill out the particular part of the forms involved."

It was reported that Miss Barry told the board that there had been no intimidation of the precinct officials or prearrangement of the vote count.

ST. LOUIS BANK ROBBER CAUGHT AFTER ESCAPE

Seized With Another Missouri Prison Convict; Third Still at Large.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 26.—Harold E. Denman, murderer and bank robber from St. Louis, who escaped with two other convicts from the State penitentiary last night, was captured tonight by a State Highway patrolman about seven miles south of Jefferson City.

With Denman was Roy McKay, Scott County kidnaper, who is serving a 20-year term. Sergt. Harry Hanson came upon the pair as they were trying to start an automobile reported stolen a few minutes earlier by a Cole County farmer. No trace has been found of the other convict, Robert Drake Taylor, under a 75-year sentence for a robbery in Jasper County.

The three apparently escaped by walking out of the tuberculosis hospital and climbing over the wall. Warden J. F. Ramsey said the men were not missed until the routine count of prisoners in the hospital this morning. He said their only apparent way of leaving the building was by the door, where a guard was on duty. The guard said he saw no one leave.

The Warden said the men probably climbed over the wall on scaffolding erected in connection with reconstruction work.

Denman, alias Jack Gordon, started a life term in 1932 after conviction in St. Louis of robbery of the Sarah-Olive Bank, in which he and a confederate obtained $6018. He also had been implicated in four other St. Louis robberies, in which more than $14,000 in cash and jewelry was taken.

He and another convict tried to escape from the prison in 1933, stabbing a guard, but were overpowered by other guards. Denman once was sentenced to death in California for murder, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he later escaped from Folsom Prison there.

FATHER JAILED FOR NOT SENDING GIRL TO SCHOOL

Tells St. Clair County Justice of Peace a Life Term Wouldn't Change His Stand.

Peter Hammond, a laborer, of Royal Heights, on the northwest outskirts of Belleville, was committed to St. Clair County Jail by Justice of the Peace A. H. Schoenenberger yesterday when he failed to pay a fine of $20 and costs for failure to send his 15-year-old daughter, Pearl, to Belleville Township High School.

Arrested on complaint of Truant Officer A. H. Ganter, Hammond told the magistrate: "She doesn't want to go to school and I'm not going to send her, if you send me to jail for life." Maximum penalty under the law is $20 and costs, which, in default of payment, calls for a five-day imprisonment. Illinois law requires children to attend school until they reach the age of 16.

MOTHER DIES AFTER SON IS KILLED IN AUTO WRECK

Death Follows Heart Attack; Another Youth Lost Life, Seven Hurt in Accident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Katherine Vater, 50 years old, mother of one of two boys killed yesterday in an automobile accident, died today from a heart attack, apparently caused by shock.

Her son, William Vater, 16, and Thomas Melvin were killed when the car in which a party of Catholic boys and girls were returning from a pilgrimage to Conception was wrecked. The car was driven by Melvin, who will be buried Monday in St. Michael Catholic Cemetery.

Seven other boys were injured in the accident. At Brookfield Hospital, little hope is held for the recovery of Eugene Riley. Bernard McGrail is in serious condition at McLarney Hospital. The others are recovering.

Funeral services for William Vater had been planned for Monday, but were postponed when his mother died.

TRAIN GRAZES DERAILED ENGINE AT JERSEY CITY; 22 INJURED

Tube Carrier, En Route From Newark to New York With 300 Aboard, Able to Proceed.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 26.—Twenty-two persons were hurt today when a Hudson & Manhattan tube train grazed a derailed engine one mile east of the old Manhattan transfer.

Many of the windows in the six cars of the tube train were broken, but the train, bound from Newark to New York, was able to proceed under its own power.

Mrs. Esther Rowals, 47 years old, of Irvington, suffered a head injury. Louis Kaplan, 61, of Princeton, was treated for a back injury.

The Pennsylvania Railroad drill engine, operating on an adjacent track to the tube train, hit the third car of the train, No. 3314, about 3:35 p. m. There were about 300 passengers on the train.

MAN WHO PAID 'FIXER' FINED $25 AS SPEEDER

Service Car Driver Has Record of Four Previous Arrests for Same Offense.

Willard J. Phelps, service car driver, who paid $20 to Kurt de Gray to have his traffic record "pulled" so he could get off with a light fine as a first offender on a speeding charge, was fined $25 and $3 costs on the speeding charge in police court yesterday.

"You got yourself into trouble trying to have this fixed," Judge James F. Nangle remarked when the defendant pleaded not guilty of speeding. "I'd rather not say," Phelps replied. A motorcycle policeman testified he arrested Phelps Nov. 5 for driving at 40 miles an hour on Twelfth street between Chouteau avenue and Spruce street. Phelps, who did not testify, paid the fine.

Record of Four Arrests.

De Gray, German chemist held by police in their investigation of a conspiracy by which records of traffic law violators were withheld from police courts, admitted receiving $20 from Phelps, police said. The driver, operating on the Delmar line, had a record of four previous arrests for speeding.

On De Gray's statement that he is not a United States citizen, he is also being held for immigration authorities. His wife, Helen, was questioned at police headquarters yesterday.

Two other service car drivers who had dealings with De Gray repeated their stories yesterday to Assistant Circuit Attorney William D. O'Connor. He said his office would announce Tuesday what action, if any, would be taken. The other service car drivers are Charles Nix, another Delmar line operator, and Herman Thaller, a driver on the Lindell line.

Involved in the alleged conspiracy with De Gray are Robert Duggan, police record room clerk, and John G. Witzofsky, License Bureau clerk, both at liberty on bond. Witzofsky has been dismissed from the service and Duggan was suspended as a civilian employe of the Police Department.

Driver's Testimony.

Thaller told O'Connor he paid De Gray $20 to have his record of 12 arrests for traffic offenses withheld from Police Court after his arrest on a speeding charge Sept. 13. Thaller, who resides at 5743 Wells avenue, said he made the payment at Eighth street and Washington avenue.

Nix, residing at 2303A Union boulevard, asserted that after he was arrested last July for speeding he paid De Gray $28 to have his record of 17 previous arrests for traffic violations removed from the record rooms. Nix said he saw De Gray tear up several traffic arrest cards.

Bus Kills Man 75 in Depot.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. — Herman Harold, 75-year-old knife grinder of Perry, Ill., was killed today when crushed by a bus against a platform in a loop depot. Shortly after he had arrived from Kewanee, Ill. Herold had a cloth bag containing $377 in his pocket. Fred Barnes, driver of the bus, said he did not see the man. An inquest was set for Monday.

Niece of Mrs. Roosevelt Honored at Capital Ball

Eleanor Roosevelt and Other Debutantes Attend Annual Black and White Party at Mayflower.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Eleanor Roosevelt, niece and namesake of the wife of President Roosevelt, and other debutantes attended the annual Black and White ball tonight at the Mayflower Hotel.

The debutantes were in white, with coronets of gardenias in their hair. The bachelors were in formal black. They danced together to such tunes as "Stay As Sweet As You Are" and "Just the Way You Look Tonight," then drifted to supper tables.

Mrs. William Laird Dunlop Jr., sponsor of the ball, introduced the debutantes individually to Miss Roosevelt before two trumpeters, dressed as pierrots, heralded the beginning of the ball.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will honor Miss Roosevelt at a White House ball next month.

After the debutantes greeted the guests, there was a grand march led by the guest of honor and two White House aids—Lieutenant-Commander Walter R. Jones, skipper of the President's yacht, and Lieut. Loren Fletcher Cole of the army. The orchestra dedicated one dance number, "Oh, Fairest Flower" for "debutantes and partners only," to Miss Roosevelt.

Out-of-town debutantes receiving with Washington girls included Miss Dorothy Mann of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Miss Marjorie and Miss Carol Tenner and Miss Olive Pearson of Philadelphia.

Others who accepted places in the line included Sylvia Alexander, great-great-granddaughter of James Hoban, White House architect; Lalla Harrison of Leesburg, Va., Margaret Craighill, Mildred McConnell of Middleburg, Va., Jane Rust, Mary Boyden Nancy Hoskinson, Betty Fischer, Mary Alice White, Margaret Weems, Catherine Tilghman, Mary Lee Masten, Joan King, Roberta Quirk, Julie Cahill, Anne Healey, Barbara Henning; Marjorie Sherley, daughter of Swagar Sherley, former Representative from Kentucky; Elise Hill, daughter of John Philip Hill, former Representative from Maryland, and Mrs. Hiram Bingham, now wife of the former Senator from Connecticut, and Miss Elinor Gudger, granddaughter of the late Thomas Walsh, Senator from Montana.

Three pairs of sisters in the line were Misses Julia and Mimi Worthington, who attended Sweetbriar College; Miss Carolynn and Beatrice Talley, home from Vassar, and Misses Margaret and Claire Cotter.

Miss Roosevelt, who is 18, was accompanied from Boston by Miss Margaret MacVeagh, daughter of Lincoln MacVeagh, United States Ambassador to Greece. Miss Roosevelt is the daughter of Mrs. Roosevelt's brother, Hall Roosevelt of New York, and Mrs. John Cutter of Boston.

DR. M'MAHON ELECTED MEDICAL SOCIETY HEAD

Specialist in Internal Medicine to Succeed Dr. Percy H. Swahlen.

Dr. Alphonse McMahon, specialist in internal medicine, was chosen president of the St. Louis Medical Society in the election which was completed by mail yesterday. Dr. McMahon, the only candidate for the position, succeeds Dr. Percy H. Swahlen.

Other officers elected without opposition were Dr. Roland M. Klemme, first vice-president; Dr. V. Visscher Wood, second vice-president; Dr. Jerome I. Simon, secretary; and Dr. James F. Clancy, councilor for a one-year term.

Of five candidates for the positions of councilor for a three-year term, the following four were elected: Dr. Swahlen, Dr. James L. Mudd, the retiring secretary; Dr. Vincent L. Jones, and Dr. William G. Becke.

Dr. McMahon, who is 43 years old and unmarried, was graduated from St. Louis University in 1915 and from its Medical School in 1919. He was an interne at St. Luke's Hospital, St. Vincent's Hospital, Los Angeles; and Pottenger Sanitorium, Monrovia, Cal. On his return to St. Louis, he was associated for four years with the late Dr. William Engelbach.

He is a senior instructor in internal medicine at St. Louis University Medical School and is on the staffs of the following hospitals: University Hospital of St. Louis University, St. John's, St. Luke's, Mount St. Rose, St. Vincent's Sanitarium, and DePaul. He is a consultant in internal medicine at the Frisco and St. Louis County hospitals.

Dr. McMahon has been a councilor for the Medical Society for the last three years. He is a member of the Missouri Medical Society and the American Medical Association, and is a past president of the American Therapeutic Association.

He has an office in the Missouri Theater Building and lives at 4 North Kingshighway boulevard. The new officers will be installed in January.

FEDERAL RECEIVERSHIP SUIT AGAINST BEVERAGE COMPANY

Creditors Allege Damhorst Firm, Already in Hands of Circuit Court, Is Losing Money.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States District Court yesterday against the Damhorst Beverage Co., which is in the hands of a receiver appointed by the Circuit Court. The petition asks for the appointment of a receiver to wind up the company's affairs, sell its assets and distribute the proceeds among the creditors.

It is charged that the company is insolvent and is steadily losing money. It would be to the best interests of creditors, it is said, to stop payment of rent on the company's building at 2907 Washington avenue, and sell the assets during the holiday season, when they will bring the best price.

Henry Linnewerth is the present receiver for the company, appointed by Circuit Judge John W. Joynt. He succeeded Armin Wachter, also an appointee of Judge Joynt, who was removed after he had been arrested on a Federal warrant charging him with possession of goods stolen from an interstate shipment.

Should a receiver be appointed by the Federal Court, his action would supersede that of the Circuit Court receiver. The creditors filing the petition are the Witt Ice & Gas Co., Glencoe Realty Co. and St. Louis Towel Supply Co.

SPANISH ARMIES GET READY FOR THIRD WINTER CAMPAIGN

Troops on Both Sides Consolidate Positions Before Cold Weather Sets In.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France, Nov. 26.—Harassed by high winds and heavy rainstorms, military forces of the Spanish civil war rested tonight in preparation for the third winter campaign.

Along the heavily fortified Segre River banks in Catalonia, troops on both sides worked to consolidate their positions before snow and cold hit the battle lines. Military reports said there was no action on any front.

The only incidents reported were intermittent aerial bombardments of Barcelona and attacks along the coast north of there. Insurgent planes and gunboats combined in

VALLEY PARK SUED FOR $3816 BACK BILL BY UNION ELECTRIC

Mayor Says There Is No Dispute Over Amount, and City Hopes to Pay Up Soon.

The town of Valley Park was sued for $3816.20 delinquent electric bills by the Union Electric Co. of Missouri yesterday.

In a petition filed in Circuit Court at Clayton, the electric company listed the following delinquencies: Street lighting, $2703.15; electric service for pumping water, $1059.41; lights at the pumping station, $3.90; city hall lighting, $29.90, and lights at the Fire Department, $19.75.

Mayor Charles Scholl told a Post-Dispatch reporter there was no dispute over the bills, which he hoped to see paid shortly from tax collections. Valley Park is an incorporated town.

REJECTED SUITOR KILLS WOMAN AND HIMSELF

Pursues Her Through Corridor of Grand Central Terminal Building in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—John McNeill, 52-year-old chemist, brought his unsuccessful courtship of Marion Wheeler, 32, to a tragic end today by killing her and himself with a pistol on the seventh floor of the Grand Central terminal building in the heart of the midtown section.

Police said he met her outside in Lexington avenue, when she was on her way to work, rode up in the elevator with her, pleading and then quarreling with her.

Something in his manner or his words apparently frightened her as they stepped out on the seventh floor, and she began to run, screaming when she heard McNeill following. She turned down a long corridor toward the office of the comptroller of the New York Central railroad, where she was employed as a clerk.

William De Sears, a fellow clerk, told police he stepped out of the office into the corridor when Miss Wheeler was only a few yards away.

"McNeill had a gun in his hand," De Sears said. "She was running as hard as she could, and screaming. When he got directly in back of her he fired three times at her back. She stumbled and fell. Then, almost without looking at her, he stopped and shot himself through the head."

Another clerk carried Miss Wheeler into the office. She quickly lost consciousness and was dead before a priest arrived.

Last week, fellow-employes said, McNeill called for Miss Wheeler at the office and shouted: "If I can't have you, nobody else will." They said he hit her with his fist. He was ejected from the place.

Miss Wheeler lived in Yonkers with a brother, John, owner of a printing plant.

McNeill lived in The Bronx. One of his daughters, Mrs. Patsy Vanderlinden, said the McNeill and Wheeler families were neighbors years ago in Yonkers. Miss Wheeler's mother died about seven years ago, she said, and shortly afterwards McNeill and his wife separated.

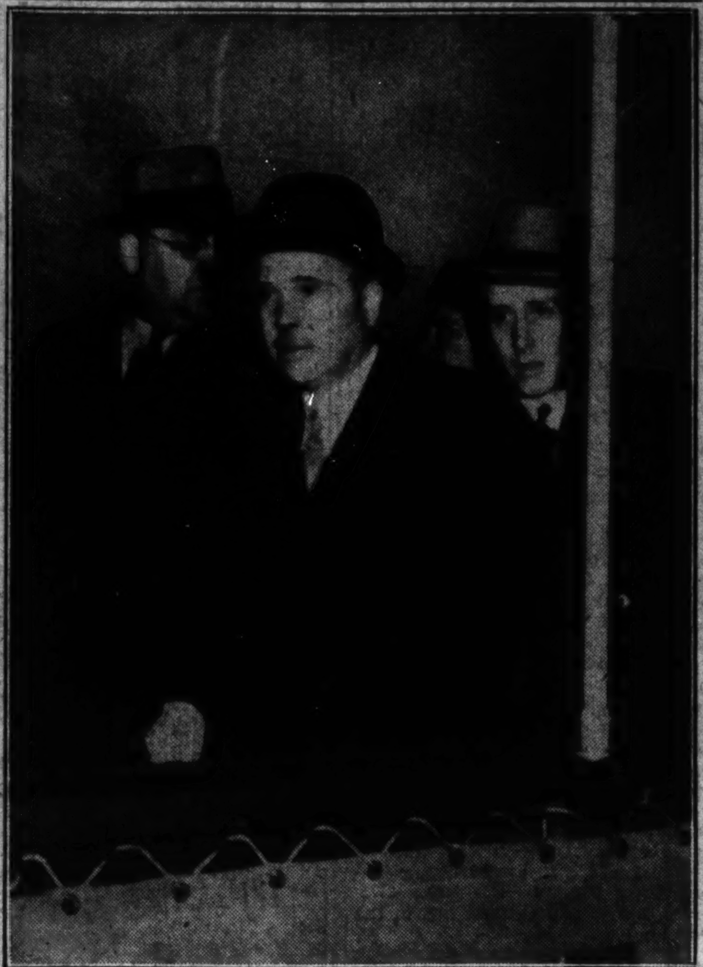
U. S. Envoy Reports to Hull



—Associated Press Wirephoto.

HUGH R. WILSON (center),

UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR to Germany boarding the liner Santa Clara in New York to confer with Secretary of State Hull before Hull sailed for Lima, Peru, for the Pan-American conference. Wilson was called home from Berlin to report on anti-Jewish measures in Germany.

ROME, BERLIN ENVOYS SEE ROOSEVELT TODAY

Wilson and Phillips Expected to Outline European Situation to Him.

By the Associated Press.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 26.—The whole range of America's relations with Germany and Italy, with particular reference to the treatment of Jews in those countries, is expected to be reviewed by President Roosevelt at a conference tomorrow night with Ambassadors Hugh R. Wilson and William Phillips.

The temporary White House announced today Wilson, summoned home from Berlin for consultation and report, and Phillips, home on leave from Rome, would arrive here about 6 p. m. tomorrow and go immediately to the Roosevelt retreat on Pine Mountain. The two diplomats will be overnight guests at the Little White House.

Pending their arrival, officials had no comment on a report from Washington that Wilson would remain here indefinitely, after his trip here, as a State Department consultant on German affairs.

Although the Ambassadors are not expected to have anything to say for publication, there is a possibility that an announcement of a general nature may be made before their departure.

While waiting for the Ambassadors to arrive, the President today continued his conferences, begun last night, with Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board on what was officially described as the general economic situation. There were reports the reserve official may be discussing new tax legislation, but these could not be confirmed.

Tonight, the President received Aubrey Williams, Deputy Works Progress Administrator and head of the National Youth Administration, and Dr. Will W. Alexander, Farm Security Administrator. It was not announced what they talked about.

Before going for his daily drive this afternoon, accompanied by Eccles, the President had a brief talk with James H. Cromwell, banker-economist, husband of the tobacco heiress, Doris Duke. Cromwell left refusing to state the purpose of his call. He was accompanied by Sol Rosenblatt, New York attorney and former Deputy Administrator in the old NRA.

Congressman John J. McGrath, of San Mateo, Cal., spent 15 minutes with the President before noon, but he, too, departed without talking for publication. McGrath was defeated in the recent election by John Z. Anderson, Republican.

Gov. Carl E. Bailey of Arkansas will arrive Monday afternoon. There have been reports Bailey may be under consideration for the new Federal District Judgeship created for Arkansas.

Wilson Assigned to Special Duty in State Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON Nov. 26. — The State Department today assigned Hugh Wilson, Ambassador to Berlin, to an indefinite tour of duty in Washington and published new protests against Nazi treatment of American creditors.

Sumner Welles, Acting Secretary of State, announced that Wilson, who returned here today from Berlin on his way to confer with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., had been assigned to the department as an adviser on relations between the two countries. Other officials said later that the assignment, while for an indefinite period, was temporary.

Wilson, who conferred with officials here briefly before departing for Georgia, told reporters he could make no statement concerning the purpose of his visit or the probable length of his stay in the United States until after he had seen the President. He came home at the President's request, leaving Mrs. Wilson in Berlin.

The German Ambassador to this country, Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, subsequently sailed for home also, to report on President Roosevelt's attitude toward the Nazi measures against Jews.

REDS IN OHIO Y.W.C.A., DIES INQUIRER IS TOLD

Makes Statement in Cleveland Where He Will Hold Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—Congressional investigators said they had uncovered evidence of Communism in the Cleveland Y. W. C. A. Representative Harold Mosier (Dem.), Ohio, a member of the Dies congressional committee, reported he had been informed the Y. W. C. A. here is "infiltrated with Communist doctrine and influence." Mosier asserted he had been told Communist front organizations raised funds at Y. W. C. A. meetings and sponsored sessions of their own attended principally by Y. W. C. A. members.

Miss Eleanor Richardson, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., commented: "This charge is not a surprise to me because these misgivings were brought before the last meeting of our board of trustees by some of our members who were greatly concerned."

Mosier and Representative Noah Mason (Rep.), Illinois, have been designated a subcommittee to conduct an inquiry here.

FATHER OF 8 KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

Belleville W P A Worker Dies of Wound in Leg—Hardin (Ill.) Boy Fatally Shot.

Kenneth Hanvey, Belleville WPA worker and father of eight children, died yesterday at a Belleville hospital of a shotgun wound accidentally inflicted Friday when hunting.

Hanvey was hunting with Ralph Borsch, also of Belleville, near Marissa, Ill. Both fired at a rabbit and when Hanvey picked up the animal Borsch's shotgun was accidentally discharged.

The charge struck Hanvey in the left leg, necessitating amputation of the leg at St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

Hanvey lived at 113 North Fifteenth street with his wife, Irene, and their children. He was 37 years old.

Delbert W. Funk, 17 years old, of Hardin, Ill., was shot and killed Friday when a shotgun in the hands of his 14-year-old brother, Elden, was accidentally discharged.

Elden Funk testified at an inquest yesterday that he and his brother and another boy were hunting rabbits near their home. Delbert was standing on a brush pile, in which a rabbit had taken refuge, and Elden was handing his brother a shotgun when his foot slipped and the weapon was accidentally discharged, the boy related.

Delbert Funk, wounded in the left side, died an hour after reaching St. Joseph's Hospital, Alton, where he was taken by his father, Carl Funk, a farmer. A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned.

3 MONTHS FOR DUPING MAN WITH PROMISES TO MARRY

300-Pound Kansas City Woman Admits Receiving Money for Fare to Colorado.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Edith Schmidt, who weighs 300 pounds, was sentenced to three months in jail today after admitting to a United States District Judge she obtained money from a Colorado man on a promise of marriage. She lives in Kansas City with her husband.

Mail fraud charges were pressed against the woman by Frank N. Pomeroy of Golden, Colo., who said she wrote him under the name of Viola Murray in answer to his advertisement for a housekeeper. He said he sent her money for her fare to Colorado when she wrote later, "You can have the preacher waiting."

Items on the league's legislative program will be discussed by league members. Included in this program are establishment of a survey commission for reorganization of the State government; creation of a civil service commission; an enabling act for housing developments; provision for a retirement system for teachers, and changes in the system of permanent registration of voters.

KILLERS OF ALCATRAZ GUARD ESCAPE DEATH

Two Convicts Found Guilty, Get Life Terms for Murder in Attempted Flight.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26. — A jury of business men convicted two young Alcatraz convicts, James C. Lucas and Rufus Franklin, today, of murdering a guard in an escape attempt, but refused to send them to death in the lethal gas chamber.

The result was that Franklin, 22 years old, had another life sentence added to the two already standing against him for murder and robbery and a 30-year sentence for bank robbery in Alabama; and Lucas, 26, had a life term added to the 30-year term he is serving for bank robbery and automobile theft in Texas.

Expect Life-Time Isolation.

In the few minutes between pronouncement of the life sentences and their start back to Alcatraz, the two convicts told reporters they expected to spend the rest of their lives in isolation on "The Rock" where the Government keeps 300 or more of its most dangerous prisoners. They said isolation would mean continuous imprisonment in unlighted cells on one meal a day.

Harold Faulkner, defense attorney, who contended the Government's witnesses from Alcatraz made "a mess" of the prosecution, repeated his argument that Franklin and Lucas did not kill the guard, Royal C. Cline, and that the Federal prosecutors had fallen far short of proving that they did.

Cline was beaten to death in the saw room of the prison's carpenter shop last May 23, shortly before Lucas, Franklin and another prisoner, Thomas Limerick, climbed to the roof of the building and rushed a guard tower in an attempt to escape from the island. The tower guard, Harold P. Stites, fatally shot Limerick, wonded Franklin in both shoulders with rifle bullets and cowed Lucas into surrender.

Convict Chief Accuser.

Milton Pettijohn, Texas mail robber convict, who was the principal witness for the Government, testified Franklin, Lucas and Limerick were in or near the saw-filing room just before the killing, but the defense produced a stained work jacket which the prosecution had withheld from evidence and which was identified as Pettijohn's.

The defense admitted the three convicts had been trying to escape but contended the killing of the guard was not necessary for the success of their plans and that Cline could have been killed by any one of six prisoners who had been in the saw-filing room about that time.

DEVICE TO GUIDE AIR BOMBS DIRECTLY TO OBJECTIVES

Australian Defense Minister Considering Invention, Details of Which Are Kept Secret.

(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

BRISBANE, Australia.—The invention of a robot bombing device designed to guide bombs to a particular objective selected by the pilot may revolutionize aerial warfare, it is surmised.

Details of the device are guarded with the closest secrecy.

Plans and specifications have been submitted to the Minister for Defense by two young Queensland electrical engineers, Wall and Bridgeway.

The device was examined by the Inventions Board of the Defense Department, and its report was such that Wall and Bridgeway were summoned to Canberra for a special interview with the Minister for Defense.

THREE CONVICTS ESCAPE IN ARIZONA, ONE SHOT

Two Later Recaptured, Used Ladder Camouflaged by Canvas on Wagon.

By the Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ariz., Nov. 26.—One convict was shot and seriously wounded and three others escaped over the east wall of the State prison early today, in what Warden John G. Eager said was a plot for the wholesale delivery of inmates. The wounded convict was G. W. Siewert, sentenced for manslaughter.

Dewey Thurlo and Earl Nelson, both serving sentences for robbery, and Alex Geneck, sentenced on a check charge, escaped. Nelson and Geneck were recaptured later.

The guards saw a canvas-covered contraption wheeled toward the wall. It was a wagon on which a ladder was camouflaged by canvas. From movements beneath the canvas, the guards deduced inmates were ready to spring over the wall.

When orders to halt brought no response, the guards opened fire. One of the shots struck Siewert. Another hit a fuse box, extinguishing flood lights on the walls. Nelson, Thurlo and Geneck fled in the darkness.

Prison bloodhounds did not pick up the scent for three hours because, Warden Eager said, the fugitives apparently had dipped their shoes in some solution to confound the dogs.

An inspection of the mobile ladder showed a wagon had been made of a commissary cart. A prison-made ladder, as high as the walls, had been braced to the floor boards and the whole contraption covered with canvas.

SUIT TO VOID RULING MAN IS LEGALLY DEAD

St. Louisan Seeks to Set Aside Action by Court at Fond du Lac, Wis.

Charles Johnson, St. Louis news vendor, has begun proceedings before the County Court at Fond du Lac, Wis., to have himself declared legally alive. He was declared dear at Fond du Lac two years ago in a suit to settle the estate of his mother, on the basis of testimony of his brother, the late Frank Johnson of St. Louis, retired treasurer of the Katy Railroad, who said he had not seen nor heard from his brother for seven years. Later it developed both had lived in St. Louis during that time.

Both Charles and Frank Johnson left Fond du Lac in 1917, eventually drifting apart. Later Frank became connected with the railroad. Friends at his office said yesterday he made repeated efforts to find his brother, even inserting advertisements in the newspapers, but his quest had failed at the time of his death May 29.

When his funeral was held Charles Johnson attended and it was disclosed that although Charles knew his brother was attempting to find him, he had lived in St. Louis for years without making his presence known to his relatives. Why he followed such a course he has not disclosed.

Small Sum Involved.

At the time of the death in 1933 of their mother, Mrs. Christian F. Johnson, Frank Johnson testified he had not seen his brother for seven years. Charles was declared dead and the estate of approximately $500 was given to Frank. Later an inventory of his estate showed a value of $17,000 and it is awaiting final settlement in the Probate Court here.

His estate was left in trust with the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. for his wife. An officer of the trust company told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that on her death the will provides the residue is to go to Charles Johnson.

The trust officer explained that Charles in having himself declared legally alive would not alter his position in regard to his brother's estate, but would stand to gain a few hundred dollars from the estate of his mother.

Will Order Can Be Set Aside.

He said that although all that money was paid to Frank Johnson, that action could be set aside and a claim from Charles' share made against his brother's estate. He said Charles Johnson originally was declared dead so that deeds to property could be properly signed and executed.

Frank Johnson, 67 years old, had been in declining health since a paralytic stroke that preceded his retirement in 1936. He lived at 6041 Enright avenue. His brother was known to have sold morning papers near the bus terminal at Sixth street and Delmar boulevard. His last known address was at a Market street rooming house.

CHARGES AGAINST 6 BROOKLYN PRECINCT OFFICIALS DROPPED

12 Illegal Voting Cases Also Removed From Docket by East Side Prosecutor.

Charges of violation of election laws against six precinct officials who served in the municipal election in April, 1937, at Brooklyn, Negro village north of East St. Louis, were removed from the docket, with leave to reinstate, by Circuit Judge Alfred D. Riess at Belleville yesterday, on recommendation of State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck. Charges against 12 other persons, charged with illegal voting at Brooklyn, also were taken from the docket.

Zerweck said his recommendation was on the basis of a recent Illinois Supreme Court ruling which held that voters, although residing outside a precinct, could establish a legal residence within the precinct. precinct officials against whom charges were dismissed were Robert Crittenden, Earl Lucas and J. A. Newell, election judges, and George Calhoun, Hallie Chambers and Gus Barber, clerks. A charge of illegal voting against Calhoun also was dismissed.

Sixty-four other indictments, charging a variety of offenses, also were removed from the docket, with leave to reinstate. Zerweck said in most cases defendants had not been apprehended or had been convicted of other offenses.

GIRL, 12, WHO KILLED FATHER SENT TO TRAINING SCHOOL

Pennsylvania Child Said She Did It Because He Abused Her and Mother.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 26.—Irene Giricz, 12 years old, who said she shot her father because he abused her and her mother, was given an indeterminate sentence in the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza today. She was sentenced by Judge Carl E. Gibson in Juvenile Court.

The case was certified to the Juvenile Court by District Attorney James C. Bane after a grand jury indicted her for voluntary manslaughter.

The girl said she killed her father, Steve Giricz, as he sat at the breakfast table in their home at Centerville, last Aug. 25. She testified she shot at tin cans to improve her aim and was not sorry for what she had done.

KENTUCKY SOCIETY ELECTION

Attorney Louis E. Miller Chosen Head of St. Louis Group.

Louis E. Miller, lawyer and Seventeenth Ward Republican Committeeman was elected president of the Kentucky Society of St. Louis, at a meeting at the Missouri Athletic Association yesterday. The society, composed of natives of Kentucky and children of Kentuckians, has about 100 members.

Other officers chosen were J. F. James and B. F. Edwards, vice-president; H. J. Naunheim, secretary; W. A. Crockett, treasurer; John G. Lonsdale, Ira C. Money, Charlton Messick, Ward Goodloe, Hugh P. Layton, Miss Lulu Stewart Day, S. Mayner Wallace, A. Hite Bowman, Samuel P. McChesney and John E. Ritchey, directors.

MEXICO TAKES OVER ADDITIONAL OIL LAND

American Firms Sue to Stop Occupation of 2,275,000 Acres Near Border.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 26.—Officers of the Titania and Mercedes companies, subsidiaries of Standard Oil of New Jersey, said today the Mexican Government had moved into 2,275,000 acres of their undeveloped oil lands in two northeastern Mexican states.

The executives said the Government occupied 362,500 acres in Tamaulipas State and 1,912,500 acres in Nuevo Leon State on Nov. 14 and took possession of part of the land and equipment in both states, which are just across the border from the United States.

Attorneys for the companies said they had applied for a restraining order in the Federal District Court here against the Government action in Tamaulipas State and at Monterrey against the step in Nuevo Leon State.

It was pointed out that the Government had not yet expropriated the lands, as were the properties of 17 British and American oil companies in President Lazaro Cardenas' decree of March 18.

The application of the Continental Oil Co. for a restraining order against the Government for moving into 315,000 acres of its lands in Nuevo Leon State has been rejected "on general instructions."

Brigadier-General Bravo Izquierdo of the Mexican army has renounced claims for indemnification for 74,000 acres of farm land seized under the Government's agrarian program, it was learned last night.

He became the first Mexican to answer affirmatively an appeal made last Monday by President Cardenas for renunciation of indemnities.

In a telegram to the President, Gen. Izquierdo said:

"I will try to make my countrymen understand the justice of your program and convince them that only thus can we make a strong country and that our sacrifice means nothing compared to the interests of posterity. I am making the same appeal to foreigners who have to share our welfare and hard times inasmuch as they made our country theirs."

The President's appeal followed a settlement announced Nov. 12 regarding approximately $10,000,000 in claims of United States citizens for farm lands expropriated since 1927. An initial payment is to be made next May.

TOURISTS SPENT 5 BILLIONS IN UNITED STATES LAST YEAR

New York Chief Beneficiary, With $846,000,000; Missouri's Share $188,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The National Park Service estimated today that tourists spent $5,003,100,000 in the United States last year.

New York's share—$846,800,000—was the largest State total. California, with $416,800,000, was next and Pennsylvania, with $327,850,000, was third.

Ohio received $294,900,000, the report said; Illinois $283,600,000; Massachusetts, $204,150,000; Michigan, $189,350,000, and Missouri, $188,200,000.

BOMBING AT KANSAS CITY

Second Attack in Week on Small Hauling Firms' Trucks.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—A bomb wrecked a baggage truck here early today in the second explosion within a week to damage equipment of small transfer firms.

Jess M. Whaley, owner of the firm, said two men called on him recently and asked him to have his four employes join a truckers' union. Whaley said he told the men "I didn't care if my men joined up or not." An explosion damaged a truck belonging to Orlin Rose, another small transfer firm head, Monday night.

TEACHER SAYS JAPAN RUINS CHINA'S SCHOOLS

Educational Progress Set Back 100 Years, R. G. Jameson Declares.

R. G. Jameson, teacher of English literature in China for 13 years, who addressed the National Council of Teachers of English, in session here last week, said yesterday that educational progress in China had been thrust back 100 years by the Japanese invasion. There can be no hope of a resurgence until the invaders are expelled, he added.

"One of the greatest tragedies of the war," he told a Post-Dispatch reporter, "is the loss of cultural momentum. The Japanese have left no stone unturned in the destruction of China's highly developed educational institutions. The occupied territory is rapidly regressing to primitive condition, in which former students and teachers have forgotten education in their desperate search for bread."

Jameson was professor of comparative literature at the National Tsinghua University near Peiping until the outbreak of hostilities in July of last year. When Peiping fell, students and teachers fled with what little equipment they could carry and re-established the school at Yunnanfu, out of the war zone, in South China.

After three days in the legation building, while the city was under siege, Jameson and his wife managed to get away and rejoin the school. The Jamesons remained at Yunnanfu until last April, when they returned to the United States, making their home in Washington, D. C.

"Peiping a Cultural Desert."

"Peiping, China's educational capital until its capture, is now virtually a cultural desert," Jameson said. "All of its famous universities, including Peking Union Medical College and Peking National University, have been moved out of the war zone. Students and teachers at these fugitive universities are continuing their classes, however, despite their impoverishment and lack of books and supplies, most teaching being done from memory.

"Many schools in the war zone are being used by Japanese soldiers as barracks. Nanking University, pride of China's educational system, has been demolished by aerial bombs, as has Tientsin University. The latter was bombed repeatedly during the assault on the city, and when occupation was completed the Japanese poured oil on the undamaged buildings and set them on fire.

"A few American-endowed universities in the war zone have continused to hold classes, but were permitted to do so only after the Japanese were assured that there would be no student activities. This was a severe blow, because Chinese universities have long been the origin for liberal movements.

No Books For Schools.

"Students and teachers remaining at these schools are destitute. They do not know whether their relatives are dead or alive. And there are no books because the Japanese have sealed up the Tsinghua Library.

"Until the Japanese invasion, Chinese education was making rapid progress under the intelligent guidance of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and his advisers, most of them schoolmasters. Agricultural schools were spreading knowledge of modern soil cultivation methods among farmers, engineering schools were beginning to conquer the devastating annual floods, and medical schools were making headway in their fight against epidemics. But now all that is lost."

Jameson declared that it was the intention of the Japanese to uproot all Chinese educational institutions and suppress all liberal movements. The invaders, he said, can retain a strong grip on the conquered territory only by keeping a people in ignorance. So long as China remains backward and primitive, Japanese will continue in power, but let liberal ideas incubate and spread and the invaders are in danger of expulsion, he believes.

"Making Employable Citizens."

Edward E. Gunn Jr., assistant director of vocational and adult education for Wisconsin, will speak on "Making Employable Citizens" at a meeting tomorrow night at 8 p. m. at the Carondelet Y. M. C. A., 600 Loughborough avenue.

REQUEST TO PROTECT POSTMEN FROM DOGS

Postmaster Says 85 Carriers Have Been Bitten Within One Year.

Dog owners have been asked by Postmaster W. Rufus Jackson to keep their pets from biting mail carriers.

The request by the Postmaster was occasioned by the necessity of putting on substitute mail carriers because of the new wage-hour law and the expected addition to the regular force during the holiday season.

"Dogs are familiar with the regular carriers on the routes, but regard the substitute carriers as strangers," Postmaster Jackson explained in an appeal for co-operation in protecting the postmen. The result, Jackson added, is that the less fleet-footed new carriers are frequently bitten.

"Time lost by carriers because of dog bites reaches an astonishing aggregate," the Postmaster stated. "Eighty-five carriers have received treatment for dog bites in one year," the statement continued. "During the holidays the carriers are bearers of good will, yet this becomes paradoxical when a postman is attacked by a vicious dog."

Postal regulations relieve carriers from the responsibility of delivering mail in unsafe places.

ENGLISH TEACHER DISCUSSES ADULT READING ABILITY

Dr. Edgar Dale Says One-Third to Two-Fifths of Grownups Have Limitations of Sixth Grader.

DUTY OF SCHOOLS AND PAPERS CITED

Instructors End Convention and Vote to Hold Next National Meeting in New York City.

The National Council of Teachers of English concluded a three-day convention yesterday at Hotel Jefferson. More than 2000 teachers attended. New York was chosen for the twenty-ninth annual meeting Nov. 30, 1939.

A luncheon which ended the convention was preceded by section meetings which included a joint session of the National Council of Teachers of English and the National Association of Journalism.

Investigation has shown that from one-third to two-fifths of adult readers have a reading ability equal or less than that of a sixth-grade student, Dr. Edgar Dale of Ohio State University said in a discussion of critical reading. A significant proportion of political, economic and governmental news is written at a level requiring twelfth-grade reading ability, he added, and even popular health columns cannot be read easily by adults of limited education.

Responsibility of Schools.

"The school, therefore," he said, "has a responsibility for raising this reading level. The newspaper has a responsibility for writing stories at the level of the different public is serves. This does not mean a general leveling down process of all news items. It does mean a greater understanding of the different 'publics' and a rewriting of some of the news to serve such groups."

The high rating of comics and sport news in reader interest is due to their "tangibility and simplicity," Dr. Dale said.

"It is my conviction," he said, "that newspapers could profoundly change the reading habits of their readers if significant news items were written with as much skill and ability as they now give to sports and comics."

Speaking before the section meeting of high school teachers, Dr. Dale told of work in 25 high schools which had included in their curricula classes for instruction in reading a newspaper.

Comment on German Medals.

A suggestion that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Henry Ford return the decorations they have received from the German Government was made by Prof. Clyde R. Miller of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

"The German Government has given Lindbergh and Ford high decorations, meaning the German Government approves of them," said Prof. Miller, a director of the Institute for Propaganda Analysis, Inc., established with the aid of the late Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant and philanthropist. "By the acceptance of such decorations, Lindbergh and Ford express approval of the Nazi Government, whether they know it or not. That is the hope of Hitler and Goebbels. It is effective propaganda.

"Equally effective counter-propaganda would be for Ford and Lindbergh to return the decorations, saying they don't care to be honored by a government which so persecutes Jews and Christians.

"The monopoly of propaganda by the dictator, as we see it in Germany," Prof. Miller continued, "means in essence that the school, theater, cinema and press have ceased to be instruments of education and have become, instead, instruments for conditioning the populace to react to just one kind of propaganda. In short, the German people are being trained, not educated. Their brains are being subordinated to their spinal cords.

Free Speech and Press.

"One of the most effective means for making a democracy work is a press free to publish all manner of opinions and ideas—free to criticise these opinions and ideas. Free speech and freedom to afford full scope for propaganda for everybody is not only the price we pay for democracy, but it is the only means by which democracy can express itself.

"But with freedom to express opinions and propagandas, citizens in a democracy also have the obligation to analyze their own opinions and propagandas and those of others to see on what facts they are founded and to try to determine what the effects would be in terms of human welfare if the actions advocated by the propagandas are realized.

"For example, we can expect increasing Nazi propaganda in America to justify persecution of Jews, Catholics and Protestants in Germany. Here, the object of Nazi propagandists is to break Americans up into dissenting groups—getting Christians hating Jews, Catholics hating Protestants, native hating foreign-born. If they can thus weaken us by dissension, Hitler expansion is that much easier."

Safety for Fascism.

Censorship of the European press and radio is likely to make Europe "safe for Fascism," Prof. Miller said, adding that "those voices which criticised Daladier and Chamberlain for appeasing the dictators" had been kept off the radio. Skilled news gatherers and commentators have enabled Americans to see the European situation more clearly than Europeans, he said.

"If the minds of students are "conditioned" in school to "form tentative opinions and keep them tentative until thoroughly tested," he went on, they will be proof against propaganda.

Other speakers at closing sessions included Paul Y. Anderson, Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Star-Times; W. G. Rice, University of Michigan; Roger Hill, headmaster of the Todd School for Boys, Woodstock, Ill.; Miss Jeanette Eaton of New York, and John G. Neihardt, St. Louis poet.

SOCIALIST PROPOSES RETURNING STATUE OF LIBERTY TO FRANCE

Secretary of National Committee Says People Under Daladier Need It More Than U. S. Does.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The Socialist National Executive Committee, protesting against the labor policies of the Daladier Government, proposed today that the Statue of Liberty be returned to France.

"France in this hour of internal crisis needs the statue more than we do," said Roy E. Burt, secretary of the party.

ARTISTS' GUILD SHOW FREE OF PROPAGANDA

Water-Color and Craft Exhibit, Opening Today, Depicts No Social Problems.

The eighth annual exhibition of water-color and craft work by St. Louis artists will open this afternoon at the Artists' Guild, 812 Union boulevard, without a single social propaganda painting. Since about 1933, most art exhibitions here have included many paintings frankly designed to set forth the artist's ideas on social problems.

There are 105 paintings by 53 artists, and 12 examples of craft work by seven artists on display. The exhibition will open with a 3 o'clock tea for the artists and their friends and will continue until Nov. 14. The Guild is open daily from 1 to 5 p. m., except Tuesday and Sunday. Hours on Sunday are 3 to 5 p. m.

Mrs. Prudence Lucas Henry's work is represented in the exhibition by two appealing paintings of dogs. One shows a small Boston terrier tugging at a piece of cloth, the other is a study of an inquisitive Pekingese and a Boston terrier pup.

An old barber shop in Pilot Knob, Mo., is the subject of a painting by Frank B. Nuderscher. An old automobile sits on a deserted street in front of a quaint shop. An arcade shades the sidewalk. Kinloch Park, a jumble of vari-colored houses surrounded by tumble-down fences, is one of the paintings displayed by Mrs. Esther Silber Reed.

Mrs. Bernice Boeschenstein's painting, "Coreen in Pink Slip," shows a full-bodied Negress reclining on a bed. "So Ends the Age of Science," a devastating air and land battle, with planes going up in smoke and land laid bare, is the work of Jessie Beard Rickly.

The craft display includes a small mosaic of a Turkish home made of 77 varieties of foreign and domestic woods by Charles A. Homan. He values the mosaic at $1000, the highest valuation placed on anything in the exhibition. Other craft objects are wood panels for a door and etched aluminum trays, bowls and sandwich plates.

TORTURE-KIDNAPING TRIAL GIVEN TO JURY

Olympia (Wash.) Physician Weeps During Defense Attorney's Final Plea.

By the Associated Press.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 26.—The torture-kidnaping trial of Dr. Kent W. Berry and three co-defendants was given to the jury of eight men and four women this afternoon, after a final demand by Special Assistant Prosecuting Attorney J. W. Graham for conviction of all four.

Dr. Berry is accused of instigating and leading the kidnaping and torture of Irving Baker, whom he accused of an attack on Mrs. Berry. Baker has denied the physician's charge.

Imposition of the death penalty was possible in the event of first-degree convictions on the kidnaping charge. The jury was under court instruction to disregard any "unwritten law" defense contention.

In his closing argument, C. D. Cunningham, attorney for Dr. Berry, declared that "kidnaping never entered the minds of Dr. Berry or his co-defendants."

"Only two things were in the mind of Dr. Berry until his mind was practically gone," Cunningham argued. "The first was to have Baker arrested and prosecuted for the attack on his wife, and the second to take him out and assault him."

Dr. Berry wept during Cunningham's talk.

Dr. Berry's co-defendants are James Reddick, taxicab driver; William McAloon, former Montesano night marshal, and Robert H. Smith, Brady dairy farmer.

Killed in Sandlot Football Game.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The death of James P. Coyle Jr., 20 years old, from an injury suffered in a sandlot tag football game Thanksgiving day was declared accidental today by a Coroner's jury. Death was due to an internal hemorrhage. Coyle, a junior in the University of Illinois College of Engineering, was home for the holiday.

$7,680,000 CASH OIL LEASE

Phillips Company Buys Rights to 1880 Acres in Texas Field.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 26.—The Houston Chronicle said today 1880 acres of oil leases in the new League City oil field in Galveston County were sold today for $7,680,000 in cash.

The paper said F. J. Anderson, president of the Midwest Royalty Co. and the Midwest Co., sold the leases to the Phillips Petroleum Co. None of the principals would comment.

PHILADELPHIA TAX ON INCOMES VOTED

Council Passes Bill for 1 1-2 Pct. Levy on All Persons Working in City.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26. — A 1½ per cent income tax for next year was passed by the City Council today with only two dissenting votes. The levy is on salaries, fees and commissions of all persons working in Philadelphia, whether they live here or not. Sponsors sought an early ruling on its constitutionality.

Mayor S. Davis Wilson signed the measure with the comment that it was "the only method by which enough money may be realized to meet ever-growing needs."

The city budget is about $25,000,000 short.

SEC Attacks Giannini 'Department Store of Finance'

in 1935 and $65,914.28 in 1936.

In its third charge, the commission questions an entry in the balance sheet of the Transamerica Corporation as of Dec. 31, 1936, setting forth as a charge to paid-in surplus for that year the sum of $1,171,714.56. Of this amount, in the commission's view, $1,124,724.78 should have been charged against expenses since it consisted of commissions and other moneys paid by Transamerica to Associated American Distributors, Inc., a subsidiary of another Transamerica subsidiary, the Inter-Continental Corporation.

The commissions, according to the complaint, were paid to Associated American Distributors for its service, from 1934 to 1937, in soliciting orders to purchase Transamerica shares on the various stock exchanges. The corporation's failure to reflect this item as current expense, with a consequent reduction of earned surplus, is described as "materially misleading."

Losses and Doubtful Accounts.

Still another charge concerns assets of $35,214,000 in the portfolio of the Bank of America, which Federal examiners in 1931 ordered eliminated from the bank's balance sheet as representing "losses and doubtful accounts." It is declared that these assets were sold at their face value to the Corporation of America, a subsidiary of another Transamerica subsidiary, the Transamerica Bank Holding Co., under such circumstances that the reserves set up to protect the Corporation of America did not "reflect the true amount of the liability due or possible losses under the contracts."

Also "materially misleading" is the commission's pronouncement upon an item of $8,982,180.20 carried on Transamerica's balance sheet for 1936 as the value of investments in the capital stock of the Bank of America and Italy. "The commission has reasonable grounds for believing," it is asserted, "that certain restrictions imposed by the Italian Government upon the transfer of any profits or other funds from Italy to any other country materially affect this investment."

Three Affiliates Report.

A combined report of condition was submitted by three Transamerica affiliates, the First National Bank of Reno, Nev.; the Bank of America of California and the Bank of America National Trust & Savings Association. Among assets under loans and discounts was listed the sum of $539,899,100. The commission charges the registrant failed to disclose that included in this amount were losses and doubtful accounts totaling more than $8,000,000, slow accounts in excess of $125,000,000 and a "write-up" of $9,000,000 representing unrealized appreciation on holdings of United States and municipal securities.

The corporation's declaration of $22,503,612 net undivided profits is declared by the commission to have been "wiped out" by Transamerica's undisclosed losses and doubtful accounts, totaling more than $13,000,000, and by $9,000,000 of unrealized appreciation in Government and municipal securities which was mentioned above.

It is further charged that in 1935 the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association paid out in dividends $3,500,000 in excess of its actual current earnings, and that the corresponding figure in 1936 was $1,500,000.

Finally, the SEC alleges that three Transamerica affiliates—the First National Bank of Reno, the Bank of America of California and the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association.

—had at the end of 1936 reserves of approximately half a million dollars to protect loans and discounts of half a billion. The respective figures listed are $589,928 and $539,899,100. "The amount of reserves provided on the books of the various companies in the Transamerica group," the order concludes, "is materially inadequate."

Career Began at 12.

A native of California, Giannini entered on his business career at the age of 12 as an employe of a firm of commission merchants, in which he became a partner when 19 years old. In 1904 he founded the Bank of Italy, which is now the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association, most powerful of Transamerica's affiliates. He is board chairman, honorary chairman of the Bank of America and of Italy, and a director of the National City Bank and the City Bank Farmers' Trust Co. of New York. He was for three terms director of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, and is a member of the board of regents of the University of California, to which he donated $1,500,000 in 1928.

Giannini Says Complaint Is Calculated to Injure Company.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 26.—A. P. Giannini, founder, and John M. Grant, president of Transamerica Corporation, asserted last night they believed the complaint made by the Securities and Exchange Commission against the corporation was calculated to injure the holding company.

Giannini and Grant issued the following statement:

"The complaint filed by the Securities and Exchange Commission against Transamerica Corporation has been given wide publicity before Trans-America has had an opportunity to study it or prove it groundless.

"From a cursory examination of the complaint, it would appear that it is based entirely on a theory of accounting. Transamerica reports have been prepared by a nationally known firm of independent, certified public accountants, data on earnings of the banks associated with Transamerica Corporation has been accepted by the accountants from reports of the banks to the Comptroller of the Currency.

"Transamerica Corporation has complied fully with the rules and regulations of the New York Stock Exchange and other security exchanges and, as a matter of fact, practically all of the items embodied in the complaint were covered in a supplemental report in connection with our registration statement under the 1934 act.

"This supplemental report was filed with the SEC five months ago and we have had no communication with the SEC since in regard to our registration under the 1934 act.

"We are firmly of the belief that the motive behind this complaint is one calculated definitely to prejudice Transamerica Corporation in the eyes of the public.

"Attacks of this kind are not new. In building up a great financial institution in the West, we have met with every difficulty, and every possible handicap has been put in our way, but with an honest purpose and public support, we have surmounted them all.

"We are confident that when we have had an opportunity to make full answer to the complaint, we shall be completely vindicated.

"We ask only that, in all fairness, the public reserve judgment until we can avail ourselves of the right guaranteed to every American citizen by the Constitution, that he shall not be judged except after a fair hearing."

Giannini has been a dominating and at times almost fabulous figure in West Coast finance. In recent years he has made numerous public statements supporting the administration of President Roosevelt.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN "UPSET STOMACH"

OFTEN NEUTRALIZING EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS CAN MAKE THE WHOLE WORLD SMILE IN THE MORNING

YOU DON'T NEED A DOCTOR to tell you not to eat too much — smoke too much — or drink unwisely. It's the easiest rule to learn — and the easiest one to break.

But by doing one simple thing — you can relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day.

Here's what you do. It's so easy — and results are amazing.

Just Do This

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water — AT BEDTIME. While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

Thousands Use This Way

This is a quick, simple and easy way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

Try this way. See how clear your head feels next day. Notice the absence of dullness and "depression" due to excess stomach acidity.

You'll be amazed at your feeling of well being.

But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone — always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia — the kind many doctors endorse. Keep a bottle always handy in your home — and "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep.

Have you seen the most talked about car in America?

THE NEW FORD-BUILT MERCURY 8

HOLDERS OF COLLEGE'S BONDS SUE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION

Plaintiffs Contend Group Repudiated Agreement to Put $50,000 in School at Marble Hill, Mo.

A suit to enforce an alleged guarantee made by the Missouri Baptist General Association and its executive board for bonds issued for the building of the closed Will Mayfield College at Marble Hill, Mo., was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by holders of the bonds.

The plaintiffs contend that the association and executive board repudiated an agreement to finance the institution to the extent of $50,000, after having made payments of $20,274. The bonds were issued in 1927 and the school closed in 1931, the petition states.

The Rev. Samuel E. Ewing of St. Louis, secretary of the association, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the school was not owned or operated by the association. He said the organization had declined to make further contributions after failure of the school.

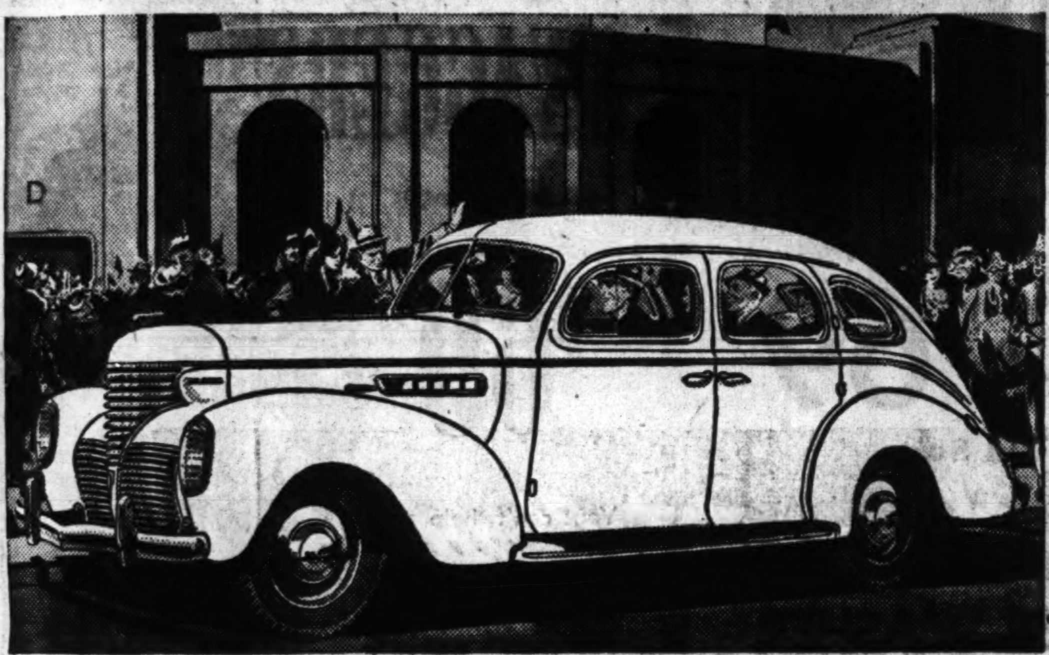
Quezon's Aims in Philippines.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Nov. 26.—Manuel Quezon, starting the last half of his six-year term as president of the Philippine Commonwealth, told his revamped Cabinet at its first meeting today that he was "determined more than ever to give the Philippines not only an efficient Government but a Government which will be just to all and one which will promote rapidly and soundly the enduring interests of our nation."

STYLED FOR SAFETY

1939 DE SOTO HAS FULL-VIEW WINDSHIELD!

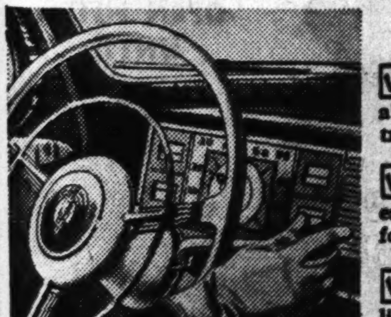


BLIND SPOTS GONE—NO NECK-CRANING!

DE SOTO'S Streamline Styling gives you more than up-to-the-minute smartness...it gives you greater safety than you've ever known!

Wait till you look through that Full-View Windshield. It's higher, wider! Blind spots gone! No neck-craning at overhead traffic lights. De Soto is bigger, too, with new handling-ease, new economy and new, stepped-up performance! Yet, it's priced to fit your budget! See your De Soto dealer today! DE SOTO DIVISION OF CHRYSLER CORPORATION, Detroit, Michigan.

NEW SAFETY! Constant-Speed Electric Windshield Wipers clean more than half of De Soto's big windshield!



NEW DRIVING EASE! De Soto's Handy-Shift is at your finger tips. No "wobble-stick" in the floor! More room!

QUICK FACTS ON NEW DE SOTO

- ☑ Streamlined Luggage Locker—provides 23 cu. ft. of usable space—no old-fashioned trunk bulge mars car lines.
- ☑ New Handy-Shift—mounted on steering post. Shifts easier. No lever in floor! Room for three in front!
- ☑ New Streamline Styling—Wide-Range Safety Headlights set flush in fenders. Identify full width of car at night.
- ☑ New Ride Formula—Airplane-type Shock Absorbers, Rubber Float Body Mountings eliminate bumps and vibration.
- ☑ Bigger Safety-Steel Body—Sofa-wide seats front and rear. Room for 6 big people.
- ☑ Five Speeds Forward—with Perfected Automatic Overdrive . . . optional at extra cost. Greatly improved economy!
- ☑ 93-H.P., Super-Economy Engine—new SUPERFINISHING of moving parts gives longer life, greater economy.
- ☑ Safety-Signal Speedometer—acts like a "silent policeman." New Non-Slam Doors. New, lasting Durasheen finish. Soft-acting Hydraulic Brakes.

STOCKYARDS FIRM PLANS TO REPLACE CHICAGO STRIKERS

Says It Will Hire A. F. of L. Men as Individuals to Fill Jobs of CIO Handlers Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—The initial peace conference in the strike of CIO stock handlers at the Chicago stockyards ended today with the United Stockyard & Transit Co. still firm in its intention to employ A. F. of L. labor to operate the yards Monday.

At the conclusion of a two-hour conference with Federal Government labor conciliators and representatives of the Packing House Workers' Organizing Committee, O. T. Henkle, general manager of the company said he did not intend to change his plans to call in a substitute crew of workers next week.

He said that between 150 and 200 men were expected to report for duty at 6 a. m., and that the Chicago Livestock Exchange had been instructed to inform farmers to resume their shipments of cattle, sheep, swine and calves.

Although the new workers were offered to the company by an A. F. of L. Stock Handlers' local, Henkle emphasized that they would be employed as individuals rather than as members of the A. F. of L., since the CIO is the accredited bargaining agency for his employes.

Negotiations with the CIO are to be resumed at 1:30 p. m. Monday.

Robert J. Mythen, one of two Department of Labor conciliators who arranged the conference, said the status of the A. F. of L. in the controversy was not discussed.

"The attitude of all concerned was co-operative," Mythen reported, adding that the situation looked hopeful.

Trading in the meat animal market has been suspended since last Monday, when the CIO stock handlers walked out to enforce demands for pay increases, a check-off system, a closed shop and other concessions. They said the stoppage affected 585 men.

Approximately 1000 "killing floor" employes of Armour & Co., stayed away from work today to demonstrate their support of the strike. They planned to resume work Monday, however.

MAN ADMITS PLAN TO EXTORT $10,000 FROM SHIRLEY TEMPLE

Prisoner at Galice, Ore., Confesses Sending Letter Threatening Child Star's Life.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 26.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced an alleged plan to extort $10,000 from Shirley Temple was thwarted today with the arrest of Hinton C. Hardison, 22 years old, at Galice, Ore.

J. D. Swenson, agent in charge, said Hardison admitted mailing an extortion note Nov. 17, threatening death of the child movie star if the money was not paid. Hardison formerly lived at Albany, Ga., Swenson said.

Hardison will be arraigned on a charge of attempted extortion and taken to Portland for trial, the F. B. I. office said.

PUBLIC MEETING ON PROPOSED VENEREAL DISEASE SERVICE

Speakers to Support Bill to Reorganize City's System of Treating Victims.

A public meeting in support of the proposed ordinance to reorganize the city's venereal disease service will start at 8 p. m. Dec. 5 in the auditorium of the St. Louis Medical Society, 3839 Lindell boulevard, under the auspices of the Social Planning Council.

Speakers will include the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine; Dr. Richard S. Weiss, president of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association, and Jacob M. Lashly, attorney.

8 Who Broke Up Bund Rally Freed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Commenting that the best way to eliminate undesirable organizations was to ignore them, Municipal Judge Charles S. Dougherty today dismissed charges of disorderly conduct against eight men who helped break up a German-American Bund meeting last night. No one was injured seriously during the disturbance.

ONE KILLED IN SOFIA RIOT OVER RETURN OF TERRITORY

Many Hurt in Demonstration Demanding Return of Land Ceded to Bulgaria.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 26.—One person was killed and several were wounded tonight when a crowd estimated to number 20,000 joined in demonstrations for the return of Bulgarian territory ceded by a post-war pact to Yugoslavia and Rumania.

Firemen doused and dispersed an unruly crowd in front of the office of Prime Minister George Kiosseivanov, where a Cabinet session was in progress. Cabinet members, watching from the windows, heard shouts of "return our lost territories."

Last Friday Sofia University students held a similar demonstration in which six persons were injured.

Dog Gets a Gold Tooth.

By the Associated Press.

ARGOS, Ind., Nov. 26.—King, a bird dog owned by Dale Voreis, is retrieving game again now that he has a gold tooth. When a nerve became exposed in one of King's teeth and caused him much misery, a dentist put in a gold crown.

JAPANESE AT EDGE OF HONGKONG COLONY

Fighting Reported Half Mile From Kowloon, British Leased Territory.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 26.—Japanese troops in South China were reported tonight to be making rapid progress toward the border of the British leased territory of Kowloon.

The Japanese vanguard was said to be only half a mile from the frontier as the invaders swept aside what they called Chinese Army "remnants" on the eastern shore of the Pearl River delta.

The peninsula of Kowloon, on the Chinese mainland, was ceded to Great Britain in October, 1860, and now forms a part of the Crown Colony of Hongkong.

Japanese reports said Chinese forces caught near the frontier had suffered heavy losses.

A Hongkong dispatch said Japanese planes bombed the town of Shumchun, on the Crown Colony's border, increasing the number of refugees and wounded Chinese soldiers seeking to enter the colony.

It said at least 1000 Chinese soldiers already had crossed into British territory and were interned.

As this action proceeded in the sector southeast of Canton, the Japanese Air Force reported great activity in the vicinity of the fallen metropolis.

Fifty war planes attacked Chinese forces near Samshui, 30 miles west of Canton, with what one Japanese described as "fearful results."

To the north, between Canton and Hankow, Chinese reported they had halted the Japanese drive down the Canton-Hankow railway toward Changsha, defeating the Japanese at Taolin and Tungcheng.

MEN SAY . . .

I purchased a Rand Shaver because my face was much too tender to shave close any other way. It is now in shape so that I can really shave the way I like to, and you could not part me from my Rand Close-Shaver.

WOMEN SAY . . .

Removing under-arm hair and unsightly hair on my legs always was a problem until I began using the Rand Close-Shaver. It is easy now, and there is no skin irritation.

CALL FOR OUSTER OF THOSE USING WPA POLITICALLY

Maine Senator Seeks Action—Campaign Expenditures Group to Consider Reports Tomorrow.

SUPPORT FOR IDEA OF PERMANENT BOARD

Democratic Bloc Favors Decentralized Relief—Hopkins Discusses WPA Program Changes.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Senator White (Rep.), Maine, a member of the Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee, called on authorities today to discharge every relief official or worker found to have used the WPA for political purposes in the last campaign.

The committee is scheduled to meet Monday to consider final reports on its campaign investigations.

"I think everyone who knows anything about it recognizes that the WPA has been a demoralizing and corrupting influence in politics," White said in an interview. He attibuted WPA political activity, which committee investigators have reported finding in several states, to the administrative branch of the relief organization.

Favors Permanent Committee.

He said he would support a proposal by Chairman Sheppard (Dem.), Texas, that the Campaign Expenditures Committee be made a permanent organization to police political campaigns and to recommend legislation to halt political corruption.

White suggested a joint organization, with jurisdiction over both House and Senate campaigns.

"It is a most difficult thing," he pointed out, "to build up an organization hurriedly from the ground up and have an effective investigating force and reach sound judgments on what is going on in the face of more or less fragmentary evidence.

"There should be a congressional committee familiar not only with the Federal but state statutes dealing with political corruption. If such a committee were on a permanent basis, it could maintain the nucleus of an investigation force. It could carry out its work with a much smaller expenditure of money and a much greater effectiveness in keeping informed on what is going on."

White indicated he would propose that the committee recommend that Congress decide who can contribute legally to political funds, and that it ask for a congressional study of charges of political abuse of the free mailing and printing privileges.

Decentralized Relief Urged.

A proposal that administration of relief be turned over to bipartisan state boards was made earlier today by a group of Democratic Senators.

Senator Burke, (Dem.), Nebraska, said that Senator Bailey, (Dem.), North Carolina, was drafting a bill to decentralize relief and that several Democratic Senators who have been critical of administration policies had agreed to support it.

As explained by Burke the Bailey measure would establish bipartisan relief commissions in each state to administer relief funds through bipartisan boards in each county.

The states would be required to contribute toward relief costs and provision would be made for a gradual tapering off of Federal expenditures as the states became able to take care of their needy.

Relief costs now make up nearly one-fourth of all Federal expenditures.

"The particular object of this plan is to accomplish economy," Burke said. There can be no doubt that relief can be administered more economically by boards that are on the ground than from Washington."

New WPA Proposals.

In the meantime, informed persons said numerous changes in WPA and allied programs were being discussed by Harry Hopkins, the Relief Administrator, and other administration officials. They said the proposals under discussion included:

Creation of an advisory board to aid the administrator in shaping relief policies.

Establishment of a co-ordinated relief organization on a permanent basis—perhaps within the framework of a regular Government department.

Organization of a joint state-Federal program with sufficient flexibility to meet varying relief needs from year to year.

Allocation of relief jobs on the basis of ability to work as well as on the basis of need.

Reorganization of the Federal-State Employment Service to increase its efficiency in serving jobless who are not on relief rolls.

Application of the civil service system to the relief program.

WADSWORTH IN RACE FOR MINORITY LEADER

New York Representative Opposes Martin, Massachusetts, for Snell's Post.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Prospects of a spirited contest for the House Republican leadership increased today with the announcement by Representative James W. Wadsworth of Geneseo, N. Y., that he was a candidate for the post.

Representative Bertrand E. Snell of Potsdam, N. Y., who is retiring this year, has been minority leader since 1931. Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, the assistant minority leader, was regarded as a leading contender to succeed Snell.

Wadsworth's announcement met with guarded comment among the few Republican Congressmen in the capital. One New Yorker pledged support only if it promoted party harmony. Another Representative, predicting a demand for a more liberal leadership, said such a movement might handicap Wadsworth's candidacy because of his conservative record.

Special significance attaches to the contest because the minority leader of the next Congress would be in line to become Speaker of the House should the Republicans gain control of that branch in 1940.

Wadsworth, regarded as one of the most able legislators in Congress, tossed his hat in the ring just a week after Republican members of the State delegation met in Syracuse to discuss support of a candidate for the leadership.

His decision to enter the race openly was regarded in some quarters as an indication that he had received assurances of support from a majority of the State's Republican members. It was known, however, that some New Yorkers were pledged to Martin.

'HUMAN CANNONBALL' TROUPE CITED AS PEACE DISTURBERS

Rehearsals by Zacchinis Annoy Florida Neighbors Who Go to Court About It.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 26.—The Zacchinis who shoot each other from cannons to amuse circus goers were accused in a suit today of disturbing the neighbors by their off-stage activities.

In a suit filed in Circuit Court by the Municipal Bond and Mortgage Corporation, owner of several pieces of property in the neighborhood where the "human cannonball" family winters, they were alleged to have:

(a) An aviary of rare and noisy birds; (b) a cannon range to keep their act in practice; (c) an assortment of outdoor trapezes; (d) some pet goats and chickens with a weakness for shrubbery, and (e) a machine shop that interfered with radio reception.

"Many of the Zacchini family are acrobats," the petition recites, "and frequently in the daytime men and women of the family practice their trapeze acts with very little clothes on . . . shouting to each other and talking. They shoot their cannon either with the men in it or with weights in it with loud report . . . both on Sundays and week days, the same being very disturbing."

The suit asked for relief and compliance with building restrictions.

POLES ORDER 4 U. S. PLANES

Lockheed Works Signs Third Big Foreign Contract in Month.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—The Lockheed Aircraft Corporation of Burbank, Cal., announced today it had received a $320,000 order for four twin-engined transport planes (Lockheed 14's) from the Polish Air Lines, making the third major foreign contract signed this month.

The order increases Lockheed's unfilled business to about $29,900,000, the company said. Other Lockheed contracts in November included an order from the Australian Air Board for 50 bombing planes and a commitment from the French Air Ministry for three high-speed transports for its Europe-Africa line, Air Afrique.

CLARK SERVES NOTICE HE'LL BE INDEPENDENT

Announces Attitude on National Issues and Discusses Election.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Senator Clark of Missouri, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential nominee in 1940, said today the recent election had prevented a break-up of the Democratic party and oblivion for the Republicans.

Back in the national capital for the first time since his re-election to the Senate, Clark served notice he would maintain his independent stand on national legislative issues. In the past he opposed the administration's court and governmental reorganization bills.

"There was no Republican sweep," Clark said in an interview. "We had three tremendous Democratic landslides in a row, and it would have been abnormal if the Republicans hadn't made some gain.

"Another Democratic landslide would have wiped the Republican party out of existence. If the Republicans had been wiped out, the Democrats would have broken up of their own weight."

Clark said the political history of the United States demonstrated that voters wanted a strong two-party system "and only two great parties."

"Outside the fact that some very good fellows were beaten, I think it's a very good thing for the party," he said. "There is no doubt that the Democratic majority has been unwieldy."

The new Congress must study "the farm law all over again," Clark said, adding: "We must find out how much of its failure was due to the legislation itself, and how much to bad administration."

He predicted that Congress would abandon its "blank check system" of relief appropriations and substitute definite amounts for specific purposes. He asserted it was "essential that we keep relief out of politics."

He said the Senate should "make a very careful investigation" of President Roosevelt's renomination of Donald Wakefield Smith to the National Labor Relations Board.

"There have been some very serious charges brought against Smith," Clark said.

He said that although he had filibustered to obtain the enactment of the present program providing for direct Federal subsidies for the merchant marine, he would oppose any effort in the next Congress to extend that program. He contended that, after the enactment of the present program, "the shipbuilding companies' immediate procedure was to jack up bids."

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR JUSTICE CARDOZO

Judge Lehman Says Attacks on Jews Abroad Saddened Jurist's Last Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Judge Irving Lehman of the New York Court of Appeals spoke today at a memorial service in the United States Supreme Court chamber for the late Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, a member of the court until his death last July in Judge Lehman's home.

Cardozo was the second Jew to sit on the high tribunal. Justice Brandeis, 82 years old, and still on the bench, was the first Jewish Supreme Court Justice.

Lehman concluded his eulogy with this statement:

"His last years were saddened by the knowledge that again in other parts of the world, men who are his kin in blood and spirit, are being driven from their homes; that again Caesar, pretending to speak in the name of God, is demanding that men should render unto Caesar that which is God's—but his confidence that America would never abandon its great ideals, that might would not forever triumph over right, that democracy would again resume its onward march, never wavered."

Another speaker, John Lord O'Brian, former Assistant Attorney-General, said the service was held at a time "when all men who love liberty find themselves confronted with forces of unmistakably evil portent."

"It seems of special significance," he added, "that we commemorate the service of the one man of our professions who in our time was the most conspicuous exemplar of faith in persuasion in the never-ending conflict between rule by persuasion and rule by force."

DETAILS OF NEW U. S. NOTE TO NAZIS ON AUSTRIAN DEBT

Says Reich Pays British and French Creditors but Discriminates Against Americans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The State Department disclosed today that the United States Embassy in Berlin had complained to the German Government yesterday against "acts or policies of foreign governments which discriminate against American creditors and give foreign creditors more favorable treatment than Americans."

This referred to the fact that Germany has not continued service on Austrian debts outstanding in this country when Austria became a part of the Reich. An exchange of notes published by the department said Germany was making payments on Austrian obligations to creditors in Great Britain, France and some other nations.

The German Government, in a note of Nov. 17, said that while it had been possible to recognize and pay certain Austrian obligations in those countries because of Germany's favorable trade balance with them, it had been impossible to make any American arrangement because of unfavorable trade relations.

The Reich is on the economic "blacklist" of the United States, being deprived of tariff concessions granted other countries because of its alleged discrimination against American goods.

Four Notes Sent by United States.

Today's publication of notes disclosed that the United States now has addressed four increasingly pointed notes to Berlin since Germany absorbed Austria and suspended service on Austrian debts and bonds in this country without recognizing its responsibility for paying those obligations.

The third note, sent Oct. 19, warned Germany that if the uncertainty of the debt situation continued it would be "certain to intensify a feeling of injustice and discrimination." It brought a preliminary German reply in which it was stated the question was being studied, but that no way had been found yet to pay American creditors.

It was to this German note that the American Embassy in Berlin replied yesterday.

About $50,000,000 is thought to be involved in the bonds and obligations of the old Austrian Government and its municipalities and subdivisions. Following the absorption of Austria by Germany, the United States addressed notes to Germany April 6 and June 9, asking it to assume these obligations. No understanding has yet been reached, although Germany has not formally renounced its obligation to assume some of these debts.

"Geneva's Negative Stand."

In July, however, Germany orally informed Ambassador Wilson, then still in Berlin, but since recalled for consultation, that the Government "supported by historical procedures, took a generally negative stand with regards to the debts of the Austrian government, since they were brought about in order to support the incompetent Austrian state artificially created by the Paris treaties."

Austrian government bonds fall into two categories and cover money owed for food shipped to starving Austrians in 1920 and for further credit extended in 1930 to bolster the Austrian financial structure. In addition there are some private obligations to American individuals.

Germany's note of Nov. 17, said that, "on account of the extremely passive condition of German trade with the United States, which already requires an outlay of considerable amounts of foreign exchange to pay for German imports from the United States," a treaty adjustment for payments to American creditors, similar to understandings with England and France, could naturally not be made.

The United States replied that service payments to American bondholders would cost but little, and should not be "a large or difficult problem."

CENSORSHIP TIME REVISED ON FATHER COUGHLIN'S TALK

Studio Requires Him to Submit Speech 4, Not 48 Hours Before His Broadcast.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Radio station WMCA advised the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin tonight that his scheduled speech tomorrow would be broadcast through its facilities only if a copy was received four hours in advance and its text did not tend to "create racial or religious hatred or dissension in America."

The station, which objected to parts of the Detroit priest's speech last Sunday, modified a previous order that Father Coughlin submit his script 48 hours in advance of the broadcast.

Norman Thomas Asks La Follette To Investigate Investigator Dies

Socialist Suggests Civil Liberties Committee Chairman Ought to Find Out How Hunt for Un-Americanism Is Financed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Norman Thomas, Socialist party chairman, wrote today to Senator Robert M. La Follette to ask his Senate Committee on Civil Liberties "to ascertain if possible the source of the funds with which the Dies committee is carrying on." The Dies committee, headed by Representative Martin Dies (Dem.), Texas, has been investigating un-American activities.

"The Dies committee, it was commonly understood, was operating for a specific task on the limited budget of $25,000," wrote Thomas. "Assuredly that budget has been spent, but the committee goes on with one of the most extraordinary inquiries ever staged in this country. Its methods are completely unscientific. It headlines sensations. It jumps from the United States to Spain and back again and its intervention in the Spanish question serves only to aid the Fascist cause.

"Its chairman indulges in heated arguments in the public press with high Government officials. His activities and the activities of the committee in Michigan were so staged and so timed as to give every appearance of being political maneuvers against the election of Gov. Murphy of that State. Nothing could be more improper. . . ."

The methods of the committee, wrote Thomas, "utterly discredit the process of public investigation" and its proceedings "invite suspicion that its funds over and above the $25,000 appropriation which must have been exhausted long since, have been given or advanced by private interests with their own axes to grind."

"This," he concluded, "is legitimately a subject for congressional action and it occurred to me that your committee might be in a position to initiate that action or call attention to the need for it. It is at least possible, if not probable, that the same corporations which maintained private armies and private arsenals, may now be privately subsidizing a public investigation of the sort Deis has put on, and this the people of the United States are entitled to know."

Dies Denies Using Funds From Outside Sources.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Chairman Dies said today his committee investigating un-American activities "has not received a dollar from any source except the $25,000 appropriation voted by the House."

Commenting on a request by Norman Thomas that the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee investigate the source of the Dies committee's funds, he said: "If he is so interested in investigating, why doesn't he ask about the La Follette committee's expenditures? Why doesn't he ask whether any money has come to the committee from the CIO or the Garland fund?"

Dies described the Garland fund as one which makes donations to "radical" organizations.

He said that although many persons had offered contributions to carry on the un-American investigation, "I have never accepted a dollar from any source."

Dies said that "the whole country can see the disposition of our $25,000 appropriation when we file a report with Congress in January."

The La Follette committee withheld comment pending receipt of Thomas' letter.

WISCONSIN MONEY ROW UP TO SUPREME COURT

State's Highest Tribunal Halts Payment of Part of $6,620,000.

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 26.—The State Supreme Court late today issued an order holding up all proceedings in the court of Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis on a mandamus action over recent actions of Gov. La Follette's emergency board regarding State finances.

The Supreme Court directed Judge Reis to show cause next Thursday, Dec. 1, why he should not be restrained from directing the release of any part of $6,620,000 of State funds allotted by the emergency board to various State departments and to pay a Civil War debt of $1,221,000 and a $2,703,852 deficit in the teachers' retirement fund.

The Governor had asked for a writ of mandamus directing Secretary of State Theodore Dammann and State Treasurer Solomon Levitan to pay the allotments. Judge Reis upheld the action of the board in allotting funds for other purposes and called for briefs on payments of the war debt and the teachers' fund deficit. Soon afterward the Supreme Court acted on a petition of counsel for Gov.-elect Julius P. Heil, Republican.

The Supreme Court order stays a writ Judge Reis had granted to permit the disbursement of $2,695,269 for general purposes.

The controversy over State finances arose last week when the La Follette-dominated emergency board made the appropriations, but Dammann and Levitan declined to make the payments in the face of a threat of court action by Republican leaders, who charged the State Treasury would be depleted seriously by the transfers.

Unemployment Compensation Act, How It Works and How Jobless Go About Getting Its Benefits

Missouri Chairman Estimates That, in 1939, Commission Will Pay $20,000,000 to 200,000 Persons.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

THE Missouri Unemployment Compensation Commission expects to pay a total of about $20,000,000 to unemployed workers in 1939.

On Jan. 1, when the new Unemployment Compensation law becomes effective, unemployed persons among the approximately 635,000 workers in Missouri who are covered by the law, will be entitled to register to obtain some measure of economic relief. Those who qualify for benefits will begin receiving them about the fourth week in January.

The law, which is to be distinguished from acts for old-age pensions, old-age assistance and other Social Security measures, will provide temporary aid to persons who are unemployed through no fault of their own, the payments to come from a fund created by an annual tax on the payrolls of employers. It covers only persons who have become unemployed since Jan. 1, 1938, who are still unemployed and who are physically able and willing to work.

200,000 Expected on Rolls.

It is the expectation of Andrew J. Murphy, chairman of the Missouri Unemployment Compensation Commission, that about 200,000 persons will draw money from the fund during 1939, that they will be paid a total of about $20,000,000, and that the average payment will be about $10 a week for 10 weeks. By the time payments begin, it is expected, the total fund will be about $38,000,000, and it is the expectation that it will be maintained at approximately that figure.

This article is intended to provide information to workers concerning who are entitled to receive benefits, how they shall go about getting them, and how much they will receive. There will be some "borderline" cases which will not fit exactly to the explanation of the law presented herewith. In those cases special technical rules will apply.

As are most laws requiring actuarial experience in their detailed procedure, the Unemployment Compensation Act is complicated in its provisions, which are intended to cover every possible contingency, each unemployed worker constituting a separate case. While all are governed by the general terms of the act, the specific facts in each case will control the amount of compensation to be paid.

Who Benefits.

The first question of interest to the unemployed worker is whether his particular employment is covered by the law. The answer is that every person employed in Missouri by an employer who regularly has eight or more employes, is covered, except that there are six types of employment which are excluded.

No person is entitled to compensation if engaged in agricultural labor, domestic service in a private home, maritime service, employed by the United States Government or the State, or any subdivision or agency of either; employed by a member of his immediate family, or employed by any religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational corporation or organization, no part of the earnings of which inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

While the law specifically excludes employers of less than eight persons from the requirement to pay the tax, and thus automatically excludes employes of such firms from the benefits, any such employer may elect to come under it. Thus far 791 non-covered employers have elected to come under the law. The commission has approved 560 of these applications.

Qualifications Required.

Second question of interest to the worker is: If I am covered by the law, am I entitled to receive compensation? The answer is decided by the following requirements:

Within the first three calendar quarters of 1938 the worker must have received in total wages an amount equal to not less than 16 times the weekly benefit to which he would be entitled. This applies to those who file their applications within the first three months of 1939. For later applicants this period will increase. The worker may ascertain the amount of weekly benefits through the application of rules set out later in this article.

The worker must have been employed for at least three weeks (or one month if on a salary basis) by the employer against whose account his benefits are to be charged.

When Worker Is Disqualified.

The worker will be disqualified from receiving benefits under these conditions:

1. For any week in which his employment is due to stoppage of work because of a labor dispute, unless

(a) It is found by the commission that he is not participating in or financing, or directly interested in the labor dispute.

(b) It is found by the commission that he does not belong to the class of workers of which there are members participating in the labor dispute.

2. For any week in which he receives wages in lieu of dismissal notice.

3. For any week he receives old-age benefits unless the amount is less than the Unemployment Compensation to which he is entitled. In such case, he will receive the difference.

4. If he left work voluntarily without good cause, then he would receive no compensation for that week and for not more than four additional weeks.

5. If he was discharged for misconduct, then he would receive no compensation for that week and for not more than eight additional weeks.

6. If he fails to apply for work or refuses to accept suitable employment. In deciding the question of suitability, the commission is required to take into consideration the degree of risk to his health, safety and morals, his physical fitness and prior training, his experience and prior earnings, his length of unemployment, and prospects for obtaining local work in his customary occupation, and the distance of the available work from his home. Available work will not be considered suitable employment and he will not be disqualified for refusing to accept a job under these conditions:

(a) If the available position is vacant because of a labor dispute.

(b) If the wages and working conditions are substantially less favorable than those prevailing for similar work in the locality.

(c) If as a condition of employment he would be required to join a company union, or resign from or refrain from joining any bona fide labor organization.

If a worker joins in a strike, he will not be paid compensation, but an unemployed worker will not be deprived of compensation for failure to accept work at a place where a strike is in progress.

Necessary Steps.

The third question: What steps are necessary to obtain compensation? The answer:

The worker must register at a State Employment Service Office, of which there will be five in St. Louis, and many others throughout the State.

He must file a claim for benefits.

He must file his "separation certificate," which will be given him by his employer, and will give the date when he became unemployed and other information. It is probable many of the early applicants will not have these certificates because of failure of employers to issue them as soon as the law be-

Government Moves to Tap Untouched Sources of Revenue

$27,967,000,000 TAX EXEMPT

Proposed Law Frontal Attack on Supreme Court Precedents

Department of Justice Brief, Supporting President's Message and Bill, Challenges Judicially Established Theory of Immunity.

Constitution Silent on Point, but Language of Sixteenth Amendment Is Broad—Long Line of Dissents to John Marshall's Dictum.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

THE sixteenth amendment to the Constitution, proposed in 1909 and ratified in 1913, provides:

"The Congress shall have the power to lay and collect taxes on income, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration."

The Roosevelt administration is drafting legislation with a view to testing whether the Supreme Court will reverse itself and interpret these words as meaning what they seem to say, specifically whether the court will affirm legislation authorizing the Federal and local governments to levy and collect income taxes in the future on two widely separated classes of persons now immune through judicial decisions from paying their proportionate share of the costs of running the Federal and local government.

These two groups are the holders of Federal and local government bonds, and governmental employes, Federal and local. These two classes, while they may pay taxes to the Federal or local government, are not—as are other citizens—liable to both.

$100,000,000 Tax Loss on Present Securities.

Immediate gain to the Treasury by the enactment of such legislation would be comparatively slight because it would apply only to securities hereafter issued and to salaries hereafter paid. A recent study by the Treasury Department estimated that there are $27,967,000,000 of wholly tax exempt securities outstanding in private hands, principally banks, insurance companies and endowed institutions. In addition there are $22,555,000,000 of partly exempt Federal bonds in private hands.

Under the President's recommendation the income from these existing securities would not be taxed, primarily because they contain specific tax exemption privileges. But the income on new securities, either original or refunding, would be subject to the taxes by the Federal and local governments. The Treasury Department estimates that if the present wholly and partly tax exempt securities were subject to full taxation, the Treasury would be richer by about $100,000,000 a year. But it should be emphasized that such collections are many years off. The same officials estimated that Federal taxation of State and local officials would bring in about $15,000,000 a year. This [illegible] would be effective on enactment.

Treasury officials declined to discuss how the states would fare under the proposed legislation. Abolition of tax exemption would force some states and local governments to pay a higher interest rate, which would more than offset the new taxation. Other states, where the ownership of Government securities is concentrated, might benefit, they said.

"Straight Frontal Attack on Supreme Court Precedents."

Although the immediate gains will be comparatively small, President Roosevelt in a message to Congress April 25 urged the enactment of a "short and simple statute" to end exemption of all governmental securities hereafter issued and of all Government salaries.

Senator Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on the Tax Exemption Problem, announced recently that the administration would frame the tax legislation so it would be a "straight frontal attack" on the Supreme Court precedents. He pointed out that this strategy had been followed with the first Guffey Coal Control Act, later held unconstitutional by the court. The second act was drafted with the court's objections in mind.

For the guidance of Congress in this long discussed undertaking, the Department of Justice has prepared for the Treasury Department a comprehensive report, in the nature of a legal brief, setting forth the social and political backgrounds of income tax legislation, the court precedents, and argument for the President's recommendation.

The title of the 230-page summary is "Taxation of Government Bondholders and Employes," and the subtitle is, "The Immunity Rule and the Sixteenth Amendment." The book is obtainable from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, for 45 cents.

Unfortunately for the Congressmen and laymen, the document is distressingly organized and difficult to read. It does, however, contain somewhere between its covers all the essential information for an understanding of intricate problems involved in the court precedents.

Court-Made Prohibitions Not in the Constitution.

At the outset, it may be noted that the Constitution itself contains no prohibition against the Federal Government's taxing the income of bonds of local governments or the salaries of local government employes, or against local government taxing the income from Federal bonds or Federal employes.

These prohibitions were written into the "law of the land" by the Supreme Court. The first precedent was set by Chief Justice Marshall's famous opinion in McCulloch vs. Maryland in 1819, which held that the State of Maryland could not levy a tax on the Bank of the United States, an instrumentality of the Federal Government. This doctrine logically was extended to a prohibition against Federal taxation of local governmental instrumentalities in the courts decision in the case of Collector vs. Day in 1870, which held tax immunity to be reciprocal, and that state officers were protected against Federal taxation to the same degree that Federal officers were protected against state taxation. The hypothesis of the court's decision was that the power to tax is "the power to destroy" and that under the American form of dual sovereignty neither government has the theoretical power to destroy the other.

There were other collateral opinions elaborating the so-called immunity rule, and the most important of these was the 5-to-4 decision in Pollock vs. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., announced in 1895, which held in effect that the burden of an income tax, as applied to income from property, fell upon the source; that such a Federal tax was void for lack of apportionment; and, that for the same reason, such a tax was void as applied to the interest from state and municipal bonds because it was legally equivalent to a tax on such bonds.

This decision invalidated the Federal income law of 1894, the first national peacetime tax of this nature. For a short time during and after the Civil War, there had been such a tax and it had not been successfully challenged. Many historians believe the 1895 decision was partly responsible for the meteoric rise of William Jennings Bryan, and there is no doubt that it led ultimately to the proposal and ratification of the sixteenth amendment. This decision not only held that the income from state and municipal obligations could not be taxed by the Federal Government; it held that the income from real estate and personal property was exempt from Federal taxation.

Mild 1894 Law Voided; What the Justices Said.

The invalidated tax was mild compared with the present law. It merely provided for a 2 per cent tax on incomes of more than $4000. It had been drafted in part by Bryan, then a junior member of the House Ways and Means Committee. When it was under debate, Ward McAllister, a leader of upper-bracket society, threatened that he and other members of his class would take up their residence in Europe. To this, Bryan caustically observed that the country could well be spared persons "whose patriotism was less than 2 per cent deep."

Before the court, Joseph H. Choate, the famous corporation lawyer, arguing against the Government, feared that unless the law was declared unconstitutional, "a rampart around the rights of property" would be finally broken and civilization itself would be imperiled by the Populist, and "the communistic march."

Choate predicted that if the law were affirmed there might come a time when as high an exemption as $20,000 might be made and a rate of 20 per cent imposed.

This view was reflected in the separate opinion of the aging Justice Field who observed:

"The present assault upon capital is the beginning . . . It will be but the stepping stone to others, larger and more sweeping, till our political conditions will become a war between the poor against the rich; a war growing in intensity and bitterness."

Justice Harlan in a dissenting opinion, however, declared that the majority decision struck "at the very foundations of national authority," denied powers vital to the general government and the preservation of the Union, and did "monstrous, wicked injustice to the many for the benefit of the favored few in particular states."

The Pollock case is not explained in the Department of Justice brief until page 105. Any interested reader would do well to turn first to this page to understand what precedes the explanation.

Shock to Country Paved Way to 16th Amendment.

The 5-to-4 decision shocked the country and, has been stated, led to the advocacy and ratification of the sixteenth amendment. The broad principles which it laid down have been severely narrowed by subsequent decisions of the court, notably within the last few years which held in effect that a tax on income was not a tax on the sources, even at times when the source was a Government instrumentality.

Within the last year, the court has overruled previous decisions, based on McCulloch

Single Agency Controls Growing Government Use of Radio That Now Consumes 1000 Free Hours a Year

NEC Director Declares It Got into Action Too Late for This Year's Election but Will Be in Full Swing by 1940.

By RICHARD L. STOKES
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

THE Government's dizzily expanding use of the air, which already consumes an estimated 1000 free hours a year, or about 40 days of 24 hours each, is now being systematized and focused by a single agency, the recently organized Radio Division of the National Emergency Council.

This establishment is headed by the President of the United States; its members are the Vice-President, all Cabinet members and the governors, administrators and directors of 21 strategic bureaus. The function it was created to discharge is that of co-ordinating the administration's activities as a whole.

Lowell Mellett, executive director of the NEC, says the Radio Division is not even remotely ambitious of becoming a "foghorn" of publicity such as Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels operates over Germany. Its design, asserts Mellett, is simply the mechanical one of injecting greater efficiency into the Government's broadcasts. No longer will the Secretaries of Agriculture and Labor "kill each other off" by speaking at the same period over rival networks. No longer will administration spokesmen bunch their deliverances on Saturday; instead, these bookings will be comfortably spaced throughout the week.

Director States Aims.

The purpose of the division, the director says, is neither politics, polemics nor propaganda. Its aim, in his definition, is to provide the people with factual and objective information as to what their Government is doing. It exercises no trace of censorship. In fact, it doesn't need to. The Radio Division has assumed no jurisdiction over private broadcasts. In its special field, that of Government broadcasting, every speaker is an administration job-holder, and therefore inconceivable as a public critic of the New Deal. Mellett asserts that his desk probably receives fewer advance releases of Government radio addresses than any newspaper bureau in Washington. It is pointed out that this system, under a Republican national government, would work with a partisanship identically exclusive.

The actual executive of the Radio Division, whose function it is on occasion to shift Cabinet officers about the atmosphere, is Robert Iredell Berger, 36 years old, who began his career as a reporter in Allentown, Pa. His title is that of special assistant to Director Mellett. Formerly radio director of the Democratic National Committee, he was the first wireless official to cast on the air a patient confined in an "iron lung."

Also he organized a "Million Dollar Hour" of Hollywood talent in support of President Roosevelt's campaign against infantile paralysis. Berger superintends the routine of all broadcasts of the President from Washington.

On the radio director's wall hangs a blackboard, ruled into oblongs representing days and hours for a period of two weeks. Among names written in these spaces the writer saw those of President Roosevelt, Secretaries Ickes and Wallace, Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Chairman William O. Douglas of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Administrator Elmer F. Andrews of the Wage and Hours Division of the Department of Labor, Chief F. A. Silcox of the Forest Service, Assistant Secretary of Commerce R. C. Patterson and A. M. Eberle, a member of the Northern Great Plains Committee. It was noticed that all the appointments on the air neatly avoided overlapping.

Suggested by Outsider.

The establishment of the Radio Division of NEC was not due to the initiative of any Government official, the Post-Dispatch learns, but to the suggestion of a vice-president of one of the national networks. He called one day last spring at Mellett's office, and urged that there be set up a kind of clearing-house of Government broadcasts.

The radio official was troubled by many things, in addition to duplication of time on the air. One was the Government's swiftly growing demands for radio utterance. He calculated that in 1937 the three national networks contributed 500 hours of free time to administration spokesmen, and that this figure was probably doubled by the use made of non-network stations, comprising more than half of the country's 600 radio stations. The Government avails itself of these independent stations through programs of local origin, and increasingly through electrical recordings made in Washington.

Moreover, the network executive was harassed by the quality of some of the material submitted by Government agencies. Many of these already had radio divisions of their own, such as the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce and the Interior, and the Federal Housing, Works Progress and Public Works administrations. In some cases the voice of the spokesman selected was unsatisfactory for radio purposes, and in others material was offered in the form of an oration, which wireless audiences have been found to dislike, instead of the dialogue or dramatic arrangements which they esteem. But the chief difficulty was that the offerings were frequently of limited instead of general interest.

Between Two Impulses.

The networks are in the business of selling programs to radio stations, and found the latter torn between two impulses. One was to reject programs likely to be without appeal to their hearers. The other was one of fear that they might offend the Government, which holds their very existence at its pleasure through the six-month licensing system of the Federal Communications Commission. When applying for a renewal, all stations tend to lay stress on the number of free hours they have accorded to the Government.

Since it is a big business enterprise, radio investors and managers in general are haunted by the thought that the Government, if refused all the time it desires, might retaliate by seizing control of all wireless facilities, as has been done in Germany and Italy, and to a large extent in France. Mellett was advised by his caller that a central radio office might in time iron out most of these difficulties. He was reminded that while a commercial network could not tell a Cabinet Secretary his radio voice was terrible, a Government agency might tactfully persuade him to accept a more agreeable substitute.

Mellett's Letter.

The Radio Division was established July 1, and Berger was shifted from the Democratic National Committee to take charge of it. The division definitely began to function Sept. 30, when the following letter, requesting voluntary co-operation, was sent by Director Mellett to the heads of all Government departments and establishments:

"This office is undertaking to coordinate the use of radio by executive departments and agencies. In the short time this has been attempted, we have found that it is possible to be of considerable service.

"This leads us to suggest now, that whenever you have occasion to use the facilities of the broadcasting companies, you consult with us,

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Prof. Graebner Calls Upon Citizens to Fight St. Louis' Underworld.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"ST. LOUIS Needs a Dewey." St. Louis needs above all an awakening of its decent citizenship.

The attempted murder of the witness to a labor racket bombing is only a dramatic instance of that tie-up between gangsters and the authorities which is making a mockery of justice in St. Louis. I wish every citizen would re-read your editorial "Jungle Law in St. Louis," of Nov. 23. We have now indeed "police, prosecution, juries, courts—everything which should be on the side of law and order—the object of underworld influence and persuasion."

We have read Gov. Stark's burning words about the flouting of law in Missouri. "Quicklime graves, one-way rides, coercion and fear, combinations of shyster lawyers and crooked politicians and the underworld, repeated delays in an effort to thwart the will of the people and the law," the Governor said, "are the successful weapons of organized criminals in Missouri."

Forty years ago it was only a matter of selling 75 years of transportation service to an unholy combine. Then a thousand citizens gathered at the City Hall awaiting the vote of the House of Delegates. Coils of rope were on hand.

Unless the decent public of St. Louis is roused to action as it was when the franchise steal was threatened, as the citizens of Cleveland stood behind Tom Johnson, as the citizens' committee in Cincinnati cleaned out the underworld control of local government, we might as well ask our present administration of laws to abdicate, and install in the various departments of city and county government the hoodlums who are now defying the forces of law and order.

The issue is not the guilt of those who hired gunmen to slay a witness. The issue is much closer to the sources of popular government.

A grand jury has indicted 66 precinct officials on election fraud felony charges. It actually had access to the primary ballot boxes in its investigation of election frauds—previous efforts having been blocked by Supreme Court decisions that the secrecy of the ballot would be impaired. This grand jury found election officials "arrogant in corruption" and asserted that "overwhelming evidence of corruption" was found. "It now becomes the duty of prosecutors, Judges and juries to see that none of those guilty go unpunished," the grand jury added. "Let no Judge so far forget his oath of office that he will lend himself to the dismissing of any defendant on vague and immaterial technicalities." Brave resolutions, but what became of them?

The bar committee on judicial candidates last spring reported a "distressing situation" in the matter of primary elections since "we do not have popular election of Judges despite statutory provisions to the contrary. The voters do not select by their ballot our Judges and prosecuting officers. The selections are made by party committeemen. It is possible, through combinations of 'deliverable' wards, for a small group of committeemen to choose our Judges and prosecutors." Everybody knows that this is the situation, and everybody knows that a supine citizenship responded to this appeal of the bar committee with not so much as lifting a finger.

What has become of the proposed bills sponsored by the Missouri Bar Association for reform of the State criminal code to tighten up the qualifications of bondsmen and strengthen the authority of courts to forfeit bonds? What has become of the constitutional amendment to permit the State to take depositions in criminal cases, a right now enjoyed only by the defendants?

What interest has the public shown in the plugging up of the lawyer-legislator loophole, which permits a gangster-politician caught red-handed at the scene of a gang murder to have continuance after continuance because his attorney is a member of the State Legislature? As the Post-Dispatch said in an editorial last year: The law is another "big loophole in the criminal statutes whereby the work of the courts is hampered."

St. Louis needs a Dewey, but neither a Thomas E. Dewey nor a Smedley Butler of the Marines could rid us of hoodlum control so long as the people fail to back up the forces which are trying to cure our fundamental ailments—those legal provisions which make it possible for racketeers to flout the laws.

As a matter of fact, this government by pistol and pineapple holds tenure of office only by a narrow margin which a well-organized group of decent citizens could easily overcome. It was this method that brought relief to the boodler-ridden citizens of Cleveland and Cincinnati. It rests with the experts in the science of government represented in the faculties in Washington University and St. Louis University, with the leaders of the legal profession, the clergy and the decent business man, to make unnecessary the calling in of a Gen. Butler to clean up the Augean stable of local and State politics. They will have the backing of every decent voter in St. Louis and there will be an end to the coddling of vice and gambling and of reducing the municipal judiciary to the level of kangaroo courts.

DAYS WITHOUT END.

Vienna was but the ghost of her gay yesterday, and the glory of the Hapsburgs that had spanned so many centuries was a crumbling memory when Adolf Hitler swept into his homeland in his panoply of conqueror. Literally he appeared "terrible as an army with banners," and Europe held its breath lest the professedly peaceful conquest turn the enfeebled capital into a shambles.

The military power was overwhelmingly Hitler's to re-enact the ancient spectacles of Carthage and Corinth whose long-extinguished flames seem somehow still to redden antiquity's shuddering skies. Dollfuss had died at his post in an arrogantly inept palace murder, and Schuschnigg, today a prisoner, had dignifiedly endured an afternoon in the Berchtesgaden torture chamber, but the conspiracy had at last been consummated, and Vienna with waving flags and well-coached salutes and chorused "Heils" huzzaed the Republic's death.

The name of Austria perished in a bloodless coup on March 11, 1938, an event, seemingly, to make the day a date of historical reckoning.

A younger nation would next be led to the gallows on Execution Dock, the one bright scion of democracy born in the treacherous travail of Versailles. Here was an act of justice, wrung from the dead, larcenous hand of all the Hapsburgs. The adventure had prospered under the fine guidance of Masaryk's statesmanship and the tutored talents of the worthy heir, Benes, and rejoiced securely in the pledged honor of the great Powers. The little nation, to be feasted on by vultures, would demean itself with a knightly decorum, a moral majesty to shame despoilers and betrayers, but the Pact of Munich, entered into under the pseudo-auspices of plenary council, in the theatrical plumage of diplomatic punctilio, would recite the funeral oration of Czechoslovakia.

The date, Sept. 30, 1938, has taken its place on the calendar, ringed with the quivering emotions of a judgment high-lighted with deliverance, darkening with dissent.

Nov. 7——.

A distracted boy of 17, homeless, destitute, shoots a minor attache of the German Embassy in Paris, and the malevolence and avarice of Nazi-ism indicts, pronounces guilty and passes a sentence of social and economic death upon a people. At last the conscience of the world has revolted. A fissure has appeared in that passive remonstrance, "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought," in Shakespeare's damning phrase. Let us not underestimate the action of the Government at Washington in commanding the presence at home of the American Ambassador to Germany, or the similar decision of Colombia in recalling her Minister-designate from Berlin. Remote as both incidents are from diplomacy's explosive word, ultimatum, they may be entered in the record as straws in a wind which roars already with the velocity of the whirlwind.

"Year that trembled and reeled" beneath Herr Hitler may have come, in November, to days without end.

THE NATIONAL BAD NEWS.

It has just hit $38,584,000,000, an all-time altitude record. Boy, fetch the oxygen.

AN APPROPRIATE SETTING.

Apparently, any apprehension that the Milles fountain for Aloe Plaza will have a faulty setting has been dispelled. Mr. Milles himself, accepting the city's practical point of locating the fountain a bit off center to avoid interference with a sewer line, has developed a plan unanimously adopted by the Municipal Art Commission.

In the Milles plan, a background of elms would be provided along the Chestnut street side, with other elms on the Eighteenth and Twentieth street sides. There will be no trees on Market, thus giving a free view from that side. Mr. Milles wants the fountain setting to be a living, not a dead thing, preserving a fine simplicity. And so does St. Louis.

"AND GLADLY TEACH."

There are teachers and teachers; always have been; always will be. Some of them are sad birds, some of them gay spirits. The former belong to that "forlorn orchestra to whose pipings no one dances." The latter are the chosen of earth and heaven.

Let's listen to Roger Hill, headmaster of a boys' school at Woodstock, Ill., who had a lot to say about the job of teaching Shakespeare, and said it with gusto. He thinks Shakespeare ought to be good fun, for both the pupil and the teacher, and that is what it is in his classroom. It happens, he explains, that they have a puppet theater in his school, and he finds, "for some strange reason," a zest in the youngsters, when acting Shakespeare, which is wholly missing in labored, orthodox recitation.

Is the reason so very strange? After all, the theater was Shakespeare's whole existence. Waiving the sonnets, he wrote, lived, dreamed, talked in terms of the theater. And if it is true, as someone has said, that every boy is a poet, is it not equally true that every boy and every girl is at some time in the morning's splendor an actor? And, by all the syllogistic gods, does it not follow that the right way, the fascinating way, the one truly effective way to arouse and hold the interest of youngsters in Shakespeare is the theater? Did not the bard himself assure us that "all the world's a stage"?

If he would, Headmaster Hill might have quoted an earlier and a weighty authority for his blithe theory of teaching. Merry old Chaucer's mandate rings clear to ears that truly hear: "And gladly teach."

NEWS REEL.

East coast suffers from blizzard, and west coast suffers from forest fires; national debt reaches record high, and total of idle funds in Federal Reserve member banks reaches record high; "renunciation of war" treaty between France and Germany is announced, and war preparations by France and Germany are continued; girl weighing 23 ounces is born in Chicago, and boy weighing 17 pounds is born at Bassfield, Miss.; court at Bridgeport, Conn., grants ex-wife of millionaire $173,000 alimony, and Chicago court grants woman's request to cut ex-husband's alimony payments from $10 to $5 a week, since she now has a job; New Mexico man surrenders at State prison 20 years after escape, and man who escaped from Missouri State prison is recaptured at Maplewood after four days of liberty; unemployed in United States total more than 10,000,000 by official estimate, and 100 jobs at $4500 a year as teachers in New York vocational schools remain unfilled; officers of British Legion post in Paris rule it "impossible" to invite Duke and Duchess of Windsor to dinner, and invitation of American Legion post in Paris to Thanksgiving dinner is accepted by Duke and Duchess of Windsor.

IDLE CREDIT AND IDLE MEN.

The Federal Reserve Board reports lendable excess bank reserves of member banks at $3,350,000,000—the highest level in history, and sufficient to serve as a base for an estimated 25 billion dollars' worth of new credit. Yet non-Government financing in the past week totaled only a trifling $24,500,000.

Two questions are raised. First, what has caused these huge reserves to accumulate, and, second, why does not the traditional American business initiative take advantage of the situation to launch new enterprises and thus absorb the excess credit?

One important reason for the accumulation of this excess credit is the Government's standing offer to purchase gold from whoever has it to sell at the fixed price of $35 an ounce. The stream of gold thus attracted to this country has been particularly heavy since last August, when war clouds began to thicken over Europe, and reached a volume of one billion dollars during the Czechoslovak crisis alone. Practically all this inflow of wealth from abroad goes to raise the excess bank reserves.

But even so, there have been previous periods in our history when foreign capital poured into the country and was absorbed by the investment market as fast as it arrived. Why is it not so now? Why do investors scramble for Treasury notes which yield 2 per cent interest or less, but seldom are moved to launch a new business or industrial enterprise in the hope of winning a higher return?

There is no reason to believe that American business men are possessed of less initiative or are less venturesome than their predecessors in previous eras. The explanation for this relative inactivity must lie in the fact they feel there is less now for them to be venturesome for. They must feel that the chances for profit are too slim, the risk of failure too high; so they let the credit lie unused.

And because new businesses are not opened, because new plants are not built, men remain idle. There is a direct causal relation between the nation's 25 billion dollars of unemployed potential credit and its 10,000,000 unemployed men and women.

How to bring these two factors together and to make each reciprocally useful to the other is President Roosevelt's No. 1 problem. Obviously it cannot be accomplished by intimidating capital. It cannot be done by policies which undermine the spirit of mutual responsibility between capital and labor.

THE INDOMITABLE OF THE VATICAN.

Pope Pius XI was stricken Friday with a severe heart attack, and his condition became so serious that oxygen was administered. Concerning any man of 81, this would be news of gravest import. Yet the Pope again has demonstrated his amazing vitality, for yesterday he rose from his bed, held an audience with the Papal Secretary of State and suspended other business only on the firm objection of his physician.

It is doubtless the Pope's long devotion to the strenuous sport of mountain climbing that gave him a physique capable of withstanding both illness and the strain of his exacting daily activities. Only through some such reserve of strength could the pontiff have recovered from so prolonged and painful an illness as that which afflicted him two years ago. The world hopes that the Pope's unusual physical powers will long preserve the serene heart and scholarly mind that have made him a statesman in the Vatican.

LANGUAGE BUTCHERY ON THE RADIO.

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co., before the National Council of Teachers of English, urged teachers to utilize radio as a means of bringing correct diction and unstilted English before their students. Of radio's potential value in this field there can be no doubt, but many announcers still have much to learn before they become acceptable models for English classes.

Numerous smaller stations have on their staffs announcers whose struggles with the language are actually painful to hear. In news announcements particularly, their mispronunciation of words and names, their mangling of grammar and their incorrect inflection of sentences approach the moronic. One local voice of the ether, in fact, was heard last week to approach a foreign place name in rather common usage, pause for a moment and then hurdle the word without attempting to pronounce it. Surely a few lessons in elementary English, a little advance preparation with dictionary and gazetteer, would eliminate the rhetorical butchery now common on some stations.

In radio's efforts to develop higher standards, correct use of the English language should be a rigorously held objective.

A LETTER TO READ AND PONDER.

It is our privilege today to print in the letter column a stirring communication from Theodore Graebner of Concordia Seminary concerning the alliance in St. Louis between politics and the underworld.

Prof. Graebner casts a flaming challenge to the citizenry, and, if it is not accepted, St. Louis may expect the underworld to continue its bombings and assassinations; it may expect its inert officialdom, as in the past, to do no more than go through the motions of law enforcement; it may expect a continuance of the jungle law that now prevails here.

Oh, for a civic awakening that would produce a real prosecutor and a real grand jury! A grand jury that knows its rights and responsibilities and would bring to book the scurvy rats that now have entree into high official circles.

THE HARVEST.

Shield of Liberty—The Bill of Rights

Guaranties of civil and religious freedom added to Constitution in first 10 amendments are final safeguard of individual, says writer; regards them as basis of our national achievements and the mainspring of our trait of individual self-reliance; resurgence of tyranny in other lands should warn us to be vigilant in defending this charter.

James Truslow Adams, Essayist and Historian, in the New York Times Magazine.

IN a time when personal liberties are being trampled under foot and when personal vengeance is not only condoned but encouraged by totalitarian leaders, the great democracies must look again and with new concern to the Bills of Rights. In such documents lives the sum of man's victories over the forces of barbarism and oppression, and in their preservation lies the hope of man as a free individual.

What is the Bill of Rights? In America it is the body of principles laid down in the first 10 amendments to the Constitution. Those principles embody what were then considered, and still are, the fundamental rights of free men.

The first article specifically sets forth the four fundamental freedoms: "Congress," it reads, "shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or of the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

Thence the document goes on to list and to specify personal rights. "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed. . . . No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner, nor in war time but in a manner to be prescribed by law. . . . The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated."

The right of free men to trial and justice is specified: "No person shall be held to answer for a capital or other infamous crime unless on a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. . . . Nor be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of the law; nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation."

How vital do these articles appear when read again against the background of today's events in Europe! Not one or two, but all of those guarantees set down by our forefathers have been abridged in the totalitarian countries; not only abridged, but held up to scorn as the weakness of the democracies.

These were all rights for which our ancestors had fought against Great Britain. The denial of many of them is listed in the long indictment of George III which forms part of the Declaration of Independence.

The people had fought through an eight years' war to safeguard their liberties, and they were taking no chances in trusting even their own elective government. Their judgment has been proved all too good; there have been many occasions when the personal freedom we cherish might have been destroyed without such a bill of guarantees and the Supreme Court to preserve them to us.

Before citing illustrative instances we may note that although it is often erroneously said that the Constitution was enacted for the benefit of the conservative and propertied classes, the 10 amendments constituting the Bill of Rights, which is the very heart and soul of the whole instrument, came straight from the insistent demand of the so-called "common," and to a large extent the radical, people—the farmers, town artisans and others as well as leaders of democracy like Jefferson and Madison.

Personal liberty in the past has been threatened by both the executive and legislative branches. In general the threats from the former have come in time of war, notably under Lincoln in the Civil War and under Wilson in the World War and following it. In both cases Congress to a large extent concurred. In 1919-20 freedom of speech and press, as well as other personal liberties, almost disappeared for the time being, the courts alone upholding them.

As early, however, as 1798, in the case of the Alien and Sedition Acts, particularly the latter, which allowed the Federalist party in power conveniently to jail or heavily fine annoying editors of the Republican party, the Bill of Rights had its first test and showed its worth. Congress has tried since to authorize illegal seizure of private papers (1886), the trial of a man the second time on the same charge (1870), the imprisonment of people at hard labor without any indictment by a grand jury (1890), the trial of a criminal without his being confronted by the witnesses against him (1899), and so on. Each time it has been blocked by the Supreme Court upholding, in the years named, the Bill of Rights.

We are so used to the exercise of these rights, and to being protected in them, that many of those who benefit from them overlook what such guarantees mean. Not only do they save us from oppression by the Government, they also save minorities from being oppressed by laws drawn and passed by majorities. The Bill of Rights protects not merely property but the freedom of all to criticise Government, to express themselves and to start what movements for change they may wish. All new movements start with minorities, and if these amendments did not exist, or if Congress or the executive could override the fundamental law or the courts, no citizen would suffer more than those "liberals" and radicals who so often denounce the Constitution.

Without the guarantees of the Bill of Rights, protected by the courts, our own native citizens and the millions who have come to us from lands less free would not have had the incentive to build themselves up or that sense of safety and of liberty which has made the American different from the man or woman of all other nationalities, and which has acted so powerfully to develop the essential traits of our American character and civilization. America has been built not by free land, but by free men.

We are at present confronted by the storms of a new political philosophy, sweeping over nation after nation which we have hitherto considered as highly cultured and civilized, but in which personal rights and liberties now have largely ceased to exist.

Think what has happened in Austria, in Czechoslovakia, and what now is happening in Germany. Point by point, one can go through our own Bill of Rights and see how each specific guarantee, once regarded as the right of man even there, has been swept away.

If there were ever a time in history when we should read again our guarantees and think of what they mean, surely it is now.

Freedom stands only so long as free men make it stand against the winds of intolerance and abuse. Our Bill of Rights shall stand, likewise, only so long as we realize and value the unique and fundamental freedoms of which it is the bulwark. Only so long as we are vigilant.

Take Your Choice

From the Chicago Daily News.

CARL RUSSELL, much better known in this country as Bertrand Russell, the distinguished English philosophical writer, recently has spoken, in Chicago, notable words respecting the present state of world opinion as affected by certain sinister trends in government. Most strikingly he has defined in the current Atlantic the two kinds of national rule that, in Europe at least, have been approaching a death grapple.

"The essential difference," he says, "between the liberal outlook and that of the totalitarian state is that the former regards the welfare of the state as residing ultimately in the welfare of the individual, while the latter regards the state as the end and individuals merely as indispensable ingredients whose welfare must be subordinated to a mystical totality which is a cloak for the interest of the rulers."

Think that over. If there is a flaw in the definition, find it and expose it. If it stands up under scrutiny, accept it as truth and be guided by it.

HONORING A MODEST MAN.

From the Birmingham Age-Herald.

A NEW 16-room Negro school in Montgomery will bear the name of the foremost Negro scientist of this age and a great American, the modest Dr. George Washington Carver of Tuskegee.

The children attending this new school can take especial pride in it for the name it bears. They can take pride in the school because it will be something of a monument to a humble spirit that has risen to a place of greatness and respect from very slavery itself. And they can take pride in it because Dr. Carver is an Alabaman who achieved his unusual place without leaving Alabama.

The Negro scientist does not need a material monument. His works and personal history surpass any monument that could be created by his own people or his white friends.

But one could not think of a better way in which to give honor to such a name than to name a school for George Washington Carver, a school in which Negro youth can get free the thing that Carver achieved through the most difficult effort—an education.

ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN.

From the Boston Evening Transcript.

THE football season has a little while to run yet, but there can be no harm in getting somewhat ahead of the others in our own selections of the All-American eleven. Without the slightest equivocation, and brooking no interference, we offer the following as our first choice:

Chickerneo, Pittsburgh; Vrhovac, Duquesne; Brovarney, Detroit; Giannantonio, Penn State; Eschenfelder, Syracuse; Skoropowski, Boston U.; Heikkinen, Michigan; Ierardi, Tufts; Matuszczak, Cornell; Dochtermann, Lafayette; Slivinski, U. of Washington.

Our second choice, though our heart is set on the first, is submitted herewith:

Caracciolo, Yale; Evashevski, Michigan; Intrator, Buffalo; Prochaska, Indiana; Mackiewicz, Purdue; Stellatella, Lafayette; Sikich, Illinois; Zadworney, Ohio State; Stulgaitis, Columbia; Zajchowsky, Massachusetts State; Slaboda, C. C. N. Y.

We won't trouble assigning positions, since they are obviously of secondary importance.

SOCIAL SECURITY TO BE BIG FACTOR IN NEXT CONGRESS

Administration Proposes to Expand Act to Add 16,000,000 to 41,000,000 Already on Rolls.

HOUSE HEARINGS NEXT JANUARY

Many Pension Plans — G. O. P. Members Expected to Seek Change in Financing Methods.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Millions of the nation's old people are out after pensions and their clamorous insistence that the Federal Government meet their demands already is heard here. The coming session of Congress seems destined to bring together two opposing forces in the field of security—those seeking pensions and, those advocating the expansion of the established old-age insurance system.

The administration has been at work for several months on its program for expanding the Social Security Act to cover millions of persons now excluded from its benefits.

Acceptance of this program by Congress would serve to head off such old-age pension movements as that of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the country doctor who brought the $200-a-month idea into the world, and the General Welfare Federation, which asserts that 125 new and re-elected members of Congress are pledged to support its bill and that others are sympathetic.

Pensions vs. Old-Age Insurance.

President Roosevelt's advisers draw a careful distinction between old-age pensions and what they call old-age insurance. The latter, they explain, is provided in the Social Security Act. Under it an employe and his employer actually pay taxes in advance for the insurance the employe will collect in monthly payments after he becomes 65 years old.

Old-age pensions are based on the double-barreled theory that all persons more than 60 or 65 years old should be assured of income and that the payment of such incomes would bring about economic prosperity. They would be financed by a gross income or transaction tax on the general public or by a scrip system.

Administration economists summed up their opinions on pensions in a litttle treatise made available to members of the Social Security Board in the months before the elections. The board members were told:

"The epidemic of crackpot pension schemes sweeping the country must be taken seriously only because their surface plausibility has succeeded in deluding so many millions of the aged, their friends and relatives."

Social Security Systems.

President Roosevelt pioneered congressional acceptance of the theory that the Federal Government has responsibility for the welfare of aged citizens when he sponsored the passage of the Social Security bill in 1935. The law has many other facets—compensation for the unemployed; temporary assistance to the needy aged and blind and to dependent children; extension of services for maternal and child health, crippled children, child welfare, public health and vocational rehabilitation.

But more people and more money are involved in its old-age insurance provisions than in all the rest of them put together. So while Arthur J. Altmeyer, Security Board chairman, and others high in the administration sang the praises of a "well-rounded program," practical politicians (inside the administration as ell as outside) quickly realized the value of old-age phase of social security in getting votes.

The heart of the argument over all the old-age pensions proposals is: "Will they work?" Curiously enough, somewhat the same tack is taken by Republicans in criticising the established Social Security system and especially the old-age insurance sections. They ask: "Is it working?"

Cut Figure in Elections.

The political potentialities of old-age payments became widely evident during the elections. In the primaries especially, parts of the country seemed to be divided into two camps: for pensions, and against.

President Roosevelt spoke scathingly of the $30-every-Thursday plan, which California voters subsequently defeated. Word began to circulate of administration aims. Its plans still are not complete but President Roosevelt, speaking on the third anniversary of the act, said the program should be expanded to cover more millions.

The Social Security Advisory Council, composed of employers, workers and plain citizens, will meet early next month to draft final recommendations.

Then, Roosevelt is expected to suggest that Congress extend old-age insurance to farm laborers, domestic workers and employes of charitable and religious institutions —a total of about 16,000,000 to be added to the more than 41,000,000 old-age insurance accounts already opened by the board.

Expansion Suggested.

Two other types of expansion have been suggested to the council:

First, protection for wives, widows and dependents of persons covered by old-age pensions.

Second, disability insurance for workers permanently stopped from earning a living by illness or accident, and also for their dependents. Additional taxes would be necessary, experts say, to finance such expansion.

Some thought has been given to other less extensive changes. Persons who become 65 before Jan. 1, 1942, now are paid in lump sums an amount about equal to what they have paid in taxes, plus interest. Some experts would like to work out special monthly payment provisions for them, such as all the insured will receive on reaching 65 after 1941.

Likewise there has been discussion of altering the maximum and minimum payments. These are fixed now at $85 and $10 a month.

House Hearings in January.

Most of the other pension movements stem from the Townsend plan. Among these is the campaign of the General Welfare Federation. It calls for a 2 per cent gross income tax, the revenues to be divided equally among all persons more than 60 years old.

Hearings seem assured on all pension and social security measures. Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee said recently hearings would begin soon after Congress meets in January.

Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, has attacked reserve fund provisions of the present law and advocated instead a pay-as-you-go plan whereby old-age insurance would be financed out of current revenues.

Present indications are that the Republicans in Congress will make an effort to change the financing system.

MEETING TO PROTEST AGAINST RACIAL INTOLERANCE ABROAD

Protestants, Catholics and Jews to Hear Speeches Sponsored by University City Group.

A meeting to protest against mistreatment of Jews and minority groups in European countries will be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in University City Senior High School, under sponsorship of Protestants, Catholics and Jews, who formed a group called the Citizens' Committee of University City.

Principal speakers will be Dr. R. Emmet Kane, Catholic layman, who will discuss "Totalitarian States," and the Rev. Clark Walker Cummings, secretary of the Metropolitan Church Federation, whose subject will be, "It Can Happen Here."

The Rev. W. W. S. Hohenschild of the Church of the Holy Communion will preside. Others taking part in the meeting will be the Rev. R. Calvin Dobson of First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. D. V. Ryan of Christ the King Church, and Mayor Matt Fogarty of University City.

JEWISH YOUNG PEOPLE URGED TO FIGHT FOR DEMOCRACY

Junior Hadassah Officer Tells Convention Unity on Platform of Peace Is First Need.

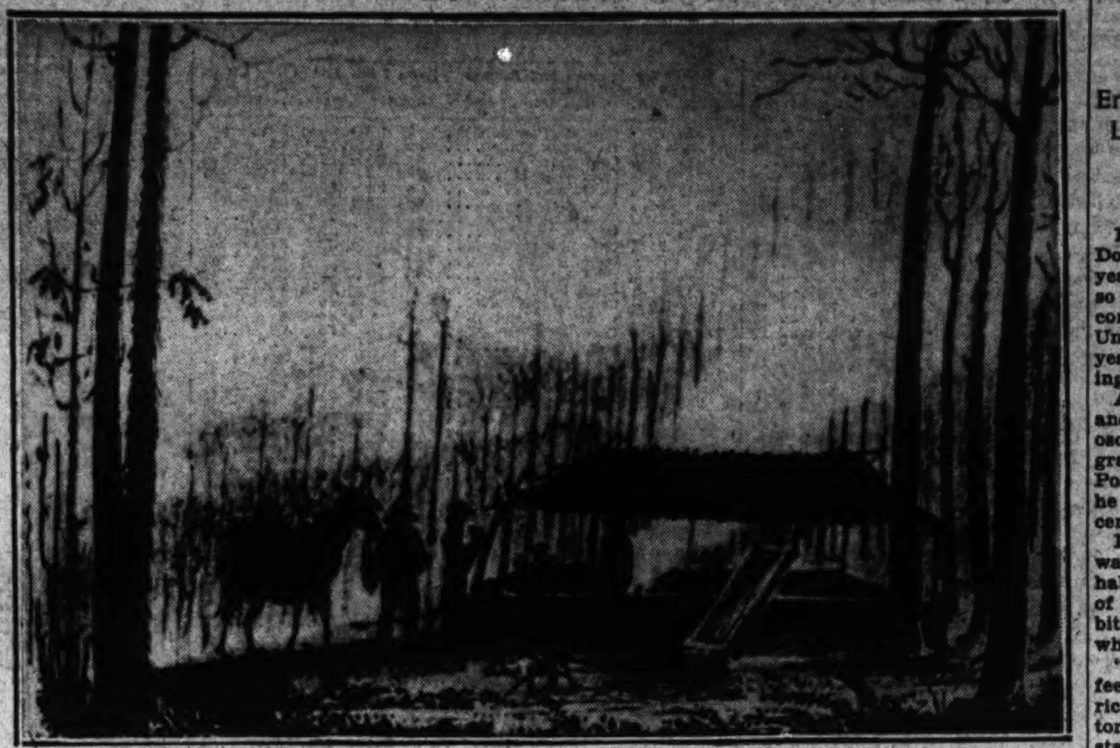
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 26.—Jewish young people were urged to "fight for democracy" and promote Zionism by speakers today at the annual convention of Junir Hadassah, young women's Zionist organization.

Miss Ernestine Kirschner of New York, national treasurer, asserted the first essential in the "fight for democracy" was unity of all youth on a platform of peace and democracy.

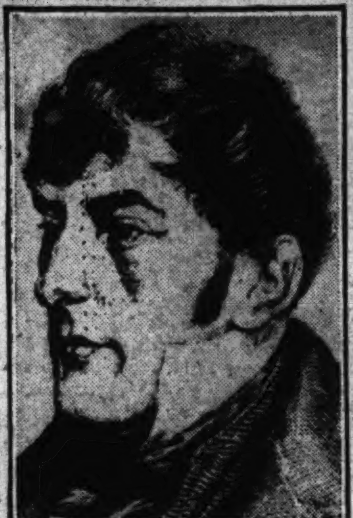
Youth, she said, must lead the movements to boycott Fascist nations and to demand economic sanctions against aggressor countries. She warned against regarding the Jewish problem as an isolated one, declaring that it is bound up with the whole problem of human freedom.

The four-day convention will close tomorrow with a mass meeting at which Mrs. Moses P. Epstein of New York, national president of Senior Hadassah, and Pierre Van Paassen will speak.

Life on the Mississippi in 1826



DRAWING of a sugar camp on the Mississippi River by Charles Alexander Lesueur, French illustrator, who visited St. Louis in 1826. A portrait of Lesueur is below.



U. S. Use of Radio Co-ordinated in Single Agency

The networks and stations are usually pleased to meet your requirements, but a prior commitment sometimes makes your request for time a real problem to the broadcasting companies. If all requests for time were made through this office, much of such difficulty could be avoided.

"I hope we may have your cooperation, to the end that everybody may be able to obtain the best possible service."

The response, according to Mellett, has been enthusiastic and well-nigh unanimous. Instead of a colossal "propaganda budget" which the Radio Division has in some quarters been accused of handling, Berger declares the only extra money it has been able to obtain was for telephone and stationery. Its office space and furniture, its lighting and personnel, were already in the service of the National Emergency Council.

Old Practice Built Up.

The Radio Division, for the present, undertakes only two functions. One is management of schedules for Government broadcasting, to avoid waste and confusion. The other is an elaboration of a practice which sprang up four years ago in the NEC.

In 1934 certain state directors of this body hit on the idea of using local stations to spread information regarding work being done in their regions by various Government agencies, such as the Civilian Conservation Corps, the National Youth Administration, the Bureau of Public Roads, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. These radio presentments gradually fell into the style of a dialogue between the state NEC director, who asked questions, and the local director of the agency in question, who gave answers.

It grew to be the custom for an establishment like the CCC to submit the material it wished to communicate to the Washington office of the NEC, where it was arranged in dialogue form and sent, in a skeletonized version, to the state directors. The latter filled in such statistics as were requisite to local problems.

Mellett and Berger determined to nationalize this system. Last July it operated in 15 states. Today stations in 35 states have regular NEC schedules, two have special ones, and five more are expected to adopt the practice soon. On Oct. 21, all state directors of the NEC were instructed to apply to local stations for as much time as they could get, ranging from one to six 15-minute periods a week.

Valuable in Campaigning.

Politicians, not excluding New Deal leaders, are attaching more and more importance to the radio as a campaigning tool. The President's partisans were disturbed to find that among the important radio news commentators, only one could be classified as pro-New Deal. This discovery is thought to have been a factor in the present tightening up of Government broadcasting. Director Mellett holds that his Radio Division got into action too late to exert influence in the 1938 elections; but it will be in full swing for the 1940 national campaign.

In this connection, there is being recalled a pronouncement made by the Federal Communications Commission on Oct. 18 in the case of Station WNAX, at Yankton, S. D., which applied for a renewal of its license. The commission found this station had been leased by one Charles H. Gurney for broadcasting purposes which were described in the report as follows:

"Reduced to its very essence, the program appears to have been an active solicitation of funds primarily for the purpose of employing various advertising and other media to influence legislation pending before the United States Congress, which, if passed, would result in the establishment of claims against the United States."

"It is our opinion," the commission declared, "that the allowance by a licensee of broadcasts of the type above referred to, under the facts involved herein, and for the purpose indicated, is not consistent with the standard of public interest which broadcast stations are expected to meet."

Radio Station Owners Alarmed.

The commission renewed the license of WNAX on the ground that, outside the Gurney feature, no question had been raised as to the station's program service. But the dictum of the FCC in this case has created considerable alarm among the owners of broadcast stations throughout the country who had presumed they were free, under democratic institutions, to permit speakers to comment for or against legislation pending in Congress. They fear a precedent has been established under which, some day, relicensing will be refused by the FCC to a station for the essentially political reason that it had suffered speakers to criticise pending congressional legislation, in a manner "not consistent with the standard of public interest."

Despite disclaimers made in behalf of the Radio Division of the National Emergency Council, and despite the reluctance of the Federal Communications Commission until now to introduce any vestige of censorship, station owners have not failed to note that nearly all European nations, including even Great Britain, have found it expedient to establish complete or partial control over opinions expressed in broadcasts.

RIVERFRONT SKETCH OF 1826 DISCUSSED

C. E. Peterson Also Talks of Other Drawings in Lesueur Group.

A sketch of the St. Louis riverfront in 1826, drawn by Charles Alexander Lesueur, French scientific illustrator, was among a group of drawings discussed by Charles E. Peterson, senior landscape architect of the proposed Jefferson-National Expansion Memorial on the riverfront, before the Missouri Historical Society Friday night.

Peterson took 28 photographs of Lesueur sketches in the Museum of Natural History at Le Havre, France, while there on a vacation in September. He had traced them from New Orleans to the museum, of which Lesueur became director after returning from America.

Dr. Thomas N. Pitkin, research technician for the riverfront memorial, said the opening of Eads Bridge in 1874 symbolized the transition from river to rail traffic and brought about a decided lessening of activity on the riverfront. Mark Twain, on a visit to St. Louis in 1882, wrote: "St. Louis is a great and prosperous and advancing city, but the river edge of it seems dead past resurrection," Dr. Pitkin recalled.

The riverfront sketch of 1826, exhibited by Peterson, shows in the foreground an overhanging bank, cut into by the river's current. Farther away is a bare-looking frame building at the water's edge, with a flatboat and sailboat moored nearby. The wooded east bank appears in the distance.

Another picture from the Lesueur group, more deeply shaded, depicts the interior of a river flatboat. A stone fireplace is shown, with huge kettle steaming; a man appears to be preparing a meal and the legs of another are just disappearing through a hatch. Barrels, presumably part of the cargo, are lashed to the floor.

A primitive sugar camp in a clearing of oak and hickory trees is shown in a third sketch.

The drawings are among the earliest known to have been made in this area.

RABBI FROM GERMANY AT TEMPLE ISRAEL

Ernst Appel, in Dortmund, Till Last Year Speaks on "Three Ways to Religion."

Rabbi Ernst Appel, who lived in Dortmund, Germany, until last year when he left with his family, so that his two daughters might continue their schooling in the United States, occupied the pulpit yesterday at Temple Israel, speaking on "Three Ways to Religion."

A rabbi in Germany for 20 years and the holder of a Doctor of Philosophy degree, he was the son and grandson of rabbis, he related to a Post-Dispatch reporter. His family, he said, had lived in Germany for centuries.

In his sermon, he said the three ways to religion are "the way of habit, which is the easiest; the way of experience, which is the most bitter, and the way of knowledge, which is the most beautiful.

"It is in God's plan to let men feel by misfortune that fortune and riches are inconstant and transitory and that only one thing has stability and duration, that is the spiritual religious world," he declared. "What would have taken place with Israel if they had given up their confidence and faith in God? They would have been destroyed completely. We know it from the time after the destrtuction of the first and second temples, we know it from the days in the Middle Ages and see it begin again in our modern times.

"The easiest way, the most bitter way and the most beautiful way to religion shall be one road in our life, one strong cord connecting us with God. Without God, without religion, life is a desert and not worth living."

Rabbi Appel, 48 years old, learned English in a WPA school in New York. He expects to spend the winter at Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati, while his daughters stay with relatives here and attend school.

5-POINT PROGRAM BEFORE PEACE ACTION COMMITTEE

The Rev. T. B. Douglass of Pilgrim Congregational Church to Speak at Meeting Tuesday.

A five-point peace program will be discussed at a meeting of the St. Louis Peace Action Committee Tuesday evening at Cabanne Branch Library, Union boulevard and Cabanne avenue. Signers to a petition embodying the five points will be asked to contribute at least a penny each and copies of the petition will then be presented to Missouri Congressmen.

The peace program is: 1. A popular vote on foreign war. 2. Stopping all war trade with warring nations. 3. Taxing the profit out of war, without wartime dictatorship or conscription of labor. 4. Limiting our armed forces to the defense of the United States and its territories. 5. Peaceful international co-operation to help remove economic causes of war.

Each point received majorities in nation-wide polls, in the Armistice day balloting here or in the Peace Action Committee's canvass of Missouri voters in the last two years, Dale R. Johnson, chairman, said. The Rev. Dr. Truman B. Douglass of Pilgrim Congregational Church will speak.

CORNERSTONE TO BE LAID FOR FISCHEL HOSPITAL DEC. 9

Head of Cancer Prevention Group and Gov. Stark to Be Principal Speakers.

The cornerstone of the Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital at Columbia, Mo., will be laid in a ceremony Friday, Dec. 9, at 1:30 p. m. Frank T. Hodgdon of Hannibal, chairman of the State Cancer Commission, will preside.

Principal speakers will be Gov. Stark and Dr. C. C. Little, director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer and member of the National Advisory Cancer Council. Dr. Fischel, for whom the hospital is named, was the first chairman of the Cancer Commission. He was killed in an automobile accident May 14 when en route to Jefferson City on business of the cancer group. He had been instrumental in securing passage of the bill for construction of the hospital.

The commission will meet in its office at 3713 Washington boulevard tomorrow to complete plans for the cornerstone ceremony. Besides Mr. Hodgdon, members are Dr. Fred J. Taussig of St. Louis, vice-chairman; Dr. Paul F. Cole of Springfield, and William Clark of St. Joseph. The Legislature appropriated $500,000 to build the hospital and $100,000 a year for operating expenses.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MACAULAY

Services in Rome for Late American Papal Countess.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 26.—Funeral services for Mrs. William J. B. Macaulay, wife of the Irish Minister to the Holy See, were held today at the Church of Jesus before a large congregation, including many church dignitaries and diplomats. Mrs. Macaulay, the former Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady of New York, whom Pope Pius made a Papal Duchess because of her welfare work and church philanthropies, died Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A solemn pontifical requiem mass for Mrs. William J. Babington Macaulay, who died in Rome Thursday, was held today in the Church of St. Ignatius Loyola. The celebrant was the Most Rev. John Gregory Murray, Archbishop of St. Paul.

$27,967,000,000 Tax Exempt; Government Seeks New Levies

vs. Maryland, Collector vs. Day and the Pollock case.

For this reason President Roosevelt was able to say in his special message to Congress that "expressions in recent judicial opinions lead us to hope that the assumptions underlying these doctrines (of tax immunity) are being questioned by the court itself, and that these tax immunities are not inexorable requirements under the Constitution itself but are the result of judicial decision." He added that it was "not unreasonable" to hope that the court would correct these past actions.

If the court interprets the sixteenth amendment to mean what it seems to say, that Congress can levy and collect taxes "from whatever source derived," all the precedents set up by the court as to Federal taxation in this category would be swept aside. The Department of Justice brief declares that this naked proposition has never been argued before the court.

"The Government," says the Department of Justice brief, "has never presented to the Supreme Court, and there is no evidence that the court has ever considered, the full and complete history of the sixteenth amendment. In many of the cases referred to the validity of the immunity rule has either been assumed or conceded. It cannot be said that the court has considered and rejected the considerations outlined in this study. While it is unquestionably true that there is considerable language in the foregoing cases which is contrary to the conclusion now reached, however, the court has frequently shown its willingness to re-examine great constitutional questions."

To support the last observation, the brief cites the court reversals this year and last in the Mountain Producers' Corporation case, the Erie Railroad vs. Tompkins, and the West Coast Hotel Co. vs. Parrish. The first related to Federal taxation of a state oil lease, the second to a revocation of a 100-year precedent as to national "general" law, and the third to the final validation of State minimum wage laws for women. All were important cases, and all overruled weighty precedents.

Some Notable Dissents.

Since the ratification of the sixteenth amendment, there have been several notable dissents by the late Justice Holmes and Justices Brandeis and Stone, to majority opinions narrowing the scope of the amendment by relying on precedents.

One of the most notable was written by Justice Holmes with the concurrence of Justice Brandeis, which went even farther than the arguments of the present report. The two justices held that the phrase "from whatever source derived" was so comprehensive as to include the existing compensation of Federal judges, although the Constitution itself says that such compensation shall not be diminished during a judge's continuance in office.

In this case, a Federal District Judge appointed in 1899, sought to recover sums which he had paid as income tax on his salary as judge in obedience to the 1918 revenue act. He argued that the Constitution prohibited any diminution of his salary under Article III.

Justices Holmes and Brandeis dissented on two grounds: First the tax did not result in a diminution of the Judge's compensation, and second, even if it did, it was made lawful by the sixteenth amendment. On the second point, the venerable Justice Holmes said:

"By that (the sixteenth) amendment, Congress is given power to 'collect taxes from whatever source derived.' It is true that it goes on 'without apportionment among the several states, and without regard to any census or enumeration,' and this shows the particular difficulty that led to it. But the only cause of that difficulty was an attempt to trace income to its source, and it seems to me that the amendment was intended to put an end to the cause and not merely to obviate a single result. I do not see how judges can claim an abatement of their income tax on the ground that an item in their gross income is salary, when the power is given expressly to tax incomes from whatever source derived."

As Hughes Once Saw It.

In the majority opinion, Justice Van Devanter discussed at length the history and meaning of the sixteenth amendment, and ironically enough, quoted from a message Chief Justice Hughes sent to the New York Legislature when he was Governor of that State, and at the time, opposed to the ratification of the amendment, for the principal reason that it would permit Federal taxation of income from local government securities and local government employes.

In his message to the State Legislature, Gov. Hughes pointed out that the Supreme Court would have to interpret the words "from whatever source derived," as meaning exactly what they said. Justice Van Devanter insisted, however, that the publicity given to the Hughes message "promptly brought forth from statesmen who participated in proposing the amendment such convincing expositions of its purpose, as here stated, that apprehension was effectively dispelled and ratification followed."

Senator Brown, in a talk with reporters, said the Hughes message was "most interesting," in light of present developments and added: 'It would be rather interesting to see what his attitude would be if the question were again submitted to him."

Although the present study does not say so, Mr. Hughes, as Chief Justice, has been on both sides of the issue. He has not, however, bluntly stated in recent opinions that he holds the view he expressed when Governor.

Argument Pro and Con.

The report does, however, challenge Justice Van Devanter's declaration that the "statesmen" who participated in proposing the amendment "effectively dispelled" the argument that amendment would permit Federal taxation of the incomes from local government securities and of local government employes. The study contains many excerpts from speeches and letters both attacking and defending Gov. Hughes' interpretation.

"It seems clear," the report observes, "that Gov. Hughes expressed more than 'some apprehension.' He pointed specifically to the phrase 'from whatever source derived,' and said that the amendment would give Congress the power to tax interest from State and municipal bonds. While Senators Borah and Root attacked that construction, numerous others defended it. It seems clear that Mr. Justice Van Devanter did not consider the whole of the contemporary evidence. . . . The conclusion drawn by the learned Justice does not seem correct."

Reciprocal Taxation.

If the court upholds a "short and simple statute" to levy Federal taxes on the interest on local government bonds and on the income of local government employes, by what method would the Federal Government permit local government to tax the interest on its bonds and on the income of its employes?

The report declares that this problem is easily solved. The Federal Government being sovereign, can waive its rights over these types of income, the brief contends. Citing the court's decision in Van Allen vs. the Assessors in 1865, which upheld nondiscriminatory state taxation of national bank shares, the study declares:

"There can, therefore, be no constitutional problem with respect to the power of Congress to waive the tax immunity which perhaps otherwise could be claimed by Federal bondholders, officers and employes. Whether or not the nature of an income tax is such as to make its source immaterial, Congress has full power to declare that immunity of the Federal source of such income shall not extend to its recipient."

In less legal language, if Congress could and should waive the sovereign right over money after it has been passed out, it would become merely money in the citizen's pocket and liable to whatever taxes the local government saw fit to levy.

Question of Timing.

The President declared in his message—and the Department of Justice study is primarily based on this recommendation — that the reciprocal taxes should be levied on interest from bonds hereafter issued, and on governmental incomes hereafter paid. The lawyers like to describe this as "in futuro." But many of the arguments in the Department of Justice report would apply to the interest on existing bonds and on existing salaries, since these arguments are predicated on the words "from whatever source derived."

This brings up the question of timing the legislation. The Federal Government, of course, could without further ado waive its present immunity and allow local Governments to tax the income from Federal bonds hereafter issued, and the salaries of Federal employes. There seems to be no practical way to persuade each individual state to do likewise as to the interest on state bonds and the salaries of state and other local employes. The present study obviously indicates that the Department of Justice officials believe that the states can be compelled to relinquish the immunities of their instrumentalities. Thus when the case finally comes to the Supreme Court, according to the report, the old theory that the power to tax is the power to destroy would be overcome by the actual demonstration of nondiscriminatory reciprocal taxation under which neither sovereignty would have anything to fear from the other.

Argument of Report.

"If Congress," the report predicts, "as a part of an inseparable statute authorizes the state to tax the salaries paid Federal officers and employes, and the interest paid Federal bond holders, there is offered graphic evidence that the operations of government are not threatened by a similar tax on persons dealing with the states.

"The court has found the fact that the Federal tax applies to all private persons persuasive evidence that there is no reason to fear its application with those who deal with the state government. When there is added a corresponding waiver of the immunity of those who deal with the Federal Government, there is little room for fear that such taxation is designed or can operate as an interference with the governmental operation of the states."

Tea for Indorsers of Bill.

Representatives of 100 St. Louis women's organizations which have indorsed a bill for reorganization of the city's venereal disease service will be guests at a tea sponsored by the Missouri Social Hygiene Association and the College Club of St. Louis at the College Club, 5428 Delmar boulevard, at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

W. F. Strattman Estate $35,000.

An inventory of the estate of William F. Strattman, who died Nov. 14, was filed in Probate Court yesterday, listing assets valued at $35,794. He bequeathed his property to his widow, Mrs. Alvina Strattman, 5512 Delor street, appointing her and a son, William J. Strattman, as co-executors.

NAZI PRESS ATTACKS U. S. AIMS AT LIMA

Charges "Morbid War Psychosis" Is Fostered Among South Americans.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 26.—The Government-controlled German press is turning its guns on the United States with a charge that Washington has imperialistic designs in connection with the forthcoming Pan-American Conference at Lima, Peru.

Reports that the Jewish emigration question is to be put on the Lima agenda loosed a barrage of taunts at "dollar diplomacy."

The Boersenzeitung in a front-page editorial charged the United States with "fostering in South America a morbid war psychosis" with the transparent purpose of forming a solid bloc against "alleged aggression by certain European states."

The newspaper Nachtausgabe warned Americans that "some time they will discover they have got their information on world politics from lunatics."

The Pan-American Conference, which will open at Lima Dec. 9, has brought the Foreign Office mouthpiece, Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz, into the chorus. It complained that "the United States persists in bringing forward questions which none of the Central or South American states ever has brought up for discussion."

The aim of the United States, it said, is to engage Latin American countries economically and militarily so that "ultimately they will become a homogeneous protectorate of Washington."

The whole tenor of the German strictures is a warning to South Americans against these "insidious North American machinations." In contrast, are "German economic efforts in the new world," which "are wholly free from all aggressiveness and tutelage."

"South Americans," Korrespondenz concludes, "are too intelligent not to see that they are being bamboozled with tales of German aggressiveness and German dumping."

MRS. MORTON MAY FUNERAL TO BE HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Private Services for Wife of Department Store Head to Be Conducted at Home.

The funeral of Mrs. Florence Goldman May, wife of Morton J. May, president of the May Department Stores Co., who died yesterday at her home, will be held at the residence, 11 Brentmoor Park, Clayton, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Services will be private.

Mrs. May, who was 54 years old, had been ill for several months. She was born in St. Louis, a daughter of the late Jacob Goldman. Her marriage to Mr. May, whose corporation operates the Famous-Barr Co., took place Oct. 11, 1909.

Surviving, besides her husband, are a son, Morton D. May; a daughter, Mrs. Millard Waldheim; a brother, Alvin Goldman, and a sister, Mrs. Charles M. Rice.

NEW CHURCH AT DES PERES TO BE DEDICATED DEC. 11

Services by St. Paul's Lutheran Congregation Previously Announced for Week Earlier.

The new St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Manchester and Ballas roads, Des Peres, St. Louis County, will be dedicated Sunday, Dec. 11. The Rev. Arthur Miessler of Wentzville will preach in the morning and the Rev. Frederick Niedner of St. Charles in the afternoon.

The services previously had been announced for a week earlier, but delay in construction forced a postponement. The church, with a membership of 500, provides religious services for the nearby Lutheran Orphans' Home. The Rev. Charles F. Hoeh is pastor. The new church cost about $60,000.

900 EXPELLED BY RUTHENIANS

Driven Into Hungarian Territory in Exchange of Population.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Nov. 26.—Hungarian refugee services reported today that 917 persons had been expelled by Ruthenian authorities into Hungarian territory.

Most of the refugees were at Beregszasz, where they were quartered in houses left by those who fled into Ruthenia before Hungarian occupation of the town. The effect, consequently, was an informal exchange of populations.

Marriage of Weldon Jones.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Paul J. Leeman of Minneapolis and Weldon Jones, former High Commissioner of the Philippines and now in the United States Bureau of Insular Affairs, were married this week in Minneapolis, it was disclosed today. Mrs. Jones, who was the widow of Paul J. Leeman, vice-president and general manager of the First Bank Stock Corporation, met Jones at Manila, when she was on a world cruise.

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. M. Flesh, 8 Glen Oak place, Webster Groves, will be observed with a dinner party at the Algonquin Country Club tomorrow evening. Both are 72 years old. He is in the lumber business. The dinner will be given by a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Flesh, who in 1921 gave a party celebrating the golden wedding of Mrs. Flesh's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer.

Share Trading Winds Up Slow Week Behind the Minus Sign; Low Volume Since September

Traders Unload at Closing Session, Shoving Leaders Down—Index Off .91 for Period.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Traders unloaded stocks today and the market suffered its worst set-back of the week, with leaders down fractions to more than two points, although the pace slowed at the finish and modest recoveries were in evidence at the final gong.

The week's pace was the slowest since the period ending Sept. 10. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .6 of a point at 50.8 on the day and down .7 net on the week. It was the second week in which the composite has ended behind a minus sign. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks was off .61 for the day at 48.84 and down .91 for the week.

Transfers for the two hours today amounted to 687,020 shares against 437,080 last Saturday. The volume for the week, 7,760,010 shares, was the smallest since early September.

Brokers, generally, attributed the day's reversal partly to more insistent adjustments for income tax returns and to some apprehension over foreign affairs as reflected in further declines of sterling and the French franc and another boost in gold at London to a record peak.

Closing Session Changes.

Transamerica dropped nearly three points on announcement the SEC had ordered a public hearing to determine whether the company's stock should be delisted on charges of "false and misleading" registration statements. Company officials forecast "complete vindication." The issue closed off 2½ at 6¾.

Homestake pushed up on word the gold mining company would pay its usual Christmas bonus of $100 each to some 2000 employes. McIntyre and Alaska Juneau also retained modest advances.

Principal losers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, Santa Fe, Dunhill and Philip Morris.

Holiday Week in Review.

A review of the week shows that, after the Thanksgiving holiday, factory wheels recovered momentum at once, some activities climbing to new highs for the year.

Typical of most lines was the automobile industry. Due to the holiday interruption, production totaled only 84,930 cars against 96,735 in the preceding week, but the daily average rate was the highest for 1938. Output was well ahead of the 58,955-car week a year ago.

The brief Thanksgiving pause of industry was in sharp contrast to happenings in 1937. A year ago the Thanksgiving holiday widened the decline; some industrial plants closed down from Thanksgiving mid-week till the following Monday morning.

The Associated Press index of electric power production, adjusted for seasonal variations, set a new 1938 high, and near yearly tops were steel production, railroad carloadings, cotton manufacturing and residential building indices.

With the coming of cold, snow and sleet, retail merchants expect a sharp broad run-up in sales. Wholesale houses are reporting marked rises in order for the second consecutive week.

Tension abroad has continued as a factor in depressing the British pound sterling and the French franc in terms of the dollar but, outside of foreign exchange, European political turmoil has had little influence on domestic trade trends.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Sales, closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: Transamerica, 31,900, 6¾, down 2½; Aviat. Corp., 14,200, 7¼, down ¼; Repub. Stl., 12,700, 22⅝, down 1¼; U. S. Steel, 11,400, 63⅝, down 2; Pathe Film, 11,100, 11, down ⅞; Hupp Mot., 10,700, 2⅝, unchanged; Richfield Oil, 9700, 8¾, unchanged; Unit. Airc. Corp., 9400, 37⅜, down 1¼; Curtiss-Wright, 9300, 6⅞, down ⅛; Cont. Motors, 9300, 1⅞, unchanged; U. S. Rubber, 7700, 48⅛, down 1⅞; Dunhill Int., 7500, 15⅛, down 2; Gen. Motors, 7300, 48¾, down ¾; Gen. Electric, 7200, 42, down ¾; No. Am. Aviat., 7200, 16, down ⅞.

WASHINGTON BUSINESS NOTES; TOWN AND CITY STORE SALES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The Federal Reserve Board estimates department store sales in the week ended Nov. 19 were 5 per cent below the comparable week last year. It said stores in the Boston, Minneapolis and San Francisco districts were ahead of last year, but stores in the other nine districts lagged.

Commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks in New York City declined $12,000,000 to a total of $1,408,000,000 in the week ended Nov. 23, the Federal Reserve Board reports.

The Commerce Department says the discrepancy between average daily sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas in October and the same month last year was smallest, 4.5 per cent, in the Far West. In the East and South, the decline was 12 per cent and in the Middle West 14 per cent.

POLISH-GERMAN BARTER PACT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports that Germany and Poland have entered a barter agreement under which the former will exchange $23,000,000 worth of industrial machinery for $23,000,000 worth of Polish farm products.

The bureau said it was possible American exporters of grain to Western European markets may profit from the arrangement, since it will tend to eliminate Poland as a major competitive factor in these markets.

INDUSTRIAL INDEX 92.5 OF 1929-30 AVERAGE

Activity Continues to Accelerate—at Highest Rate in More Than Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The fall upswing in industrial activity continued this week, according to latest available statistics.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index jumped to 92.5 per cent of the 1929-30 average, the highest level in more than a year. This compared with 89.3 last week and 80.4 in the like period a year ago.

For the first time since the fall of 1937, every component of the index either equaled or topped the comparable week last year.

Automobile assemblies were down less than expected during the holiday week, sustained by heavy retail demand, and the index soared to a new high for the year. Electric power output also touched a new peak.

Railroad freight carloadings recovered more than was normal after seasonal allowance.

Cotton manufacturing activity rallied for the fifth consecutive week to within a fraction of the year's top. Steel mill operations slipped off slightly, however, as miscellaneous demand receded.

The index, with its seasonally adjusted components based on latest available data, compared as follows:

	Latest Wk.	Prev. Wk.	Year Ago.
Composite index —x	92.5	89.3	80.4

STRUCTURAL STEEL BOOKINGS; OCTOBER TOP SINCE JULY, '37

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The American Institute of Steel Construction estimated today new business booked during October by the structural steel fabricating industry totaled 137,642 tons, the largest monthly figure since July, 1937. It compared with 92,469 in September and 62,267 in October, 1937.

For nine months the total was 922,996 against 1,396,726 in the corresponding 1937 period.

Shipments amounted to 95,205 in October against 93,553 in September and 155,923 in October last year. For nine months the total was 942,607, compared with 1,422,018 in the like 1937 period.

DIVIDEND DISBURSEMENTS; M'GRAW HILL, CLUETT SHIRT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Directors of McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. have declared a dividend of 15 cents a share on the common stock, payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 15. Last payment was of a similar amount on Jan. 14, this year.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 26.—Strength of the dollar in foreign exchange markets induced trade calling and local buying in cotton futures today. Early losses under liquidation were canceled and net gains of a point were balanced by similar declines when trading ended.

Short covering in wheat futures kept prices higher most of the day. The market's firm tone resulted from renewed demand for Australian wheat and extended losses in sterling. Final prices were unchanged to ½d per 100 pounds higher.

London and Paris—Closed.

Commodities Turn Downward After Month of Rising Prices

Movement Declines Also—Setbacks Outweigh Advances Almost Four to One—Market Basket Affected.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Commodities turned down this week after a month of steadily rising quotations. Turnover declined with prices.

Weakness was evident in every major staple group except livestock, which breasted the receding tide because Chicago's stockyards' tie-up threatened a temporary scarcity of meats. Even in this category the upswing was not unanimous, hogs yielding slightly, despite gains in cattle and lambs.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale spot quotations slipped to 67.38 per cent of the 1926 average from 67.65 a week ago and compared with 76.14 last year.

Setbacks outweighed advances almost four-to-one among staples making up the index. There were 18 declines and only five gainers, the remainder holding unchanged.

Non-ferrous metals receded for the second week from the year's high established a fortnight back.

Hides, rubber, turpentine and burlap were among those on the minus side. Lumber, on the other hand, improved substantially.

Grains suffered fractional losses. Corn, wheat and rye dipped, while oats managed to squeeze out a modest gain. Cotton also slipped back.

Market-basket items of the housewife were down fractions. Sugar, cocoa, coffee, flour and lard fell, while butter advanced.

The index, with its components based on 1926 as 100 compared as follows:

	Nov. 25.	Pr. wk.	Yr. ago.
35 commodities	67.38	67.65	76.14

Saturday's Commodities.

Wheat futures at Chicago closed ⅛ cent a bushel lower to ¼ cent higher. Corn futures finished unchanged to ⅜ cent a bushel up, and oats forward contracts ⅛ to ¼ cent advanced.

Cotton futures at New York ended 5 cents a bale higher to 10 cents lower.

Lower at New York were copper, tin, rubber, hides, cocoa and cottonseed oil futures. A shade higher were coffee and wool top forward contracts. Sugar futures moved unevenly. Lead and zinc futures were unchanged. The silk market was closed.

Livestock trading at Chicago was still suspended due to the stockyard strike. Quotations at other centers were steady to a shade higher.

The Associated Press index of 35 weighted spot wholesale prices, with 1926 as 100, declined to 67.36 from 67.38 Friday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for Nov. 25: 3488 purchases involving 97,792 shares; 3969 sales, involving 103,650 shares.

30-POINT DROP IN ZINC; COPPER STEADY; LEAD, TIN

[illegible] by the Thanksgiving holiday.

Copper was steady at 11¼c a pound for electrolytic, valley. Although concessions to as low as 10.62½c were offered in the outside market, demand was quiet. Scrap was reduced to 9c from 9¼c at mid-week, but later regained ⅛ of a cent as export prices rebounded to 10.73 from 10.55 cents.

The international cartel decision to restrict output to 110 per cent of basic tonnages, instead of allowing unrestricted production, firmed the export market and cheered domestic producers.

The 30-point cut to 4.75 cents for zinc at East St. Louis was prompted, metal circles said, by the 20 per cent import duty reduction effective Jan. 1 under terms of the Anglo-American treaty.

Lead was unchanged at 5.10@5.15c a pound New York, and 4.95c East St. Louis.

Tin eased 15 points to 46.15c with buyers cautious. The London market firmed on announcement the first quarter international quota would be unchanged at 45 per cent including buffer pool stocks.

Antimony was quiet and unchanged at 14 cents for Chinese grade.

LOCAL STOCK TREND LOWER, VOLUME OFF

Columbia Brewing Most Active Issue, Showing Half Point Gain for Week.

Stock prices tended lower on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week. The volume of business was under that of the preceding period owing to the Thanksgiving holiday.

National Candy and Falstaff were fractionally lower. International Shoe dropped one point.

Columbia Brewing, as usual in recent weeks, was the most active stock, selling almost double the amount of the next most active issue and showing a gain of one-half point for the week. American Investment added three-eighths of a point to its price.

Hamilton-Brown was among the issues closing at the preceding week's final price.

London Gold Price at New Top And Pound Sterling Still Slipping

Slump in British Unit Laid Largely to Huge Surplus of Imports and News From Europe.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Gold reached its highest price in history and the British currency depreciated further in terms of the American dollar today.

The price of monetary metal reached 150 shillings an ounce, up 1½ pence, and it took only 4.63¼ dollars to buy one pound currency—the unit of British currency—compared with more than five in the early months of the year.

(In New York, after trading had closed in London, the pound sterling was quoted at 4.62⅞, off ½ cent from yesterday, and the lowest in five years, with the exception of Sept. 28, the Czechoslovak crisis. Wall street has been watching sterling, because, as a chief medium for world trade, it tends to depress dollar prices of international commodities and to cheapen British manufactured goods in competition with American.

(The American dollar, since 1934, has been pegged to gold by the U. S. Treasury's fixed gold price of $35 an ounce. The gold price in the London free market today equivalent to $34.78 at the rate of exchange, is close to the level at which it is profitable for Wall street bankers to buy gold in London and sell it to the Treasury).

The British Empire and Scandinavian currencies are mostly linked to sterling and the North and South American monies mostly tied to the dollar. Britain is trying to maintain stability of the dollar-pound-franc rates. (The French franc closed in New York at 2.59⅛ cents, off .00⅛ of a cent from yesterday).

Among reasons advanced for the decline of sterling are Britain's continued buying of more goods from the United States than she sells there. The rush to buy gold with sterling in London and sell the gold for dollars in the United States because of European uncertainties and Wall street's recent market revival.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The British pound sterling closed ½ cent lower today in terms of the dollar. Pressure on the British unit was attributed to further flight of frightened European capital into American money, as nervousness over European political troubles continued.

The French franc ended .00⅛ of a cent down, and the Swiss franc off .02 of a cent. The Netherlands guilder was up .02 of a cent and the belga unchanged.

The movement of gold from Europe to this country was accelerated. The New York Federal Reserve Bank reported $17,224,000 of the yellow metal was engaged abroad for shipment here during the week ended Friday against $13,135,000 in the preceding week. Of the latest week's shipments $2,900,000 was engaged in Japan and the rest in England.

ACTIVITIES IN BONDS ON SELECTIVE BASIS

Prices Lose a Little Ground Considered Broadly—A Few Issues Bid Higher.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Buying activities in the bond market were highly selective during the week, and considered broadly prices lost a little ground. All major groups were a bit lower, although losses generally were not extensive.

A considerable number of miscellaneous corporate loans attracted higher bids. A few rails were favored on the basis of special considerations.

U. S. Governments retreated a little.

New corporate financing had a revival after two or three blank weeks, but a single issue—Commonwealth Edison's $24,500,000 convertible debenture offering of 3½s accounted for virtually the entire business, and this was subject to stockholders' subscriptions.

There was an increase of offerings in the final half hour of trading today and bond prices yielded major fractions to more than a point. Low-priced rails bore the brunt of the selling.

Industrials and utilities retreated in more orderly fashion. A total of $43,000 Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s changed hands, the issue ending ½ point lower at 105¾. American Telephone 3¼s were active, $26,000 par value being traded, with the day's loss at ⅛ of a point at 105.

Loans running counter to the trend included Pennsylvania general 4½s, up ⅛ at 94¾; Anaconda Copper 4½s, up ⅛ at 105¾, and Santa Fe 4s, up ½ at 104⅝.

United States Governments were quiet, ending 3-32 of a point higher to that much lower.

German Government 5½s ended 1 point up at 26 and the 7s improved ⅞ at 28¼.

Total transfers of $3,535,500, par value, compared with $2,866,250 last Saturday.

WHEAT RECOVERS AFTER BRIEF 6-YR. DIP BY DECEMBER

Sharp Loss Wiped Out Just Before Close at Chicago —Final Price 1-8 Off to 1-4 Higher.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Orderly selling by traders not wishing to take actual wheat on December contracts which become deliverable next week caused the price to dip ½ cent today to 61, lowest since 1932, but purchasing of options expiring the middle of 1939 steadied the market.

The bulk of trading represented switching of positions from December to more deferred delivery months. The ½ cent dip in December wheat occurred early in the session and was wiped out just before the close when selling subsided. Elevator interests were understood to be taking December wheat at 3½ to 4 cents discount under the price of May and July wheat.

Wheat closed ⅛ off to ¼ higher compared with Friday's finish, Dec. 61⅜@½, May 64⅞@65c; corn was unchanged to ⅜c higher, Dec. 47¾@⅝c, May 51⅝@½c; oats ⅛@¼c up; rye unchanged to ⅛c off and lard 5 to 10 cents down.

Some wheat buying here was inspired by refusal of the Liverpool market to reflect yesterday's decline in Chicago. Liverpool prices finished ⅛c lower to ⅜c higher, strengthened by purchasing of Australian wheat by India. World statistics, however, were bearish, with new Argentine wheat reported offered at competitive levels under a 10 to 15 cents subsidy and Australian exports and visible supplies increasing.

At the opening today 29,622,000 bushels of wheat were involved in contracts remaining to be settled by trading in the pit or delivery before the end of the year. Practically every bushel of this speculative long interest in December wheat showed a paper loss. The December open interest was reduced 7,000,000 bushels this week.

Corn receipts fell to 72 cars today, the smallest in several months. This, together with the general holding back of supplies on farms and wintry weather helped to strengthen the corn market. Prices dipped fractionally at times, however. The present difference of 4 to 5 cents between prices of December corn and May and July represents the best carrying charge for elevator concerns in several years and from action in the pit it was believed some cash interests are willing to carry corn over until spring on this basis.

Oats and rye markets were quiet, with the bulk of trading representing changes from December to later months. Moderate liquidation depressed lard.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 26.—World wheat prices were little changed today.

Winnipeg wheat was ⅛@¼c higher at opening. The close was ¼c higher.

Liverpool opened unchanged to ¼d higher and closed unchanged to ⅛d up.

Argentine wheat started unchanged to ¼c lower and corn ⅛@¼c off. At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅛c higher and corn unchanged.

Local wheat receipts, which were 13,500 bu, compared with 9000 a week ago and 42,000 a year ago, included 3 cars local and 6 through. Corn receipts, which were 24,000 bu, compared with 93,600 a week ago and 91,500 a year ago, included 16 cars local. Oats receipts, which were 8000 bu, compared with 8000 a week ago and 10,000 a year ago, included 4 cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was ⅜@1c lower. The supply was limited and readily cleared. Millers did the buying. Corn was unchanged to ½c higher. A fairly large amount of grain was offered for sale but the demand was good and a clearance affected. Elevators and glucose makers did the buying at premiums unchanged to ½c higher than Friday's. Oats were ½c higher. The demand was good and the light offerings cleared in the early part of the session. Mill and outside order account interests made the purchases.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 26.—Effective support was accorded some classes of horses and mules during the week, while in other instances the trend was easier. Receipts made a moderate total of approximately 400 head on commission. Outlet was principally to Alabama, Mississippi, Maryland, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia and Tennessee.

There was fair inquiry for good aged mares that were well broken to work, while branded mares and smooth mouth stock were inclined to drag. Top cotton mules ruled fully steady and outlet was provided smooth mouth mules and colt mules.

WHEAT AND FLOUR EXPORTS 43,000,000 BU. 4 1-2 MONTHS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The Agriculture Department reported today that sales of wheat and wheat flour for export from the United States totaled approximately 43,200,000 bushels between July 1 and Nov. 15. Actual exports, however, were reported at 38,400,000 bushels.

The department said that about 19,000,000 bushels of the sales were made under the Government's export subsidy program designed to place 100,000,000 bushels of surplus American wheat in world markets before next July 1. About 76 per cent were sales of wheat and 24 per cent sales of flour.

The subsidy wheat and flour was bought by the Government from producers at domestic prices and sold to exporters at a loss averaging 12.5 cents a bushel on wheat and 59 cents a barrel on flour, officials said, to meet low world prices. The department reported it had bought 28,420,000 bushels of wheat since inaugurating the subsidy program in August.

Unemployment Compensation Act

came effective, but absence of the certificate will not interfere with the payment of benefits.

He should be able to give his Social Security number. (This is not required by the law, but failure to have a number may cause delays in the necessary check by the Commission before approving claims.)

He must show that he is able to work and is available for work.

He must be ready to accept a suitable job.

He must report to the employment office each week while unemployed, re-register and report any earnings he may have had during the preceding week.

He will begin receiving compensation, if his claim is approved, about three weeks after he files the claim.

Amount of Benefits.

The fourth question: How much in benefits will the worker receive? Figuring of benefits is a complicated matter, requiring an understanding of two technical terms in the law, the "benefit year" and the "base period."

The "benefit year" is the 52 weeks beginning with the first day of the week in which benefits are payable to a worker.

The "base period," under the exact terms of the act, is the first eight of the last nine completed calendar quarters preceding the beginning of the worker's "benefit year." However, recognizing the fact that benefits would have become payable before this full period would have expired, framers of the law provided that the first "base period" would begin Jan. 1, 1938, so that for those workers who file claims within the first three months of 1939 the "base period" will be the first three calendar quarters of 1938. This "base period" will lengthen each three months until it reaches its normal term of eight calendar quarters.

In general the law provides that a worker's benefit payment shall be about one-half his regular wages, with a maximum weekly payment of $15. The maximum period during which benefits will be paid within a "benefit year" will be 12 weeks. The minimum payment will be $5, except that under certain conditions it may be less.

For each week of unemployment, for a maximum of 12 weeks, and after a waiting period of three weeks, the eligible unemployed worker will receive a weekly payment equal to 4 per cent of the total wages he received in the calendar quarter of his "base period" in which he received the highest amount of wages.

How the Law Works Out.

For example:

A worker in the first three months of 1938, the first calendar quarter of the "base period," received a total of $150 in wages. The second three months, the second quarter, he received a total of $300. In the third three months, or third quarter, he received a total of $120. Having received his highest quarterly wages in the second quarter, his unemployment compensation will be based on the wages he received in that quarter. Thus, he will receive weekly 4 per cent of $300, or $12.

This illustrates the method of figuring the compensation, but this worker would not receive his $12 a week for the maximum of 12 weeks. He would actually receive it for a fraction more than seven weeks, owing to a provision of the law that the total amount of compensation which a worker shall receive within his "benefit year" shall not exceed 16 per cent of the total wages he received during his "base period." The total wages of this worker in his "base period" were $570. Sixteen per cent of this is $91.20, so he cannot be paid more than $91.20, which at $12 a week would be used up in a little more than seven weeks.

In view of the $15 weekly maximum fixed by the law a worker who receives more than $375 in his highest quarter will be limited to $15 a week, regardless of the amount of his wages.

If Worker Gets Job Then Loses It.

If the worker obtains employment before he has been paid the full amount to his credit, his compensation will stop. However, if he again becomes unemployed within his "benefit year," the payment of his compensation will be resumed at the same rate until he has exhausted the amount to his credit. But no unpaid balance remaining at the end of his "benefit year" will thereafter be available to him. If he then becomes unemployed, he must begin a new "benefit year," with compensation figured on a new base period.

As an example to explain this provision of the law, it will be supposed that this worker, who had a credit of $91.20, obtained employment after receiving three weekly payments of $12 each, or a total of $36. His payments then stopped, though he had $55.20 remaining to his credit. After a few weeks he again became unemployed and his benefit payments were resmued, continuing until this $55.20 was exhausted.

Partial Benefits.

While the examples cited deal only with total unemployment, the law also makes provision for partial unemployment, which is defined as any week of less than full time work in which the wages payable to the worker are less than six-fifths of the weekly benefit to which he would be entitled if he were totally unemployed.

For example:

Suppose a worker, if totally unemployed, would be entitled to a weekly benefit of $10. If partially unemployed, he would be entitled to partial unemployment benefits only in case the wages he received in any week were less than six-fifths of $10, or $12. Thus, if he received less than $12 in wages in any week in which he was partially unemployed, he would be entitled to benefits.

In partial unemployment benefits, a worker is entitled to receive the difference between five-sixths of the wages he received and the weekly benefit amount he would have received if he had been totally unemployed.

For example:

Suppose the partially unemployed worker received $3 in wages. Five-sixths of this wage would be $2.50. If he had been totally unemployed he would have received $10 weekly benefit. Thus, as partial benefits, he would get the difference between $2.50 and $10, or $7.50 weekly.

This partially unemployed worker may have had some odd-jobs employment. If the amount he received for odd-jobs work did not exceed $3 in the week, it would not be taken into consideration in fixing his benefits, but any such income in excess of $3 would be considered wages and taken into account.

Carrying the case of the partially unemployed worker to this point:

That worker received $3 in regular wages. In addition he received $5 for odd-jobs work. Of this, $5, $2 would be considered wages, making his total wages to be considered in fixing his compensation, $5. In benefits he would receive the difference between his total unemployment benefit amount of $10 and five-sixths of his wages. Five-sixths of $5 is $4.17. Therefore he would receive the difference between $10 and $4.17, or $5.83.

Minimum Weekly Payment.

The minimum weekly benefit which a totally unemployed worker will receive will be either $5, or 6 per cent of the total wages he received in the highest quarter of his base period, whichever is the lesser.

For example:

A worker's total earnings in his highest quarter were $100. Figured at 6 per cent, his weekly benefit would be $6, but the $5 minimum being less than that, it would apply, and his weekly compensation would be $5. But if his earnings in his highest quarter had been only $80, he would receive in benefits only $4.80 a week. Six per cent of $80 is $4.80, which, being less than $5, would control.

Though the worker will be required to report each week to the Employment Service Office, he will not receive his benefit checks there. All checks will be mailed to the workers' homes.

Precaution Against Fraud.

As a guard against fraud, there is a specific provision in the law that any applicant who makes a false statement to obtain benefits will lose his right to any benefits, and will be subject to prosecution.

A complete procedure for appeals is set up in the act. If a worker believes an error has been made in figuring his compensation, he may obtain a hearing before a Claims Deputy. If dissatisfied with the deputy's decision, the worker may appeal to an Appeals Referee. If dissatisfied there he may ask the Commission to review his case, and if dissatisfied with the Commission's ruling, he may appeal to the Circuit Court, though a court trial would not permit the introduction of evidence. The court would accept the facts as found by the Commission and pass only on questions of law.

The Commission stresses the fact that under its rules no claimant need employ a lawyer or agent to represent him, although he may do so. If he does the Commission will fix the fee to be paid.

No employe of the Commission is permitted to charge any fee, and no agreement which any worker may enter into, waiving any of his rights, will be valid, nor will any agreement of the employe to pay part of the employers' contribution.

Benefits Can't Be Pledged.

The law makes void any assignment or pledge of benefits, and prior to their payment to the worker they are exempt from execution or attachments, and even after payment except for necessaries furnished to the worker or his family during the period in which he was unemployed.

The fund from which benefits will be paid is obtained from taxes on the payrolls of all employers who come under the act, or those who, having less than eight employes, elect to come under the law.

Beginning in 1936, the Federal Government imposed a tax of 1 per cent on payrolls for unemployment compensation, increasing it to 2 per cent in 1937, and to 3 per cent in 1938 and thereafter. Under the Federal act, an employer can take credit for the tax he pays to the State for unemployment compensation up to 90 per cent of all taxes he pays for that purpose.

Consequently the Missouri law fixed the State tax at 90 per cent of the Federal tax, which means that the employer pays a total equal to the Federal rate, but pays the State 90 per cent of it and the Federal Government 10 per cent. The administrative cost of the State law is paid by the Federal Government out of its 10 per cent.

How Money Is Drawn.

Money received by the State from the tax is transmitted to the Federal Treasury and is drawn upon by the State as needed to meet benefit payments. The detailed bookkeeping is handled by the State Commission, which keeps a record of every employe covered by the law, this record showing the period of his employment and the amount of wages paid to him.

The contributions, or taxes, of the employers are mingled in one fund, but a separate account is kept of the payments by each employer, and benefits paid out are charged against these individual book accounts, first against the latest employer up to 16 per cent of the wages he has paid the particular worker, and then against his next latest employer to the extent of 16 per cent, and so on.

Merit Rating in 1942.

An employer who has a low unemployment record will profit through a reduction in the tax he will be required to pay. Beginning with 1942, a merit rating will be established for each employer.

If the total contributions paid by an employer in past years exceed the benefits charged against his account by 7½ per cent but less than 10 per cent, his contribution for the succeeding year will be reduced from the regular rate of two and seven-tenths of his payroll, to one and eight-tenths per cent. If the excess is 10 per cent and less than 15 per cent his contribution will be nine-tenths of one per cent. If the excess is 15 per cent or more he will pay nothing into the fund. An employer whose excess is less than 7½ per cent will pay the full State rate of two and seven-tenths per cent.

There will be a new merit classification of employers each year after 1942.

FOOD COMPANY LEASES BUILDING AT 814-16 N. 6TH

The Food Center of St. Louis, Inc., has taken a 10-year lease on the two-story building at 814-16 North Sixth street, owned by the I. Z. Smith estate.

The structure, occupying a lot 55 by 135 feet, will be incorporated in the concern's main building adjoining at the southeast corner of Sixth street and Franklin avenue. There is ground in the rear of the two-story building for parking purposes.

Food Center purchased the corner building, a three-story structure with finished basement, in May, 1937. It dominates one of the most important intersections in this part of the city. It has frontage on Sixth street of 120 feet, and on Franklin avenue of 115 feet, or a total frontage of 235 feet on the three streets, exclusive of the building leased.

The concern also operates super markets at 1241 North Thirteenth street, 3807 South Broadway, and 4341 Warne street. It does both a retail and wholesale business.

Food Center was represented in the present negotiations by the Dubinsky Realty Co. and the Smith estate by Cornet & Zeibig, Inc.

BUY SENSIBLY . . . ON FACTS!
The building of a home is usually a lifetime investment. Decisions affecting materials should not be hurried. Lumber, one of the most important materials in any home, should receive special scrutiny. Talk to your builder and architect about the lumber to be used. Determine its grade and moisture content. Demand these facts with proof. Every good builder and architect agrees on importance of dry lumber in construction. They will gladly co-operate with you and will probably recommend Goodfellow lumber because Goodfellow is the only Company that sells dry, on-grade lumber, backed by a 100-year guarantee.

DODGE FORECAST OF A CONTINUING RISE IN BUILDING

Data Compiler Sees Possible Total for East of Rockies in '39 of $3,500,000,000.

$3,200,000,000 THIS YEAR IS INDICATED

1937 Ran to $2,900,000,000 — Low Figure Reached in 1933 Was $1,255,708,000.

The F. W. Dodge Corporation, compiler of data for the building industry, forecast today that construction contracts in 37 states east of the Rocky Mountains in 1939 might approximate $3,500,000,000, highest figure of the recovery from the low building levels of 1933 and 1934.

The 1939 estimate would compare with an indicated total of $3,200,000,000 this year and the actual total of $2,900,000,000 in 1937. The total went as low as $1,255,708,000 in 1933, partly accounted for by cheaper construction costs then. Repair and maintenance work are not included in the figures.

Public Works Contracts.

It is pointed out that the total building and engineering volume recorded from Jan. 1 through Nov. 15 of this year reached $2,635,000,000 compared with $2,599,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1937, and it is anticipated that considerable letting of public works contracts before the end of this year will materially increase the spread between the final 1938 and 1937 figures. For 1939, indications of increased volume in public and private residential building, commercial and factory building, and public utility construction are stated to be very good.

Reviewing such factors as the recent marked upturn after last year's recession, increased employment, the revival of business optimism after a period of excessive fears, and the view of some persons that recent election results are favorable to business progress, Thomas S. Holden, vice-president in charge of statistics and research in the Dodge organization, states: "All these favorable factors might conceivably lead to a sustained construction revival to continue without serious interruption for several years. Yet, such a course is by no means certain, and present optimism should be tempered with reasonable caution."

Some Potential Factors.

According to Holden's view, three potential factors would tend to curb recovery, if they should become actual in 1939. First, there is the question whether private building and engineering work will increase fast enough to offset the tapering off of PWA projects now scheduled for the second half of next year; second, concurrent rises next spring in public and private housing activity, public works projects, and new industrial developments stimulated by a defense program might bring about increases in construction costs so rapidly as to curtail private operations. The third factor is the possibility of international difficulties; a new war threat would upset all present calculations and, lacking that, international trade complications might react unfavorably on American business and thus indirectly upon construction.

The Dodge estimates for 1939 indicate that residential building, commercial building, and public utility construction may each increase about one-third over 1938, and that factory construction may double this year's very low volume. Public and institutional buildings and public engineering works would decline appreciably unless there should be a new Federal public works program, of which there is no indication today. Dodge clients are being advised to make their sales plans on the assumption of considerably increased total construction volume during the first six to eight months of next year and to consider the possibility of a moderate tapering off toward the year's end.

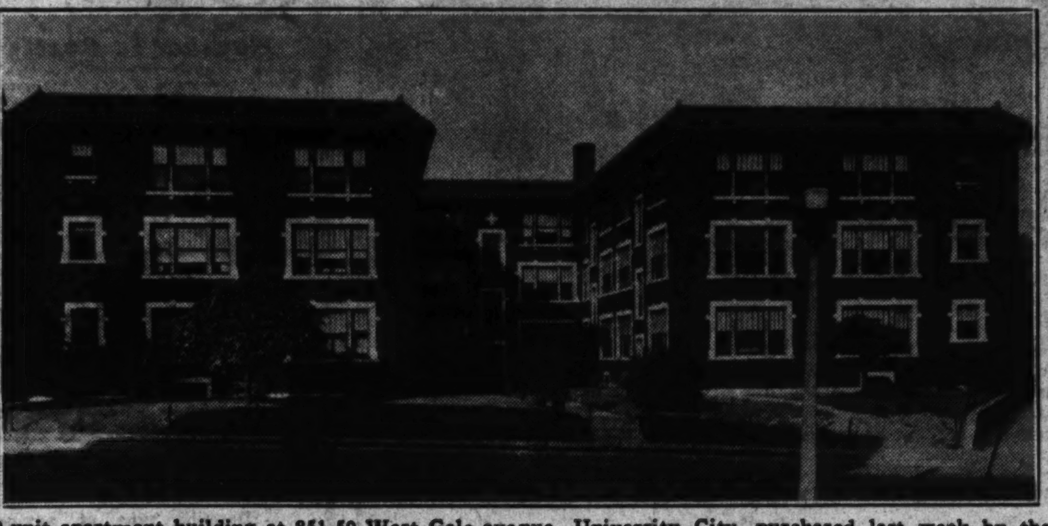
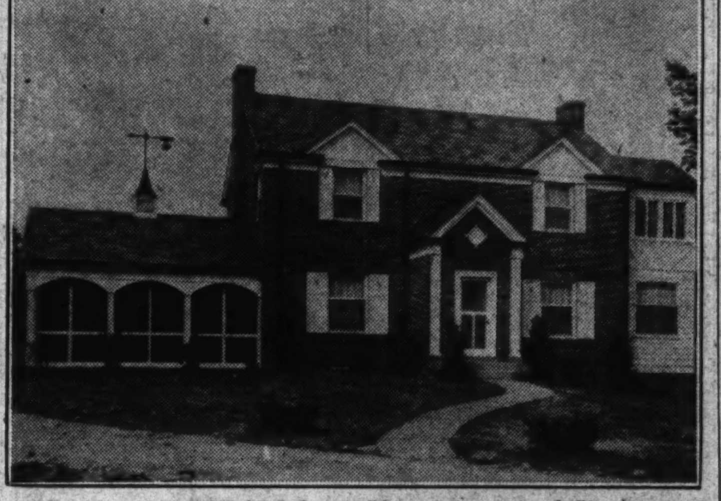
Apartment and Residence Acquired



30-unit apartment building at 851-59 West Gale avenue, University City, purchased last week by the Pilgrim Realty Co. The transaction was handled by Duke-Young Inc. and financed by the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Real Estate Co.



Residence at 30 Fair Oaks on Lay road, south of Clayton road, Ladue, recently purchased by Chester A. More through the Del Lin Development Corporation from S. C. Peterson.

BORROWERS OF HOLC REPAY HALF BILLION

Over 39,350 Accounts Have Been Satisfied, Agency Head Announces.

Borrowers of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation have repaid more than a half million dollars of the money advanced to them by the Government, Charles A. Jones, general manager of the corporation, announced yesterday.

With collections reaching 94.4 per cent of billing for October, it can be conservatively estimated that the cumulative repayments up to Dec. 1 will represent about 16.3 per cent of borrowers' entire principal indebtedness, or more than $517,000,000, Jones declared. More than 39,350 accounts, amounting to more than $90,000,000, have been paid in full.

"It should be remembered," said Jones, "that, although the HOLC ended its fifth year of operation in June of this year, we have not been collecting on our loans for that length of time. The HOLC still was lending money up to June 12, 1936, so only a very small portion of our borrowers have been paying back their loans for five years. In fact, 290,000 took advantage of a moratorium which made it unnecessary for them to pay anything on account of principal until June, 1936.

"From June, 1933, to June, 1936, we loaned nearly $3,100,000,000 to more than a million men and women. There are 132,000 others who are making adjusted payments which have enabled them to maintain their homes.

Jones stressed two other important results from the operations of the HOLC—the extension of an amortized loan program through which a borrower approaches nearer to complete home ownership with every monthly payment, and the expenditure of millions for home improvements.

"We directed the expenditure of more than $70,000,000 for repairs and reconditioning as we granted our original loans. Furthermore, we have followed a consistent program of improving the properties we have been forced to acquire."

Jones reported that the HOLC now owns 86,343 properties and has sold 26,064. Of the homes available to yield income, 88.2 per cent are rented and rent collections for September were 98.4 per cent of billings.

"Approximately 18.5 per cent of the homes we have acquired were abandoned, or virtually so," said Jones. "About 5.5 per cent came to us through death of home owners and refusal of heirs to assume their obligations. A considerable number of properties were acquired because their owners absolutely refused to co-operate, although in the possession of funds. Hundreds of other borrowers were 'overhoused'—utterly unable to carry the burdens they had assumed in prosperous days. For the rest, we sought jobs, or welfare allotments which would enable them to meet their payments—exhausted every resource."

GASEN DRUG LEASES NORTH GRAND BOULEVARD CORNER

Gasen Drug Stores, Inc., has taken a long-term lease on the entire first floor of the building at the southeast corner of North Grand boulevard and Hebert street. The store has been completely remodeled, with plans for its occupancy Dec. 1. It will be the fifth super unit store launched by the concern this year, which now operates a chain of 23 stores in Illinois and Missouri.

The Gasen Drug Stores, Inc., recently opened a store on a super scale at Delmar and Westgate avenues, University City. It opened its first store in St. Louis 16 years ago.

Several months ago the concern purchased the H. W. Eeckert Drug Co. in East St. Louis, which has been installed in a building at St. Louis and Collinsville avenues, remodeled at a large outlay.

Westmintser Place Sale.

As reported by A. T. Whitelaw Terry, realtors, contracts have been entered into for the purchase of the residence at 5022 Westminster place, owned by John Locke of Philadelphia. Title to property is to be taken in the name of Virginia Hemke.

WEST END APARTMENTS BOUGHT BY SPECULATORS

Multi-family Structures on Westgate and on Southwood in De Mun Park Change Hands.

Deals involving apartment buildings, concluded during the week, lent more than a semblance of buoyancy to the real estate market in both the city and county.

Noteworthy was the purchase by the Pilgrim Realty Co., composed of professional operators, of the three-story 30-family apartment building at 851-59 Westgate avenue, University City, from the Carr-Trombley Manufacturing Co.

Duke-Young, Inc., realtors, handled the negotiations. The Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Real Estate Co. financed the transaction. No mention of the consideration was made.

The apartments consist of four-room units, with bath, refrigerators, incinerators and other modern appliances. The basement has garage space for 15 cars, and is equipped with complete laundry facilities.

Erected in 1928 by the West End Realty Co., the building is on a modern scale. U-shaped, it occupies a lot 200 by 205 feet.

The purchase was made as speculative investment, in anticipation of higher prices prevailing for buildings of this type in the early future.

Southwood Avenue Deal.

Another market-wise purchase was that by Mrs. Fannie Pulliam, of the 24-unit apartment at 5340-46 Southwood avenue, in De Mun Park, a development west of Skinker boulevard. Negotiations were handled by the Larner-Diener Realty Co.

Designed with an open court, the three-story structure occupies a lot 105 by 125 feet. The apartments, comprising three, four and five room suites, are equipped with every modern facility.

One of the most attractive in this block, the building was erected about 10 years ago. All the apartments are under lease. The purchase was made as an investment, predicated on the rental returns, it was stated. A loan for $40,000 was made in this connection by the Anderson-Stocke-Buermann Real Estate Co.

MRS. MARIAN C. BLOSSOM ADDS TO FORDYCE LANE ESTATE

Adding to her Fordyce lane estate, Mrs. Marian Clifford Blossom has purchased four and one-half acres on the north side of Ladue road, east of Warson road. It was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalsbury.

The tract lies on both Fordyce and Oakleigh lanes. The Blossom residence stands on adjoining ground at 1 Fordyce lane.

Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, handled the transaction. The sale price was not disclosed.

PRINTING CONCERN BUYS BUILDING ON S. BROADWAY

The one-story building at 6801 South Broadway, formerly occupied by the Carondelet Printing & Publishing Co., has been purchased by the St. Louis Lithographing Co. Comprising approximately 10,000 square feet of available floor space, the structure has a frontage of 100 feet on Broadway and of 135 feet on Kraus street.

This intersection was known as Main and Olive street until 1883, when an ordinance was passed changing the name of Main street to that of Broadway and of Olive street to that of Kraus street.

The St. Louis Lithographing Co. was organized in 1931, since which time it has occupied its present quarters at 318 North Second street, in the Jefferson Memorial area. R. A. Heinicke is president of the concern.

Contracts for alterations to the new building call for completion Dec. 1, when possession is contemplated.

Paul L. Hale, trustee of the estate of the Carondelet Printing & Publishing Co., was the grantor to the title. Arthur H. Fuldner of the Oreon E. & R. G. Scott Real Estate Co. handled the transaction.

HOTELS

We're Talking Price!

and SOME OTHER THINGS, TOO....

Because we think we've got plenty to talk about! Try to find the quality of service and accommodations the Marquette offers at the same price anywhere else in St. Louis. Frankly, we don't think you can. Then consider the location—you're so close to the downtown area that all you have to do is step out of the door and you're there. In addition you can enjoy quiet surroundings and still be convenient to all transportation lines.

By the Associated Press.

DURHAM, N. C., Nov. 26.—Stocky Willard (Bolo) Perdue of Duke smashed through the weary Pittsburgh line and into football immortality today.

The Duke end, alternate blocking back a year ago, banged into one of John Chickerneo's frequent punts from the snow-covered end zone, grabbed it on the bounce and scored the touchdown that defeated mighty Pitt for the Blue Devils, 7 to 0, and ended the most remarkable season in the history of Duke football.

The touchdown, scored on the fifth play of the fourth quarter, was enough to send the 52,000 spectators into transports of joy and maintain the Blue Devils' position as the nation's only major undefeated, untied and unscored-on eleven. As the crowd, largest in Southern gridiron history, filed out through the snowstorm that had swirled into the stadium since morning, there was talk of the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl and almost every post-season fixture.

But if Perdue's touchdown won the game, the trusty right foot of Eric (The Red) Tipton saved it. The senior tailback on Wallace Wade's twentieth and greatest eleven kept the Blue Devils in and the Panthers out of the ball game with 20 punts that averaged 39.4 yards from scrimmage and which held the weary Pittsburgh backs pinned in their own territory in the last quarter.

Pitt Tired at Finish.

By then Jock Sutherland's eleven, which played through with only six substitutions, was dog tired. Twice in the first half it had bid terifically hard for touchdowns, with

SOLDAN DEFEATS CLEVELAND FOR TITLE

15-Year-Old Back, Lombardo, Big Star In 20 to 0 Victory

By Harold Tuthill

Soldan eliminated all doubt that it had a football team of championship caliber when it defeated Cleveland, 20 to 0, in the City High School League play-off game yesterday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium.

Before a crowd of 4000 frost-bitten fans the recently-christened Tigers demonstrated that Soldan's 20-to-6 defeat at the hands of Cleveland on Oct. 15 must have been a mistake. Cleveland's victory on that day was forfeited to Soldan because an ineligible player broke into Cleveland's lineup. The Tigers went on undefeated and declined to accept the championship after the close of the schedule season last Saturday.

The Tigers offered Cleveland another chance to gain the title, but Coach Bert E. Fenenga's boys lost their touchdown punch for the first time this season. Cleveland had averaged nearly 18 points in its seven previous games, including the one it forfeited to Soldan.

Alert Soldan Defense.

Twice the opportunity was presented to Cleveland to cross Soldan's goal line yesterday, but both times the alert Soldan defense frustrated the attacks. Soldan was more persistent in its efforts and found Cleveland's goal line once in the second period and twice in the final quarter.

To tell of the Soldan victory it is necessary to eulogize the efforts of Tom (Guy) Lombardo, 15-year-old sophomore half back, who was in the thick of every charge. He scored two touchdowns himself and added two extra points and was instrumental in the third score.

Lombardo, selected for the city all-star team, used his 165 pounds with equal facility at carrying the ball, blocking and tackling. He suffered a wrenched shoulder late in the final quarter and had to be removed. But what a fine thing it is for Coach Arnold Von Lehsten to remember that Lombardo will be back for two more seasons.

Cleveland opened the contest with a rush that almost swept the Tigers off their feet. Starting from the 15-yard line, Henry Bockhorst returned Rudolph Swistowicz's punt 25 yards to the Cleveland 40-yard line. Using laterals almost exclusively, Cleveland marched to Soldan's six-yard line for a first down. There, the Soldan defense stiffened and Cleveland lost the ball on downs.

Lombardo made his presence felt as the second period started. An exchange of punts gave the Tigers the ball on their own 31-yard line. Lombardo, on the third down, ran to the 49-yard line. Then followed three successive first downs and the Tigers had the ball on the 15-yard line. Roy Williams moved the ball up five yards and then Lombardo, behind splendid blocking, ran around right end for the touchdown. To vary things, Lombardo

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 26.—Wichita's Skyhawks, deep in the mire of a six-game losing streak, hauled themselves up into the clear here tonight, defeating the St. Louis Flyers, 2 to 1, but it was only after the most bitter of battles that the Flyers yielded to the cellar occupants. The Flyers dropped from a tie for the lead as Tulsa won from Kansas City and took possession of first place.

With 2000 fans watching a Skyhawk club using three new men, Headley, defense, Mike Miller, center, and Ollie Mulvihill, acquired from the Flyers, the game tonight started slowly and then wound up in the wildest melee of the season on Wichita ice. Jean Pusie, wild-eyed defense man of St. Louis, and Biff Ranger, Wichita wing, hooked up a neat scrap in center ice in the last period and were handed major penalties. Then the Flyers had too many men on the ice and Referee Trapp ordered Brenneman to the box. That caused a heated argument and Brenneman wound up with a 10-minute misconduct penalty in addition to a minor assessment for arguing too loudly and profusely.

Immediately after a Wichita man, Burland and then Hudson of the Flyers went off for tripping and

"Bolo" Punch Beats Pitt

Willard (Bolo) Perdue (56), stocky Duke end, is shown blocking a punt on the play that beat Pittsburgh. After blocking John Chickerneo's kick from the snow-covered end zone, Perdue grabbed it on the bounce and scored the touchdown that gave Duke a 7-0 victory.

Stanford Routs Dartmouth In Fourth Quarter, 23-13

By the Associated Press.

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 26.—Stanford's Red Indians, defeated six times and favored to take another licking, provided a stunning climax to an otherwise dull football season today with a 23 to 13 victory over the Green-Jerseyed warriors of Dartmouth.

Down-trodden Stanford, its players rising to heights that whipped followers into a frenzy, scored first and last in the intersectional battle that saw the Dartmouth Indians beaten before 20,000 fans.

For three periods Stanford clung to a one-point lead. In the last quarter, the game switched from a close encounter to a rout with Stanford pounding and passing to nine more points.

An intercepted pass, late in the opening period, paved the way for the first Stanford touchdown. Neil Donahue, right guard, caught a toss by Bill Hutchinson, Dartmouth left halfback, on the Stanford 46-yard line.

From the Dartmouth 40-yard line, fullback Paulman shot a pass to left halfback Pete' Fay, who lateralled to Byron West, sub right tackle. The big lineman ran 20 yards for the score. Paulman kicked point to give Stanford a 7 to 0 lead.

Midway in the second quarter, Dartmouth crossed the Stanford goal. Left halfback Hutchinson bumped through center for the last two yards to climax a 66-yard advance, completed almost entirely by right halfback MacLeod.

Shortly after the third period opened, MacLeod fumbled and Harlan Pool, Stanford right guard, recovered on Dartmouth's 29-yard line. Two passes netted a total of 25 yards. From the three-yard line quarterback Norman Standlee charged through center for the second score.

Dartmouth came back to score on a 63-yard gain in which MacLeod caught an eight-yard pass from Hutchinson, then ran 55 yards without a hand laid on him for the touchdown. Hutchinson's point kick was good.

Stanford superiority was demonstrated in convincing fashion in the final quarter. The Dartmouth line crumbled before the attack as the Californians put together 14 ground plays and three passes for 70 yards, Paulman going over finally from the one-foot line.

A safety contributed the last two tallies. Dartmouth was backed up to its five-yard line on a fumble recovered from Stanford. A penalty against the visitors put the ball on the one-yard line, and Hutchinson tried two passes, the second falling behind the goal line to give Stanford two more points.

Victorious Blind Bowler

ROY FOSKETT

St. Louis Blind Bowler Wins Telegraph Match

Roy Foskett, St. Louis blind bowler, had a 69-pin margin as he defeated George McDonald of San Francisco, 372-303, in a telegraphic match for the national blind bowler championship last night. Foskett rolled his games at the Burton-Gillett Recreation, 5626 Delmar.

Throughout the series of three games the officials in charge of the match kept in constant communication with San Francisco by special wire service.

Foskett, a member of the Ten-Pen-Eers, a group of local blind men bowlers, rolled his third game in 136 for his best score and had an average of 124. His first and second games were 133 and 103.

McDonald's scores were 92, 72 and 139, or an average of 101.

Still True to Form.

PUGILISTIC form, which has been messed around considerably in recent years, had an inning when Henry Armstrong, triple-title man of the ring, battered Filipino Ceferino Garcia into defeat. Because of Armstrong's victory over Ross and Barney's three defeats of Garcia, Henry had "doped" to be a sure winner.

The result not only again proved that the St. Louis Negro is the world's outstanding fighter of any and all weight divisions but, better still, that he is not burned out, and, seemingly, has suffered no deterioration either through injury or that perpetual motion style.

This boy is not only a great fighter but he is a great thrill-producer. You don't get that ho, hum feeling when Henry is in there. From first to last gong he works those pistons, pressing forward, never giving ground, taking punches but always moving in and giving more than he takes.

His crouch makes him appear an easy mark for an uppercut. But the funny part of it is that they punch him with uppercuts, hit him on the jaw and in the ribs—to no purpose. Henry can take as well as give.

Joe Louis, because of his calamitous punch, is Henry's only rival for first place in world's fistic ranks—and most of us would rather watch Henry work than Joe. Henry's fights have been consistently good — and that's more than can be said of Joe Louis' spotty appearances.

The Big Idea Is Dough.

"WHAT'S THE BIG IDEA?" is the puzzled inquiry of fans today, following the announcement that Armstrong's next battle would be with Lou Ambers and probably for the welter instead of the lightweight title.

There's no puzzle about that. The "big dough", to use the vernacular, is the answer. It's this way: If Ambers and Armstrong meet as welterweights and Ambers should win or make a whale of a battle, there would still be the Ambers-Armstrong fight for the lightweight crown to fall back upon. This second bout for even bigger gate money would therefore be a "natural." Two big gates instead of one.

If they fought first as lightweights and Armstrong won, there'd be no occasion for their fighting again as welterweights. It's just a case of potboiling, this exploiting two lightweights as welters one month and as lightweights the next.

Armstrong weighed 134½ pounds for Garcia, which proves he's just a lightweight after all.

What mystifies the layman, with reference to the New York commission's viewpoint, is why it made Barney Ross surrender his lightweight crown and fight in the welterweight class alone, and yet now plans to let Armstrong and Ambers both linger as champion and challenger in two different fight divisions.

"What do you expect?" is the proper reply, here. "It's just the New York commission doing its stuff again."

T. C. U. CAPTURES TITLE, DEFEATING S. M. U., 20 TO 7

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 26.—Unbridled Texas Christian nailed up its regular season today with a sledge-hammer lick that felled Southern Methodist, 20-7, won the Southwest Conference title and lifted the hook for a 'phone call from Pasadena.

Tenth victim of the Christians, the Methodists were the toughest on the list and gave up after sending 24,000 fans into a dither in the closing period.

Little David O'Brien brought out his passing wizardry only occasionally, but he personally led a ground game that netted two touchdowns and 231 yards.

Immediately after the game the Cotton Bowl Athletic Association, sponsors of the annual New Year's day post-season classic at Dallas, issued an invitation to the Christians but a reply was not expected for several days.

Southern Methodist, undefeated in Southwest Conference play until today, scored its only touchdown in the fourth period. A swarm of Methodists led by Jack Sanders, big tackle, poured in on Connie Sparks as he attempted to kick from his own 32-yard line. The kick was blocked and Bob Collins, reserve end, caught it and ran 18 yards for the touchdown.

Three times the Christians drove deep into S. M. U. ground for what seemed more touchdowns, but the Methodist line stiffened and held them on the six, seven and 17 yard stripes.

Only 10 minutes after the kickoff the Christians fell in behind O'Brien and marched 36 yards on 14 plays for the first touchdown, using only one of their famed passes.

Rangy Don Looney, left end, who crushed S. M. U. running plays all afternoon, threw in a rowdy tackle that set up the second Christian score. He slammed Mallouf on the Methodist 36-yard line after he had bagged Sparks' long kick and the Methodist dropped everything, including the ball.

On the first play, O'Brien shot a 25-yard pass that Hall snagged on the 10-yard line and took across for the score.

The Christians tallied their third touchdown early in the third period, starting from the Methodist 38-yard line after O'Brien had squirmed back 18 yards with a punt return. In six running plays they reached the one-yard line from where Sparks carried over for his tenth touchdown of the season.

O'Brien missed the kick, which is PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26. — Army bounced off the ropes with a recovered fumble and a devastating 81-yard march in the third period this afternoon to sweep Navy's hard-fighting, never-surrendering football forces into defeat, 14-7, before 102,000 half-frozen fans at Philadelphia Municipal Stadium.

The victory, twenty-second for the Cadets in a series of 39 contests noted for their ferocity and pageantry, was as sudden as it was sweet to a team that trotted on the frozen tundra a heavily-played favorite. Navy had fought back to gain a tie, 7-7, and was driving relentlessly deep in Army territory when one of its great heroes of the game, Emmett Wood of Wilkensburg, Pa., fumbled. Harry Stella, Cadet guard from Kankakee, Ill., recovered and the stage was set for the thrill-packed merciless drive that meant victory, instead of defeat or a deadlock.

Army, off to a lead in the first period when Charley (Huey) Long of Chevy Chase, Md., raced back a punt return for 79 yards and the first touchdown, was beaten and sore when the big break came. Navy had outplayed the Cadets so badly that their backs only ran one play from scrimmage in the second period as the Middies climaxed a 50-yard drive by land and air to score and then came back to shove the West Pointers back to their 17-yard line for a first down.

Ten Plays, 81 Yards.

Wood was a bit too anxious and his numbed hands a bit too cold as he grabbed the leather and prepared to hit the line. The ball squirted out of his hands and Stella pounced on it on the Army 19-yard line. Ten plays later and the Army backs, reinforced by Sydney Martin of Gilmer, Tex., who made 46 yards on the first two plays, rode over the Middie line for the final, winning touchdown.

Behind a line that stiffened suddenly, the Cadet backs slashed the enemy wall and swept the ends almost at will, Long, Art Frontczak of Dowagiac, Mich., and Woodrow Wilson of El Paso assisting in the winning drive. It was Wilson who lugged it over from the one-foot line, where the last of three crashes by Frontczak, good for nine of the 81 yards, missed going through.

Hero for the Cadets in the chill and gloom was Long. It was he who set them off for the first score on the most brilliant run of the wintry, sub-freezing day. It was Long who kicked the two extra points and it was Long who kicked several beautiful punts and several times split up the Middie defense with some of the few passes Army attempted. Statistics were all Navy, but the fumble and one Army drive nullified them. Navy piled up 10 first downs to five for Army, gained 138 yards rushing to Army's 98 and gained 73 yards with 25 passes to but seven for the Cadets.

Long's run was as pretty as it was long. Both teams were maneuvering for a break when Lemuel Cooke of Hernando, Miss., Navy's twin hero of the day with Wood, kicked a high one to Long. The boy from Chevy Chase caught it standing still and raced to the right side lines. For an instant he seemed halted by two Navy tacklers who nudged him toward the side lines, but he squirmed out of their reach, whirled and hit for the center of the frozen field. Two Navy tacklers lunged and missed and from the 50-yard line on it was clear sailing for the Army track star in a football uniform. Long's kick for extra point barely skimmed past the right upright.

Navy's Drive.

From that Army score to the end of the second period it was all Navy. The Gobs drove to

FORDHAM DEFEATS NEW YORK U., 25 TO 0, BEFORE 50,000

ESHMONT OF RAMS BOOTS PUNT 78 YARDS

Winners Score Two Touchdowns in First Period After Long Marches, Get Two in Last Quarter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The once-beaten Fordham Rams kept alive their bowl hopes by pile-driving the New York University Violets, 25 to 0, in their final game today before 50,000 frost-bitten spectators in Yankee Stadium. They made the annual "Battle of the Bronx" one-sided.

Wearing basketball sneakers for half the game to afford better footing on the icy grass, Fordham's plunging backs struck swiftly for two touchdowns in the opening quarter and finished with a couple more in the fourth.

There was no question of the result after Dom Principe, big Fordham fullback, charged across the goal line to climax a 54-yard drive in the opening minutes of play. The N. Y. U. line wasn't strong enough. Mike Hearn ran 12 yards for the second score after two brilliant sprints by Len Eshmont had carried the ball from midfield.

A 78-yard punt by Eshmont, which was a remarkable boot for a man to make wearing soft shoes, set up the third touchdown. When Ed Boell, the lone Violet star, punted it back short, Eshmont broke off guard and sprinted 22 yards into the piled-up snow in the end zone.

Eshmont passed 17 yards to Henry Jacunski for the final tally after Bill Krywicki had made his fourth pass interception of the game. This was, incidentally, the only pass completed by the Rams, Krywicki finally place-kicked an extra point after this last score.

In the face of Fordham's stubborn defense, there was nothing for the Violets to do but pass, and they filled the frosty air with 40 aerials, 17 of which were completed. They made their only concerted drive of the game in the third period when passes from Boell to Dowd and Mikulka carried them over 70 yards down to Fordham's seven-yard line before they were halted. They reached the Fordham 14-yard line early in the closing quarter.

The hard-running Rams piled up 207 yards by rushing to the losers' 24-yard marker, and had a margin of 12 first downs to 10. Principe was the most consistent gainer and after the game it was announced he had been given the official award as the contest's outstanding performer. Eshmont was spectacular in an open field.

The actual playing area had been cleared of snow, but it was banked high on the end zones and sides and the spectators had much entertainment tossing snow balls at the officials and players on the benches. Had they been able to keep their feet, the Rams probably would have run up a higher score, as they slipped and fell several times when in the clear.

Sonja Henie Drew 79,049 Here for 5 Performances

THERE were 18,204 persons at the Arena last night to see the final performance of Sonja Henie's Hollywood Ice Revue, according to an announcement by William Burke, tour manager. That brought the total for the five nights here to 79,049.

Last night's crowd was undoubtedly a record for the Arena for any spectacle except those which permit seats on the floor surface.

Miss Henie and her troup departed after the show for St. Paul, where the revue is scheduled for three nights after which they will appear three nights in Minneapolis.

TWO-Ton Tony

It's Tony Galento, the "New Jersey Nightstick," starting training for his fight at The Arena here Dec. 7.

Tony, who tends bar in his New Jersey tavern, and drinks beer almost up to the day of the fight weighs 236 pounds.

Nevertheless he steps around well enough to bring his really heavy punches into range.

of which is expected to force Joe Louis to fight him.

What makes the effort more intense is that John Henry Lewis already is matched with Louis for Jan. 27, and Lewis was the man matched with Galento, when the New Jersey Nightstick was laid low by illness.

Now the chorus singing the praises of Tony rises; and here is what some of the soloists are saying:

JOE WOODMAN (former manager of Sam Langford) to Manager Joe Jacobs: "Joe, you have nothing to worry about. There is nothing fancy about Tony's work, but when he clips the other fellow on the chin, the fight's over. The customers like his style and after all, they are the ones to please."

"DUMB" DAN MORGAN, former manager of Bat Levinsky and Jack Britton: "Right you are. Even if he isn't Irish, Tony fights like an Irishman and is built something like Willie Meehan, the 'Frisco Irishman who licked Jack Dempsey a couple of times."

EDDIE MEADE, manager of Henry Armstrong: "I was just thinking that Galento is built something like Tommy Burns—who was good enough to be champion."

BILLY ROCHE, old-time referee: "Tony looks to me like Tom Sharkey the more I see of him, the more I believe he's a No. I man in his getup and general fighting style."

WHATTA MAN! The punch of Jack Dempsey, the agility of Willie Meehan, the courage of Tommy Burns and the granite physique of Tom Sharkey!

If he only had John L.'s mighty right, Sam Langford's left hook, Jack Johnson's defense and Gene Tunney's noodle he might be able to make that first 10 in earnest.

Not Crabbing.

NO, WE HAVEN'T anything against Tony except that he is being over-boosted. He is a rough, tough, foul, courageous fighter who will give most opponents a terribly uneasy feeling. But after all he's fat, not young and is just a mauler.

Galento should be able to take care of fighters like Thomas, but not too easily.

Out on a Limb.

THE ROSE BOWL football game may turn out to be a humdinger, but it is just a headache for those who must name the Pacific Coast team. A vote of conference sports writers very strongly favored the Southern California eleven, but there's nothing official about that.

What the 10 representatives of the Pacific Coast Conference who have been delegated the responsibility of naming a conference Rose Bowl representative are worrying about is that they must make their selection tomorrow.

Southern California would be the almost unanimous choice, were it not for the fact that its eleven must play Notre Dame next Saturday, with a pretty good prospect of taking a licking. Two defeats by non-conference teams would then mar the Trojans' record. This, in addition to a 7-6 setback by the University of Washington's oft-beaten outfit, would remove all championship flavor from the contest.

OF COURSE, A VICTORY over Notre Dame would put the Trojans back in the running, because the Irish are now rated No. 1 eleven of the nation.

The Pacific Coast this year has not to date developed a standout eleven, and all have suffered one or more defeats. Alabama started them off on the wrong foot by defeating Southern California in the first game and Minnesota did the same trick to University of Washington.

Southern California early this season, apparently had not fully recovered from the deflation it experienced about three years ago. And perhaps de-emphasis has affected the level of football throughout the entire conference.

The Merry-Go-Round.

JIMMY LONDOS, now mat "champion of the world"—if you mean Promoter Toots Mondt's world—is having his troubles. That is to say, he can't crash New York, where hostile scribes, promoters and hall owners apparently have combined in a freeze-out game.

As a result, he will have to defend his title next Tuesday in Newark, N. J., where they are trying to build anew the fires of Greek enthusiasm.

Not the least interesting fact connected therewith is that Jimmy's "title defense" will be against Joe Savoldi, whom Londos defeated just a few days ago! Savoldi has slipped far below even the phony championship plane. He has even appeared on one of Bill Schwabe's Coliseum cards.

Savoldi and that kind seem little more than stooges for Jimmy's act, if we interpret the repetition of their meetings rightly.

It's too bad commissions can't view this latter-day wrestling in its right aspect and label the shows not "championship" but "exhibition," which is what they really are.

That acrobats and showmen can palm off their acts from year to year as real wrestling is one of the all-time unsolved mysteries.

MOORE TO BOX TURNER ON CARD HERE, DEC. 7

Archie Moore, St. Louis Negro middleweight, will meet Bob Turner of Richmond, Va., in the 10-round semifinal on the Tony Galento-Otis Thomas card at The Arena, Dec. 7, Matchmaker Larry Atkins announced last night.

Moore knocked out Ray Lyle at the Coliseum recently and some months ago Turner fought and lost to Allen Matthews at The Auditorium.

Turner, 25 years of age, has defeated, among others, Carmen Barth, Cleveland, was knocked out by Solly Krieger, Brooklyn, in seven rounds, Krieger won a claim to the middleweight title by defeating Al Hostak.

Thomas is due here for a workout at the Slaughter A. C. tomorrow, while Galento is scheduled to arrive Wednesday and do his training at the Business Men's Gymnasium.

Joe Jacobs, widely known fight manager, manages Galento and is expected here with him.

Galento, who for some time has been shouting for a title match with Joe Louis, holds knockouts over Al Ettore, Lorenzo Pack, Eddie Mader, Leroy Haynes, Izzy Singer, Charley Mazzera, Nathan Mann and others.

Galento was matched with John Henry Lewis this summer, but was stricken with pneumonia just before the contest and it was canceled.

GOODMAN HAS 51 STOPS AS FLYERS LOSE TO WICHITA, 2 TO 1

the contest wound up with the Flyers having but four men on the ice and being unable to get together a concerted rush to tie the score.

In winning their second victory in eight contests the Skyhawks took a second period lead after both squads had skated off the ice at the end of the first, unable to score. Jack Sim, Hawk defense man, counted at 2:35 in this second stanza after Teel and Maloney had driven Nelson to the ice.

Then came the wild third period with Goodman's work in the nets for Wichita standing out. Goodman made 18 stops as the Flyers rushed four and five men down the ice repeatedly to give him a total of 51 stops for the evening. The solid rush of Flyers on Goodman proved their own undoing as Wichita stepped into a 2 to 0 lead at seven minutes, when Miller, Mulvihill and Papike jumped away from Pusie and Carbol to fly down on an unprotected Nelson. Nelson heroically tried to make the stop but Mike Miller blasted the puck into the net and then went headlong into the ropes himself with Nelson under him.

The Flyers stepped back into the game at 15 minutes with Pusie and Ranger off the ice on major penalties for scrapping, after Ranger had given Jean a stiff check in mid-ice. Matte and Hudson down the ice, passed to Purpur who skidded in rapidly to take the disc in front of the goal and beat Goodman.

The last five minutes, with Ranger and Pusie and then Brenneman, Burland and Hudson off in order, was wild. The Flyers tried to rush down in solid formation and several times the Hawks almost broke through to gain solo chances without interference.

Immediately after the game both squads left for St. Louis where they meet at the Arena again tomorrow night.

Did You Say Baseball?

Things are quiet these days at the offices of the Browns and Cardinals and there probably is less baseball talk on the streets and in the taverns than in many a winter. Tom Watkins of the Memphis club called at the Redbird office yesterday and talked about players with Branch Rickey. He also is said to be looking for a manager to succeed Billy Southworth at Memphis, Southworth having moved back to the Cardinal organization to manage the Rochester club of the International League.

When you do run across a baseball fan who wants to talk, you find that he isn't very hopeful, so Ray Blades, new leader of the Cardinals, and Fred Haney, field director of the Browns, will be not at all on the spot.

"The man on the spot," Beowulf Q. Phan told the writer—Beowulf always is good for a few words on the national game—"is one Branch Rickey. That's the way I see it. I mean he'll have everything his way now. No Frisch to cross him. He apparently has sold Sam Breadon on the dictator idea in baseball. That is, Rickey will be the whole show. He's picked his manager, after firing Breadon's boy Frisch, he'll pick the players, and believe me, the Cardinals had better win."

The Prospects.

Rickey has made it known that he will have another baseball training school at Winter Haven in February, and there are many who think that Branch also feels that he is on the spot. They expect him to make every effort, even perhaps to the point of favoring the Cardinals over Rochester, Columbus, Houston and Sacramento, to give St. Louis its first National League pennant since 1934.

However, Rickey has a long way to go before he will have the Cardinals up to pennant-winning strength. He still needs a second baseman and shortstop—that is a satisfactory one. He still needs catching help and there will have to be replacements in the pitching department if the team is to return to the first division and serious competition for the league championship.

Padgett to Try Again.

Don Padgett will be urged to make another good old college try at the specialized job of catching. He took a whirl at it last spring at Winter Haven, but was so green in early exhibition games that he gladly hid the mask, pad and shin guards in a locker corner, and raced back to the outfield with his finger mitt.

However, he will try again, at Rickey's request, to learn about pop flies and low pitches. Those were his greatest troubles last spring. He quickly learned about signs and held speed and curves satisfactorily. But in a league of low-ball pitching, it is essential that a catcher learn to get the ones near the dirt. Padgett still was trying to stop the low ones without shifting his glove position, when Manager Frisch decided that too many games would be lost, if he caught Don in league competition.

Making It Tough.

It would have been different if the Cardinals had been recognized last spring—that is recognized officially by the front office—as a non pennant contender. Most professional observers catalogued the club as definitely out of the pennant picture, but Rickey proclaimed that it was the best Cardinal team in 12 years. As there had been five pennants and three world championship teams in that time, Rickey's declaration put a definite load on Frisch's shoulders and so Frisch tried to win. Had Rickey declared it a year of rebuilding, any manager would have been more willing to include the training of Catcher Padgett in the year's work.

This year, Blades' task will be easier. Rickey will not have courage—if that is the word—to make a similar declaration in March. Nobody will expect a pennant of the Blades' team. And nobody will complain if time is spent on Padgett or pitchers or infielders, as the fans realize that a pennant is a thing to hope for in the future, not in 1939.

Hurdles for Blades.

Blades' greatest difficulty will be that he will be managing a team in a city which has become accustomed to pennant fights and another burden will be that he will be taking the place of the popular Frisch, who undoubtedly made more personal friends than any other team leader the city had known in decades.

The Browns, on the other hand, will go on with their striving, fruitless since the American League was organized, to break into a world series. And nobody expects any long forward strides by the 1939 Browns. The team should be better, however. Young players are coming up and the Browns should be more interesting than in years.

80,000 Endure Cold to Watch Chicago Prep Title Contest

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Approximately 80,000 persons, one of the nation's largest football crowds this year, ignored bitter cold and flurries of snow today at Soldier Field to watch Fenger's Public High School champions defeat Mount Carmel's Catholic League winners, 13 to 0, for charity and Chicago's prep grid championship.

Receipts were expected to gross between $85,000 and $90,000 for Mayor Edward J. Kelly's Christmas benefit fund for needy children. More than 100,00 tickets had been sold.

A crowd of 115,000 watched Bill de Correvont lead Austin Public High to the title last year.

Don Griffin, Fenger junior quarterback hailed as a second De Correvont, failed to score a point, but passed to John Cappozzo in the end zone in the first period for one touchdown. In the second quarter, his 23-yard run and another pass led to Norm Olson plunging across for the other. Griffin's longest dash was for 33 yards.

ARMSTRONG TO DEFEND TITLE AGAIN, DEC. 6

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Henry Armstrong perched the world welterweight and lightweight crowns cockily on his brow today and sat down to his delayed Thanksgiving turkey, while Bash Boulevard wondered whether his fistic monopoly wasn't killing off competition among the little fellows.

The little hammer was none the worse for wear from the artistic 15-round going-over he handed Ceferino Garcia Friday night to hang onto the welterweight title. He still had a sore left eye and a sore left thumb, but it was nothing a few day's rest wouldn't cure—and he'll be ready to tangle with Al Manfredo for the 147-pound laurels again in Cleveland, Dec. 6.

Garcia, on the other hand, was a sore and weary warrior. First off, he decided as soon as he awoke this morning that he'd never campaign among the welterweights again—that hereafter he was a middleweight for keeps. Then he went to a doctor with the hands he injured trying to do something about Henry's driving charges. The left appeared to be hurt quite badly, and it was said the Filipino flailer, who wound up the bruising battle with both eyes cut and his face generally banged up, would be on the shelf for two months.

But where Henry's competition would come from, now that the Garcia challenge had been filed away as finished business, was a question. Mike Jacobs tried to find the answer by announcing the Little Brown Bomber from Los Angeles would defend the 147-pound crown against Lou Ambers either in February or March. Now, Ambers is a lightweight, and was champion among the 135-pounders until he met up with Armstrong in September. After that, he wasn't No. 1 any more.

So lots of the boys couldn't quite get the reason for a welterweight bout between these two natural lightweights. One of the mystified individuals was the genial Al (Weskit) Weill, who handles the affairs of Ambers.

"Say," said Al, "that Armstrong must be afraid of Lou or something. Lou is a lightweight, so why won't Henry put the 135-pound championship on the line. Why should Lou come in over 135 pounds, when his best fighting weight is less than that?

"Anyway, you can say for me that I'm definitely not interested in a welterweight title fight right now. We want the lightweight championship back. So we'll challenge for it when Armstrong's six months are up. (Under New York rules, a champion must defend his title every six months or then meet the challenger designated by the Athletic Commission)."

DUKE DOWNS PITT 7 TO 0; UNBEATEN AND UNTIED FOR SEASON

the great Marshall Goldberg leading the attacks with reckless and brilliant running and deadly blocking.

Each time the surge fell short, the solid, seaworthy Duke line halted the first savage charge on the 10-yard line. The second failed when Larry Peace, replacement for the injured Goldberg, fumbled on the 19-yard line.

Goldberg was the spearhead of each drive. The first time he made first downs on the Pitt 31 and 46-yard lines, pounded out two more on the Duke 39 and 24-yard lines and then smashed out the last of the 10-yard stripe.

This wholesale devastation of the Duke tackles and guards went for naught. The Duke forwards stopped Dick Cassiano cold on two reverses, Goldberg's wobbly pass to Bill Daddio was incomplete and then a horde of Blue Jerseys buried Curly Stebbins on the 12-yard line, and Duke had the ball.

Goldberg had carried the ball five times in the second drive that went to the Duke 23-yard line when he hurt his knee. He was taken out and on the first play Peace crashed through, fumbled and the ball game was lost.

Tipton's Punting Outstanding.

Pitt never put on a sustained drive again. Tipton kicked out of that hole as he had the previous one, and though Duke's running attack was halted by the smart, hard-tackling Pitt line so well that the Blue Devils made only one first down—that late in the fourth quarter—they had Tipton, and he was enough.

His punt out of bounds on the Pittsburgh five-yard line set up the touchdown. Chickerneo went back to kick on first down and Perdue, who had been banging away all day, without success, smashed over a Pitt defender and into the ball just as it left Chickerneo's foot.

The ball bounced onto the ground and into the air. Perdue caught it and the stadium rocked with cheers as the referee's arms shot up signaling the touchdown. Tony Ruffa, the place-kicking specialist, dashed in and converted the seventh point.

The rest was up to Tipton. He responded gloriously. Four times he punted out of bounds in that last period, three times the ball skidded out on the 11, seven and eight-yard lines. Against this booting Pitt could not stir. It failed to make a first down in the entire half and Duke went on to glory.

GUNNER LINEUP CHANGED FOR PLAYOFF AGAINST NASHVILLE

ZAPUSTAS TO BE AT QUARTERBACK AT THE KICKOFF

Starting time—2:15 p. m.

With their first American Professional Football League title within the reach of both teams, the St. Louis Gunners and the Nashville Rebels are scheduled to meet in the championship play-off opener at Walsh Stadium this afternoon.

As the two most improved teams in the league are battling desperately to redeem seasons which saw them get off badly and then surge toward the top, today's game looms as a wide-open affair.

Earlier in the year the two clubs battled to a 7-7 tie at Walsh Stadium. Today Nashville will send out five players and St. Louis will send out eight who did not see action in the previous meeting.

While St. Louis and Nashville are playing here in one-half of the play-off, Chicago and Louisville will meet at Louisville in the other bracket. The winners will meet next week to decide the championship.

The Gunners will depend upon the good right arm of Ray Johnson to pitch them to victory. With just that thought in mind, Coach Babe Lyons has revamped the team's lineup so as to include two additional pass receivers and possibly three in the starting lineup.

In addition to Ferd Dreher, gigantic end who had a bad day in pass receiving last week and who will be trying to redeem himself, Lyons has given the call to Dick Fitzgerald at the opposite end, Joe Zapustas at quarterback and Swede Ekstrom at right halfback in order to include more receivers in his lineup. Fitzgerald was the only one who could catch passes last week against Chicago. After shaking the opposition's defense loose with passes, Johnson offers a real threat as a ball carrier, for he is a hard-driving back and knows how to utilize his 215 pounds to good advantage.

The Gunners can also throw into action another backfield which is expected to be just as effective as the starting quartet. Mike Sebastian, who has been the outstanding back on the team over the season, will call signals for a set of backs which will include Bill Donovan, Vernon East and Carl Kane. Al Londe and Les Post will also work in with this quartet.

Nashville will try to match this array of backfield talent with Marty Slovak, Rocky Reid, Claude Phillips and George Fowler. Slovak and Reid are the ball carrying and passing combine, and Phillips, a 220-pound fullback, is a line smasher. Fowler, who was one of the stars in the Indiana backfield, does the punting for the Nashville club.

In the line, however, Nashville may have some advantage over the Gunners. The Rebels have three fine tackles in Razzik, Chumich and Gilmer. The first-named two stood out in the game here earlier in the season, while Gilmer joined the club after the Boston Shamrocks completed their season. The smallest man of this trio is Razzik, who weighs 250 pounds, but he has tremendous speed and drive to make up for the fact that Gilmer weighs 15 pounds more and Chumich 10 pounds more.

Gametime is 2:15 o'clock. Workmen have been busy on the Walsh Stadium playing surface and the Gunner management stated the game would be played except in event of a heavy snow.

Huey Long's 79-yard run to score for Army against Navy in yesterday's service game at Philadelphia was the occasion for the cheer leader doing a cartwheel in the above picture, snapped as Long was crossing his 30-yard line. Long took a punt on the 21-yard mark to start the run for Army's first touchdown.

Army, Outplayed in First Half, Wins From Navy, 14-7

Army's four and 14-yard lines without getting it over but finally midway in the second period capped a 46-yard drive with a touchdown to tie the count.

Wood started the touchdown rally by returning Army's kick-off 12 yards to midfield. Stella drove Cooke back three yards but the Middies couldn't be stopped from that mark on. Wood, hitting a wavering line on center bucks, drove to the Cadet 36-yard line on three smashes, was thrown for a six-yard loss by Johnny Samuel and then caught a pass on the Army 25-yard line. Passes, all tossed by Cooke, completely baffled the Cadets, but on the one-yard marker Cooke took the ball himself and hit his right for the score. Wood kicked the goal.

The final period saw Navy penetrate Army territory, but the alert Army secondary held.

SOLDAN WINS FROM CLEVELAND, 20-0, IN PLAYOFF FOR TITLE

ran around left end for the extra point.

Cleveland tried some desperate passes as the first half waned, but was unable to drive into Soldan's territory.

Wind Helps Passing.

Cleveland's second effort to score came at the start of the third quarter, when its passing attack was helped considerably by the sharp southwest wind which whistled down the field. After a preliminary skirmish, Cleveland started on its way when Ray Mills intercepted Lombardo's pass and ran to the Cleveland 43-yard mark. Vernon Barth, crushing Cleveland halfback, made 11 yards over the center. Mills then faded back, clutched the ball in his stiff fingers and threw a wobbly pass to Don Huether, who caught the ball and ran to Soldan's 14-yard line.

After an incomplete pass and two short ground gains, Mills picked up a fumbled lateral pass and tried to throw it forward to Warren Stecher, standing in the end zone. The alert Lombardo, seeing what was happening, dashed over and batted the ball to the ground. With that pass went Cleveland's hopes for a victory, for the game was all Soldan after that.

The Tigers moved from their 20-yard line, where they took over after the grounded pass, and went steadily down the field through the remainder of the third period and into the final quarter. As the final session started, Soldan had the ball on Cleveland's 10-yard line.

On the first play in the fourth period Lombardo passed to Howard Smith for a touchdown. Smith failed to add the extra point when his line plunge was short.

Shortly after that Lombardo swung into action again. Cleveland took the kick-off and lost the ball when John Stites intercepted Barth's pass on the Cleveland 24-yard line. After Lombardo ran out of bounds at the 18-yard line, the West End eleven made it first down on the 13-yard line.

Touchdown on Lateral.

Smith then carried the ball. He was tackled and as he was about to fall he lateralled to Lombardo, who went around left end for the touchdown. Marko Todorovich's try for the extra point was low and blocked but Cleveland was offside, and penalized a yard and a half. Lombardo then crashed over right tackle for the extra point.

In the final 10 minutes Cleveland failed to unwind its running and passing consistently enough to approach Soldan's goal line.

Soldan's victory undoubtedly was due to splendid blocking by backs and co-ordinated line work. Robert Sweeney, all-star center, who has played in every Soldan game for the past three years, was a regular "tiger" on attack and defense.

Soldan outrushed Cleveland, 164 yards to 118, but the Carondelet eleven gained 119 yards on its six completed passes to 18 for Soldan and outgained the 1938 champions on total yardage, 237 to 182. However, they pay off on touchdowns.

Soldan recorded 15 first downs to eight for Cleveland.

The final standings (not including the first Cleveland-Soldan game, Oct. 15):

School.	Won.	Lost.	Tie.	Pct.
Soldan	5	0	0	1.000
Cleveland	4	1	0	.800

Prospects of St. Louis' two professional soccer elevens reaching the final in the Peel Cup competition against Chicago clubs appeared anything but bright as the rivals line up in the second match of the two-game, total goals to count, series this afternoon.

In the match at West Side Park, the Lindells, five goals down, play the Manhattans, while at Chicago the Burkes oppose the national champion Sparta eleven. In the game here last week, Sparta won, 1 to 0, due mainly to some sensational goal-guarding by Joe Silovski. Silovski made several brilliant saves to turn back assaults from the Burke forwards.

The Lindells' chances of getting into the final, to be decided on the total goals basis in two battles appear mighty slim. Twice this season the Lindells have played the Manhattans and each time the St. Louisans have been stopped by top-heavy scores, 5 to 0 and 6 to 1. And the Manhattans today will have the same players in the lineup, whereas the Lindells have made no outstanding addition to bolster either the attack or defense.

Man o' War Billy Gonsalves, who played brilliantly here with several national champions after coming from the East, had a field day against the Lindells in Chicago last Sunday, scoring four goals. He'll be in action again, as will Ed Begley, Art Garcia, Hugh Davidson, Scotty Nilsen and others who starred on St. Louis fields before signing with the Windy City eleven.

In the two matches played by the clubs, the Lindells have made a fight of it in the first half but have faded badly in the second. For instance, last Sunday the score was 2-1 after the first 45 minutes of battling. However, in the closing half, the Manhattans scored four goals, three of the number going to Gonsalves—one of them on a penalty kick.

As was the case here, the Burkes will have to watch Jimmy McDermott in the Windy City game. Bill Watson, a great halfback, did a good job of it last Sunday, holding the star of the Sparta forward line scoreless. However, it was Bill Fraser who took a pass from McDermott to count the goal which sent the Burkes down to defeat.

OKLAHOMA WINS FROM AGGIES BY 19-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Ok., Nov. 26.—Oklahoma's Sooners, unbeaten champions of the Big Six, traveled the air lines when their ground attack bogged down and whipped Oklahoma Aggies, 19 to 0, before 9000 fans here today.

The Sooners took to the air to set the stage for two touchdowns in the second period and added an end zone pass for the final counter in the last quarter.

The Aggies never got as far as the 50-yard line and spent most of the afternoon scratching their backs on their own goal posts.

Led by C. B. Coffey and Ralph Foster, the Aggie forward wall throttled the Sooner ground attack through a scoreless first period, but when Hugh McCullough and Otis Rogers, the Sooner gunners, opened up with deadly accuracy, the Aggie defense cracked.

The first touchdown came on the third play of the second period when Bob Seymour drove over from the six-yard line. Two passes, McCullough to Fraank Ivy for 17 yards and McCullough to Dick Favor for 21, late in the first quarter, set the ball in striking distance.

Later in the same period, the Sooners took the ball at the Aggie 47-yard line after a punt exchange and Rogers tossed two passes to Gene Corrotto, one for five yards and one for 29, which carried them to the eight-yard stripe. Rogers went over from the four-yard line on the third down and Raphael Boudreau kicked the extra point.

Early in the final period the Sooners drove to the Aggie three-yard line, but the Aggies held. Bill Cowling got off a wobbly kick that went out of bounds on the 22-yard line and a penalty took the Sooners to the 17-yard line.

Three plays, two of them attempted passes, failed, but on the fourth down Rogers shot a pass to Jennings, running wide open in the end zone.

The victory was the thirteenth straight for the Sooners, who still have Washington State to play next week.

Baylor Defeats Rice, 21 to 6

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 26.—Bullet Bill Patterson and the Baylor Bears passed, kicked and ran the Rice Institute Owls ragged, overwhelming them, 21 to 6, here today.

It was Patterson's final game for Baylor and his fifteenth consecutive 60-minute performance.

Patterson and that man who plays end for Baylor, Sam Boyd, bearded and 24 years old, had Rice so befuddled in the last quarter that Ernie Lain was passing to Ken Whitlow, Rice center, and twice Rice lost the ball because Whitlow was ineligible to receive passes.

Patterson set up the first Baylor touchdown in the first quarter by a series of forward passes that put the ball on the Rice three-yard stripe. There he stepped aside and let Milton Merka, Baylor fullback, smash over for the score. Nelson converted.

In the third period Rice was penalized half the distance to its goal line for unnecessary roughness, giving Baylor the ball and a first down on the Rice 19-yard line.

Then Bullet Bill and Fred Graham pulled up with a first down on the Rice nine-yard line. Graham tapped the Rice line lightly twice and Patterson on the fourth down tossed a pass into Boyd's waiting arms for Baylor's second touchdown.

Patterson tossed a pass to Boyd on the Rice 18-yard line. Then he shot one to Malcolm Lider, sub Baylor back, who was standing on the Rice eight-yard line and sped over the goal for Baylor's third score.

Rice scored in the second when Bivins, sub Baylor back, tried to lateral and Moose Hartman, Rice lineman, intercepted on the Baylor 46-yard line and ran for a touchdown.

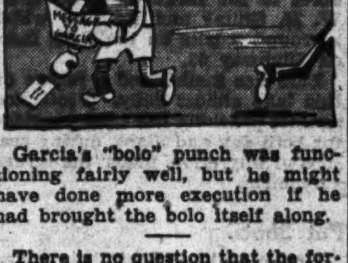
And Still Champion.

WITH many an uppercut, wallop and hook,
A message to Garcia, Hennery took,
With a furious shower of leather;
But Henry himself took a few on the chin,
From Garcia intent upon doing him in,
But the storm Henry managed to weather.

Though the welterweight champion from Garcia won,
For their money the customers get a good run,
On the part of the game Filipino.
And while the decision a few of them booed,
It didn't take most of them long to conclude
That Armstrong had licked Ceferino.

Though Garcia threw "bolo" punches galore,
Intended the tough Mr. Armstrong to floor,
He found that he just couldn't floor him.
The fighters were both at the top of their form,
But Hurricane Henry put on a big storm
That swept Ceferino before him.



Garcia's "bolo" punch was functioning fairly well, but he might have done more execution if he had brought the bolo itself along.

There is no question that the forward pass has its points on the offense, but the man who knows the ropes says the block and tackle is the thing for the defense.

Crowds of over 100,000 turn out in Chicago to see the high-school boys run off their championships. Youth will be served.

Johnny Broaca, who ran out on the Yankees after a run-in with the management, has been reinstated and waived on to the Cleveland Indians. Indicating that the Yankees' bench is full up.

While Tony Lazzeri hasn't closed with the Indians for a coaching and utility infield job, the hen is still on and may bring forth fruit any minute.

A strong trade from the East blew over St. Louis last week, touching lightly at Sportsman's Park, but did no damage. Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize, at first reported to have been caught up in the vortex of the twister, have turned up safe and sound in the Cardinals' bomb-proof dugout.

The Browns report everything quiet on the Western front, and have thrown a strong guard around Buck Newsom, as suspicious characters supposed to be emissaries from a certain club have been seen lurking around with a possible view of kidnaping the Brownie ace in the hole.

There was some talk of appealing to Judge Landis for protection until it was pointed out that the "Jedge" couldn't take any action before the fact.

A contemporary suggests that a ring "natural" would be a match between Norment Quarles and Henry Hook. That is what you might call one for the scrap book.

To preserve the amenities, Bob Pastor would make a good referee for the bout.

LASH AFTER FIFTH VICTORY IN SUCCESSION IN 10,000-METER RUN

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 26.—Some 80-odd athletes will be running after Indiana's Don Lash, seeking his fifth triumph in succession, in the senior national 10,000-meter cross-country championship tomorrow and, if the weather man's prediction comes true, they'll also be running to keep warm.

Lash set the course record of 32.37 in his 1936 triumph. Soggy conditions slowed him down to 32.57 last year.

Lash's principal opposition is expected to come from Gene Venzke, Tommy Deckard, Lloyd Cooke, Iron Man Joe McCluskey, Gregory Rice, Vince Carnivale, Tom Quinn, Pat Dengis and Lou Gregory.

Manhattan College was rated a good chance to capture the team championship which will be defended by the Millrose A. A.'s eight-man team.

SCHUMACHERS MEET GERMANS IN MUNY SOCCER

The German Sport Club will battle the Schumacher Undertakers, defending champions, in a 3:30 o'clock game at Carondelet Park this afternoon in the feature contest of the fifth round games of the Municipal Soccer Association. Three weeks ago the Schumachers defeated the Germans, 1 to 0.

Since that contest the Schumachers have made no change in their championship lineup whereas Manager Nick Jost of the Germans has added the veteran Seneca Nolan, member of such previous Muny title winning clubs as the Stags, El Reys and Irish Village, to the halfback line.

So far the Schumachers are undefeated though they were held to a 1-1 tie by the Nebcos two weeks ago. The Germans have a pair of victories as well as a 1-1 tie with the Carondelet A. C.

Another interesting game is expected to be the 2 o'clock contest between the unbeaten Gem Cleaners and the Northwest Horseshoe Club at Walnut Park, Riverview drive and Stratford avenue. Three weeks ago the Gems won a 1-0 decision.

Two undefeated junior teams will meet at 2 o'clock at Fairground No. 5, the Parks Norge club with three victories and a tie and the Andy Fredricks with a triumph and two ties in three contests.

Eight teams are still undefeated. Four are seniors, Schumachers, Zeltman Service, Tait & Sons and Gem Cleaners; two are in the intermediate ranks, Plaza A. C. and Holy Rosary; while the Fredricks and Parks Norge are the two junior representatives.

WOODSAW RALLIES TO WIN $1500 RACE AT FAIRGROUNDS

CHIEF NADI IS SECOND; JEWELL DORSETT THIRD

Oddessa's Pride Pays $22.80 in Winning Fifth Race—Prince Sador, the Favorite, Is Second.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 26.—The three-year-old Cherokee colt, Mrs. J. A. Nix's Woodsaw, raced to a hard-earned victory in the Dixie Handicap, feature of the program at Fair Grounds today before a crowd of 10,000 race-enthusiasts.

Under the light package of 106 pounds in the weight for age affair, the chestnut colt was held within striking distance in the pace and won ridden out a length and a half ahead of W. E. Managh's Chief Nadi.

Mrs. J. W. Brown's filly, Jewell Dorsett, shipped here after a brilliant showing on the New York tracks was installed favorite. The well-liked daughter of Cohort followed the pace of Fairflax through the back stretch, collared him at the turn and drew away to a three-length lead turning into the stretch. Woodsaw, under the strong urging of Jockey S. Williams, after failing to keep the pace, was brought along on the outside on the final turn and rapidly overhauled the tiring filly, who just failed to last enough to stave off the closing challenge of Chief Nadi for second money.

Woodsaw was made second choice in the betting and paid $7.40 to his backers, and negotiated the six-furlong distance in the fast time of 1:11 4-5.

The fifth race was won by Mrs. H. C. Rumage's Oddesa's Pride who, ignored by most of the customers, paid $22.80 for 2 in the mutuels. Under good restraint for three-quarters of the mile and 70 yards, Oddesa's Pride, in a hard drive, came up on the inside to take the lead in the last 70 yards. Prince Sador, the favorite, chasing Adolf, who led most of the way, managed to save the place by a neck. Adolf quit in the stretch to finish fifth, the show prize going to Double R.

Earl of Derby Wins $157,956 With His Horses

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 26.—The Earl of Derby emerged tonight as England's winning horse-raceowner of the year as the 1938 flat-racing season came to a close with the Manchester November Handicap, won by G. F. Hartigan's Pappageno II.

Lord Derby won stakes worth $157,956. James Rank was second with $132,926. The winning trainer was Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, who handles the American-owned horses of William Woedward of New York. He saddled 44 winners to take stakes worth $237,177. Gordon Richards again topped the jockeys with 206 victories.

Pappageno won the November Handicap by two lengths from Mrs. Sofer Whitburn's Dragonnade with Capt. G. S. Barnes' Battle Song a short head away for third money in the field of 26.

Pappageno started at 100 to 7 and covered the mile and a half in two minutes, 52 seconds.

Federation Soccer Schedule.

Four games are scheduled today in the Federation Soccer League. At Columbus Park, Tenth and Carr streets, the Attics will meet the I. P. C. in the first game at 2 o'clock and the Trojans will play the Park Mice at 3:30. At Murphy Park, Nineteenth and Cass, the Dixie Knights meet the Toppers at 2 o'clock and the Ritzes play the C. S. P. C. at 3:30.

Only One More Day.

HUNTERS have only one more day to gun for ducks; the curtain will be lowered tomorrow afternoon at 4 p. m. Hopes for bag limits during the remaining period are none too high; nor are memories of the by-gone season too pleasant.

Veterans who have taken their turns in the blinds for a number of years honestly believe 1938 to be one of the worst seasons in the history of local duck shooting. The principal reason was the fact that the temperature, while it fell occasionally, did not remain low enough generally for a period of time sufficient to keep the ducks moving from Canada to our shooting grounds. It takes freezing weather to make the Northern ducks move south.

While the weather has been below 30 here for the last few days, farther north it was around 50, which permitted the ducks to remain where they were.

A second reason advanced by many is that our feeding grounds are not adequate to hold what flights do go over. This was most noticeable when a cold snap two weeks ago hurried a large number of mallards and other species from the North which, instead of stopping here, went on into the rice fields of Arkansas and Louisiana. Incidentally, Arkansas is anticipating the best season since 1929.

Fifteen Extra Days Worthless.

The 15 days added to the front of the 1938 season in the intermediate zone was of no use, duck hunters say. Nor is this an exceptional year so far as those added days are concerned. Searching back through 10 years of files, we find first flights reported as coming in not earlier than Oct. 20 and more often about Oct. 25. These were not the main flights, but the first.

The big flights of Northern fowl usually come in from Nov. 15 to Dec. 10. With these dates in mind, shooters in the intermediate zone, especially in Missouri and Illinois (where complaints have been most frequent) can't see where they benefit from opening the season so early.

Dogs at Work.

Good quail hunting is being enjoyed by Missourians, reports show. The coveys are large, the birds full of vitality and apparently they are numerous in practically every county in the State.

The program advocated by conservation groups for the last three years undoubtedly is showing its effect today. Literature has reached the hands of practically every farmer and hunter in Missouri as to the proper care of quail during snows, freezes and floods. Not only does this save the lives of many birds, but it makes them stronger and able to produce a more healthy brood stock.

You Bring the Duck.

Inasmuch as many husbands will return from the hunt today and tomorrow with some species of web-footed fowl, we are passing on this recipe given us by Eltinge F. Warner, publisher of Field and Stream. Mr. Warner gave us this recipe for roast wlid duck while he was in St. Louis for the St. Louis Retriever Trials at the Dardenne Shooting Club. Until Thursday we had no use for said recipe but found that it worked wonders on a trio of mallards which were unfortunate enough to get in the paths of some of our wild shots.

"Cut up equal portions of celery root, turnip, onion, parsely and carrot; fry with few slices of bacon in roasting pan until whole begins to brown. Upon this place the duck, thoroughly washed and salted, either larded with or covered by a strip of bacon. Baste while roasting with red wine. When done, pour cream over whole and allow it to become brown. Remove duck, sift in flour and allow to brown. Strain and serve sauce over sliced duck and dumpling."

It turned out well; perhaps because the first wild duck of the season inevitably tastes that way, but probably because Mr. Warner, a hunter of varied knowledge, holds this to be his favorite recipe.

Waterfowl Refuge.

Establishment of the first migratory waterfowl refuge under state supervision has been announced by the Missouri Conservation Commission. It is the Boone County Waterfowl Refuge, comprising 1260 acres in the farms of L. D. Bass, W. H. Guitar and Ed Lee, which surround a lake on the Bass farm on Highway 63.

Bass has maintained a refuge on this lake almost daily. Protection against poaching has been provided for both day and night, during seasons of migration, under the refuge agreement.

Pot Shots.

Humming birds beat their wings 200 times per second while in flight according to a study made by the American Wildlife Institute. Larger birds have a slower wing beat; the sparrow, 13 times per second and the pelican has been clocked at only one and one-sixteenth strokes. . . . One hundred and forty-four individual Missouri land owners, controlling 155,000 acres of forest land, have entered into an agreement with the Conservation Commission for co-operative forest fire protection work. . . . There are now more than 40 lookout towers in Missouri's forest area. . . . When completed, the bass hatchery at Indian Trail State Forest, Dent County, will have 52 acres of water area. More than 200,000 native fish fingerlings have been harvested this fall. . . . A treat is in store for hunters near Dresden, Tenn., who come to Farmer R. W. Frick's place and see the sign: "Be a good sport, gentlemen. You are welcome to hunt on my place any time in season. If you need a gun, ask the wife or myself and we will lend you one. We have several bird dogs; if you want to use one or all of them, you are welcome. If you get thirsty, come to the house; we will make you as comfortable as we can. All we ask in return is, please do not shoot around my stock or buildings. Protect my property as you would your own. And, last but not least, leave a few for next year; you may want to come back." . . . No discord here.

Suburban Basket Teams Start Play Dec. 9; Best Prospects at Kirkwood

One league contest and four non-conference battles will start the 1938-39 Suburban basketball schedule December 9 and 10. In the lone league contest, Clayton High's Greyhounds will play at Kirkwood December 9. In three other games that night, University City plays at Belleville (Ill.), Normandy at McBride and Soldan at Webster. Maplewood will entertain Madison, December 10.

The season will continue until Feb. 24, and some suburban teams are again expected to compete in the annual Normandy Christmas tournament. All will enter the District tourney at the close of the season.

Kirkwood Prospects Good.

Coach Denver Miller at Kirkwood High is all aglow over the prospects of what he calls "the best basketball team since I came to Kirkwood." Four lettermen from the Red and White's 1937-38 squad and two more who will return from the 1936 squad after being out of competition last season, will form the nucleus for the team.

Forwards Bob Temme, Ralph Kleinschmidt and Ted Stalzer and Center Charles Robitsch are the players who will return from last year's squad. Donald Nixon, 1936 letter winner, was injured early last year and thus did not see much action, but will be ready for full duty this year.

The squad will be strengthened at the beginning of the second semester when Harold Jenkins, a fast forward who also missed last season, will become eligible. Jenkins was an outstanding man on the Kirkwood squad two years ago.

Five members of last season's sophomore squad and two boys who have moved in from other school districts will round out the Kirkwood squad. Paul Marvin, Jack Goeggel, Bob Heising, Bill Phfitzsinger, and Gerald Scott being the juniors, and Bill Mobrey and Bill Gohr the new additions.

Cooper at Webster.

All of the other eight schools in the loop were hard hit by graduation last June, with the possible exception of Webster Groves, where John Cooper, former Missouri Tiger star, will begin his first year as coach.

Cooper will have six lettermen to start the season, but will lose two of these at midyear. Returning will be Center and Captain Dick Devine, Guards Kenny Quereaux, Jack Peat, and Willie Winters and Forward Allen Carvell.

Jerry Keene, who will be placed at either center or forward, is listed by Cooper as the newcomer most likely to crash the regular lineup.

Four Veterans at Normandy.

Defending champion Normandy High will have four letter men from last year returning. Lawrence (Pie) Reid lost almost all of his first stringers from the championship squad, only two of the holdovers being considered first team caliber last season.

Center Jack Lister and Guard Vernon Tracy were the first team alternates last year. Jack Van Mill, a forward, and Cliff McClinton, a guard, form the other half of the quartet.

Four others who were either reserves or sophomore team members last year also will compete for places on the Viking varsity. Jack Borgeld, Jack Miller and Frank Moroso, all football men, and Paul Kroenke are those expected to gain berths on the first string squad.

U. City Forward Lost.

At University City, Coach Clarence (Stub) Muhl will have to rebuild his scoring combination, having lost three forwards and an all-suburban center from last year. Three regular guards are returning in Ralph Blumberg, Caldwell Funk and Stanley Wolfson. Two reserve forwards, Ralph Hart and Vernon Miller, will have the inside track on the forward posts as the Indians begin practice tomorrow afternoon.

Muhl will be handicapped in his coaching duties until after Christmas by a cast on his right foot. He suffered a severe cut a week ago.

Three Clayton Letter Men.

Only three letter men will return at Clayton to aid Coach George Stuber in his title search in his second year in command. Ed Gleitman, guard and co-captain, will be elegible for only the first semester, as he will graduate in January. Along with Gleitman, Center Jordan Sheperd and Guard Keneth Weiss will return.

Five "B" players will move up to compete for varsity posts. Heading the list is Jack Darnton, who was high scorer on the squad last year. Lee Brandenberger, Bob Polack, Bert Weenick and Marvin Parks are the others. Charles Weber and Dick Rawlings will come up from the "C" squad.

Maplewood Prospects.

Maplewood will have four letter men available the first semester, after which the number will be cut to three when Ralph Wherry receives his diploma. Returning with Wherry, who is a guard, will be Roger Snyder another guard and Forwards Jack Gregg and Sam Walsh. Everett Sorry is the leading prospect for the center position while Butch Boyle and Frank Henley will compete for guard and forward places, respectively.

Bright Outlook at Ritenour.

Things look bright for Bob Geddes at Ritenour. Ken Casper and Ken Olsen will pair off at the guard posts as letter men and Joe McLain will play center.

Among the leading prospects Geddes lists three forwards, Bud Guskes, Warren Walk and Tom Anthony. A center, Warren Bietz, has also shown well in practice so far.

New Gym at St. Charles.

Four varsity and five "B" team letter men have reported at St. Charles for practice in the Pirates' new gym.

A pair of fast forwards in Paul Schneider and Ray Schaberg should put the Blue and White in the title hunt this year. Ken Briegel will be the center in the starting quintet. Joe Bottani, a guard, rounds out the list of first-string letter men. A full team will come up from the "B" ranks to aid Coach O. W. Dueringer, includnig Forwards Rus Hunter and Elmer Faerber, Guards Ray Lessman and Bernie Hunter and Center Ted Kienker.

The Wellston Trojans are hard hit by graduation of regulars. Jerry Stingal has yet to call practice and thus has no line on prospects, but only two letter men are on the prospective roster.

Amateur Boxing Show.

An amateur boxing program will be conducted by the Argus A. C. at the Castle, Ewing avenue and Olive street, Dec. 15. The event will be in the nature of a welcome home for James Reddick, local boxer, who is a member of the U. S. amateur boxing team which campaigned in South America.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVIS, GEORGE W.—Two long years have already passed; though thoughts of him forever last.
Sadly missed by WIFE.

FRANCIS, GEORGE—In loving memory, who died Nov. 26, 1934.
"Sweet to remember him who once was here and who absent, is just as dear."
WIFE, SISTER, CHILDREN, GRANDCHILDREN.

IN MEMORIAM

HOW, HENRIETTA R.—In loving memory of my dear wife and our mother who passed away Nov. 17, 1934.
Nothing but memories, as we journey on
Longing for a smile, from a loved one gone.
HER FAMILY.

MARSH, JOHN H.—In loving memory of our dear father who passed away 17 years ago, Nov. 27, 1921.
Just a loving thought of remembrance by his CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MAURER, EDWARD—In loving memory of our dear brother, who departed this life Dec. 1, 1934:
A wonderful brother, man and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that, broher, was you.
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends and all who knew you.
A wonderful brother, that, brother, was you.
Sadly missed by his brothers and sisters, niece and nephews.

ROGERS, GEO. P.—In memory, passed away Nov. 27, 1929. Sadly missed by wife and children.
MARGARET ROGERS AND FAMILY.

SCHLOTTACH, FERD H.—In memory of our dear brother, who departed from life, Nov. 28, 1937.
November once again is here,
To us the saddest of all the year.
Because it took from us away
A brother just one year today.
You suffered days of pain;
You waited for cure, but all in vain.
God knew what was best
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

SIPPEL, WILLIAM F.—In loving memory of our beloved husband and father who passed out of this life Nov. 24, 1934.
To live and love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of our heart.
WIFE AND FAMILY.

WILLIAMSON—In remembrance of our father, William J. Williamson, who died Nov. 27, 1937.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

IN MEMORY
Of John Yaeger, who died Nov. 27, 1936:
Gone, but not forgotten.
From his loving WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

We don't care what your past work or earnings have been. We are not worried about your education, your religion, or your nationality.

We are interested in how ambitous you are and how willing you are to work and study, to qualify for the kind of weekly and monthly earnings being made by men already connected with this organization.

You may be employed now, but starving for lack of opportunity. You may be out of work and in need of employment. However, if you have been out of a job for more than six months, we doubt if you are the kind of man who could hold down the place we have to offer.

It will cost you nothing to investigate this ad and we cannot tell whether you could qualify in our line which is outstanding in its field, unless we can talk with you. Come in for a preliminary interview Monday between 9:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m., SUITE 512, Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts., St. Louis.

FOOD CENTERS, LENNEMANNS IN TITLE GAME

Favored by a weight advantage of nearly eight pounds a man, the Food Centers will battle the Lennemanns this afternoon on the Drill Grounds in Forest Park. The single game program will start at 2 o'clock.

Winners of the first half title, the Food Centers can clinch the season's championship with a victory to break the tie existing at the conclusion of the second half. The Lennemanns will be fighting for retention of the title won last year.

Manager Bill Montgomery of the Food Centers has made four changes in his starting lineup, opening with Charley Thies at guard in place of Andy Constantine and using three heavier backs, Jack Janeff, former Rolla Miner quarterback in place of Bill Koch; John Hequemborg, who did such excellent punting a week ago, in Amiel Lange's right half position, and Joe Kestranek at fullback, replacing Charley Polleschultz.

As a result the Foods will offer a 192-pound line, a quartet of backs averaging 176.5 and a team average of approximately 187. Since the Lennemann backfield will compare almost equally in weight with the Foods, these figures mean the Foods will have a big weight advantage in the line.

The two clubs battled to a scoreless tie last Sunday.

Bob Alexander, Lennemann manager, announced last night that the Muny players and managers were co-operating in a benefit program to be held on Wednesday night at Walsh Stadium in an effort to raise funds to pay off the season's doctor bills of the injured players. The feature game will be between the Lennemanns and the Collinsville (Ill.) Bears, reported to be undefeated this season in games throughout Southern Illinois.

There will be an admission charge of 25 cents to today's game, authorized by the Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association.

The probable lineups:

LENNEMANNS.	Pos.	FOOD CENTERS.
R. Alexander	L. E.	R. McGuire
E. Kunz	L. T.	J. Mullen
G. Tiffany	L. G.	C. Marik
V. Wilffong	C.	G. Frank

Weights: Lennemanns—Team, 180 pounds; line, 183; backs, 174. Food Centers—Team, 187.7; line, 192.7, and backs, 176.5.

Tulane Beats L. S. U.; Fight At End of Game

By the Associated Press.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 26.—Tulane's fast football team trounced Louisiana State today, 14 to 0, before 40,000 fans in a rough game climaxed by general fighting among fans and players.

The Tigers could do nothing to stop Tulane's shifty halfbacks, Bob Kellog and Fred Cassibry who sparked the Wave's attack and scored a touchdown apiece.

The game was one of the fiercest of the 36 the teams have played. Bronco Brunner, Tulane brilliant back, and Jack Staples, Tiger fullback, were carried from the field with painful injuries.

In the fourth quarter, officials ousted James Stell, Tiger halfback, and Tom O'Boyle, Tulane guard, for swapping punches. The Tigers were penalized for clipping, unnecessary roughness and slugging. Bruce Hedric, L. S. U. field general, was put out on the slugging charge.

Then the players cut loose with swings and wallops. Fans streamed down out of the stands, some of them with sections of the stands used as clubs.

Coaches from both benches stopped the fighting, a few more plays were run, the last whistle blew, some Tulane admirers ripped up the Tiger goalposts, and the battling started all over again.

The fist-swinging went on till darkness put an end to it.

Tulane, its second team driving with tremendous power, got down to business in the second period. The Greenies marched 69 yards, Cassibry scoring on a run wide around end. Kellog converted.

Shortly after the second half began Kellog shot a beautiful pass on fourth down to Paul Krueger, Tulane substitute quarterback, for first down on the L. S. U. six-yard line. Kellog scampered through tackle for a touchdown. He also converted.

Interleague Game Forfeited.

A football game scheduled for this afternoon between the Twelfth Ward Young Republicans, champions of the Marquette League, and the Tower Grove Tigers, pennant winners in the Roosevelt League, has been forfeited by the Tigers to the Young Republicans.

A preliminary game between the Jennings A. C. and Bomber A. C., runners-up in the two circuits, also has been called off.

Bears' Football Prospects For 1939 Appear Brighter Than Those of St. Louis U.

By James M. Gould

With the debating still going on as to what might have happened had the Walsh Stadium field been dry last Thursday, followers of the Washington Bears and St. Louis Billikens already are beginning to think in terms of next year. Rabid football fans are like that.

The Bears' schedule for 1939 is about completed. They will meet five Valley opponents—St. Louis, Drake, Oklahoma Aggies, Creighton and Washburn-Butler, Washington & Lee, the Missouri Miners and Missouri. That's nine games, leaving one date to be filled. De Paul may get the nomination.

As for the Billikens, their schedule has not yet been completed. It is known, however, that they will play Drake, Creighton, probably Tulsa and surely Washington for their conference contests. They won't have to worry about Missouri in 1939 as the Tigers, following a new plan made public recently, will play one of the local colleges on alternate years. In 1940 it will be the Billikens. Next season it will be the Bears.

Bears Appear Stronger.

At the present writing, Washington appears to be stronger for next year—deans of the various university schools being willing. The Bears lose two splendid ends in Bill Seibert and Hal Tracy but Laux, Tommy Hayes and Dick Root appear capable of first string action. Bill Murphy will be back at tackle, but Myles Cunningham will graduate, as probably will, Gene Brew at guard, even though he has another year of football eligibility. Nick Klisurich and Otto Butterly will be the centers lost to the squad, but Mike Vranesh remains and Charley Gould, two-letter man who was out of school for a semester, is back in good standing and will be out for the pivot job. Turley and Purvines also will help out at the ends.

The Washington backfield loses two stars in Bill Ferfecky and Dick Yore, but Bud Schwenk, Vic Theiling, Lou Kaufmann, Moose Nelson, Lutz and Lindow from the freshman squad will be excellent replacements, with Jack Warner, Ed Pfeiffer, Ed Beshara and Leo Shakofsky holding over from the varsity team. Also, Bob Minkey, two years on the varsity, is back in school and will be out.

Also available for the 1939 line will be Harrison, Heckert and several other ambitious candidates to come up from the 1938 freshmen. Altogether, it looks as though Coach Jimmy Conzelman, despite his disappointment over the Thanksgiving day result, might force a smile over his team's prospects.

Outlook Not So Rosy.

On the other hand, it is doubtful if the incoming varsity candidates from the St. Louis freshman squad will be able to balance the varsity losses. Weber, a freshman back, was outstanding for the young Billikens and he should make a strong bid for a varsity backfield job but, otherwise the 1938 youngster crop, is not very impressive.

The Billikens lost Frank Gayer, a fine end, but Carlew and Sexton will be ripe for first string duty and Frank Hagan may play another year if he doesn't make the graduation grade next spring. Bill Clark will be gone at guard, with George Johnson and the sterling Len Gorman will leave a hole at center. John Hartle, end, will graduate, as will the brilliant Denny Cochran, Mel McGonnigle, Charley Harris and Johnny Veith in the backfield. The veteran Bill Cochran, who played so well at tackle in the two final Billiken games, also will finish school.

However, Drabelle will be back at center, Boro, Carlson, McElmurry, Quint and Schmisseur at guards and Baker, Barron, Mundt, O'Sullivan, Pearson and Putnam at tackles. In the backfield, Coach Muellerleile will have Bob Murphy, Brian Burnes, Bill Foehr, John Gall, Joe Gresnick, Cletus Roemer, Dick Rensing and Alex Yokubaitis returning and, altogether, that's a pretty nice nucleus, whether or not any other freshman stars are discovered. Then, Carl Totsch, a fine running back, will return to eligibility.

The season just finished showed how football fortunes vary from year to year. In 1937, the Billikens won seven games, lost two and played one tie. This year the St. Louis U. ledger shows three victories, five defeats and two ties. Thus, the Billikens' victory-percentage fell off about 400 points.

Bears Won Six Games.

Washington had a poor season from a victory point of view in 1937, winning only four games and losing six. This year, the Bears can point with pride to six victories, three defeats and a tie for an increase of some 250 percentage points.

With spring practice about three months off, both coaches will prepare for that, starting very soon, and, in the meantime will get in shape for their 1939 viewing-with-alarm. 'Tis an old coaching custom.

Only six points have been scored in the last two Washington-St. Louis games. That's pretty close going so don't do your Thanksgiving day betting too early.

BLOCKED KICK HELPS FLORIDA U. UPSET AUBURN ELEVEN, 9-7

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 26.—Florida's football team struck today with all the fury stored up through a disappointing esason and downed Auburn, 9 to 7, in a major upset.

A blocked punt, converted into a fourth-period safety, offset Auburn's superior offensive showing. The Gators held a defensive edge throughout.

Approximately 5000 persons, huddled together in Jacksonville's coldest weather of the season, saw the deciding break late in the game after Auburn had surged several times into scoring distance. Three times Bo Russell, Auburn's tackle and captain who closed out a brilliant career, missed place-kicks for field goals.

Bud Walton put the Plainsmen deep into their own territory with a lengthy punt. The fleet "Spec" Kelly dropped back to punt with the ball on the 21-yard line. Battista knocked it into the end zone and Tom Walker knocked it off the field for the safety.

NASH BEATS J. HENDRY IN TABLE TENNIS EVENT

Garrett Nash, defending champion, advanced to the semifinal round of the District table tennis tournament by defeating John Hendry, 21-16, 21-12, 21-11, last night at the Lorelei Building. William Diller beat Heiman Brodski, 20-22, 21-19, 21-18, 17-21, 21-17, and Ed Woody defeated John McClaskey, 21-18, 21-12, 21-16, in the other completed quarterfinals.

In the women's singles Mrs. Esther Guenther defeated Mrs. Mabel McClain, 21-13, 21-13, to reach the finals. She will meet Marjorie Blattner, who upset Evelyn Caporal, 21-13, 21-9, in tomorrow's final session that starts at 2 p. m.

The women's semifinal doubles results are: Mrs. M. McClain and Mrs. M. Weidner defeated Mrs. H. Hotze and Ruth Wallace, 21-17, 21-18; Mrs. V. Dueker and Evelyn Caporal defeated Mrs. E. Guenther and Mrs. Lee Meier, 21-14, 21-18.

Oregon State Wins.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore. Nov. 26.—Oregon State College, bursting across for touchdowns twice in the fourth period, won a 14 to 0 victory today in the forty-second annual contest with the University of Oregon.

HOLY CROSS CRUSHES BOSTON COLLEGE AS COACH EYES NEW JOB

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—The powerful Holy Cross Crusaders, apparently inspired by the wavering attitude of Coach Eddie Anderson toward his lucrative Iowa bid, today arose in their might and smote the Boston College Eagles for a 29-7 victory before 35,000 chilled football fans.

That decisive setback, far from unexpected, was the first Boston College suffered this season, although it had been tied by Temple and St. Anselm's. From start to finish Captain Bullet Bill Osmanski paced the Crusaders' army of fleet ball carriers through their ancient Jesuit rivals' powerful wall and when they wanted to pause to catch their second winds, Ronnie Cahill obliged them by tossing 19 passes, eight of which were completed for a total of 85 yards.

After the game, prominent members of the Boston College Alumni Athletic Committee predicted that Gil Dobie, whose three-year contract expired with this game, would not be re-engaged.

WOMAN DELEGATE FROM DISTRICT TO A. A. U. CONVENTION

Miss Lila May Kepple, swimming director and coach of fencing at the Young Women's Christian Association, will leave Tuesday evening to attend the annual convention of the American Athletic Union at Washington, D. C. She goes as the only woman delegate from the Ozark region, which includes parts of Illinois and part of Missouri, other delegates from the district being Carl Bauer, athletic director of Missouri Athletic Association; Marvin Plake, St. Louis lawyer, national publicity chairman for A. A. U.; Charles Gevecker, St. Louis manager of the South American boxing unit of A. A. U., and Al Fleischman.

Miss Kepple was swimming instructor and coach of the championship team at the Town Club from 1933 to 1937. She came to the Y. W. C. A. in January, 1938.

REVOLTA LEADS $5,000 TOURNEY BY 5 STROKES

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 26. — Johnny Revolta, lanky Evanston (Ill.) pro, added a 69 today to his first round 67 to take a five-stroke lead over the field in the $5000 Columbia-Ridgewood open golf tournament.

Playing a deadly accurate game, Revolta, a member of the United States Ryder Cup team, established himself apparently as the man to beat for the first place money of $1200.

With his six-under-par total of 136 for the 36 holes, Revolta led 62 professionals and less than 10 amateurs into tomorrow's 36-hole final round.

His three nearest rivals were Ben Hogan, the sensational young White Plains (N. Y.) shotmaker, the veteran Jimmy Hines of Great Neck, L. I., and John Melutic of Girard, O., who were deadlocked at 141.

Scores soared during the day's play as snow and sleet flurries fell throughout the morning.

Hogan, who tied Revolta for the first round lead with a 67, felt the effect of the weather on his game and dropped to a 74. Hines carded a 72 against his previous 69, but Melutic was more consistent, getting a par 71 to add to his first-round score of 70.

Revolta's 69 was equaled by three other players, "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., Dick Metz of Chicago and Tony Penna of Dayton, O., and Delray, Fla., where Revolta had three birdies, Cooper bagged five and one eagle, but was over par on several holes. Penna got four birdies and Metz three.

Cooper, who had a first-round score of 73, showed a total of 142, one stroke behind Hines, Hogan and Melutic. Tied with him were Ted Luther of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Paul Runyan of White Plains, the P. G. A. champion, each of whom had par rounds of 71-71.

Bobby Dunkelberger of High Point, N. C., French amateur champion, led the amateur contingent with a 75-74—149.

NEW MEXICO GETS BID TO SUN BOWL

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 26.—The University of New Mexico was invited today to play in the New Year's Sun Bowl football game at El Paso, Tex.—an invitation expected to be accepted at a meeting of the athletic council Monday.

With one team virtually decided, speculation centered upon Western Reserve University of Cleveland and Georgetown University of Washington, D. C., as favored candidate for the opposition. Both are undefeated.

New Mexico, co-holder of the Border Conference gridiron championship with New Mexico State College, was selected by Sun Bowl authorities after a poll of conference members.

In the Family.

Frank Meglen, star punter at Manhattan this year, is a brother of Joe Meglen, who won fame as a kicker with Georgetown a few years back.

FOUR VETERANS ON PRINCIPIA'S BASKET SQUAD

By Davison Obear

The Principia College basketball team will particiate in 14 games during the season, according to the schedule announced by Bert Clark, athletic director of the Elsah (Ill.) school. A team from Jefferson College will oppose Principia in the opening game, Dec. 6, in Morey Field House, at Elsah. The season ends March 3 with Principia meeting Blackburn College at Carlinville, Ill.

Coach Don Laughlin will have four lettermen from last year's team available. In addition to Capt. Larry Bradbury, center, the regulars returning are: Jack Beardsley, forward; Phil Long and Henry Holt, guards.

Phil Laret, star track athlete at Principia Academy last year, is a candidate for a forward position. Others out for the forward position are: Dick Larson, Phil Edwards and Rollo Tuffli. Other candidates for the team are: Tom Palmer, Lee Leonard, Loring Bates, Robert Hutchinson, Clifford Ratz and Ray Margolies.

The outlook for the year appears promising. The team, however, faces a hard schedule, with games against such teams as Central Wesleyan, James Milliken, Central College, Culver-Stockton and Shurtleff. The squad numbers 16 at present.

The schedule follows: Dec. 6, Jefferson College at Elsah; Dec. 10, Culver-Stockton at Elsah; Jan. 7, Alumni at Elsah; Jan. 13, Central College at Fayette, Mo.; Jan. 14, Moberly Junior College at Moberly, Mo.; Jan. 17, Parks Air College at Elsah; Jan 24, Central Wesleyan at Elsah; Jan. 28, McKendree at Elsah; Feb. 3, Sparks Business College at Alton; Feb. 4, James Millikin at Decatur, Ill.; Feb. 7, Shurtleff College at Elsah; Feb. 10, Blackburn at Elsah; Feb. 21, Shurtleff at Alton; March 3, Blackburn at Carinville, Ill.

Academy Team Schedule.

Basketball teams representing The Principia Academy will play a total of 31 games during the season. The Academy A team will play 13 games, the B team eight and the C team 10 contests.

The schedule follows:

A TEAM.

Dec. 13, St. Charles; Dec. 15, University City; Jan. 7, Country Day; Jan. 10, Ferguson; Jan. 14, Western at Alton; Jan. 17, Ben Blewett; Jan. 21, John Burroughs; Jan. 27, Country Day at Country Day; Feb. 4, Clayton at Clayton; Feb. 10, John Burroughs at Burroughs; Feb. 11, Pembroke (Kansas City) at Principia; Feb. 14, St. Charles at St. Charles; Feb. 18, Western.

U. S. ARMY AND NAVY TO ADVISE COLOMBIA

Missions to Help Build Up Defenses—Five Others Now in Latin-America.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The United States Government announced today that naval and military air missions would go to the republic of Colombia soon to co-operate with that country in improving its defensive forces.

Five such missions already are on duty in other Latin-American countries.

"The Department of State is pleased to announce," a statement said, "that in response to the request of the Government of Colombia, agreements were signed Nov. 23 providing for the furnishing by the United States of a naval mission and a military aviation mission to co-operate with the Colombian Ministry of War. The two missions will function in an advisory capacity to the Colombian navy and military air forces."

Adjacent to Panama Canal.

The action is of particular importance to the United States because of Colombia's proximity to the Panama Canal, a vital artery in the American defense system. The Panama Canal Zone, now owned by the United States, formerly was part of Colombia.

The announcement was accompanied by publication of a friendly exchange of notes between President Roosevelt and the Colombian Senate.

The Senate in a formal resolution expressed its gratitude to the President "for his effective defense of democratic ideas and systems, for his intervention to safeguard peace within and without the continent, and for the l'yal and constant carrying out of the good neighbor policy which is based upon the respect of the sovereignty of all peoples."

Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"The cordial spirit which inspired this generous manifestation could not but impress me anew with the realization of the identity of the democratic ideals of our two nations, and of our common determination to join with our American neighbors in perfecting understanding and friendship among the republics of the new world."

Final Closing of Breach.

Adoption of a Senate resolution praising the head of another state in such terms is rare in present day diplomacy. Some officials here said it finally closed the breach between the two governments which followed the revolt that brought the Republic of Panama into being. The United States, which had been unwilling to pay Colombia's price for the Canal Zone, recognized the new republic and bought the zone from it for less. Years later Congress paid Colombia $15,000,000 as compensation, but hard feelings that developed over the previous action spread through Latin America.

The military air mission will consist of two regular army officers, probably a major and captain, and three non-commissioned officers serving for three years. The naval mission will be headed by a captain or commander on the active list, serving for four years.

Missions in Other Countries.

The United States now supports a naval mission of eight officers and a military mission of four officers in Brazil. Three American naval advisers and eight army officers are on duty in Argentina. Four naval advisers are presently serving in Peru, two army officers in Haiti, and one army officer in Guatemala.

The State Department also announced today that Ecuador's decision to attend the forthcoming Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, insured attendance of all the American republics at that parley. There had been some question whether Ecuador would attend, following recent collapse of negotiations to settle her boundary dispute with Peru.

EARL BALDWIN SMOKES PIPE AT FORMAL DINNERS

Conducts One-Man Campaign Against Unwritten Law That Says He Shouldn't.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—Earl Baldwin is conducting a one-man campaign against the unwritten law that a man can't smoke a pipe at formal dinners

Possessor of a large collection of pipes, the former Prime Minister whipped one out from a coat tail pocket at a recent dinner and proceeded to smoke, to the astonishment of fellow guests.

Photographers took pictures of this unorthodox scene and now there is much discussion among head waiters and tailors about what should be done.

Headwaiters insist it takes an Earl to get away with such "impudence" but the tailors think they will probably have to reconstruct hip-pockets in men's formal attire to make room for pipe-smoking paraphernalia.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Thoms, 1944 Benton street, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thanksgiving day at the home of a daughter, Mrs. William Helm, 5759 Delor street. Three other daughters also attended. Thoms is a retired carpenter.

The Lambert St. Louis Field chapter of the National Aeronautic Association will meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the airport terminal building to discuss plans for the national convention of the association, scheduled for January.

MAIL SCHOOL TRIAL TO COST U. S. $10,000

Prosecution Expects to Close Case Against De Montreville Group on Tuesday.

The trial of Clarence de Montreville and 11 of his associates in the Public Service Institute on charges of using the mails to defraud, which is in progress in United States District Judge George H. Moore's court, will cost the Government more than $10,000 in direct expenses.

James J. O'Connor, clerk of the colurt, said yesterday he already had paid out $9216 in witness fees, subsistence fees and mileage. More than 80 witnesses have been heard in the 13 days of testimony to date. Fees for the 14 jurors, including two alternates, have amounted to $840. The Government expects to close its case Tuesday.

Witnesses get $1.50 a day for testifying, $3 a day subsistence fee, and 10 cents a mile for traveling expenses. Witnesses from many states have been brought here by the Government and have testified that at times salesmen from the institute promised Civil Service jobs, sometimes said the institute was connected with the Government, and promised refunds if those who signed for the correspondence courses failed to get Government job.

The difficulty which some students had in obtaining a refund was illustrated at yesterday's session, which was adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Charles J. Thielen, a lawyer of Humphrey, Neb., identified a letter which he had received from the institute in reply to an inquiry of his in which he sought to get a refund for a client. The letter, signed "W. B. Billings," which was a name used by Otis Griffin, one of the defendants, follows:

"When the officials of the Public Service Institute need the valuable advice of a 'hick' attorney we will be glad to call on you. Until we do please confine your wisecracks to the natives of your community, who absorb the intelligence of 'bigshot' Charles J. Thielen. And when it comes to bluff, I would suggest you try it on some of your trusting clients. Personally, the writer has a weak stomach."

The letter was admitted in evidence over the objections of defense lawyers.

MONTANA GIRL, OKLAHOMA BOY WIN ROOSEVELT 4-H AWARDS

Kansas City Man's Carload of Cattle Is Grand Champion of International Exposition.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—A girl from Montana and a boy from Oklahoma received the President Roosevelt award today for achievement in 4-H Club work projects, at the International Livestock Exposition.

Katherine Sire, 18 years old, of Belt, Mont., and Lloyd Hawkins of Foss, Ok., won the award, which provided each with a $300 scholarship and a case of silver.

Miss Sire, a freshman at Montana State College, within the last six years completed 16 work projects, principally in clothing. She canned 6632 pints of food and made 148 garments.

Hawkins completed 54 projects in livestock and crops in six years and grossed $1998, and inaugurated seven approved farm practices on the 181-acre farm on which he lives.

The Moses trophies, with $300 scholarships, went to Miss Bonnie Phillips, 18, of Belva, Ok., who completed 48 projects in home economics in eight years, and to Oliver Larson, 19, of Bertha, Minn., who in nine years completed 37 projects in livestock and crops and held all important offices in his local 4-H Club.

Fifteen Aberdeen-Angus cattle owned by A. H. Schmidt of Kansas City, Mo., were adjudged the grand champion carload of fat cattle, and Harold Schmidt of Kansas City had the champion carload of Herefords.

199-YEAR TERM FOR MURDER

Aid in Chicago Holdup, in Which 3 Were Killed, Gets 40 Years.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. — Charles Lane, 25 years old, one of three holdup men whose fight with police cost three lives, was sentenced today to 199 years in prison by Judge Robert Jerome Dunne. His companion, William Wright, was sentenced to 40 years.

Lane, Wright and James Duval entered a handbook Sept. 23 and attempted to hold up the proprietor, John Bozula. Police surprised them and in the ensuing fight Bozula, Mrs. Lucille Budasi, 18 years old, and duval were killed. Mrs. Budasi was shot to death when Duval used her as a shield in an attempt to escape.

SNAKE VENOM AS MEDICINE

Boy, 3, Receives Second Injection at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 26.—Donald Richardson, 3 years old, had five more drops of cottonmouth venom in his blood today and was feeling better. The drops formed the second injection used by physicians in their fight against capillary hemorrhages which have caused purple splotches on the child's skin.

The boy is improving gradually under the treatment, says Dr. H. M. Swaney, one of the physicians attending him. The doses of venom will be increased gradually to a maximum of 15 drops.

VOCATIONAL TEACHERS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

National Convention to Last Rest of Week — Leading Speakers.

The national convention of the American Vocational Association will open at Hotel Jefferson Wednesday, sessions continuing until Saturday. About 4000 persons are expected to attend.

Preceding the convention tomorrow and Tuesday, the national association of state directors of vocational education, to which many State superintendents of schools belong, will meet at Hotel Jefferson. State supervisors of home economics and industrial arts, editors of educational magazines and teacher-trainer groups also will hold meetings in connection with the convention.

Because of the diversity of educational groups represented, most of the convention will be devoted to sectional meetings, addressed by leaders in various fields.

The first general session will be held Wednesday evening with Thomas H. Quigley of the Georgia School of Technology, presiding. Other speakers will be F. J. Jeffrey, assistant superintendent of St. Louis public schools; Dr. Edwin Lee, Columbia University Teachers' College, New York; Dr. Paul W. Chapman, Office of Education, Washington, and Aubrey Williams, director of the National Youth Administration.

A combined sectional meeting will be held Thursday afternoon, with Miss Ruth Freegard, chief of homemaking education for Michigan and vice-president of the association, presiding. The following sections will be represented: Agriculture, commerce, home economics, industrial arts, industrial education, part-time schools, vocational guidance and vocational rehabilitation.

At a banquet Thursday evening Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Contsitution, will speak on "A Newspaper Man Looks at Vocational Education." Labor's views on the subject will be expressed at the same meeting by George L. Googe, national representative of the American Federation of Labor and member of the President's Advisory Committee on Education.

The largest attendance is expected at sectional meetings on industrial and part-time education. Two groups of these sections will meet simultaneously at Hotel Jefferson on Thursday and Friday mornings. Friday afternoon a special meeting will be held on industrial education for women and another on the relationship of vocational school, labor and management.

State Superintendent of Schools Lloyd King will lead the discussion at the latter meeting, at which speakers will be: Lawrence Raftery, vice-president Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers; Ernst Flentje, secretary National Association of Master Plumbers; F. M. Karches, director of factory personnel for the Emerson Electric Co., and Daniel O. Collins, vice-president of the International Union of Bricklayers, Masons and Plumbers.

On Saturday morning sub-sectional meetings will be held at Hotel Jefferson on training in the following trades: Printing, metal work, automechanics, building and public service occupations.

MOUNT RUSHMORE MEMORIAL SEEKS $75,000 ADDITIONAL $500,000 Has Been Spent For Mountainside Carvings of Washington and Other Patriots.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — The Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission disclosed today it would ask Congress for a deficiency appropriation of $75,000 for the massive presidential monument being carved in a granite mountainside near Rapid City, S. D.

Russell M. Arundel, commission secretary, said Sculptor Gutzon Borglum would be forced to curtain work before the end of the fiscal year, June 30, unless more funds were forthcoming.

Approximately $500,000 has been spent on the task of carving a memorial to Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt on the face of Mount Rushmore. Until last year the work was financed by Federal grants, administered under the National Park Service, and private gifts.

Congress set up the commission last October to handle the work and authorized appropriations up to $300,000. Only $50,000 was appropriated at the time. To date Washington's head has been completed and that of Jefferson is about finished.

TO SUCCEED M. I. T. DEAN

Walter R. McCornack Will Head School of Architecture.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 26.—Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, announced tonight that Walter R. McCornack of Cleveland, architect and housing authority, will become dean of the M. I. T. School of Architecture next autumn.

McCornack, who has designed school and college buildings in Illinois, Ohio, Virginia, Kentucky and Connecticut, will succeed Dean William Emerson, who will retire. Emerson has been head of the Institute's School of Architecture since 1919 after a career in architecture in New York. McCornack was born in Oneida, Ill., and attended Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., and Massachusetts Tech. In 1932, he was a member of the committee on large scale housing of President Hoover's conference in home building and home ownership.

APPROXIMATELY 100 PONTIAC dealers and retail salesmen met at the Coronado Hotel the past week to attend a quarterly salesman's training school for study of the 1939 cars and sales trategy.

L. W. Thoms.

L. W. Thoms, zone manager, who was in charge of the session, said that Pontiac had pioneered in systemactic training of salesmen.

R. W. Donaldson was the instructor assigned to the meeting by Allen Wright, regional manager, Chicago.

The quarterly schools are supplemented by monthly showings of slide films and giving of other information so that there is a continual training process for Pontiac salesmen throughout the year.

WHY AUTO BATTERIES, which so often give perfect warm weather service, need extra care to guarantee such service in cold weather is explained in a bulletin issued by engineers for the B. F. Goodrich Co. "Exhaustive studies have shown," the bulletin says, "that a storage battery in good condition is 100 per cent efficient when the temperature is 80 above, but only 42 per cent efficient at zero.

"The action inside the battery cell is of a chemical nature, with the acid acting on and through the plates. As it becomes colder, plate materials contract, and the pores become smaller, while at the same time the acid becomes thicker and heavier. Combination of the acid with the material in the plates, which produces battery current thus becomes more difficult. Many starting troubles of car owners in chilly and cold weather are because of these changed conditions in the battery, and the effects are particularly noticeable if the battery is too small for the car, or is partially discharged.

"While a fully charged battery is 42 per cent efficient at zero, if it is only half charged, its efficiency will be only 25 per cent and its owner would be attempting to operate with a quarter of a battery.

"Also, an engine becomes harder to start in cold weather. Congealed oil, slower vaporizing gasoline, make the battery's job hardest when it is at its lowest efficiency.

"Car owners should have batteries tested every two weeks in winter. Plates should always be covered with water to prevent their upper parts from drying out while the remainder is immersed in concentrated acid. Cables and terminals should be inspected regularly and replaced if worn or broken. Worn cables will not carry the current satisfactorily and are one of the causes of poor battery performance."

POINTERS FOR KEEPING tires in good condition for winter driving are given by A. E. Benson. product development manager for the Fisk Tire Co., as follows:

1. Check treads on all tires. Two smooth tires on the same side give the effect of unequalized brakes, often throwing a car into a dangerous side-skid.
2. Use chains for short distances and then only in emergencies. Chains set up vibrations putting extra strain on the rear end of a car; break down carcasses; and wear out themselves if used steadily for any great length of time.
3. Examine tires for cuts and bruises before wet weather sets in. If not repaired, cuts permit water and dampness to penetrate the tire, causing rapid deterioration.
4. Check all valves for possible leaks. Often sand and dirt from summer driving have entered the valve stem, permitting air to escape. Better, replace with new ones.
5. Check wheel alignment, caster, camber, and toe-in action.
6. When mounting a new tire, see that the rims are clean, removing all dirt and rust.

A NEW UNITED STATES Royal de luxe auto tire, designed with a basically different tread for superior stopping power, has been developed by the United States Rubber Co. and will be placed on the market soon. The tire's new tread is in reality a tread within a tread. First, it has a perfected, six-row, non-skid block design, and secondly, it has a new, quick-stopping device which places on the ground more than 2500 extra, sharp gripping edges. These edges, or "grippers," greatly increase the stopping power because the instant the car brakes are applied, the "grippers" go into play, bite through slippery road film, and bring the car to a quick, straight-line stop. This feature prompted drivers who tested the new tire to call it the tire with the "brake-action" tread.

A feature of the tire is the fact that as the miles pile up with driving, the gripping edges become more pronounced and, in addition, retain their keenness by literally sharpening themselves against the pavement. The tread is so designed that an unusually large area of rubber is placed on the ground. This aids in holding cars steady in cross winds, makes driving easier by lessening wheel corrections necessary in keeping the car straight and minimizes nerve strain and fatigue.

This new tire further provides an unusual freedom from vibration, resulting in greater riding comfort. The individual blocks in the tread have been varied in length so that impact sound cannot be "built up" to a disturbing audible pitch. Patented, stoneless grooves, a United States development, aid in overcoming nuisance of modern driving—the click of stones embedded in tire treads.

THE AMERICAN AIRLINES display at the Auto Show consisted of a cut-a-way scale model of an American Airlines' Flagship Skysleeper and a buffet on the Flagship Clubplanes from which the meals are served.

The scale model was an exact replica of the giant skysleepers with the complete top of the cabin hinged to show the seating arrangement both for day and night flying. Small life-like dolls portrayed persons enjoying the hotel comforts of the ship. A foursome of bridge evidenced the roominess of the sections. In the rear were the two dressing rooms. Forward and aft were the baggage, mail and express compartments, fully loaded.

The kitchen display was made up of an entire section of a flagship in actual size. An attractive arrangement of silver-ware and china on a pewter tray shows how the meals were to be served. Vacuum jugs kept the food hot or cold, and ice water, coffee, tea, milk, bouillon, and fruit juices were served from thermos bottles inverted in the wall of the buffet.

COMPLETION OF 15 NEW SUper service stations by the Roco Petroleum Corporation since May 9, when it took on distribution of Standard Oil and Quaker State products in St. Louis, St. Louis County and St. Clair County, Ill., gives a total of 125 company units and independent dealers handling Standard and Quaker State products in the marketing district. Sam Rotenberg and Jacob J. Cohen are owners of the Rocco Petroleum Corporation.

A PROGRAM OF INCREASED truck and tractor production recently announced by the International Harvester Co., according to W. A. Riggs, St. Louis branch manager, has brought about the return of approximately 6500 men to jobs on tractor and truck plans in Chicago, Milwaukee, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Springfield, O., and Rock Island, Ill. This program has been made possible by improvement in tractor and motor truck sales in recent weeks, reducing the large inventories which caused the company to cut down operations at its plants materially in July and August.

The International Harvester Diesel line includes six four-wheel models ranging in capacity from 3 to 7½ tons, with gross vehicle weight ratings from 17,200 to 38,000 pounds, and six six-wheel models ranging in rated capacity from 2½ tons to 15 tons, with gross vehicle weight ratings from 24,000 to 62,000 pounds.

International Harvester's current line of motor trucks includes units ranging in capacity from the half-ton light delivery to the largest six-wheeler. These models include conventional four-wheel trucks, six-wheelers with both dual drive and trailing rear axles, and cab-over-engine types.

TWO MEN ILL WITH TULAREMIA

Hunters Are Stricken After Cleaning Rabbits.

Two cases of tularemia, or "rabbit fever," were reported yesterday to Health Officer Harry Nagel of Belleville. The victims, Adolph Rutter, 113 East Grant street, and George Dahm, 135 North Seventy-eighth street, said they had been hunting and had cleaned rabbits.

The disease is transmitted to the blood stream in handling diseased animals.

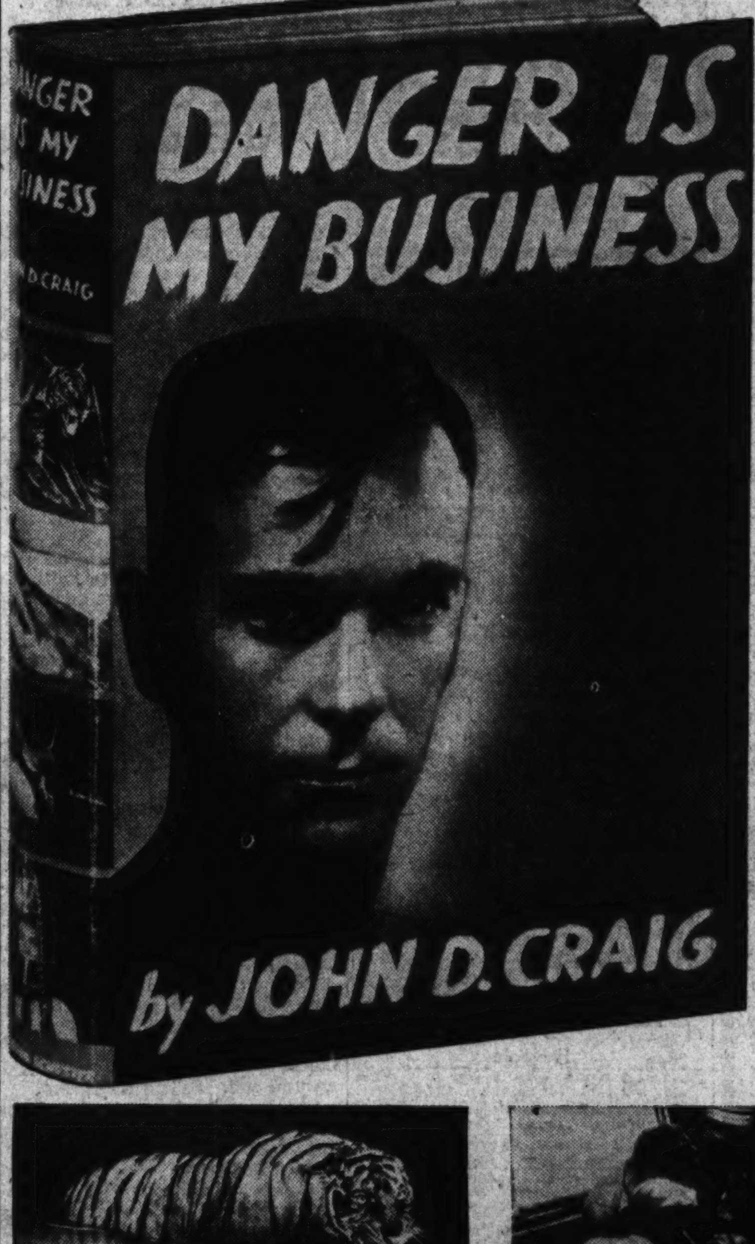
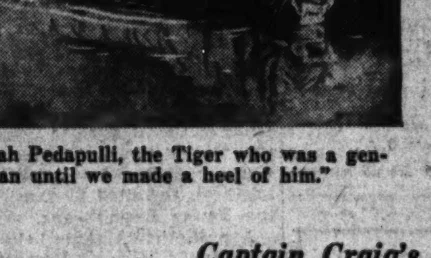
A THRILLING ADVENTURE SERIES
By JOHN D. CRAIG
Starting Today in the
EVERYDAY MAGAZINE



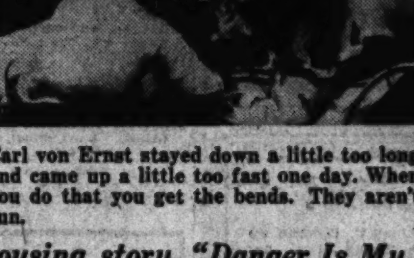
THIS is the story of an adventurer to whom danger is as familiar as your hat and coat. Big-game hunter, explorer, photographer and deep-sea diver, John D. Craig has travelled in thirty-five countries, taking motion pictures for leading producers.

He knows, for instance, what a diver thinks about when his lifeline has been cut one hundred feet down, leaving him exactly eight minutes of life.

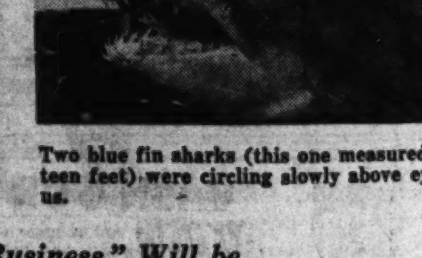
This exciting adventure book, "Danger Is My Business" is written by a man whose experiences range from capture by the Riffs in Spanish Morocco to discovery in India of the original building plans for the Taj Mahal.



"Rajah Pedapulli, the Tiger who was a gentleman until we made a heel of him."



Carl von Ernst stayed down a little too long and came up a little too fast one day. When you do that you get the bends. They aren't fun.



Two blue fin sharks (this one measured sixteen feet) were circling slowly above eyeing us.

THIS New York

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

UNLIKE the Athenians, who are reported to have forever been on the lookout for some new thing, the vast majority of New York's glitter folk and professional celebrities don't want anything new, won't have anything new, and will promptly boot anything in the line of novelty or innovation right downstairs and on to the municipal dump. Restaurant and after-dark life has achieved an absolute formula, a pattern fixed by convention, the way the facades of Paris buildings are fixed by municipal statute, and only a few slight variations have achieved success since the general set-up was evolved right after prohibition. As the lyric has it in "Sing Out the News," "Let's go on to La Conga, Morocco, the Stork" and there simply are no other places, or not more than a half-dozen in any event, that rate the top-drawer patrons.

LUCIUS BEEBE

The St. Regis, the Rainbow Room, the Persian Room at the Plaza, pretty nearly round out the list, with Jack and Charlie's, the Ritz, Colony, Madison and Coq Rouge claiming nine-tenths of the luxury restaurant trade. Manhattan's elite occasionally make the rounds of the Broadway joy palaces, where the Casa Manana and International Casino are comparative newcomer, but in general the itinerary varies astonishingly little from season to season. The same places, the same faces, year after year, seem to exercise a persuasive and soothing charm, vaguely suggesting permanence in the midst of change.

So accustomed are the patrons of Morocco, for example, to looking at each other that when, a few weeks ago, the premises were gutted one morning by fire and 150 workmen managed to get them in shape to open the same night, no single regular noticed that the silver palms, which for years have been the hallmark of the house, were missing. Last year La Conga alone succeeded in breaking into the big-time group on a tidal wave of rumba popularity, and this year no new resort has achieved any outstanding notice. It's a tough proposition to crack the united front of opposition to new ventures put up by the man-traps that beat the gun at the time of repeal.

● OUR ANNUAL REPORT on the estate and affairs of Mike Romanoff should chronicle that we encountered him in the Clover Club in Hollywood the other evening and that he is thriving. Mike confided that "all that stood between himself and destitution" was a new and costly Cadillac coupe with a special body job of his own design, but he is bearing up bravely, as he has in past adversity. Paramount has cast Mike for a brief bit, standing characteristically at a bar and adjacent to the free-lunch counter, in "Cafe Society," along with Madeleine Carroll, Fred MacMurray and other notables. It is a part for which Mike has been rehearsing for nearly 50 years and one in which he should perform brilliantly. Asked if he expected to return to New York in the near future, Mike declared that the fragrance of the town had been so abated by repeal that he preferred to live elsewhere, recalling Manhattan as a town of gracious souvenirs in the era of the Judas hole and raider's crowbar, of emetic Scotch and the wistful charm of beating people over the head with gin bottles in the back room at Tony's.

Dick Maney, the demon press agent, temporarily on the wagon, wandered into the Artists' and Writers' the other evening as a flock of the news lads were ringin' and swingin' 'em and ordered a Coca-Cola from the mildly astonished waiter, a gesture which provoked some little comment and sarcasm from the bystanders. A moment later he was called to the phone, and in his absence a merry wag insinuated a double slug of rye into the coke. Mr. Maney returned to the table, drained half the glass at a swallow and made a face indicative of distaste and indignation. "Damn low-grade of coke they sell here," was his only comment.

● IN HIS COLUMN in a resent issue of "Town and Country" Harry Bull remarks, to what must be considerable confusion to his readers, that "if you want to see the really smart New Yorkers, the ones you read about least in the columns, you can find them lunching at the Passy or dinner-dancing at Larue." Quite aside from the fact that the rest of the same column fairly bristles with such names as Mrs. Marshall Field, Gigs Gwathmey, Mrs. Dodge Sloane, Margaret Emerson and Ogden Phipps, who, presumably from this very circumstance, cannot be considered "really smart," it would seem that Bull is crusading for a new social order which is to be based on the achievement of absolute anonymity.

—o—o—

According to this ruling the truly fashionable Manhattanites are those whose names are chronicled in the city directory and who are front-table regulars at the Automat. All of which is certainly very peculiar in the editor of "Town and Country," mention in whose pages has for years been considered highly desirable both socially and professionally, but which now appears, from its editor's own admission, to be only a sure certification of being on the downside. And imagine how shame-making it must be for Bull himself to encounter his own name in public prints like this!

—o—o—

● THE PUBLICATION by Alfred Knopf of an anthology of "New Yorker" profiles serves to emphasize the tradition that the last word in big-city recognition is a character sketch in Harold Ross' magazine. . . . The more installments one rates, of course, the greater the prestige of build-up. . . . Most respectful in mentioning members of their own profession are restaurant men, never calling associates or rivals by first names or in any way not implicit with dignity. . . . It is always Mr. Journal, Mr. Black, Mr. Steinberg or Mr. Cavallero; never Charlie, Rene, John or Gene. . . It is the most self-respecting of all callings.

FIGHTS RETURN TO Devil's Island

RENE BELBENOIT . . . A MAN WITHOUT HOPE OF BEING PARDONED BY HIS GOVERNMENT.

IN 1927 AT DEVIL'S ISLAND.

Rene Belbenoit, Who Escaped After 15 Years of Imprisonment, Hopes To Be Allowed to Remain in U. S.

By Virginia Irwin
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

PERHAPS you may not consider a set of store teeth, a nice gray suit, a tiny black kitten and a furnished room containing little more than a lumpy overstuffed chair, a sway-backed studio couch and a writing table and typewriter much in the way of worldly possessions. But to Rene Belbenoit, long an inmate of Devil's Island, they are a great deal.

Eighteen months ago, after spending 15 years in the grave-like isolation cells of the French "Guiana Hell," working naked in the jungle at the mercy of vicious tropical ants and still more vicious guards, being starved on swill that passed for food, and living in vermin-infested barracks that house the unfortunates who populate the French penal colony, Rene Belbenoit arrived in the United States, a stowaway on a freighter, a fugitive from Devil's Island, a man without friends, money, country, teeth or health.

Yesterday I found this man in a mid-town Manhattan furnished room, just 10 minutes from Times Square, and listened while he recounted the story of his fight to be allowed to remain in the United States. The story of his life I already knew from reading "Dry Guillotine," his own account of 15 years among the living dead of Devil's Island, published by E. P. Dutton & Co. of New York.

"I have no longer any hope of being pardoned by the French Government," Belbenoit told me quietly. "My only hope now is that my extension, which expires on Dec. 15, will be renewed and that I will be allowed to remain in the United States long enough for friends to get a bill into your Congress allowing me haven here as a political refugee."

Behind Belbenoit's hopes there is the spectre of having once more to return to the French Penal Colony, but of the possibility that he may have to live out his days in that infamous place he says only that he has suffered so much that he cannot allow despair to ruin his enjoyment of the things he now has—his kitten, his new teeth, a room of his own, and the privilege of living as man instead of animal.

"Dry Guillotine," the story of Belbenoit's 15 years of maddening punishment, privation and persecution, was written during his stay on Devil's Island and during the two years he spent making his way to the United States. Now, Belbenoit is ready with his second book, written during the past year in New York. It is, he says, an expose of the French penal administration and if any hopes of pardon remained, this new volume would destroy them.

"But it will also destroy Devil's Island, the shame of a nation," this quiet-spoken, polite, dark-eyed Frenchman insisted. "It will abolish the Guiana penal colony because I will tell things I did not tell in 'Dry Guillotine,' and the world will say: 'Such things must not be allowed to exist if we are to call ourselves civilized today.' "

Belbenoit, like the men who went through the World War (as he himself did), does not talk much of his experiences on Devil's Island. He is concerned mainly with the injustice that is French law which condemns a man to imprisonment on Devil's Island after his fourth offense, no matter if all four offenses add up to only a year and mean no more than stealing four loaves of bread.

"The world does not understand the situation," Belbenoit explained. "After I had served my sentence, which amounted to 15 years, after seven years had been added for my attempts to escape, I was what they call a 'libere', a free convict, a 'convict who had served his prison sentence but who was still condemned to reside in French Guiana. And there is no way of earning a living in French Guiana. The work in that miserable colony is all done by convicts whom the Government 'hire out' to individuals at so much per head. A 'libere' has but two alternatives—escape, or the life of a savage, living on what he can wrest from the jungle."

—o-o—

A PASSAGE from "Dry Guillotine" illustrates Belbenoit's existence during the months he was a "libere": "I caught butterflies, I made odds and ends and toys out of rubber which I collected in the forest. I managed to have a parrot to roast for Christmas—shot with bow and arrow. I celebrated New Year's eve over a boiled armadillo, dug out of its hole with a broken pickax which I had salvaged from an old dump. I celebrated Easter with a stew made from boiling the cores of palms and adding lizards. I bought a package of the cheapest cigarettes, tore them up and made three new cigarettes out of each original wad of tobacco. I hauled water out of the river. Unlike most 'liberes', I boiled it before drinking. I picked ticks out of my body, worms out of my toes. I had no teeth left but that did not bother me, for I had nothing that needed chewing. Other 'liberes' fared a little better. At night they crept into the town and stole things. But I did not want to steal anything. I searched my mind for some way to get together enough money to finance another escape, but nothing came my way. Several times I thought that I would walk up to some penal official in broad daylight and hit him in the face. That would bring about my arrest and cause me to be sentenced to another six months or a year in the barracks or cells where the authorities would have to feed me and give me prison clothes."

BELBENOIT AND THE CORNER OF THE ROOM WHICH IS HIS PRESENT WORKSHOP.

Belbenoit's chance for escape from French Guiana came when a man from an American movie company gave him money to supply information, and factual material to be used in making a film entitled "Escape From Devil's Island." And with $200, Belbenoit made his final escape, after four abortive tries.

In a canoe, that Belbenoit describes as looking like "an 18-foot cigar," the little Frenchman, on the last and successful attempt, took five companions: a man who had served 15 years on Devil's Island for killing his mistress; a countryman who had just finished four years of solitary confinement; one "Panama," whose name no one knew; an old sailor who had been sentenced for killing, in self-defense, the son of a powerful chief of a Congo protectorate tribe; and last, a young Frenchman named Dadar, under sentence for first offense robbery.

"My little black kitten, I have named him Dadar, after my friend," Belbenoit told me tenderly, as we talked of the good fortune that allowed only him of the six to reach the United States.

—o-o—

AFTER 17 danger-filled days at sea, the six hungry and almost drowned men were washed up on the island of Trinidad on the tail end of a Caribbean hurricane. With the aid of a friendly Englishman they procured a sailboat there, and once more spent 16 days on the open sea, only to have their boat wrecked trying to land at Gallinas Point on the La Guajira coastal desert of Colombia. After four days of skirting the jungle, the six fugitives reached the little Colombian coast town of Santa Marta and were placed in the high-walled military and civil prison of Eastern Colombia. And from this prison, only Belbenoit escaped—with the aid of a friendly prison adjutant. After weeks in the Colombian shore jungles and swamps and more weeks spent working along the Panama coast in canoes stolen from native villagers seven months among the Kuna and Chakoi Indians, during which time Belbenoit was forced to take a native wife, he finally arrived at Panama City.

In Panama City, he sold the butterflies he had collected during his months of living with the Indians and continued his journey. After days on foot, on horseback, and on smugglers' boats, he finally arrived in La Libertad, two years after leaving French Guiana, where he stowed away on a freighter, bound, he was told, for Canada.

"In what state I was, what was the nearest city, how many days I had been at sea, I did not know," Belbenoit reminisced. "I only knew that I had finally landed someplace. But when I got off the boat I walked until I saw some men working with a telegraph pole beside some car tracks. I wanted to ask where I was, but I dared not, so instead I said, 'Will you tell me where these tracks go?' The man nearest me looked up and laughed, 'To Los Angeles, you dope.' "

At last, after two years, Rene Belbenoit had arrived at his goal—the United States.

"Since I had not one cent in my pockets, I had to get a job," he went on. "And finally I did get one, washing dishes in a French restaurant. I saved my money until I could take a bus for New York and here I am. I have taken no one's job here in New York, I have asked only to be allowed to write my story of the inhumanity of the French Penal Administration. I have been offered con-

AND MUSIC Makers

THOMAS B. SHERMAN

MOZART was a practicing musician at an age when most children have not emerged from kindergarten. This makes him a howling wonder, easily publicised and a perennial subject for Little Journeys to the Homes of the Great. This is not objectionable in itself. Nobody is harmed by marveling at the more easily understood aspects of genius, but those who might profit by a clearer view of the subject should remind themselves that the Mozart of the Little Journeys—the boy who wrote down a mass by Allegri after one hearing, who composed sonatas at the age of 5 and who played the clavichord with the keys covered—is not the genius of "Figaro" and the G Minor quintet.

The first is remarkable enough, but his uniqueness is comparable to that of the Flying Cordonas. It is a kind of acrobatics. But what makes Mozart a treasured darling of the race is that his music is an expression of the whole man, his mind, his heart and his experience of life, and not the mere exercise of an isolated faculty.

The distinction is an important one, but before saying any more about it, I should like to quote from a book I have just read. It is a "Life" of Mozart by W. J. Turner, the English musicologist.

—o-o—

"MUSICAL TALENT," says Mr. Turner, "is not, as one may at first be inclined to think, a simple, but is a complex talent. The idea that a musician of genius is simply a man with a peculiar and specialized gift of combining or relating tones which are mere tones in the abstract without relation to life or anything else, is an illusion. That this faculty can exist in a man without reference to other qualities or gifts is true, just as the mathematical faculty can; but such an unrelated faculty does not, by itself, make a musician of genius—it only makes a musician. The faculty itself varies enormously in degree; that is a matter of common experience, and it explains why even among musicians of genius some have this pure musical faculty to a greater degree than others. Gluck, for example, had it less than Haydn. It is even possible for a musician of no genius—say, a Sterndale Bennett or even a Max Reger—to have this musical faculty more strongly developed than a composer whose work is nevertheless superior to theirs; superior, that is, by virtue of other qualities of which this faculty is the instrument.

"In a great musician of genius every human quality must enter, and he will be great in so far as his musical faculty is at the service of and expresses his human nature and, therefore, according to the depth and capacity of that nature. Music IS the man. But not only is it the man, it is—in the case of the greatest artists a universe."

—o-o—

THE THING to remember from this quotation is the idea that skill, whether the manual skill of the fiddle player or—on a slightly higher level—that of the composer, is a means to an end and not an end in itself. The end, which every artist strives for whether consciously or not, is an intensified apprehension of life. If the artist achieves that in his own nature he will probably find a way to communicate it even if his means of so doing is relatively crude.

Fortunately most of the great geniuses of music have been men with tremendous facility. The pressure of great thoughts and great emotions would have created an adequate means of expression even if one had not existed naturally. The geniuses of the race, therefore, will always find their audiences sooner or later.

But the men who are merely skillful will always have a momentary advantage over those who are making great communications. Since they have little or nothing to say they will naturally be more concerned with spectacular ways of saying it. In the field of music they compensate for their paucity of ideas by the use of violent dynamic contrasts, rich orchestral colorings and arresting rhythms. Out of necessity they make every possible use of devices that evoke an immediate physical response.

Six trumpets playing fortissimo cannot be ignored no matter what they are playing. But the effect differs only in degree from any other experience confined to the senses. It may be slightly less painful than getting hit by a baseball bat but only a confirmed masochist can ask for more.

THERE ARE DEGREES, of course, even in sense indulgence

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

PERSONAL [illegible]

INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

THINGS have certainly come to a pretty pass when a young woman as quietly dignified as Helen Wills Moody has to take time off from a lecture tour to discuss her personal affairs by way of long distance telephone.

INEZ ROBB

Her tone implied as much when she answered the phone in her Grand Rapids (Mich.) hotel room and heard a forward female (that's me!) coo. "Is it true, Mrs. Moody, that you are going to marry Aidan Roark, the British polo player, who is now turning an honest penny in the movie mines of Hollywood, Cal.?"

"No!" said Mrs. Moody, the tennis queen, with such cold precision and finality that she might have been aiming a service ace at my curly pate.

—o—o—

"THE LONDON DAILY EXPRESS printed a story today that you are going to marry him as soon as he receives a final decree of divorce from his American wife, the former Esther Foss Moore," I countered, taking a wide swing at the conversational ball.

"Really, I don't know why they know more about my affairs in London than I do," Mrs. Moody retorted with a degree of warmth. "I think it very funny that they know more about my plans than I do."

"Then you aren't planning to marry Mr. Roark?" I coaxed, trying to keep the ball in the air.

"I haven't any plans to marry at all," she insisted, moving into the net for the kill. "I don't know why persons take it upon themselves to discuss my future. When I finish this lecture tour around Dec. 1, I shall go home, to Berkeley, to spend the holidays with my mother. I am coming East again in January on business, and those are the only plans I have."

—o—o—

SO THAT IS THAT, except that out in Hollywood, Mr. Roark, of the polo-playing British Roarks, refused to discuss the reported romance between himself and the Diana of the courts.

Mr. Roark, tall, dark and handsome, "would never dream of discussing his private affairs." In fact, Mr. Roark's secretary said, Mr. R. had "nothing to say."

Mr. Roark plays polo so well that he may be a member of the British team which plays an American team in the international polo series in June, 1939. He plays polo so ably that he is now the story editor of the Twentieth Century Co. and a darn good story editor, too, although he met Darryl Zanuck, Twentieth Century Mr. Big, on the polo field.

Last December, a Los Angeles court gave Mrs. Esther Foss Moore Roark a decree of divorce, which has just become final, from the handsome Britisher.

This is the second time within six months that Mrs. Moody has had to deny her betrothal to an Englishman. When she returned home from Europe last July, she denied her engagement to Capt. Victor Cazalet, M. P.

Harvest of the Ages

By Elsie Robinson

"WHY should I matter—one little person like me—in all this huge world?" you may have said to yourself, and, along the same line, "why should my little troubles matter? Nobody cares about me or my troubles. Nobody has the time or the heart to care.

"Everybody's out for himself these days. Power—that's all that counts. Power and wealth. Doesn't matter how crookedly you got 'em. Doesn't matter how cruel or selfish or unfair you are, if you've got the pull and the place, you count. And if you haven't, you don't.

"So what's the use of trying? What's the use of going on? I never had the breaks and I never will have them. I was licked before I started. And nobody cares. For I don't matter! There's the terrible truth I've been trying to duck all my life, but I've got to face it at last. I don't matter."

—o—o—

IS THAT WHAT you've been thinking to yourself these days? Then, don't!

For you're wrong—you do matter. You matter not only to yourself but to the world—to the race.

You're more—far more—than "just a poor carpenter out of a job," or "a little stenog." You're a harvest of the ages.

Billions of lives have gone to the making of you. Countless generations of men and women have lived and died, struggled, suffered, battled, prayed, worked, wept and sacrificed, that you might be what you are where you are today. They blundered, yes; but out of all the blundering came wisdom. Out of all the battling came courage. Out of all the suffering came kindness—and a dawning sense of decency and justice.

And out of everything, came—you. All that they were, all that they did, lives on in you today.

Just a common person who doesn't matter? No; you are the hope and the harvest of all those defiant generations who, though dead, still live on in—you. You are their latest challenge, hurled by mankind against the Powers of Darkness.

ANSWERING THE TELEPHONE

By Emily Post

DEAR MRS. POST: What is so objectionable about having the telephone answered by the maid, "This is the Jones residence"? A friend tells me that you have written something against the form but she couldn't remember just what it was. Perhaps, since you wrote the other answer so long ago, you would be willing to repeat it, or something like it.

Answer: Etiquette prefers "hello" for the social world and "Mr. Blank's office" or "Blank and Company" for business. There is no objection, if one prefers, to saying "This is Mrs. Blank's house" or "Mrs. Blank's apartment" (if she lives in an apartment).

—o—o—

DEAR MRS. POST: Is it proper to wear silver sandals with a black velvet afternoon dress?

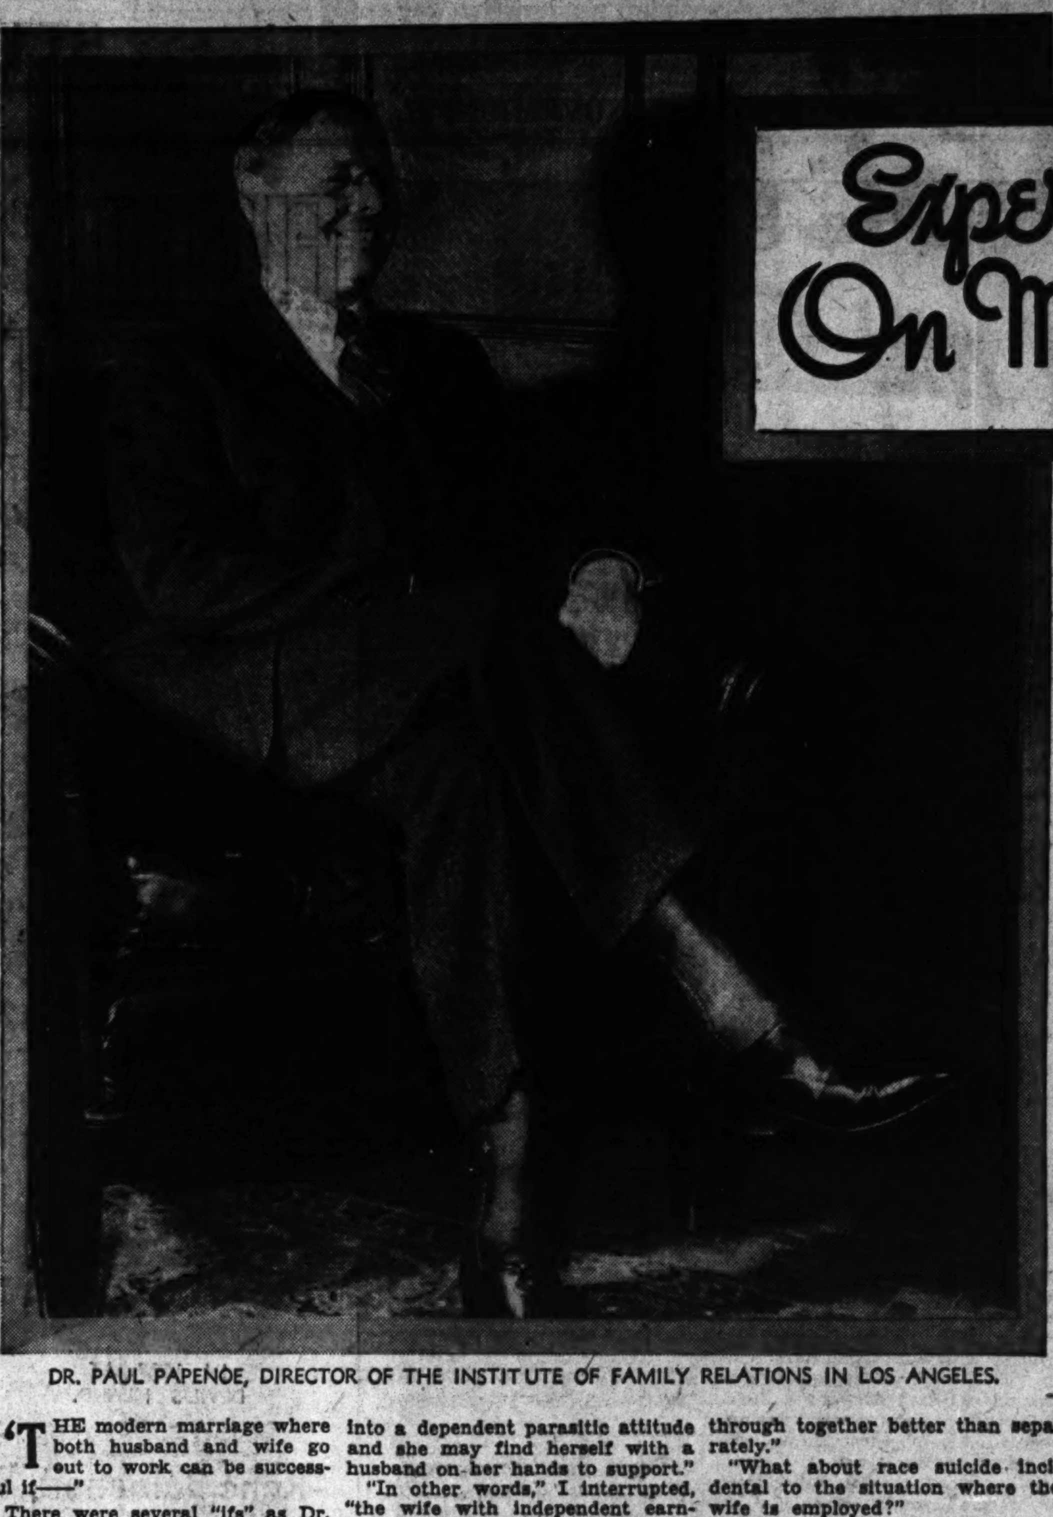
Answer: Silver sandals are proper only with clothes that are definitely evening ones.

—o—o—

DEAR MRS. POST: Is an M. D.'s title abbreviated or written out? I would like to know about this for our printed Christmas cards, and also when writing the envelopes to send to other doctors and their wives.

Answer: The abbreviation Dr. does, I think, look better with Mrs. If your husband were using his name alone then the title would look very well written in full.

Expert SPEAKS OUT On Marriage Problems



DR. PAUL PAPENOE, DIRECTOR OF THE INSTITUTE OF FAMILY RELATIONS IN LOS ANGELES.

"The Wife Who Works Must Be Careful Not to Appear More Successful Than Her Husband."

BY MARGUERITE MARTYN

"THE modern marriage where both husband and wife go out to work can be successful if——"

There were several "ifs" as Dr. Paul Popenoe considered this question before concluding, "such a marriage can and should be successful."

He was being consulted, while in St. Louis delivering three lectures in one day, as an expert on any and all marriage problems. Director of the Institute of Family Relations in Los Angeles, widely known clearing house for data on matrimony, where they make surveys and studies and tabulate everything that has to do with the domestic scene, Dr. Popenoe has all the statistics at his tongue's end. His professional title is social biologist, his specialty eugenics and heredity, but also he has a human, friend-of-the-family approach to familiar, everyday factors in the larger scheme. In this rambling interview he touched approvingly on "blind dates," disapprovingly on "going steady," the "new morality," with which he has no patience; Hollywood influence on the divorce situation and Government housing projects which he says are "subsidizing sterility."

"The marriage where both go out to work can be successful," he said, "if the working wife is careful not to be more successful than her husband or doesn't let him know it. The masculine ego," he opined, "is a very delicate, sensitive plant. She must pamper it, pay him the wifely respect and attention he feels are his due, or his ego may wilt. Without his ego he may slip into a dependent parasitic attitude and she may find herself with a husband on her hands to support."

"In other words," I interrupted, "the wife with independent earnings must seem to be more dependent, more the clinging vine, more of a doormat, than the one who is entirely supported by her husband, in order to keep the peace."

"Something like that," he agreed. "Of course," he admitted (and I thought it was about time) "something depends on the husband in adjustment to the situation. He must abandon the competitive spirit he has grown up with, the idea that women are taking men's jobs, and change that to one of co-operation. Then the careering wife can be as successful as she wants to be. But," he continued, "co-operation is the keystone of all successful marriages. I know it sometimes seems the selfish, demanding wife who keeps her husband's nose to the grindstone, brings out the best in a man, and the overbearing husband develops all the Christian virtues in a wife, but selfishness is the enemy of co-operation. The ideal is not a marriage benefiting one more than the other, but both working to make marriage itself a success and finding happiness incidentally.

"Now as to whether the marriage where both go out to work should be a success; of course it should. It is better to marry under those circumstances than not at all or to delay too long. Even if they have to do it on a shoestring. Nobody can wait for security these days. There is none. If they have the right stuff in them they'll pull through together better than separately."

"What about race suicide incidental to the situation where the wife is employed?"

"Delayed marriage results in the same thing," he responded. "Of course, the ideal principle is a family wage, enough for a man to support a family. Pending that state, married women should be given the chance to work. The employer who refuses to employ a woman because she is married, needs re-education. He is living in medieval darkness. Nobody has the right to deny anybody who wants to the fundamental right to work. As a matter of fact, most working wives are not yearning for self-expression. Most would be content to quit, and it is unfortunate they can't, for two full-time jobs put an undue strain on a woman. She can't do justice to one without slighting the other and, of course, if she slights her downtown job, she gets fired.

—o-o—

"THERE are reasons why," he went on, "in many lines of work, married women make the more efficient employes. Especially is this true of the teaching profession. The system prevailing in some places—your own city among them, I believe—of automatically dismissing women teachers when they marry is absurd and intolerable. Why put the education of children into the hands of those who have not made a normal emotional adjustment in their own lives and into the hands of women who are setting up the career pattern? School systems that won't employ women teachers for no other reason than that they are married and mothers, imply something of moral turpitude in marriage and that might apply to men as well as women teachers. Fortunately, we have no discrimination against married teachers in my city."

"Los Angeles is ahead of us in so many lines of social advancement," I commented.

"And behind in others," rejoined Dr. Popenoe. "Our divorce rates, 12,000 to 20,000 marriages per year, is nothing to brag about. Of course we have Hollywood weighing down the scale. And we are not as bad as some other cities. In Houston the other day I looked up their records and found 77 divorce suits filed for every 100 marriage licenses issued. Rivalry between Houston and Dallas prompted the question which had the better record. Dallas produced higher figures in both instances."

Had he looked into the St. Louis situation?

"No, but in comparative statisticts among the states, Missouri is about in the middle. Nevada leads with the most divorces, also the most suicides per capita. Oregon is second in both respects, California, sixth."

Dr. Popenoe is a beaming, happy looking person, the lines of his full-moon face turning upward. You'd think all the evidence of human failure he surveys would weigh him down. "I am optimistic about marriage," he declared, "inasmuch as I wonder how, with all the obstacles and all the influences against it, there is as much stability as there is. On the one hand, we have the Hollywood picture pervading the land, spread also by the radio crooners, the wood pulps and, perhaps most devastating of all by the gossip columnists. Young people contemplate wealthy and prominent people featured through these mediums, enviable, influential people, with happiness provided on silver platters, making failures of marriage. 'If they can't get along with all their advantages, how can we be expected to?' they argue.

"On the other hand, we have not enough being done where it should be done, in the homes, the schools, the churches, to promote successful marriage. Most important are the patterns set in the home. Churches should take up where homes leave off, introducing young people to each other. Oh, they extend the right hand of fellowship, at the same time turning the cold shoulder of suspicion. Ministers could take more responsibility for the marriages they perform. They pronounce blessings not determining whether the blessing may turn out a curse. Church weddings without inquiry and instruction beforehand are just a matter of being hitched and might just as well be done by a Justice of the Peace.

"Schools and colleges, catching young people while they are plastic, could introduce into every subject they teach education for marriage. And they could do more about social and emotional development. Small proportions of students get too much social life, the majority not enough. I have known of boys and girls in co-ed institutions four years without ever having a date.

"Instead of less dating there should be more. I don't mean 'going steady.' We hear of the beautiful romance of the boy and girl, going together 10 years, never having another sweetheart. If their marriage turns out all right, well and good, but how can either tell? If they'd looked around a bit, each might have done better.

—o-o—

"NOT that I approve of the 'new morality,' that term imported from Europe, which makes a virtue of promiscuity. It's better to know a lot of the other sex informally and well instead of knowing one too well. The present rage of 'blind dates' has that much advantage. There is at least a chance of meeting somebody new."

Dr. Popenoe could go on and on like this, one word from his interviewer starting him off on a new tangent and he exhausting another phase of his limitless subject. "The most important in the world," he maintained, "love and marriage."

"The birth control people are all wrong, always emphasizing the unfavorable side of large families," he said at one turning point. "We need more studies of successful large families. Even the Government with its housing program, providing mostly for two-child families, is lending itself to a plan of subsidizing sterility. Large families presumably are to be left in the slums while the Government goes on sterilizing 'superior' people as if it were doing them a favor.

"Anything done for agriculture has my approval," he announced, "for anything that strengthens rural life strengthens the family. Children on a farm are assets while undeniably in the city they are a liability. It costs money to rear children in the city. The city family comes to the point of deciding whether it can afford a new baby or a new automobile. It decides it can make one baby do and makes a down payment on an automobile."

Asked about his own family, Dr. Popenoe replied, "One wife and four sons. I'd like to have mixed in a girl or two, but even a biologist has no choice in that matter."

FIGHTS AGAINST BEING RETURNED TO DEVIL'S ISLAND

tracts by the movie people to film my life, but the French Government has threatened to ban all American pictures in France if that takes place, and so while I am willing the movie people are not willing. If only I am allowed to stay in the United States I know I can make a living, trading in butterfly wings. You know these wings are in great demand by curio and jewelry manufacturers."

In the year that Belbenoit has been in New York he has made many friends. When "Dry Guillotine" was published, 9000 sympathizers signed a petition to President Roosevelt urging that the little Frenchman be allowed to remain in the United States. He is now the proud possessor of the title of President of the Young Peoples Association of the All Souls' Universalist Church here in New York. He has spoken before the New York Bar Association, the New York Medical Association, and been given the opportunity to plead his case before the congregations of eight New York churches. But no amount of pressure or sympathy has moved the French Government a step nearer to pardoning this 38-year-old fugitive, whose father was a French railway conductor and whose mother deserted him when he was three months old.

Rene Belbenoit did not attempt to excuse himself in any way for his sentence to Devil's Island, but there are extenuating circumstances. At 13, he was taken in by an uncle and raised in the decidedly unhealthy atmosphere of a Paris night club named the Cafe du Rat Mort (the Dead Rat.) It was there that Rene acquired the appetite for easy money and committed his first theft. Disinherited by his father and uncle, the boy joined the army before he was 18 and after the war served with the Army of Occupation in Germany. After the war, he was able to find little or nothing to do, and in desperation stole 4000 francs from a restaurant keeper. Then he secured a job as valet and, once more tempted, stole money from his employer.

Rene Belbenoit stood trial and was sentenced to eight years of hard labor in French Guiana. Standing before the same court were two other men, accused of serious crimes. But these two men were wealthy, had many lawyers and influential friends, and so were acquitted.

And so Rene Belbenoit, not yet 22 years old, was on his way to Devil's Island. And now at 38, he is temporarily free, but robbed of health and the hope that he will some day be pardoned by the French Government, because he dared to write what his publishers say is "the most shocking record of man's inhumanity to man ever written—which even organized political conspiracy could not suppress."

"But I will live to see the day that Devil's Island is wiped from the earth," Belbenoit told me with the same quiet determination that has kept him alive through 15 years of horror, during which time he has spent months of hell entombed in a dark cell on the Island of St. Joseph, months in the "Crimson Barracks," where men killed each other almost monthly and no investigation was made, months on the dreaded Ile Royale living on bread, water and coffee made from grounds salvaged from garbage, and months more on the mainland of French Guiana, driven naked into the jungle to cut timber with but a cupful of rice for a day's rations.

—o-o—

"TO the public, the whole Guiana penal colony has become known as 'Devil's Island' because that island was made famous by Emile Zola, who attracted to the attention of the whole world the famous Dreyfus case," Belbenoit explained. "It was through that case that the existence of the most terrible prison on earth was made known to the public, which still confuses the penal colony with the tiny island on which Dreyfus was confined. But actually the penal colony is comprised of the prisons and camps on the Guiana mainland along with the islands of the Devil, Saint Joseph and Royale. But it makes no difference, life on the islands or on the mainland is nothing better than hell."

How Belbenoit has escaped outward evidences of his 15 years among the living dead, how he escaped insanity from his months in the "dry guillotine" of Saint Joseph where "men in 'The Howling House' were treated and handled like so many lumps of rotting flesh," this strange man has no other explanation than "hope."

"On the mainland there was always the hope of escape," Belbenoit explained, "but in the cells on the islands, the mind wanders. A man has no work, nothing to read, nothing to occupy himself with. The only sounds he hears are those of the sea breaking on the rocks and the screams of the demented crying and howling. The cells are damp, and his teeth fall out with scurvy. He watches the green mold grow and creep along in the cracks. But still there is hope."

And now on that same hope that carried him through 15 tortuous years on Devil's Island, and two more years of suffering to reach the United States, Rene Belbenoit is living in New York. Kind, polite and almost polished, the little Frenchman will ask President Roosevelt on Dec. 1 to grant him an extension and allow him to remain in the United States for at least a few months longer. He hopes that the extension will be granted and he also hopes that some day his fate will be settled so that he will be free to build a future for himself—and get married.

"I have met a very nice girl," he told me as I took leave of him and little black kitten, Dadar. "I would like to get married. You think I deserve it, not?"

I had to admit that I did.

Music and Music Makers

and every musician who offers it is not necessarily a triple-threat man in a swing band. Some of them are found in the most respectable concert halls both as executants and composers. But they all belong in the same category. They address themselves to the auditory nerves and never touch the constructive imagination.

Many persons, of course, do not ask for anything more than temporary diversion. But most of those who frequent the allegedly higher reaches of music—symphony concerts, song recitals, opera, etc.—must have been touched at one time or another by the true flame that burns at the heart of great music. Those persons should have an active interest in preventing themselves from being victimized. They shouldn't allow themselves to be tricked by mere skill, however dazzling.

If they were listening to Shakespeare and did not happen to understand English, they might be charmed by the rise and fall of the actors' voices and by the sound of the words. But they would not apprehend the nature of Shakespeare's universe until they learned the language. Music is also a language. One does not have to be a scholar to comprehend its symbolical function but one must hear it fairly often and one must really listen if one is to realize the difference between sound and sense.

CLARISSA START

IF the men of America have the proper spirit of gratitude in their hearts and minds, there should be a mass movement any day now to erect a monument or a commemorative tablet to Arthur Petrov, St. Louis doll manufacturer, who has, after 14 years of study and work, invented a doll that will say both Mama and Papa. People, especially fathers, have long recognized the unhappy fact that Papa has been getting a raw deal around the Yuletide season. Not only does he have to pay the bills on the kiddies' playthings, but he has to spend several so-called festive days at home, listening to the continuous sound of dolls bleating Mama at every turn. But up to now no one was ever able to do anything about it. A voice mechanism that said Papa was simply considered impossible.

The reason for this one-sided situation, Petrov explained to us, is that Papa is a harder word to say. Small babes can manage the wishy washy sound of Mama, but the word Papa must be forced out, and thus requires a better talking technique. And that made it quite a few times as hard to emulate the sound mechanically.

—o-o—

WE VISITED Petrov at his doll factory at 1708 Delmar boulevard the other day and examined the successful voice mechanism, which is composed of 36 pieces, and, Petrov told us, an experienced engineer who should know, pronounced it the most complicated mechanism he had ever seen. In our uninformed way, we thought so, too.

"This mechanism is as close to the human voice box as you can make it," Petrov said proudly, and we can vouch for it that it certainly is an ingenious contrivance. As closely as we can describe it, it is made up of a pair of rubber bellows encased in a triangular cardboard and metal container. Air holes at the sides allow the air to be taken in and held until the moment of release. This comes when the doll is tilted to one side and an indenture in the voice box presses against a sort of little lever which in turn uncovers an opening and the old familiar Mama or the new and higher pitched Papa issues forth. On the papa side there is an extra air hole at the top and this is the secret of its success, for this air hole furnishes the extra air pressure for the "puh" sound. If all this sounds like a Rube Goldberg invention, blame it on our mechanical mind, which finds it hard to name things in more specific terms than "those things." You'll have to take our word for it that it works. We heard it.

—o-o—

PETROV, the man behind this invention, has not spent his whole life playing with dolls. He was originally a steam engineer but when he came to this country from Canada, in 1918, he did not have a license to practice, so got a job as a doll doctor in a department store. Repairing dolls, he had ample opportunity to study their construction. Mama dolls had just come out and at that time they had to be bent over to make a sound, and the resulting Mama came from the rear. Petrov, being an astute observer of children, noticed that most children bent down to look at the doll's face when it spoke, and consequently, he began working on a doll that could be seen when it talked and also one whose voice would come from the front. He also undertook to improve on the voice mechanism which was then round in shape and could easily roll over in the doll and be muffled by the cotton stuffing. That is the reason for the present V-shaped voice box.

—o-o—

HIS PRESENT invention took 14 years of his spare time. Seven years ago he thought he had a workable mechanism, but it turned out to be too big to fit an average size doll. The present dolls differ in no way from the other pretty dolls on the market except for their double nature, and on the present invention, Petrov has two patents, a third one pending.

Among other doll lore, we learned from Petrov that 98 per cent of the dolls formerly sold here came from Germany and France, but now the ratio has been reversed and only about 2 per cent are foreign made. There are 42 doll factories in this country. Only 16,000,000 dolls are now sold annually, but during more prosperous times as many as 25,000,000 dolls found little girl mamas in one year.

Petrov himself has eight children, and this might explain his special interest in a Papa speaking doll. It probably got pretty monotonous listening to eight dolls piping Mama at the same time. Anyway no one can deny that Papa has a voice in things now.

On a Movie Set

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 26.

AFTER 20 years on the screen I received my first flowers on the opening day of the picture, "Midnight." It seems to be an old custom of Producer Arthur Hornblow—and, I might add, a charming one. Claudette Colbert, Mary Astor, Elaine Barry and I purred over our posies. I've known Mitch Leisen ever since I've lived here, but never worked for him before—but let me tell you the guests in the background of "Midnight" look as though they belonged to our social set or even better. Extras receive the same attention as the star—makeup, hair, gowns, furs and jewels. Class consciousness, Hollywood's famous hallmark, doesn't exist on a Leisen set, and that goes double in his home.

OUR VISITORS on the "Midnight" set were distinguished, too. First, Vicar Jardin, who married the Windsors, formerly of Buckingham Palace fame. From caviar to ham—and how he ate it up!

Ely Culbertson stopped by on his way to address 3500 women on their favorite sport—I said theirs—not mine. He came here for one lecture but 11,000 bridge friends wanted to attend. They had to split his speeches into three installments. His is a good racket, too. A one man show, he has 15,000,000 followers, a staff of 4000 teachers and takes in a half a million yearly.

He pays out $20,000 a year for politeness, the cost of answering every fan letter. Bored with writing exclusively about diamonds and hearts, Ely has written a mystery play to be produced on Broadway. Jack Barrymore threatened to teach his Parchesi but he wouldn't hang around—except long enough to have his picture taken. Makeup was applied—at his request.

—o-o—

THEN ALONG TRIPPED Mrs. George Cameron, chairman of the women's board of Golden Gate International Exposition. She found an old schoolmate of her brother-in-law, Joe Tobin, in Jack Barrymore. Both boys were proud of the fact that they'd been thrown out of that school.

Arthur Hornblow, believing two stars better than one, brought his own—Myrna Loy. Swell for us—bad for him—she wanted to buy all the fur coats on the set.

Two Men on Ocean Bottom, Man-Eating Sharks Hovering Between Them and Safety—First of a Series of Articles by an Adventure-Seeking Cameraman.

By JOHN D. CRAIG

Big Game Hunter and Deep Sea Diver.

JOHN D. CRAIG IN DIVER'S DRESS, WITH HIS DEEP SEA CAMERA.

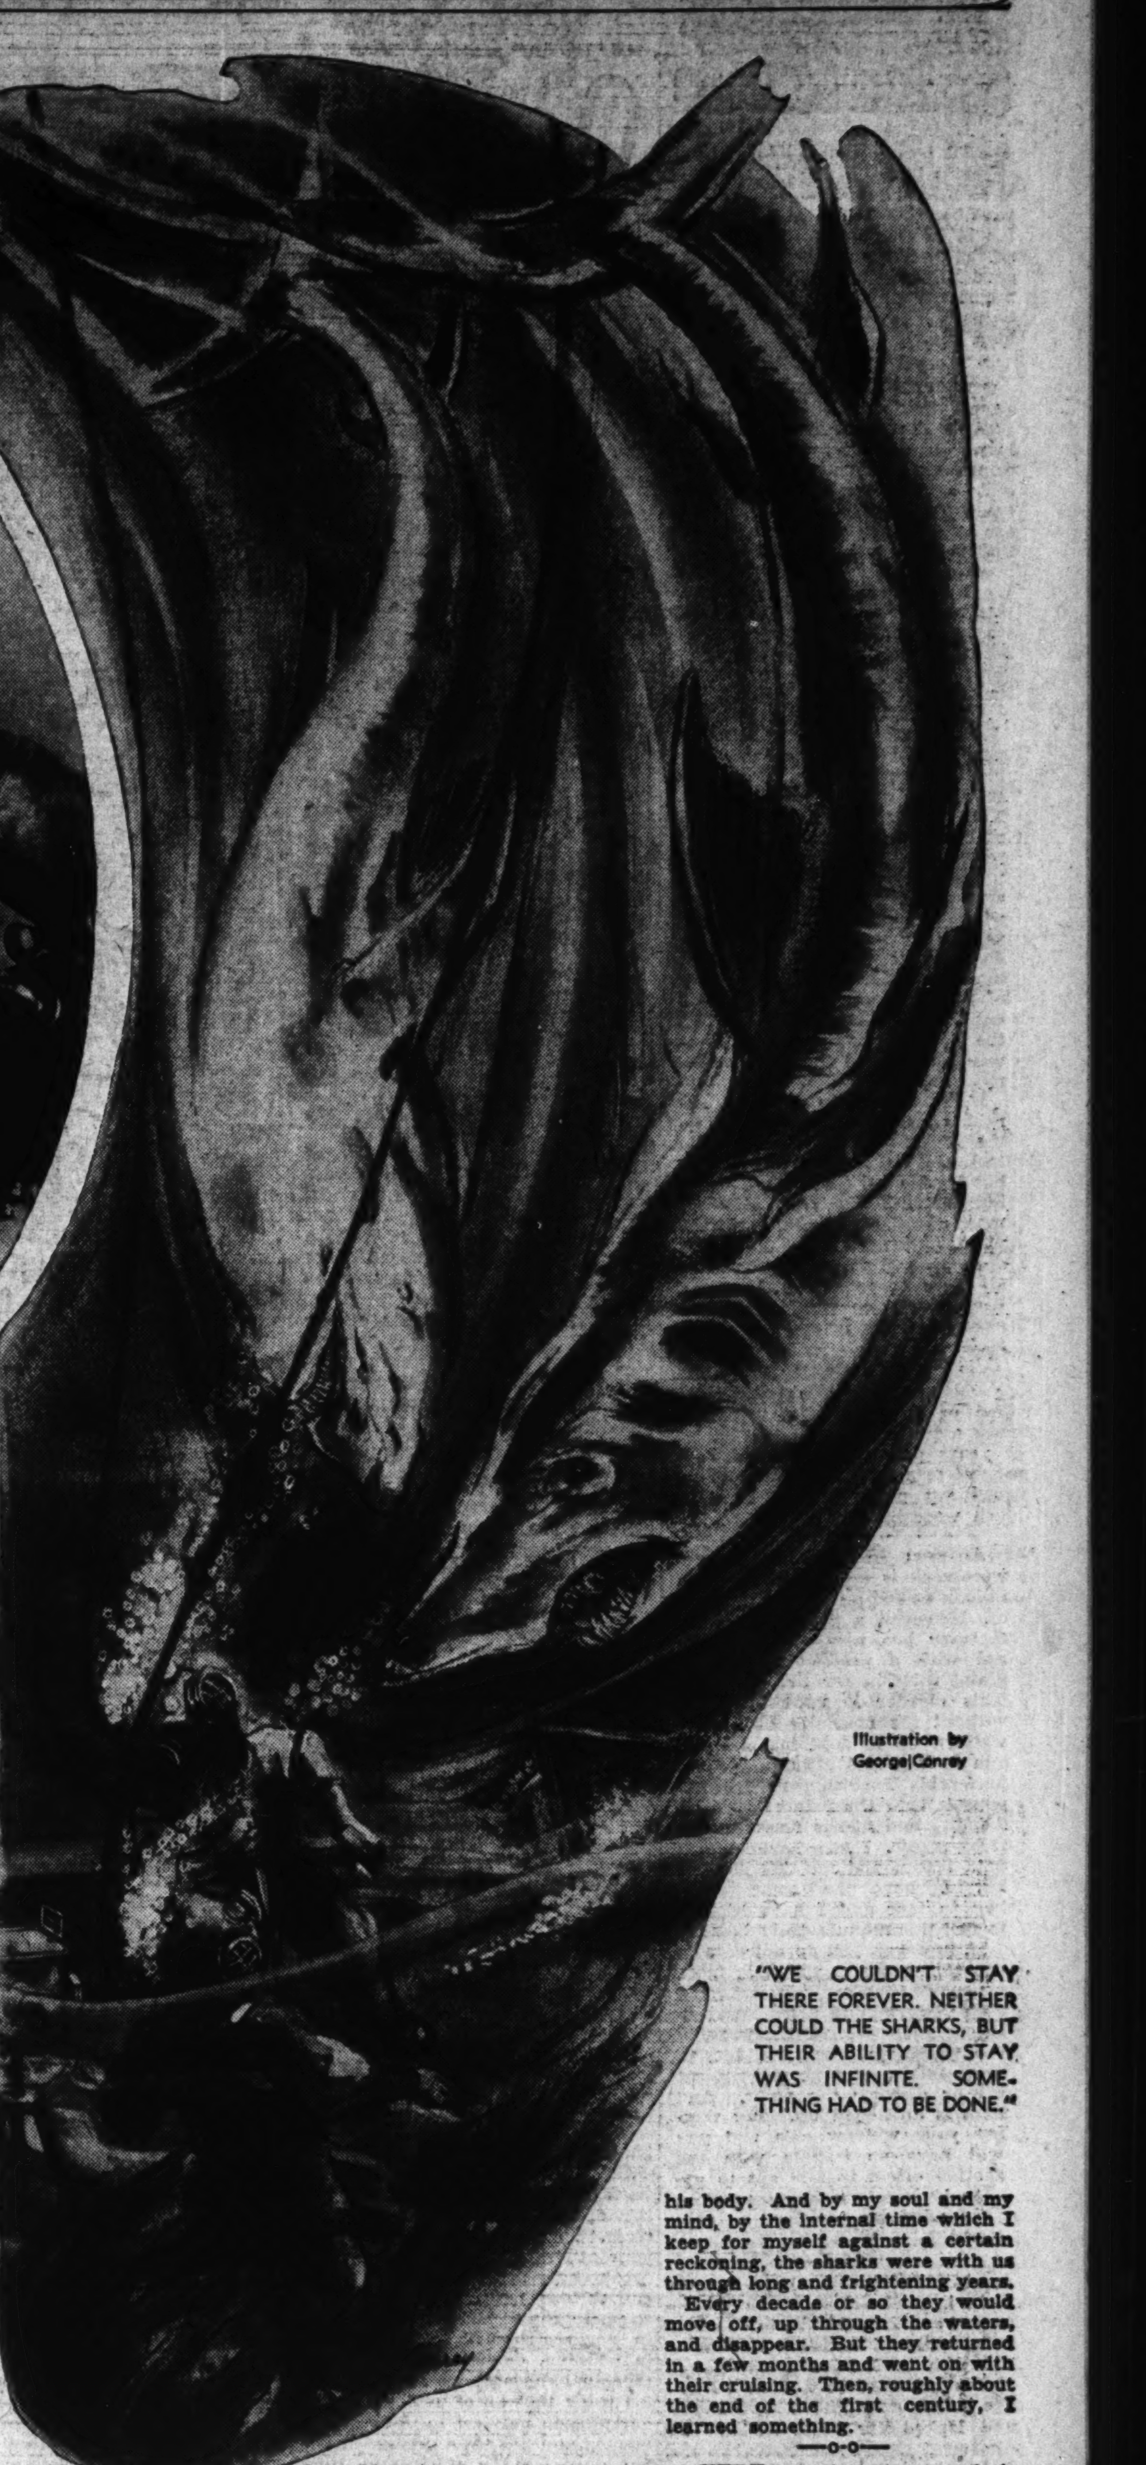

Illustration by George Conrey

"WE COULDN'T STAY THERE FOREVER. NEITHER COULD THE SHARKS, BUT THEIR ABILITY TO STAY WAS INFINITE. SOMETHING HAD TO BE DONE."

CHAPTER ONE.

IT was quiet on the floor of the ocean, so quiet that I wondered if Balboa, filtering through his narrowed eyes the first white man's view of its surface, had not seen through to the spot where I stood in a diving dress, off the little island of Cedros. That would have made him call it the Pacific.

There was no sound. Sound is a dead thing in the sea. Only the soft tunk-tunk of the air compressor on the tender above jarred the tympani in my ears as it pumped air into the helmet that held my head and my life. Otherwise motion made no noise.

Tall grass waved in what the fish have for wind—currents that drift here and there, dawdling, sprawling, racing through apertures in the geography, which seemed so little different from the geography on land. Only the inhabitants were strange. They were all birds, flying about leisurely, without having to descend, even for their food. They were better than birds, for they could remain motionless, suspended, and gravity would take no notice. There was no gravity, it seemed, for on each of my feet were 20 pounds of lead, and about my shoulders hung a breastplate of 40 pounds, so that I might remain on the earth of this curious world, and work.

I worked without thinking. Something happens to thought on the ocean floor. It flits like the fish, hither and yon, noiseless, evading the mind. That is how I know that thought is different from mind. It is a child of mind, and when it is born, mind must listen to it and look at it to be sure what it is.

It is because of the air he is breathing. It is compressed air, made up of 78 per cent nitrogen, 21 per cent oxygen, and 1 per cent of such gases as argon, neon, helium, and carbon dioxide. In shallow depths the compressed oxygen burns tissue faster, and increases the alertness of the mind, so that it leaps ahead, running and skipping, and leaving its owner far behind. From 30 feet down, it is a different story. The nitrogen, under pressure, turns to liquid in the lungs, enters the blood stream, saturates the body liquids and body tissues, and slightly anesthetizes the nerves. Then there is no pain, and gradually, as the depth increases, the mind blunders, falters, and after 225 feet, it is very apt to go blank entirely.

So I, at 60 feet, set up my underseas motion-picture camera carefully, following habit formations of action. The camera had been lowered to me from the tender. Up there on the surface, in the little boat whose name now escaped me in the gathering mental haze, were people. They were looking after my life line and my air line. They were listening at the other end of the telephone set which was built into my helmet. They were watching clocks to see that I did not stay down too long. They were thinking clearly, watching intently, ready to haul me up at the first indication that something was wrong.

ANTONIO, the old Mexican we had borrowed from the Jap divers, was watching the lines as he had watches the lines of the Japs for years. Jim Ernest was in a diving dress as safety man, and was watching the clocks. Ernie Crockett was keeping an eye on the compressor. Back at Cedros Island, where we had our camp, Reggie was preparing dinner. Gloria, my wife, was practicing knife-throwing, more from a desire to impress Diego than anything else. Diego was sitting and thinking, if it could be called that. He was an emotional fellow, and most of his emotions nowadays was hatred of us. He thought we were spying on his racket. He was the bully of the island and the dictator of the 75 men who worked in the cannery on Cedros Island.

Don't trust that Diego guy. Make trouble if he can. This one's a pretty good angle for the camera. Now what is it we do next? I walk in with my air line normal, stringing up to the surface. Campbell will walk in with his trailing, as if he came from a distance. We meet at the chest and fight. I knock him down with a wrench. No, I take my knife and seem to stab him. I haven't a wrench, have I?

The effort to think was burdensome. I stopped trying. To be was sufficient. Time had stopped. Only motion, external, continued. I was surrounded by air, a thin but powerful wall which put its shoulders to the canvas of my diving dress and pressed outward a little harder than the water was pressing inward: forty and a fraction pounds for every square inch. If anything happened to destroy that barrier of air I would be killed. If my diving dress were ripped, or my check valve broke and my air line were cut or torn above me, I would be crushed as a man might crush a soft plum in his hand. I would be spread out like jelly on bread.

But that would not happen to me. No, not to me.

—o-o—

THE nonsense was interrupted. Something tugged at my right hand. I lifted it up and held it before my face plate, where I could see it. It was bare, like my other hand, and blue and cold. It was also damaged. The wandering, aimless fish, to which I had paid no attention, had been nibbling at it. Tiny streams of gray smoke were ebbing from half a dozen unimportant cuts. Down here, in the sea, the green of the water filters out the red in color. The gray smoke was blood.

"Damn you," I said, looking at the fish. They were gathering in large numbers around me now, darting at my hand and skipping neatly away when I struck at them. Somehow the brats can smell blood under water, and I knew they would follow me right into the picture we were to take and mess up the whole scene.

I was so annoyed that my thoughts returned to me, and I looked for Campbell. I had been waiting for him to circle around and set up his camera at another angle, so that we would have a film from both sides, with one taken over his shoulder and one taken over mine.

Finally I spotted him, just at the edge of my horizon. He had put his camera approximately at the third angle of an isosceles triangle, with mine at the other end of the base and the chest of treasure at the top. He seemed to be just about ready, and for fear of wasting precious time I decided to dispense with the fish. I took my knife from its scabbard, went to some rocks behind my camera, pried off an abalone, and turned it upside down and helpless for the fish to eat. They went after it ambitiously, and I returned to my camera. Campbell waved that he was ready to go. Just before I tripped my automatic camera, I looked backward toward the abalone.

It was almost gone, but other eating had commenced. The little fellows had been fighting over the food, and had stirred up such a fuss that other and larger fish had been attracted, and now these bigger fellows were eating the little fellows, snapping them in two and clouding the water with the gray smoke of blood.

That I knew was bad, and I set out toward the chest with misgivings. This was tropical water, off the coast of Lower California, and there were sharks about—sharks with an uncanny sense of smell which will travel amazing distances to any spot where blood is spilled.

But the cameras were going and Campbell was walking toward the chest, his life line trailing. We met at the chest, paused to look each other over, and did a silly dance that resembled a fight. Anything looks like a fight under water, because of the slowness of motion in a diver's gear, so we just hugged and pushed, and finally I waved my knife and put Mr. Douglas Campbell, my best pal, down for the count. Then I took a lot of 10-cent jewelry and glass diamonds out of the chest and went staggering off. I didn't think the fight had been so hot, so after shutting off the cameras I decided to shoot it again. By that time, Campbell was on his feet and was coming toward me at an underwater dead run—backwards, as the book of diving teaches.

When he got to me he put his helmet against mine, a touching gesture which allows the vibrations in one helmet to be heard in the other, so that two divers can communicate by talking through their hats.

"Going to shoot again?" he asked.

"Yes," I replied.

"Us or them?" he asked.

His hand was pointing upward, and I leaned backward until my face plate pointed almost vertically into the water over my head.

There were two of them, not 15 feet above us—two beautiful blue-fin sharks, 13 to 15 feet long, and, magnified, as are all things under water, a third of their size again.

"My God," I said to myself.

I have been frightened before. There was a time the rattlesnake lay on a mountain trail between me, my horse and a 1000-foot drop. There was the time we were prisoners of the Riffs. There was the time a wounded tiger climbed up my tree and my last bullet missed him.

But this was different.

I wished most heartily that I had never learned to dive. I wished that I had not grown to like the tunk-tunk of a compressor pumping air into my helmet. I wished that I were anywhere but here.

But here I was down at the bottom of the sea, with two blue-fin sharks hovering over me.

I was yelling into the telephone while these thoughts screamed in my mind.

"Antonio! Antonio!

"Yes, Johneeee, what is it?"

He was there! Old Antonio, the sweetest greaser in Christendom. He was there!

I was breathing too rapidly, burning myself up. Better take it easy. Tell Antonio what it's about. Maybe he can help. He'll get you up. There may be a chance. Don't let Campbell know you're scared.

—o-o—

"ANTONIO! Listen. We've got a couple of sharks down here. Blue fins. Yes, right over us. Some fish were fighting, and I guess the blood brought them. What shall we do? Yes, they're getting closer all the time. For God's sake, pull us up as fast as you can. We'll inflate and try to shoot by them. Sure . . . what? What?"

"Sure," Antonio was saying. "Sure, Johneeee. In 40 years I have never heard of a shark will grab a man when he's on the bottom. Sure, Johneeee. Never on the bottom. Always when they are coming up. You stay on the bottom. Take it easy, Johneeee."

Stay on the bottom and watch those things come closer. Blue fins! Tiger sharks and white sharks are bad enough, but of the three man-eating varieties, the blue fin is the worst. Stay on the bottom . . . or be torn to pieces trying to get up!

Campbell had been told the same thing through his telephone set, and we made faces at each other, pointing our hands downward and raising our eybrows. He clanked his helmet against mine and said, "Remember in India they said a tiger had never been known to climb a tree, and that wounded devil went right up after you?"

I remember very well. And now this body which had given me so much pleasure in life, in sleeping and waking, in eating and drinking, in loving and fighting, was now numb and fettered on the bottom of the sea—was perhaps about to die.

To die at 28! We were pretty young meat — Campbell was only 26. The waves of fear almost died out, and I stared in hatred at the sharks.

They watched us as cats watch mice, and we watched them as mice watch cats. Time and again they drifted over us and out of the limited field of our face plates. But we turned as quickly as we could, fearful of being struck from behind.

It seemed like years, of course, and so far as that goes it really was years. A man measures time by his mind and his soul, not by his body. And by my soul and my mind, by the internal time which I keep for myself against a certain reckoning, the sharks were with us through long and frightening years.

Every decade or so they would move off, up through the waters, and disappear. But they returned in a few months and went on with their cruising. Then, roughly about the end of the first century, I learned something.

—o-o—

THERE were two streams of air bubbles constantly ascending, one from the exhaust valve in Campbell's helmet and one from the exhaust valve in my helmet. Through these paths, I observed, the sharks always went. I banged my helmet against Campbell's.

"Try shutting off your exhaust valve," I said. "The bubbles seem to attract them."

His bubbles ceased, and I closed my exhaust valve, so that the air stayed in the dress. We had to stop the air from coming in, too, in order to keep from inflating our suits and rising against our wills, but that wouldn't matter for a little while—eight minutes.

Sure enough, after a few decades, the sharks, missing the bubbles, moved off and disappeared. I telephoned Antonio that they were gone.

"Very good, Johneeee," he said. "But you better wait just a little while, to be sure."

Standing there waiting for them to return was no fun, so I decided to shoot the scene again, though it was now so far back in my mind that we seemed to have done it in the days of silent films. But back we went, with our bubbles rising again, and whether we were so frightened that we wanted something to occupy ourselves, or whether we just were so scared that we forgot we were acting, the

Deep Sea Workshop

THE bottom of the sea is my workshop, and I like it. It is dangerous, unpredictable, one minute caressing and giving all it has, the next minute furiously trying to destroy with power and cunning and tricks that are endless in variety. But ever since the first day I went down to it, in a rickety diving dress without safety valves or telephone, in 50 feet of water off the coast of Lower California, I have loved it more than any place I have ever been. And before that sunny day in the summer of 1931, I had been in 35 countries and had sailed on all of the seven seas and trod on all of the six continents. The bottom of the sea, covering four-fifths of the world, was the continent I finally chose. I was 28 when I found it, and I had looked for many years.

QUESTION: We have just bought an old house that we feel has a great deal of charm and livability. Naturally, however, there are many things that are old-fashioned and quite a bit of remodeling must be done. One of the places where we are really stumped is the bathroom that is to be used for our sons. At present it has plain painted walls. We do not want to use tiling in this bath but we would like to do something individual and interesting and yet have it practical for boys. Could you make any suggestions? MRS. F. R. G.

Answer: I think one of the new papers that are made to resemble wood panelling would be grand for a bath such as this. This paper is much heavier and more durable than the ordinary wallpaper and could be lacquered to give it extra quality. There are, of course, other papers which are actually thin sheets of wood that would be even more durable but they are quite a bit higher in price. I think a bath of this type would be very masculine in feeling and would last the boys for many years for it would be suited to males of almost any age.

If, however, this does not appeal, consider using linoleum on the walls. This is very easily installed, is not only practical but is also very very long wearing and may now be used in almost any desired manner. Both plain and marbleized linoleums are now available and there are all sorts of cut-out designs and bandings which may be used to advantage for individualized effects.

—o-o—

● QUESTION: I have a great deal of white woodwork painted with a flat finish and a little boy 3 years old. The combination is almost fatal. Do you know of any good but quick way of cleaning such woodwork? MRS. L. D.

Answer: Flat finished white woodwork is always a pleasure to look at and a pain to take care of. However, a St. Louis manufacturer has now come to our aid with a product that is a grand solution for this problem. This cleaner is used by itself without the necessity of adding water, soap or anything else. All you do is pour a little on a cloth, preferably Turkish toweling, and wipe it over the painted surface. All dirt and marks disappear as if by magic. I may sound like a paid testimonial for this product but I have the same problem to face and I have learned to call this manufacturer blessed.

If, however, you do not care to use this product, which is more expensive than ordinary soap and water, try adding a little ammonia to your water when washing the woodwork. Be sure, too, to use a mild soap that will not eat off or discolor the paint. And here is an added tip. Try waxing your window sills and you will have no trouble with the spotted effect that is apt to appear if you ever forget to close your windows during a rain storm.

—o-o—

● QUESTION: I have a large niche in my hallway, which is quite formal and I would like to do something rather interesting and unusual with it. I have tried potted plants but they do not do well as the hall is dark and I have looked and looked for some sort of an ornament that would appeal to me, but without success. Have you any idea of something that would be appropriate and distinctive in a spot such as this? MRS. M. C.

Answer: Nothing is more distinguished, appropriate and effective for a niche such as you describe than a very simple, classical urn, filled with huckleberry leaves. Most people forget not only the charm but the lasting quality of the lovely, shiny green leaves. If they are kept filled with water they will last fresh and green from one to three months.

—o-o—

QUESTION: You have often told in your column how to use merely a box spring and mattress for a bed with a headboard made out of material. I would like very much to use such a box spring and mattress arrangement but I am not sure I would like the headboard. Do you know of anything else that might be used instead of such a headboard? MRS. M. A. R.

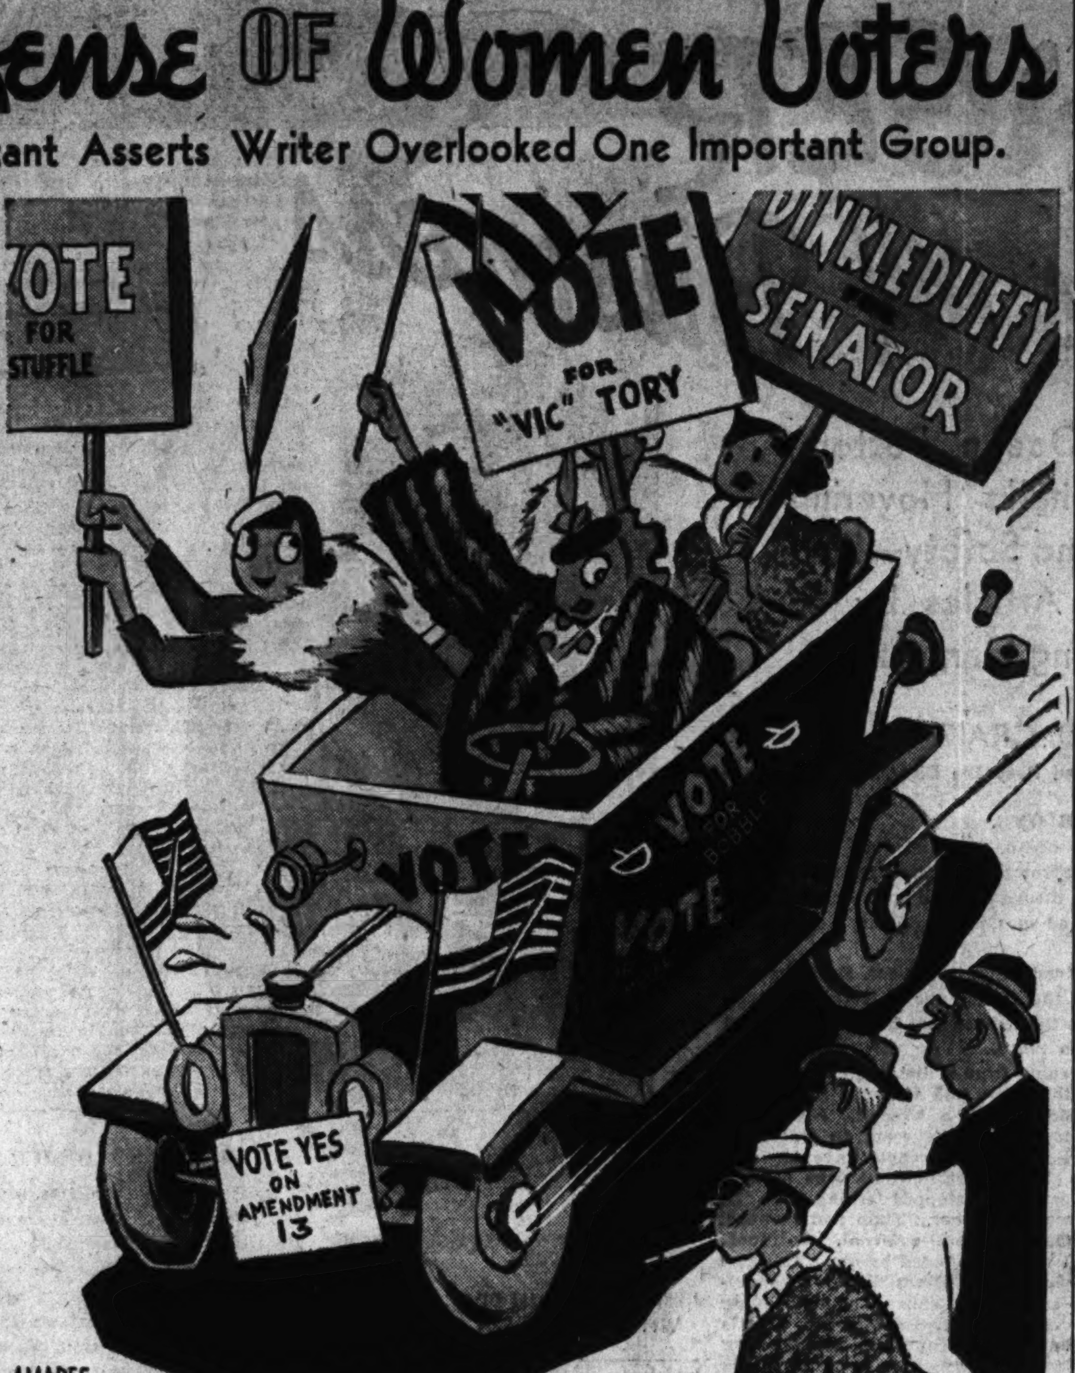
Answer: There are any number of ways you could use a box spring and mattress with such a headboard. Try, for instance, a very interesting piece of material hung in folds straight down the wall from the cornice of the room. Or, you might use an engaging canopy effect hung from a center crown over the bed and tied back at either side. Also, you might place the springs lengthwise to the wall with bolsters at either end to give the effect of a daybed.

In Defense of Women Voters

Winning Contestant Asserts Writer Overlooked One Important Group.

By

Virginia Stone Marshall



"THIS CLASS DOES NOT SPEND ALL DAY EVERYDAY IN BARGAIN BASEMENTS, NOR DOES IT SPEND EVERY AFTERNOON IN THE MOVIES OR OVER THE BRIDGE TABLE, GOSSIPING."

CONFIDENTIALLY, Miss Irwin, as one Virginia to another may I point out that you have trumped your own ace—not once, but twice?

In the first place, in your article "What Have Women Done With Ballot?" you recognize and write toward only two classes of women. In my opinion there are three classes of women, one of which, apparently, caught your blind spot.

There roams upon the green fields of Democracy, spelled with a capital D, one class of women which cares nothing about anything—politics not excepted. You see this group.

There also scampers about on the same green fields another class which I call the Gossips—not because all women of this class worship at the shrine of the great God Gossip, but merely because this vice is the favorite and typical avocation of the class. These women know politics, as they know most everything else, only as a tentative and rather shaky subject of conversation to be resorted to in the event that their cohorts run short of idle chatter and palaver. You also see this group with its weaknesses.

But, Virginia, a third class of women calmly and thoughtfully traverses these green fields of Democracy. This class does not spend all day every day in bargain basements, nor does it spend every afternoon in the movies or over the bridge table, gossiping.

This third is the class of straight-thinking, square-shooting women who spend some time each week with their current events clubs, their music, their books and their newspapers. This is the class—when you say Dewey—that thinks of the fact that Thomas E. was defeated by only 65,000 votes in New York and comments on it, and does not ask if you mean the Admiral.

This third class has representatives in all walks of life, not club women alone. Most girls and women in the realm of business pick up a smattering of what is going on in the political, social, scientific and literary worlds—whether they consciously or unconsciously acquire the information. Many housewives, busy ones in particular, make every minute with their newspapers count and can converse about politics at dinner in a manner so intelligent that it makes the old man sound like Mickey Mouse.

Your article fails to concede that such a group as the third even exists. Your kind reference to the League of Women Voters makes the average reader feel that the League is a large group of three women who can afford subscriptions to Time, Newsweek and Fortune. Although the League may be comparatively small in membership to the number of American women voters, it is only a sample.

There are in existence, and flourishing, a very large number of groups, clubs and organizations patterned like the League and doing equally as much on a small scale. Perhaps they have escaped your attention because they rarely break into print and don't have conventions with bathing beauties to photograph. But what they lack in newsworthiness they make up in stamina, determination and intellectual courage.

I think that all of us should take our pie-pan hats off to these small, unsung and unknown organizations, not only for the work that they have done, but also for the work that they can and will do in moulding the opinions of the masses of voting American women. These groups of women certainly can be—and are—bothered by questions of vital public interest. Just ask me about Amendment No. 6—I dare you!

I feel reasonably sure, Miss Irwin, that you trumped your own ace a second time when you left out the men in your thunderings. Do you realize that you could take your heading and make of it "What Have Men Done With Ballot?"—Nothing Worth While, Says Writer, Pointing to Present-Day Conditions." You could go on just like you stampeded against women, viz: "So you voted last Tuesday? But how? The way your boss did, or the way you thought best after carefully studying the candidates, amendments, propositions, etc." I hate to give you such a sure-fire suggestion for next week's feature story, but it is true.

—o-o—

SERIOUSLY, I do not believe that you can limit your tirade about the hegira toward a "spotless civic life" to the fair sex. Most men vote with an ulterior motive other than the good of the nation. Their boss tips them off, and the tip carries a subtle note of threat with it. Again, they may have promise of a job, an asignment, a contract, or just a heaping big dish of gravy if they vote for Crabapple for Congress! Still again, many Reliefers and WPA-ers have better sense than to bite the hand that feeds.

To say that women vote unthinkingly and stop there infers that men vote thinkingly, and that is unfair. Men are only politically minded if they are forced to it, and a shocking number of them shy at the sight of a soap-box rally.

In conclusion, Miss Irwin, may I tell you a secret? I hadn't meant to let the cat out of the bag, but we women just can't keep secrets, you know. I ran two flags up on my apartment roof a minute ago, your prearranged signal that I had heard public affairs discussed intelligently in a gathering of women. Believe it or not!

P. S.: I just looked out the window and there are also two flags run up across the street. Will you please investigate the case and see if there could possibly be another indication of intelligent womanhood—or just a hang-over from Armistice day?

DANGER IS MY BUSINESS

second fight, on the films, was a honey.

I had just shut off the cameras when Campbell came running again, banging right into me in his haste and blindness.

"They're here again!" he screamed. He sounded like a lady who has seen a mouse. Under water strange things happen to a man's voice also—it gets high and thin and querulous.

And there they were, crossing and recrossing the streams of bubbles; having a swell time.

They had not attacked us. And Antonio, I remembered, had never misinformed me. Therefore we were safe so long as we stayed on the bottom. But we couldn't stay there forever. Neither could the sharks, but their ability to stay was, for all practical purposes, infinite. Something had to be done.

Slowly I closed my outlet valve, keeping the air in the dress. The dress began to fill, to balloon, and to tug at the weighted shoes. Had I slipped the catch which drops the weights on the shoes, I would have shot upward. But I stayed right where I was and watched the sharks. When one of them passed through the bubble stream from Campbell's helmet and turned so that he was facing me, I pointed my right arm at him, pulled the elastic wrist of the cuff away from the flesh a little, and shot a fine fat stream of bubbles at him.

He turned like a boomerang at the peak of flight and disappeared. His pal followed him.

We told Antonio, and after making us wait for a while, he hauled us up. All the way up my mind, my heart, my glands, and my whole being whimpered and cried, for we could not go up as fast as we wished for fear of getting the dreaded bends. All the way I expected to feel a tug, as an arm or a leg went away from me.

But nothing happened, and Antonio laughed and laughed at the stories we told him, and at my brave recital of chasing the sharks away with bubbles.

"You know what I think, Johneeee?" he said, taking his pipe from his mouth and pinting it at me. "I think maybe all sharks can be scared with bubbles. Yes, Johneeee, a new weapon you have found . . . with bubbles you shoot man-eating sharks!"

That night the sharks were forgotten. It was full moon, and we lay on the deck, trying to fall asleep while the sea rocked us, quietly whispering an old sea tale as it slapped against the hull of the Melrose. It was just a 60-foot work boat, and we lived entirely on its battered deck. The huddled forms were strung out in the blue moonlight. Campbell lay doubled up, as if he were making a jackknife dive. Beyond him, Ernie Crockett lay straight on his back. Antonio slept on his side, relaxed, with a smile on his face. Near him Jim Ernest had flopped on his stomach, his face turned aside, arms over his head.

I rolled over and stared straight at the moon. It was reasonable to suppose, I figured, that I had no destiny in life beyond mediocrity. There was evidence to support the arugment that I had been raised above my station, and that I was now precariously trying to cling to a perch on which I didn't belong. I had been born plain John Craig. I had gone to work at 16 because my father died, and because I gave my age as 21. I had done pretty well and risen fairly high in the ranks in four years. And because I got a good tip, and because my father's old maps and one of his old friends helped me, I had gotten hold of some land that had oil and had leased it to a drilling company. And the wells had come in. I had been rich.

Thus through a series of accidents I had found myself with a large income at the age of 20. The accidents did not reflect any particular credit on me. But I had accepted a certain credit, I knew now. I had traveled for more than six years, all over the world, being accepted as a young man of leisure and doing nothing to disprove the idea. Only toward the end of the journey, in India, had I worked, and then an accident had brought me the job, a job which called for taking pictures of jungle animals and which ended in hunting tigers.

It was an accident which had thrown to me the opportunity to learn motion-picture photography, which was the only practical asset I brought back with me from my journeys.

Tomorrow in The Everyday Magazine Craig tells of his capture by Riff rebels in North Africa, and of a foolhardy ascent of a pyramid.

The Problem Of Funerals And Children

Child Expert Discusses Whether They Should Attend These Services.

By Angelo Patri

A MOTHER writes in to ask if children should be taken to funerals. That must be a matter of personal taste, personal understanding of the children, and personal common sense. My notion aout it is that most children under 12, would be better off if they did not attend such a ceremony. But it depends upon the circumstances.

If the children are closely related to the dead the funeral service is a terrible strain. They cannot understand the implications of death; they are in the midst of tragedy; tears, mourning and desolation. If they are sensitive, and most children are, they suffer keenly and without comfort, for they are lost in such a situation. Would it not be better to keep them from the funeral and the interment?

—o-o—

IT USED TO BE fashionable to dress the children of the bereaved family in deep black and range them in the front row as a symbol of family suffering. We have learned better than to do that. Rarely now do we see children abused that way. The style went out along with the full length crape veil for the widow, the crape bonnet and the deep black folds of the ugly stuff on her dress. We might go a bit further now and spare the children a ceremony they can only endure without comprehending to any extent its meaning or its relation to them.

Black dresses are not healthy for children. Wearing them or living with people who habitually wear them is depressing because they are constant reminders of grief over death. If people truly believe in the words of the funeral service the funeral black is a contradiction to their faith.

There is no salve for the wounds death makes. There is no sense in pretending that there is. Those who suffer bereavement must endure until time and life's stimulation to service heals the wound and lets the scar knit over it. But black clothes and perpetual grieving will not hasten the healing process nor lighten the burdened heart. Acceptance, understanding of life's way with us, and the memory of happier times, is best.

—o-o—

IN ONE SENSE there is no death. The life of a soul on earth lasts beyond his departure. You will always feel that life touching yours, that voice speaking to you, that spirit looking out of other eyes, talking to you in the familiar things he touched, worked with, loved as familiar friends. He lives on in your life and in the lives of all others that knew him.

There is no ceremony, no pomp, no decoration adequate to the dignity of Death. He is stark, alone, unreachable, beyond human understanding. His presence calls for acceptance of a fact tremendous in its finality, simple in its supreme majesty. Children we all must be in his presence, for he knows no class, no condition, no ceremony, but his own. Each of us must meet him, on his terms, alone, an angel of relief. Spare the children.

CASE RECORDS OF A Psychologist

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE K-166: Nona Z., aged 14, is a high school freshman. "I have been reading your Case Records," she wrote me last week, "and have been pasting them in a snapshot album so I have all of them.

"My teacher uses them, too, for she had our whole class enroll in your Compliment Club, and it was great fun. We used to spend 15 minutes on Fridays to tell about the interesting things that happened when we complimented people.

"Sometimes people would simply stammer or blush when we praised them. Others would just say, 'Thank you.' Some would tell us we were looking for a quarter, and laugh it off.

"Still others would try to pay us a compliment back again. We made a chart on the blackboard and kept a record of all the different ways people would react when we paid them a sincere compliment.

"These Fridays we called our 'testimonial meetings.' We even kept on after the month was over because they were fun and our teacher said it was good training observing people and applying psychology.

JOIN THE COMPLIMENT CLUB AND BE HAPPY.
K-166

—o-o—

"I USED TO BLUSH and feel very shy whenever I spoke to anybody, but by means of the Compliment Club I got so I enjoyed meeting people so I could look them over for something nice about them.

"At home I used to quarrel and fight with my two brothers, but I learned that they would be as sweet as pie if I'd just praise them a little. Now I see things about people that I never noticed before I joined the Compliment Club. I'm really becoming a social detective, as you said.

"My school marks have risen, too, Dr. Crane. I used to be a 'C' student, but the last semester I made a 'B' average. I don't know just why, but I wonder if it is a result of feeling happier and less afraid when I am with people."

—o-o—

I HAVE QUOTED this letter from Nona because it illustrates several principles of psychology. She is right in observing that we are more efficient when we are happy.

This result has vast implications in business and industry. Happy workers do more and better work, and they don't even feel as tired as formerly when they actually did less.

If we wish to enjoy people, we must learn to forget self and become a social detective, ferreting out the good things in our associates. Much labor trouble, prejudice and war could be avoided if we'd stop looking for mean things, and search for the hidden gold in the personalities around us.

—o-o—

NO PERSONALITY is so devoid of merits that a close inspection will not reveal some talents or virtues. Most of us, however, never train ourselves to study other people. And even if we do so, we forget to phrase a sincere compliment about the good traits of our neighbors.

Too many of us wander throughout life relatively tongue-tied and unhappy, when we could be full of zest for living and spread sunshine by turning our attention outward upon our associates, and complimenting them.

Don't wait for their funeral! Pay them honest verbal bouquets now while they can appreciate them. It will also transform your own personality.

The Reason!
Thousands of other mothers, like Mrs. Lange, "don't give the children anything else" since they discovered REM. REM is thorough, for coughs resulting from colds, because it works two ways . . . in the throat and also systemically. REM is much more than just a "tickle stopper."

Cooking TOUR
GEORGE RECTOR

WHEN I was a young chap just out of college my father had no easy time in selling me on the idea of going into the restaurant business, especially when I was told to start in the kitchen, where my first assignment was cleaning chickens and fish.

Many a time I wanted to throw up the job, but my better judgment kept me from doing that, as there was too much cookery talent all around me not to take advantage of it. I don't want to throw too many bouquets to the chef and cooks in Rector's, but I say now and always will that these cooks knew their business. Mistakes were very few. Just because I have put in this boost for Rector's please do not think for one minute that other very good restaurants did not exist. Successful restaurateurs in the days I am talking about were doing business in cities all over the country, and in every case I know of these men learned their business from the bottom up.

There was Boldt in Philadelphia, Kinsley in Chicago, Rector, Delmonico and Sherry in New York and many others.

—o-o—

Only today a friend of mine asked me an oft repeated question, "Is the cooking of today as good as it was in years gone by?" He had in mind, of course, restaurant cooking. I had to answer that I didn't think so. There are exceptions, but generally speaking that certain flavor, tang, or whatever you want to call it is missing.

—o-o—

● TAKE FOR EXAMPLE, that very famous restaurant, Marguery's, in Paris. Tourists from all over the world went to Marguery's for its specialty, fillet of sole. It was the sauce that really made the dish so delicious and when that fine old gentleman, M. Marguery, passed on, the place slowly lost its popularity and finally closed its doors.

Imported sole is almost impossible to get, but flounder when available is a good substitute. Almost any fillets of small fish could be used. Frozen filets are in the fish markets pretty much all over the country, so use them if you are unable to get the whole fish. The object of purchasing the whole fish is to have the head, bones and skin to make the fish stock which is the base of the sauce.

—o-o—

I am going to give you the recipe for this famous dish and some time when you are in the mood to test your culinary skill try it. The white wine that is used in the sauce is not a sweet wine. Perhaps I could better compare it as a Rhine wine type, such as is made in California.

—o-o—

● HAVE THE FISH butcher remove the fillets from two flounders. Place bones, skin and heads in a stew pan. Add one pound of inexpensive fish such as flounder, halibut or cod, having it cleaned and cut in small pieces, also add one-half cup sliced carrots and one leek cut in small pieces, two sprigs of parsley, 10 whole peppercorns, one-half bay leaf and two quarts of cold water. Bring to boiling point and simmer until fish stock is reduced to one pint, then strain. Pour a little of this fish stock (about half) over the fillets which have been seasoned with salt and a few grains of cayenne pepper and arranged in a buttered baking pan. Cover fillets with buttered paper and place in a moderate oven to poach for 15 to 20 minutes. Carefully lift the fillets out of the pan and arrange them on a hot oven proof platter. Garnish with one teaspoon of finely minced parsley, 12 small poached oysters and 12 small boiled shrimp which have been shelled and cleaned.

—o-o—

NOW MAKE the sauce. Pour remaining fish stock into the baking pan in which fillets were poached to recover essence in pan and simmer until quantity is reduced to three tablespoons, no more, then strain this small quantity into top part of double boiler and add four tablespoons of dry white wine, also one-fourth pound of butter. Cook over hot water, stirring until butter is melted. (Have very little water in lower part of double boiler, just enough to create a gentle steam.) Then add four well beaten egg yolks, stirring constantly until sauce thickens, or about the consistency of medium cream sauce. Then pour this sauce over the fillets, oysters and shrimp and place in hot oven until glazed or lightly browned.

—o-o—

LATTICE POTATOES fried in deep hot fat would be excellent to serve with this dish.

Wash and pare potatoes. Slice in lattice form, using slicer which is made for this purpose. Let stand in cold water for 30 minutes; drain and dry between towel. Fry in deep hot fat (370 degrees) or hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in 60 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with salt.

Two-in-one Ensembles

If you adopt the dinner costume consisting of one metal top and two skirts, one street length and the other floor length, you should be ready for any last-minute invitation. These two-in-one ensembles are highlighted among the season's favorites. The skirts are made of black crepe or velvet and the bodices are gaily colored.

ST. LOUIS ● SYLVIA STILES

SNOWY weather justifying a lavish display of the aristocrats of the animal kingdom, throngs paying tribute to a popular debutante at one of the largest balls of the season, Thanksgiving holidays with their influx of college students and visitors—these have placed the winter's fashions on parade during the past week and definitely launched luxurious themes as a dominant note of the year.

Daytime clothes and evening modes have stressed some definite inspiration but few have been similar. Dressing to suit one's preference has gained new ground this season so if the dashing cossack trend is becoming, a woman assumes a military air. Clinging Grecian robes, Victorian quaintness, the monk's silhouette, gay nineties hats and headdresses, Louis XIV ornamentation—all these have influenced the fashions and given a diversity that is refreshing.

—o-o—

Persian lamb fur, snatched from its pinnacle of popularity early in the season by silver fox and baum marten, has regained certain leadership. Smartly dressed women at luncheon on recent days have worn coats and matching caps of this fur or suits banded to match the trimming of hats, gloves or bags. Mrs. Robert Schillington has been wearing a stunning costume suit consisting of black dress and bright blue military coat trimmed with the fur which forms strips like pockets at the front. She completes her ensemble with more Persian lamb accents. Since this fur is sufficiently tailored for business wear as well as more dressy daytime occasions, smartly dressed women have adopted it—among these being Mrs. Arnold H. Maremont whose little black Persian lamb cap matches the bolero of her coat and also the trimming of a flattering black wool frock.

Shades of blue have been exceedingly interesting and have been allied with equal success with black or brown. Miss Ahdeen Knight looked attractive at a luncheon this week in a robin's egg blue dress of soft feathery wool. This was designed with high standing collar at the back and soft pleating hugging the front of the neckline where a heavy gold chain adorned with many coins was attached. The skirt had all-around fullness, fitting at the waistline without a belt. Sleeves were short and quilted at the high shoulders. A dashing hat of Spanish inspiration came down at the side and was laced with black leather to match shoes and gloves.

The debutante ball of Miss Frances Howell Lewis at the St. Louis Country Club on Thanksgiving eve proved to be a veritable fashion parade with elaborate new evening gowns worn by many. Vivid colors vied with gold-trimmed white jersey and crepe and with black velvet for style supremacy. Gold lace and lame were among the handsome creations, one of the most interesting being that of Mrs. Russell Gardner. Mrs. J. W. Folk looked striking in a dress of cyclamen red satin, the heart-shaped neckline slashed at the shoulders and held with clips and the skirt very full at the hemline. Sleeves were high at the shoulders and extended below the elbows. Turquoise blue earrings and other jeweled accents made a distinct contrast that was arresting.

—o-o—

Miss Jeanne Huette, one of the season's debutantes, chose a picturesque formal frock of black velvet for this occasion. This was of cameo type, the off-the-shoulder bodice being edged with a pink net lace ruffle and the bouffant skirt adding a hoop to emphasize its quaintness. A neckband of black velvet held a real cameo and Miss Huette wore antique cameo earrings to complete a perfect ensemble.

Miss Mary Frances Nangle, another popular debutante, whose style alertness is apparent, has been wearing most attractive costumes this season. At a theater party on Tuesday evening, her choice was a soft blue frock with bias-cut accordion pleated skirt and square necked bodice slit at the shoulders. Short sleeves were boxed at the shoulders to provide the high Schiaparelli fullness. Over this she wore a full length black velvet wrap—the type which continues to be the favorite choice with the season's debutantes. A camelia was tucked into her hair.

—o-o—

Since this has proved to be such a good season for colors for both daytime and evening, some stunning alliances have been noted. Mrs. E. H. Peters, for example, has combined parma blue most effectively with a lovely shade of red in a dinner costume that is distinctive. The long skirt is of the blue shade and the coat of red velvet. A lipstick red dinner dress with short sleeves is another outstanding style adopted by Mrs. Percy Travis, while Mrs. M. Edward Rowan has contributed to the fashion importance of purple by her selection of a purple evening frock with matching wool evening wrap having kolinsky revers.

—o-o—

The Saturday night symphony concerts have become such "dress up" occasions in St. Louis that many have adopted the custom of meeting friends there and going on to supper parties afterward. New fashion trends, therefore, are found at the concerts. An unusual frock subscribing to the vogue of longer sleeves for evening wear was worn by Mrs. Norman Bierman. It was of the violet blue tone seen repeatedly within recent weeks and printed with gold coin clusters. A tiny border of the gold outlined the square neckline and edged the skirt hemline. Sleeves were high at the shoulders and fitted so that they were long and tight. Mrs. Aaron Fisher's black velvet frock had the monk's type of skirt that is very full at the front. Slit pockets at either side of the skirt front further emphasized the clerical mode. These pockets were outlined with silver and crystal bead trimming. The bodice was square of neckline.

—o-o—

Fuchsia tones have played such an important part in color schemes this season that several outstanding costumes in this shade are seen in every smart gathering. Mrs. Charles A. Stix looks exceedingly well in this tone as evidenced by a gold-trimmed frock in two shades of fuchsia worn at the symphony last Saturday evening. Another becomingly gowned matron was Mrs. Wallace Renard whose black crepe dress was trimmed with heavy silver lace.

Sunburst knife pleating gave a graceful emphasis to the white crepe frock worn by Mrs. Isadore Millstone at an after-the-symphony supper party while Mrs. Julius Zimmerman wore a black crepe frock, the bodice of which was covered with a long-sleeved white sequin jacket. Gold trimming also was in evidence on several good looking costumes, among those being that white crepe dress of Mrs. Hary Milton. The V neckline was outlined with gold. A gold sequin jacket that hung straight at the front without fastening revealed the gold edging outlining the V neck of the bodice.

Dining Rooms; Their Place in Modern Homes

"Homemakers Should Think Twice Before Giving Them Up .

By Elizabeth Boykin

ALL politics aside, I have to take issue with Mrs. Roosevelt on the subject of dining rooms. She thinks they can very well be dispensed with in the small home of moderate means. And so they can, but not very conveniently.

If there's a family of children—and people still have them as Mrs. Roosevelt should know—there are regular meals to serve. And eating in a corner of the living room gets to be pretty tiresome three times a day. It's all right for the career girls you read about who eat breakfast on the fly and just have dinner at home now and then for a lark. Or for a young couple just starting out.

But I say, for convenience's sake, that the homemaker with a busy active family had better think twice before she gives up her separate dining room. There are so often problems of finding space for so many straight chairs in the combination room, not to mention the question of storage space for linen, silver, china and glass.

Another point to consider in the active family is the fact that the living room is kept pretty busy doing its own job properly without having to double up. And I always feel there's something to be said for maintaining the dignity of a dining room and respect for the fine ritual of dining.

So—however handsome that extra big living-dining combination room looks, be sure you know what you're giving up when you decide on one big room instead of two smaller ones.

If You Ask My Opinion ·:· ·:· ·:· By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM 22, very small and young-looking for my age. I have no parents. I room and board with a very lovely lady who was a total stranger to me and we get along fine. I have worked out my own problems of life, but this one has me stumped.

I am an extra in a small store and since I have been working there have met a very fine boy. We are both athletic and we meet frequently at places where there are swimming pools, skating rinks, etc. Both of us are very alone and so for this reason the friendship helped us a great deal. Much to my surprise the company has rules that the boys and girls employed are not to go out together and so he was fired. I feel badly about the whole situation.

Lately, since he is no longer there the girls constantly fire questions: "How is he?" "Where is he?" "Did he go back to the country?" "Are you going with him now?" "Where does he live?" "What do you think about his being fired."

Of course I feel those things are none of their business. I am a very patient girl, but these questions make me furious; yet I need the job. Can you tell me a way to quiet their tongues? Isn't there a good answer?

I am a daily reader of your column and had hoped someone else would ask these questions, whose answer I need, but it seems no one has. I have met a lot of people in my life, but none so rude that I could not cope with the situation. I'll be anxiously awaiting your answer. HALF-PINT.

Such impositions as these are difficult to handle, because those whose breeding and training are not of gentle people, understand nothing of the insolence. Inquisitiveness, however, is not confined to the ignorant; and the overpowering curiosity which makes them long for the opportunity to gossip, sometimes controls those who, otherwise, are nice people.

The experience of those who have met this problem successfully shows that it does no good to gratify this curiosity. Diplomacy of the most elusive kind is necessary; and unfailing good nature will meet it better than anything else. A smile and a laugh with some unheard of reply will keep them guessing and help to preserve your equilibrium.

—o-o—

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE BEEN GOING with a boy for about five months and am wondering what to give him for Christmas. Could you give me suggestions? WONDERING.

Unless you feel deeply indebted to him for many nice attentions he may have shown you, I believe you will be using best taste to mail him an attractive Christmas card. However, I have a list of gifts suitable for a girl to give a boy, and one for the boy to give a girl at Christmas, which I shall be glad to mail to you and to any others who will write me, sending self-addressed stamped envelope.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

SOME TIME AGO, after I was getting over a nervous breakdown, a man stepped out almost into the side of my car. It scared me so I have since been afraid to drive. Most everyone tells me it is best just to go ahead and drive, but even the people on the sidewalk bother me when I'm driving. And every night I look in the paper for the report on accidents.

I am alone the greater part of the time and the car has no use. Traffic does not bother me—just the people crossing in front of the car. My doctor says "the sympathetic nervous system is out of balance."

Two years ago I was the happiest person, but now everything bothers me. Please offer me something besides going to a doctor.

WORRIED ABOUT EVERYTHING.

Try to become interested in outside work of some kind, that may tire you physically; charity, card groups and wholesome moving pictures. Avoid excitement and make a habit of trying to relax and take little naps after a leisurely walk in the sun and fresh air. Let the driving go for a short while, and when you do start again, have someone (who is of quiet disposition and yet knows about driving) to go with you; let them do the driving a short while and go on the quieter outside streets. Then, when you feel that you can try again, give yourself confidence by driving with your friend or a relative still with you on quiet thoroughfares, and remember that the experience is entirely out of the picture; you will gradually regain confidence to drive alone.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL you please use the following:

Sentinel Chapter, Order of DeMolay, has swung into action on its annual job of repairing and fixing toys for unfortunate children.

More than 800 families have been taken care of yearly and will continue to be taken care of if you, who are more fortunate, will give a little of your time in helping us in our need and call for toys.

Perhaps, at one time, you were not as prosperous as you are now and know how gloomy Christmas can be with barely enough money to buy food, much less playthings for the little ones. So, if you have any old toys, whether they are broken or not, gather them together and call or write us at one of our branch offices which are listed below and we will be glad to call for them at any time.

Write or call Bob Kraft, 1904 Palm street., CHestnut 9215; Arnold Block, 2720 Geyer avenue, GRand 6943; Elmer Scheetz, 2039 Adelaide avenue, GOodfellow 5973.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

ABOUT FOUR MONTHS ago I met a nice young man about 21 years old, whom I have dated several times and whose company I enjoy. Several evenings ago, a friend of mine gave me two tickets to a movie and I invited this young man to go with me. A girl friend, when I told her, said this was not proper, but I cannot see her point as he has taken me to movies, dances, etc. There is no plausible reason, I think, why I should not treat him to this pleasure in return; after all the tickets were no personal expense to me. Would you please give me your opinion of this? Thank you. DEANNA.

You are quite right. There can be no objection in the world to your offering him of this pleasure.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN REFERENCE to the problem of "Ada J.": I would suggest that they take the amount paid out of food and drinks, then divide it by the number of persons there. Then let the head of each family pay for each one in his family. That should let each one take care of his own and the people who have no children will not feel imposed upon. I hope this little suggestion will help out. MRS. O. J. R.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

HERE IS A QUESTION that has been bothering a friend of mine for quite awhile. She is engaged to a very nice boy who has been divorced. He does not belong, and never has belonged to a church. He and his first wife never lived together. Now the question is, will he and his fiancee be able to have a church wedding? The girl wants to be dressed as a bride and have attendants, but she has been told that she cannot be married in church. The girls and I thought this applied only to the Catholic Church, but did not know that it applied to Protestant churches.

If they cannot be married at the altar, can the ceremony be performed in the minister's parlor? The girl is heartsick about the whole thing. I would like to know about the rules in the Presbyterian Church as that is the church she wants to be married in.

ANXIOUS.

The Catholic Church does not marry persons in such a case. Sometimes a special dispensation is given, but the circumstances are unusual and the dispensation is rare. The Episcopal Church does not countenance such marriages also, except in rare instances.

The United Presbyterian Church clearly restricts marriages of this kind. The Reformed Presbyterian sanctions them in certain cases.

A home wedding or a wedding in the minister's parlor would be in better taste, and it should be a quiet one, even should the bride wear bridal dress and have, perhaps, two attendants.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I WANT TO THANK YOU for the bed covers I received for the family I wrote about. I received not only enough covers for them, but for another family who needed them desperately. I want to thank those who gave me the covers and you for your kindness. I was able to give the two coats I spoke of to someone who really needed them. May God bless you and your work.

LILLIAN T.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I HAVE BEEN MARRIED 39 years. My husband works on WPA and makes only $56 a month, but growls because I cannot save money. He tells me to take my clothes and leave. But I have no place to go, no money and few clothes. I have worked 18 years and have brought home what I have made to help buy food. I spend nothing for pleasure. If I am doing this, everything is fine; out of work, he never stops nagging. He seems to love to bully. I will appreciate your advice. UNHAPPY WIFE.

While apprehension and uneasiness about money and future plans may be the cause of some of his moodiness and ill nature (as it sometimes takes this form) you would do well to let him know that, although you sympathize with his moods caused by discouragement, you hope that he sees the situation is also hard for you and you will both be happier and better to try to make the best of it and regard the matter as a temporary and not a permanent one.

—o-o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM a girl, 16 years old, have beautiful clothes and not bad-looking, so I am told, and I am not conceited.

Lately I have been going with a crowd of nice boys and girls of my age and a little older. But they all go out in couples once in a while, but I never seem to have a chance to go with them, except when my brother takes me.

Mother tells me the reason no boys take me out is because I act too kiddish and that when I talk I don't think before I say things. My brother always makes fun of me because nobody will take me out and that really hurts.

I am a good sport and when I am with people they seem to like me. Could you tell me anything I could do to have a good time like my brother when he goes with girls? UNHAPPY.

I am sure I do not understand why your mother and brother want you to act older, and more subdued than is natural for you. The trouble is, I believe, that you try to go with those too old for you. "Be your age" and have a really good, natural time. Trying to be too grown up is too hard and too boring for a natural, wholesome young girl. Your mother ought to know this and try to encourage you in going with younger people so that you can be natural and wholesome.

Send me a self-addressed envelope for my folder "Popularity." While I think it a little too sophisticated for you, you may understand the viewpoint of the older ones a little better, by reading it.

Flowers on Muffs

The return of the muff as an elegant accent to a winter costume offers a new place to display one's orchids. Within the last few weeks when cold weather has appeared there has been an increased number of fur muffs carried by well-dressed women. Restaurant diners and spectators at outdoor events have pinned their flowers to the muffs rather than to the fur scarf or coat lapel. Most of these muffs are very large except for the tiny ermine ones that give a quaint aspect to a costume.

For Teeth That Glisten
WITH NATURAL WHITENESS

Do As Your Dentist Does
when he cleans your teeth—use POWDER

NOTHING else cleans and polishes teeth more quickly and leaves them more naturally white—than POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—almost always uses powder.

All Cleansing Properties

As it is only the powder part of most dentifrices that cleans, a dentifrice that is all powder just naturally cleans effectively. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—all cleansing properties.

For over seventy years many dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder because normal teeth simply cannot remain dull and dingy looking when it is used.

No Acid, No Grit or Pumice

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling with natural brightness. It will also leave your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist. Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the tooth enamel as years of constant use have shown. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is an effective antacid.

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly—consult your dentist periodically—eat a diet rich in minerals and vitamins, and you will be doing all that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Costs Less to Use

Dr. Lyon's is more economical to use. In the same size and price class it outlasts tooth pastes two to one. Even a small package will last you for months.

Burdens of High School Youth in 'What a Life'

American Theater Play of the Week Is Copy of Comedy Still on Broadway—Eddie Bracken in Role of Much-Harassed Young Gentleman.

THE touring company of a current Broadway success, "What a Life," will arrive at the American Theater tonight for the usual week's stay. Although the company is one which George Abbott, the producer, got together for the road and personally directed, its members have served for brief periods in the Broadway cast.

This is in keeping with the Abbott policy, which is to train his companies thoroughly before sending them out. Since the producer in recent years has had companies of "Three Men On a Horse," "Boy Meets Girl," "Room Service" and "Brother Rat" in New York and traveling, he has a long list of Abbott-trained players from which to choose.

Eddie Bracken, who heads the cast, was here last season as Billy Randolph in "Brother Rat," two other players were seen in "Room Service." The full company is composed of Bracken, Connie Nickerson, Marshall Bradford, Fraye Gilbert, Irving Morrow, James Lane, Hope Landin, William Blees, Henry Lascoe, Lora Rogers, Norman Tokar, Lorraine MacMartin, William Mendrek, Mary Darwin, Stasia Wilson, Mildred Todd, Butterfly McQueen, Mitzi Dare Miller, Richard Lee, Peggy Travers, Dorothy Vernon and Sam Curelop.

"What a Life" is a relatively simple, and clean, story, of a high school youth who finds it impossible to live up to his father's record as an honor student, who is denied the privilege of going to a school dance unless he comes out first in ancient history, who cheats on examination and is caught. Further disgrace is added with the charge that the lad, Henry Aldrich, has stolen the tuba from the school band in order to go to the dance and it takes a very sympathetic teacher to square Henry with himself, his parents and Central High School.

Like many another Abbott production, it is a first play by its author. Clifford Goldsmith, who wrote it, has been for some years a health lecturer in high schools in and around Philadelphia and still is, though drawing bountiful royalties from his play.

Between periods of telling students about the ill effects of alcohol on the lining of the stomach, he heard and overheard many a choice anecdote from principals and teachers. He was told about one adolescent who pawned half the instruments in the school band to buy a ticket to the junior prom and about another who, called upon to turn in his gymnasium shoes, could produce nothing better than three sneakers, all for the left foot.

Recognizing the theatrical value of the material, Goldsmith wrote to Abbott and Abbott suggested he do the play. He set to work and the opening of a new hit on Broadway last April 13 was the result.

Going to Monday night instead of Sunday night openings for a while, the American will follow "What a Life" with the down-to-earth drama, "Of Mice and Men," on Dec. 12, after an intervening dark week. The play, adapted by John Steinbeck from his own widely read novel, was winner of the Critics' Circle prize for American drama in New York last spring.

Guy Robertson, Municipal Opera star, and Edward Andrews take the places of Wallace Ford and Broderick Crawford, who were in the Broadway production, as the two itinerant farm hands, George and Lennie, about whom the book and play were written. Claire Luce and most of the remainder of the cast are from the Broadway company.

—o-o—

PRODUCER ABBOTT crashed a new classification last Wednesday night, when he took his first musical, "The Boys From Syracuse," to Broadway. The budding author with whom he collaborated was one William Shakespeare and the playwright's title for the piece was "The Comedy of Errors."

Lifting out the plot idea without sticking to the text, Abbott enlisted Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart to do the music and lyrics, embellished the whole story with new jokes, new twists of humor, brought in a chorus of 60, had George Balanchine do the dances, Jo Mielziner the pseudo-classical setting and Irene Sharaff the somewhat Grecian costumes.

The critics thought they had not seen such a gloriously ribald, funny and lively show in a long time, so its place among Broadway musical leaders seems assured. Two songs, "This Can't Be Love" and "Sing for Your Supper" are hailed as coming successes.

Jimmy Savo, wide-eyed pantaloon of vaudeville, and Teddy Hart, pint-sized comedian of "Three Men on a Horse," stage and movie versions, are the two Dromios, Eddie Albert and Ronald Graham, of last summer's Municipal Opera, the Antipholus of Syracuse and Antipholus of Ephesus. Wynn Murray and Muriel Angelus have the two leading feminine roles.

Two other entries which preceded "The Boys From Syracuse" onto Broadway earlier in the week proved to be only of the come-and-go variety. "Good Hunting," a farce by Nathanael West and Joseph Schrank, tried to make fun of the British high command during the World War and develop generally ludicrous happenings on the battlefield. In the cast were Estelle Winwood, Aubrey Mather, Ben Smith, Derek Williams and Nicholas Joy. The play closed after two performances.

"Ringside Seat" brought forth an odd character, a retired business man whose particular hobby was to go to murder trials. Grant Mitchell won some approval in that role and some praise but one critic summed it up by calling the play a "very small and frost-bitten potato."

Business Good For Broadway's Main Enterprises

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

ALTHOUGH the lachrymose lyrcists have been weeping in their beer for a decade over the sad decline of the Broadway theater, the lively old lady behind the footlights is dancing today with as much excitement as was evident in those gilded seasons when the Brothers Frohman and David Belasco were triumphant impresarios.

Shows—good shows—are healthy at the box office and the ones that are playing to crowded houses are largely those of respectable literature and not bawdy brochures which seek to succeed with sensationalism and such stuff.

For some of the evidence:

William Bowers, a 22-year-old Long Beach (Cal.) dramatist, brought in his first Broadway play, "Where Do We Go From Here," and it is one of those not-good but not-bad comedies that ordinarily would have been taken by the critics into the woodshed for a sound whacking. Instead, they almost unanimously said some kind words about it and in addition gave much constructive criticism for what they pointed out as faults.

Kaufman and Hart, both of whom have grown wealthy in the theater, are two of its most tearful mourners in their current success, "The Fabulous Invalid." In this they dramatize with unrestrained weeping the history of the theater and how it has come upon such allegedly sad days of the present. Unfortunate fellows, for their sad story is attracting enough business to pay them only an average of $1500 a week in royalties.

The top hits now on Broadway, with their current weekly income, are "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" ($21,000), "Knickerbocker Holiday" ($20,000), "Oscar Wilde" ($18,300), "Hamlet" ($19,000) and "Victoria Regina" ($17,000). All of these are serious, literary plays and their grosses may be judged better by the fact that a play is considered a hit when it does about $12,000 a week.

Miss Hayes will close her New York run in "Victoria Regina" on Dec. 17 to take it on tour to Philadelphia, Montreal, Boston, Pittsburgh and Washington. That will bring her performances in the role to 986 and the total receipts to quite a bit more than $3,000,000 which, despite Queen Victoria's proper diction, ain't hay.

Movies Back to Regular Schedule in New Bookings

By Colvin McPherson

THE annual shifting of theater opening days, in order to let Thanksgiving celebrants top off their turkey dinners with brand-new movies, likely will be resolved with the incoming programs at the major houses.

The Fanchon and Marco theaters, which were out of bounds only one week, will make the return next Friday, when the Fox will show "Submarine Patrol" and "A Man to Remember," the Ambassador "Comet Over Broadway" and "Ride a Crooked Mile" and the St. Louis "Sharpshooters" and a revival of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," according to present plans. The Missouri's continued-run program is not announced.

To follow at Loew's are "The Shining Hour" and "Listen, Darling," with the return to Friday openings at the beginning or end of that booking.

In the selection left over from Thanksgiving, St. Louis moviegoers have the choice of an all-comedy bill, "Thanks for the Memory" and "Say It in French," at the Ambassador; heavy drama and juvenile melodrama in "Angels With Dirty Faces" and "Nancy Drew, Detective," at the Fox; domestic comedy and desert heroics in "Out West With the Hardys" and "Adventure in Sahara" at Loew's.

Last week's fine medieval romance, "If I Were King," in which Ronald Colman and Basil Rathbone equal any of their past work, and "Swing That Cheer" are still to be seen, at the Missouri, and the St. Louis has comedy, music and melodrama in "The Road to Reno" and "Crime Ring."

Of the present programs, the Ambassador's probably represents the best balance, since both features there are sprightly and exhibit some originality. The Fox's "Angels With Dirty Faces" has strong emotional appeal, even if over-imaginative, and Loew's "Out West With the Hardys," mildly amusing, is cashing in on the popularity of Mickey Rooney, and "Love Finds Andy Hardy," next-last of the same series.

—o-o—

A FRENCH film of some interest, "L'Equipage," or "Flight Into Darkness," opened last night at the S'Renco Screening Room, 3143 Olive street, and will be shown there again this evening and tomorrow evening, at 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock.

This was the work from which Hollywood, a year and one-half ago, made Paul Muni's generally disappointing "The Women I Love." Both pictures had the same director, Anatole Litvak, and the two screen plays were almost identical, so it is difficult to account for the difference between the two creations. There is a very definite difference.

"L'Equipage" has a feeling of reality, a dramatic conviction that was entirely missing from "The Woman I Love." The situation of two World War aviators, bound in close comradeship by their occupation and both in love with the same woman, was hopelessly trite in "The Woman I Love," somewhat believable in "L'Equipage."

Casting of the American picture, of course, was a first fault. Paul Muni and Louis Hayward were nothing like Charles Vanel and Jean-Pierre Aumont of the original. Miriam Hopkins, as the wife of Muni and sweetheart of Hayward, had none of the Gallic intensity of Annabella, even if she gave a pretty fair idea of what an American woman would do in similar circumstances.

But beyond these points, "L'Equipage" has characteristics of its own which make it strangely stirring to anyone who likes the unusual in motion pictures. Filmed on a French terrain instead of a California one, it has the look of France. Fog, mud and ruin are what Americans heard about and saw, on the other side.

The turmoil caused by the loyalties of two men in an "equipage," or flying unit, and their rivalry in love is pictured in relation to a greater pattern of military movement and impending battle. And yet each small event in the lives of the main characters gets its full development, its proper follow-through. This thoroughness is in the manner in which aviators run to their planes, it is in the behavior of a cafe hostess, it is in the stolid way in which Vanel accepts the final solution of the romantic problem. Thoroughness was what Hollywood's copy, for whatever reason, most lacked.

If the French dialogue were better translated by the English titles, one might have even greater opportunity to appreciate the picture's evident intelligence. The translation, unfortunately, is scarcely more than a good synopsis.

Theater Getting Better Material, Frank Conroy Says

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.

AMERICAN playgoers no longer will tolerate rubbish in the theater, believes the seasoned and gifted Frank Conroy, who, as Mr. Brink, impersonates a comradely Death in "On Borrowed Time."

Meretricious pieces would stand no chance on the boards these days, the actor said yesterday, because public taste has traveled on an ascending scale the last several years and audiences have acquired a new critical faculty.

"The theater is turning to finer material," he observed, "and is catering to that part of the public which is not quite satisfied with anesthetics turned out by Hollywood.

"The trend in American playwriting is to turn back to our own country for material and to write about the aspects of our own scene. There has, in fact, been a renaissance in that respect in all the arts. The practice of aping European artists is passing, perhaps because European cultures are petering out. The American playwright is finally realizing that he can find enough background at home to last him a lifetime.

"Our theater is in good condition, and although there seems to be a dearth of great American plays the last few years, since Eugene O'Neill has been less active and some of our other better playwrights have been thinking in terms of the moving pictures, I believe that period is drawing to a close. I believe we are due for an era of exceptionally good plays."

Mind vs. Crime In 'Blind Alley' At Little Theater

TURNING to melodrama for the second of its subscription plays, the Little Theater on Wednesday evening presents James Warwick's "Blind Alley," which details the conflict between a psychologist and a young gang leader who takes refuge in the psychologist's home for 24 hours. The play will run for 10 performances.

The two main characters, Dr. Shelby and Hal Wilson, are represented by Ben Fry Jr. and Julian Luckett. In entering the professor's home, the gunman is accompanied by his feminine associate, played by Frances Buss, and two other criminals, played by Joseph Lewis and Herman Waldman. Faye Fry appears as the professor's wife, which she is in real life, Allan Gordon Jr., Dolores McBratney, Betty McGrew and Keith Gunther complete the cast.

Facts Dr. Shelby has learned in his professional life enable him, without any other weapon than his knowledge and skill, to break down the gangster's mental makeup and eventually force him to suicide. Written by a Hollywood author, "Blind Alley" had a run of 118 performances on Broadway in 1935 and 1936.

Y. M. H. A. Comedy

"Having Wonderful Time," the season's first production by the Dramatic Club of the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., opens tonight, to be repeated tomorrow and Tuesday nights. The cast of 40, under the direction of Harry R. McClain, is headed by Rose Kranzberg, Frank Galine, Ruth Chotinsky, Al Chotinsky, Annette Richman and Leonard Blumenthal. The comedy was seen on the screen recently, with Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. as its stars.

Symphony's Modern Music Concert This Afternoon

Three Works New to St. Louis Scheduled on Experimental Program—Week's Regular Presentations Devoted to French Masters.

THE special "Music of Our Time" concert, by which Conductor Vladimir Golschmann and the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra hope to test the local taste for modern composition, will take place at the Auditorium Opera House at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Seat prices, ranging from 25 cents to $1, place the program in the category of "pop" concerts.

With Golschmann conducting and Carleton Smith, musical authority, as commentator, the program will consist of three works not heard in St. Louis before—"Psalm For Orchestra," by David Diamond; "Speed," from "A Symphony of the City," by Carl Eppert, and the symphonic suite, "Lieutenant Kije," by Serge Prokofieff—and Sibelius' Second Symphony.

All composers are still living and active in the musical field. Diamond is a young American fellowship student whom Golschmann met in Paris last summer; Eppert, also American, is founder and former conductor of the Milwaukee Civic and Symphony Orchestras. Prokofieff is the famous Russian pianist-composer who has appeared with the St. Louis Symphony and another of whose works it has played. Sibelius, of course, is the foremost composer of symphonies in our time and his Second Symphony has been played on previous occasions.

The use of a program commentator instead of program notes also is a modern touch tending toward more informal presentation. Smith is music editor of Esquire and Coronet and has been commentator with various leading orchestras of the country, including the New York Philharmonic broadcasts last summer. He is a personal acquaintance of Sibelius.

The week's regular concerts, next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, will be all-orchestral. Cesar Franck's popular Symphony in D Minor will be the principal work, along with the Prelude to Faure's suite, "Pelleas and Melisande," Debussy's "La Mer" and first American performances of "Sinfonia Breve di Camera" by Desire Emile Inghelbrecht.

Inghelbrecht is a French conductor and composer. He has been conductor of the Theatre des Champs Elysees, Pasdeloup Orchestra and the Opera Comique, all of Paris. His talents were appreciated by Debussy, who found in him a sympathetic and able interpreter. First attracting attention as a composer through some charming piano works, he also has composed the brilliant ballet, "El Greco." His "Sinfonia" was written in 1930 for a small orchestra and received its first world hearing a year later in Paris.

Franck's Symphony in D Minor is a favorite with symphony audiences everywhere. It consists of three rich and profound movements. The first opens with a somber theme that develops into a gayer and livelier mood, then returns to the original theme and finally closes with joyous notes. The second movement is exquisite and lyrical, the finale spirited and of sweeping tonal quality.

The Debussy opus is a series of symphonic sketches and was last played by the orchestra in November, 1934. The composer himself began work on "La Mer" in 1903 and completed it two years later.

Faure is one of the unsung minor geniuses of music and ranks as one of the true exponents of Gallic refinement in composition.

Mummers Stage Lewis' 'It Can't Happen Here'

SINCLAIR LEWIS' resounding indictment of dictatorship, "It Can't Happen Here," will have its first St. Louis presentation this week, by the Mummers, at the Wednesday Club. Five performances are scheduled, to run from Thursday night through next Monday.

The opening night, Saturday and Sunday nights are the Mummers' regular public performances. Friday night's show has been taken over by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and Monday night's will be sponsored by the Newspaper Guild of St. Louis, Omega Phi Tau sorority and the Peace Action Committee of Missouri.

"It Can't Happen Here," from Lewis' novel of the same name, is laid in the United States "tomorrow—or never." "Buzz" Windrip, a rabble-rouser, is elected President and with the aid of his unofficial army, the Corpos, establishes himself as dictator, terrorizing the country with acts of violence, imprisoning members of Congress and throttling the press with censorship.

The effects of the tyranny are shown in a New England community where Doremus Jessup, editor of a liberal newspaper, carries on his courageous fight for freedom. Eventually Jessup is sent to concentration camp but the movement for Windrip's overthrow, headed by a defeated presidential candidate who has fled to Canada, goes on to success.

Originally produced on the stage by the Federal Theater, "It Can't Happen Here" appeared in 18 cities simultaneously and was seen by 275,000 persons but was not regarded as fully effective. A new script was prepared by Lewis and John Moffitt for production in Cohasset, Mass., last summer and Lewis himself played Jessup with notable success. It is this script which the Mummers are using.

Alexander Evans is the Mummers' Jessup, Erna Roth is his lieutenant, Lorinda Pike; Robert Baum the Jessup hired man who becomes a Corpo sergeant and community bully. Murray Cabell, Harriet Hagan, Marvin Krekel, Al Hohengarten, Lucellea Mick, Fred Elbrecht, Victor Zuzenak, Charles Drebes, Warren Metzinger, Hudson Binnington, Robert McClellan, Thomas O'Connell, John Lambur, Woodrow Whittiker and Carlo Koenig are other principals.

Light Opera Numbers For Lucy Monroe Dec. 5

The song program in which Lucy Monroe, lyric soprano, will be heard, at the Opera House on Monday night, Dec. 5, will consist of selections from Sigmund Romberg, Rudolph Friml, Franz, Lehar, Jerome Kern and Victor Herbert, with the Waltz Song from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet."

The light opera selections are "Romance," and "One Kiss" by Romberg, "Sympathy" and "Giannina Mia" by Friml, "Serenade," "Say Not Love Is a Dream" and "Villa" by Lehar, "Why Do I Love You," "They Didn't Believe Me," "Poor Pierrot" and "The Song Is You" by Kern, "A Kiss in the Dark," "Moonbeams," "When You're Away" and "Italian Street Song" by Herbert.

Bobby Breen in Person

Bobby Breen, boy singer of radio and motion pictures, is booked as the star of a musical revue to open at the Opera House at a matinee on Christmas day and continue for 16 performances through New Year's night. The revue, in which other radio, screen and stage entertainers will appear, is to be given under auspices of Father Tim Dempsey's Charities.

Ina Claire's Return

After a five-year absence from the screen, Ina Claire has signed a long-term contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and will start her new film career in a featured role with Spencer Tracy and Hedy Lamarr in "I Take This Woman."

June Preisser, blonde acrobatic dancer and comedienne of stage fame, has been signed by the same studio and will report in Hollywood Dec. 15.

FROM RADIO TO GRAND OPERA ROLES

RISE STEVENS, RADIO SINGER FOR SEVERAL YEARS, WHO DECLINED A METROPOLITAN OPERA CONTRACT BECAUSE SHE DID NOT CARE FOR THE PROSPECT OF ONLY SECONDARY ROLES FOR A LONG TIME, WENT ABROAD, AND LAST TUESDAY NIGHT WAS BILLED TO SING OCTAVIAN IN A METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY PERFORMANCE IN PHILADELPHIA OF STRAUSS' "DER ROSENKAVALIER." THE NEW YORK TIMES SAYS THAT HER NEW YORK DEBUT WITH THE METROPOLITAN COMPANY MAY BE IN THAT ROLE OR IN THE NAME PART IN "MIGNON," BUT THAT ONE THING IS CERTAIN: HER NEW YORK DEBUT WILL BE IN A MAJOR ROLE. MISS STEVENS' OUTSTANDING RADIO PERFORMANCE WAS IN THE BEAUTY BOX THEATER SERIES IN 1934. HER VOICE IS CONTRALTO.

Better Short Wave Transmission by CBS

TO increase the effectiveness of its transmission of programs to Europe and South America, the CBS is preparing to combine the services of its W2XE in New York and W3XAU, the short wave station owned and operated by its affiliate, WCAU, in Philadelphia. W3XAU has only one ordinary transmitting aerial, whereas W2XE has had two directional aerials since May 12, 1937.

When the CBS has completed installation of two directional aerials for W3XAU, the stations will be able to direct their broadcasts to cover a maximum area in both South America and Europe at all times. In case of a program of special importance, both stations' radiations can be directed simultaneously at the same point on different channels to insure maximum reception, or the same program can be shortwaved by the two stations in the two directions.

The new W3XAU aerials will make the station's 10,000 watts of power as effective as 100,000 watts would be with an ordinary aerial.

Both stations' aerials for Europe will be beamed at London to cover the British Isles, most of the continent and parts of countries beyond in the same general direction. The aerials for South America will be beamed at Buenos Aires, Argentina, with the expectation that thus the major part of Latin America and Brazil will be covered with program service.

NBC to Cover Pan-American Congress for WEAF and WJZ Nets—Dramatized Poetry and Fairy Stories Series Planned—Broadcast From Astronomical Observatories—Here and There on the Air.

EDWARD TOMLINSON, who will cover the Pan-American Congress at Lima, Peru, for the NBC for broadcasts on the WEAF and WJZ networks, has reported four other important Pan-American conferences for radio. In addition to daily broadcasts of spot news of the Congress and comment, Tomlinson will devote his Sunday programs to a recapitulation of the news of the week so far as it affects the Congress.

The first broadcast from Lima will be heard over the WEAF network Tuesday, Dec. 6, from 5:30 to 5:45 p. m. The next day, Wednesday, Dec. 7, Tomlinson will broadcast over the WJZ network at 10:05 p. m. From Dec. 6 to 18, the programs now scheduled will be broadcast Tuesdays and Thursdays on the WEAF net at 5:30 p. m. Central Standard Time. Three days a week, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, Tomlinson will give his daily news commentary on the WJZ network from 10:05 to 10:15 p. m. The Sunday broadcasts will be heard on the WJZ net from 6 to 6:15 p. m. Dec. 11 and 18.

HALF-HOUR programs of dramatized poetry, titled Words Without Music, will be broadcast on the CBS net at 4 p. m. Sundays, beginning Dec. 4. Norman Corwin, who will be in charge of the series, says that several poems will be performed in each broadcast and that large casts of actors will be used. To adapt the poems to the time requirements of radio, they will be cut and in some cases rewritten. The idea behind the series was tried Nov. 3 when several poems were adapted to dramatic presentation in a Columbia Workshop program called Poetic License.

An address by Earl Baldwin, formerly Prime Minister of Great Britain, titled "An Appeal for Jews and Non-Aryan Christians," will be broadcast on the Mutual net at 3:25 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 8. The Mutual also will broadcast a transcription of the speech later the same day.

Thursday night's Americans at Work period on the CBS net will be devoted to interviews in Bellevue Hospital, New York City, with nurses on duty and a dramatization of the story of nursing from the days of Florence Nightingale.

A PROGRAM at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday on the Mutual net will come from the observatories on Mount Wilson and Mount Palomar, in California, and the optical shops of the California Institute of Technology where the 200-inch mirror for the world's largest telescope is being ground and polished preparatory to erection of the telescope on Mount Palomar. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, president of the Pasadena Institute of Technology and discoverer of the cosmic rays, will open the broadcast in the optical shops where Dr. Max Mason, another scientist of note, also will speak. Then a switch will be made to the summit of Mount Palomar where the men in charge of the erection of mountings for the giant telescope will speak. The broadcast will be concluded in the Mount Wilson observatory where Dr. Walter S. Adams, the director, will talk.

TOMORROW evening's Captains in Peril broadcast, at 6:30 o'clock on KSD, will recall the story of the yacht, "Mary Jane," which became an inspection boat for the Federal Barge Line and was burned on the Mississippi River, imperiling the lives of Major-General Thomas K. Ashburn and six other persons. The craft, which was partially responsible for the financial troubles of its first owner, was converted into a rum runner in prohibition days. Eventually it was seized by Federal agents and confiscated with its cargo of liquor. Sold to the barge line, it was rebuilt and renamed, and plied in and out of St. Louis until May 2, 1937, when it caught fire and burned to the water's edge. Major-General Ashburn and the others aboard narrowly escaping losing their lives.

Leslie Howard Tomorrow in Radio Theater

Final Hollywood Hotel Program Friday—New Department of Commerce Series Next Saturday.

THE broadcasting time of Edward McHugh, the Gospel Singer, has been changed to 8:45 a. m. beginning tomorrow. A program in connection with the inauguration of Dr. Arthur Compton as co-chairman of the National Conference of Jews and Christians is set for 5:05 p. m. tomorrow on the WJZ net and probably on WENR. Dr. Compton, winner of the Nobel Prize in physics and professor of physics at the University of Chicago, succeeds the late Newton D. Baker in the conference post. Ray Collins, said by Orson Welles to be radio's finest actor, will be starred in a new serial, County Seat, at 6 p. m. Monday through Friday on the CBS net. County Seat, written by Milton Geiger, will feature Collins as Will Hackett, a small town druggist. Collins played with the Russell and Drew Players, took over a theater in Vancouver for seven years to direct and produce plays and play his own leads, then played lead roles for A. H. Wood for five years and also for Sam Harris and Belasco. Since going radio, he has played hundreds of roles in the Columbia Workshop, Welles' Mercury Theater on the Air and other shows. Leslie Howard, Herbert Marshall, Gail Patrick and Mary Astor will be starred by Cecil de Mille tomorrow night in a Radio Theater performance of "Interference," a play of society life blackmail. Mary Boland, of the stage and screen, is billed with Eddie Cantor tomorrow night, and the Pick and Pat minstrels show will be rebuilt with the Eton Boys, a male quartet and Ray Block and his orchestra supporting the two comedians.

Tuesday, Kathleen Norris, the novelist, and Oscar Levent, composer and pianist, will join the board of Clifton Fadiman's Information Please program, at 7:30 p. m. on the WJZ net and KWK. Zasu Pitts will be featured with Al Jolson and Harry Richman with Benny Goodman.

Wednesday, John Barrymore will feature Adolphe Menjou, whom he succeeded as master of ceremonies, and Andrea Leeds in the Star Theater. At 8 p. m., WGN and the Mutual net will carry a National Dairy Council program on which Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor for the American Medical Association, will interpret the significance of vitamin research to health and human welfare, and Dr. E. V. McCollum, of John Hopkins University, will speak on "Your Food and Your Future."

Thursday, there will be a broadcast from the National Contract Bridge Championships at Cleveland at 3 p. m. on the CBS net. Talks by leaders of the three divisions of the Methodist Church in America will be heard in a broadcast at 5:45 p. m. on the CBS net—Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., for the Methodist Episcopal Church; Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, for the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Bishop James H. Straughton for the Methodist Protestant Church. A dramatization of Wilbur Daniel Steele's story, "The Giant's Stair," a murder mystery centering in a mountain farm during a storm, will be performed in the Columbia Workshop period at 9 p. m.

Friday night, the final Hollywood Hotel program will be broadcast. The following Friday night, its period will be taken over by Orson Welles who will move his Mercury Theater of the Air to it from Sunday.

Saturday, a series titled Government Interviews Business, presented by the CBS and the Department of Commerce, will begin at 4:45 p. m. Richard C. Patterson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, will be the regular interviewer on the programs, and each week a different member of the department's Business Advisory Council will answer his questions about matters of importance to American industry and business. WGN will carry a typical London Music Hall program, produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation, at 2 p. m.

STUDIO GOSSIP

BETTE DAVIS is billed for the Sunday Silver Theater on Dec. 11. . . . Mark Warnow will soon have his Blue Velvet musical program back on the CBS net. . . . Milton Rosen, composer, who has rejoined WLW's staff after a year's absence on the Pacific Coast, has completed a symphony which will have its premiere in a concert at the New York World's Fair in 1939. The Boston Symphony Orchestra played his "Columnist Suite" in 1934 and his "Fantasie Americana" a year later. . . . Harold Turner, staff pianist for WGN, is on a ten months' leave of absence to study music in Europe. . . . Paul Carson, NBC staff organist on the Pacific Coast, is now playing the "Destiny Waltz" theme music for the One Man's Family serial Wednesday nights on KSD.

Lanny Ross' contract for singing in the Saturday night Hit Parade is for 13 weeks. . . . Andre Kostelanetz has the signature of a sponsor on a contract for his projected 45-minute radio show which will be spotted Thursday nights starting early in January. . . . Raymond Paige also has a sponsor for his Hundred Men and a Girl show, which will feature a 100-piece orchestra and singer, Wednesday nights soon after Jan. 1 on the CBS net. . . . Ben Bernie will mark his fifteenth year in radio today. . . . Phil Baker, the comedian, who is off the air, is playing on the road in "Idiot's Delight."

Under the title, Mysteries of the Mind, the Mutual net will start a program at 1:30 p. m. next Sunday devoted to psychic phenomena. The opening program will present cases of premonition and precognition, the latter advance mental picturing of some place or event, and a story of a ghost.

WRDO, at Augusta, Maine, on Dec. 11 will become the 162d station affiliated with the NBC, which supplies programs to the WEAF and WJZ networks.

The founding at William and Mary College in 1776 of Alpha of Virginia Chapter, the mother chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, will be marked by a program at 8 p. m. Monday, Dec. 5, on the WJZ net. Dr. James Southall Wilson, president of the University of Virginia, will preside. Speakers will be Frank Graves, Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, and Robert Hillyer, the poet. The Phi Beta Kappa Glee Club of William and Mary College will sing.

This morning's broadcast of The Marshall Family series, at 9:15 o'clock on KMOX, will have Margaret Marshall visiting the Central Institute for the Deaf. The program, produced by the Adult Education Council, centers around the life of a typical St. Louis family.

A number of broadcasts from the American Vocational Association's convention here will be carried by St. Louis stations this week. At 12 noon tomorrow, KSD and the WEAF net will have a program on which the speakers will be Superintendent of Schools Henry J. Gerling; Thomas H. Quigley of Atlanta, Ga., president of the association, and George H. Fern of Lansing, Mich., president of the National Association of State Directors of Vocational Education. At 5:15 Wednesday, KWK and the WJZ net will carry an address on "Occupational Adjustment for Youth" by Dr. Edwin H. Lee of the National Occupational Conference. Today, L. H. Dennis of Washington, D. C., will speak on WEW at 4 p. m. and Assistant Superintendent F. J. Jeffrey of St. Louis will speak on WIL at 8:45 p. m.

"BEST STOKER COAL I EVER USED"

That's what stoker owners say about the refined, dustless purity of S-P Coal

You get REDUCED clinker and stepped up heat from S-P stoker coal on top of its high grade, deep shaft quality! For this thrifty fuel is concentrated—refined with the precise result of a manufactured product!

7-step Superior Processing has removed dust, stray metal and one third of the usual ash. Heat value is increased. Sizing is engineered for even feeding and high burning efficiency. Clinkering is excellent. Power consumption is low.

That's why S-P coal is the economical buy-word among thousands of stoker owners—why it offers you dustproofed stoker fuel at its best.

S-P STOKER COAL is the refined product of these high grade southern Illinois mines:

SCOUT DEMONSTRATION OF FIRST AID AT CIRCUS

Mock Accident Followed by Emergency Treatment Part of Arena Show.

First aid treatment in accidents will be dramatized as one of the 15 events to be presented at the fifteenth Boy Scout Circus of the St. Louis Council Friday and Saturday evenings at the Arena. More than 10,000 Boy Scouts from 300 local scouting units will participate.

A feature of the first aid demonstration will be a collision between an automobile and a "Forty and Eight" train of the American Legion. An ambulance obtained from Jefferson Barracks will come to the aid of the "victims" and scouts will apply emergency treatment.

First aid treatment for accidents which occur at home, in athletic events, and in industry will also be portrayed. In previous years the services of St. Louis Boy Scouts during the tornado of 1927 here had been dramatized by the local council.

About 30 new scout units will be organized and registered with the St. Louis Boy Scout Council by the first of the year, Joseph A. Vollmar, chairman of the council's organization committee, reported at a meeting last Tuesday evening at the Racquet Club.

The annual meetings of three St. Louis scout districts will be held early next month. Northwest District will meet Dec. 5 at 8 p. m. at the Nelson Presbyterian Church, and the North Star District will hold a dinner meeting the next night at Zion Evangelical Church. Members of the suburban district will meet Dec. 12 at the Maplewood Junior High School.

District chairmen and vice-chairmen will be elected at each of the meetings and programs of activities for the coming year will be formulated.

GIRL SCOUTS.

The fourteenth annual Girl Scout Doll Show will be held next Friday and Saturday at the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney store. The dolls and stuffed animals which will be on display will later be distributed by various social service agencies. Mrs. J. W. Hossack is in charge of the show.

The St. Louis Girl Scout Council will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. G. B. Gannett, 6435 Cecil avenue. Mrs. Monroe C. Lewis, local Girl Scout commissioner, will preside.

The North District committee of the local Girl Scout Council will meet tomorrow at the home of Miss Jennie Wahlert, committee chairman. Mrs. Arthur Hughes, chairman of the city-wide organization committee, will speak.

MODERN WOMAN PAINTS SELF IN 1400 DIFFERENT COLORS

Men in Food and Drug Administration Learn Some Things About Cosmetics.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The modern woman paints herself in 1400 different colors, the men in the Food and Drug Administration have learned. The men have been finding out things about the pastes, liquors, powders and enamels that go into a woman's boudoir, so they can enforce the cosmetics section of the new food and drug law.

Certifying a list of harmless coal tar dyes is their first job, and they find they virtually will have to certify the rainbow.

Dr. Dan Dahle, in charge of the cosmetics laboratory, says that the women shall not be deprived of a single color or shade. As far as he is concerned, they can paint themselves in green and purple and gold, as some of them do, judging from the color catalogues.

The only control will be over the manufacturers. They now are using about 200 coal tar dyes to obtain the color mixtures they want, and Dr. Dahle says they can make the same mixtures with about 95 dyes.

To eliminate harmful dyes, as well as simplify the vast job of devising analytical tests for all the dyes that will be declared legal, he will limit them to approximately this number.

SEE SAN ANTONIO THIS WINTER

City of Yesterday and Mañana

Only in gay, picturesque San Antonio do you find such colorful heritage of the past, such rich promise for the future. Here is a city of contrasts . . . the quaintness of old-world atmosphere blended with the progress of tomorrow; the ancient and modern in one. In bright winter sunlight, adobe homes nestle near skyscrapers of steel and stone; Missions, centuries old, still call to worship, while army planes from near-by airdromes sweep overhead. Here are hundreds of sights found nowhere else in the world; interesting, adventurous things to fill every moment of your time. You'll hear musical Spanish spoken in the street; eat exotic foods in shaded patios. You can siesta in the sun or spend hours at your favorite sport. You can have the grandest vacation experience of your life in warm San Antonio this winter. Write today for your FREE copy of "Picturesque San Antonio," dramatically illustrating the almost unbelievable delights in store.

SOUTH AMERICAN CIRCUIT POPULAR

Hamburg-American Liner to Make 14,000-Mile Trip in Forty Days.

With the circuit of South America growing in popularity in the field of winter cruises the Hamburg-American Line is booking passages on the liner "Bremen" with sailing date set for Feb. 11, 1939. The ship will make the 14,000-mile circuit in 40 days, said to be the first time that this trip has been made in less than six weeks.

The liner will sail to the Panama Canal and then down the west coast of South America to Callao to Lima, founded by Pizarro in 1535, and the seat of the present Pan-American Conference. The Andes are highest in Peru and some of the steepest peaks may be seen on a trip to Tamboraque, old Spanish mining village picturesque for its Indians in native dress. Lima itself is a mixture of ancient buildings, including the cathedral whose cornerstone was laid by Pizarro, and modern shops, gay cafes and promenades.

Flourishing Seaport.

Valparaiso is Chile's flourishing seaport and a city bustling with almost Yankee activity. Second port of call in Chile is Puerto Montt, a thriving little city and debarkation point for the Chilean lakes. The cruise continues with the passage of the Straits of Magellan, also a region of lofty snow-crowned peaks and with the added interest of glaciers meeting the water's edge. Halfway through, the ship will call at Puenta Arenas, the world's most southern outpost.

Mar del Plata, on the east coast, is a gay watering place comparable to Palm Beach or Miami. The journey continues to Buenos Aires, bright and fashionable Latin-American city. After the Argentine will come Montevideo, a pleasant residential city with lovely Spanish homes. In Brazil, the cruise touches Santos, the world's greatest coffee port, gay with houses of colored tiles and tiny plazas, over which brood ancient churches. Going inland, there is Sao Paulo, a prosperous city with its Instituto Butatan, the snake farm where the country's snakes are kept for a study of their venom.

One of the high spots in South America is Rio de Janeiro, with its fine harbor and stately buildings. Here is the famous Sugar Loaf, Corcovado, the Avenida Rio Branco and Avenida Beira Mar, which is the famous boulevard of glittering night life.

Trinidad and Nassau, two islands, will be the last ports of call on the cruise.

TO SHOW COLOR FILM OF MEDITERRANEAN COUNTRIES

Guy A. Bingham, member of the Raymond-Whitcomb cruise staff and a nationally known photographer, will present a colored motion picture of Mediterranean countries and Rio de Janeiro on Monday, Nov. 28, at 8:15, at the Chase Hotel. Cards of admitttance may be secured from local travel agencies.

The Mediterranean picture includes Fnchal, Madeira, with its funicular railroad to the top of Terreiro da Lucta from which one coasts down in wicker sleds; Tangiers and Algiers with their Kasbah and native Souk quarters. There will also be scenes from Greece, the Dalmatian coast, Venice and the Lido, Rome, Naples and Pompeii, the French Riviera with its spring festivals and the pre-Easter crowd on the Promenade des Anglais.

In addition to Rio, the second film will show peoples and ports of the West Indies; Nassau with its white beaches and blue waters, Trinidad with its tropical vegetation and Hindoo temples. This film closes with some shots of the Island of Martinique where Empress Josephine lived as a girl and where St. Pierre was destroyed by Mt. Pele.

PAGEANTS AND FIESTAS FOR VISITORS TO SAN ANTONIO

Pageants and fiestas with old-world atmosphere are being arranged for the visitor who plans to spend his winter in San Antonio. There will also be open-air dramatic productions staged in the Sunken Garden theatre in Brackenridge Park, near the picturesque Japanese Gardens.

It is said that within its city limits San Antonio has more public parks, playgrounds and spots of interest than any other city of like size on the North American continent. Among these points of interest are the historic Alamo with its recently opened museum, the four Spanish missions, San Fernando Cathedral and the Spanish Governor's palace, Randolph Field, "the West Point of the air," is also located here, as are Fort Sam Houston, Kelly and Brooks fields, the Witte Memorial Museum and the little white adobe house where O. Henry lived and wrote many of his short stories.

No Special Documents Needed.

Contrary to rumors, it is not necessary for Jewish tourists to be in possession of any special documents to enter or visit Italy. The only requirements are individual or collective passports, which are the documents usually requested.

Large Reception, Dinner Dance For Two Debuts

Nathalie Scott Simpkins Bows at St. Louis Country Club — Lida Lee Christy Presented at Afternoon Party.

MISS NATHALIE SCOTT SIMPKINS and Miss Lida Lee Christy were yesterday's debutantes. Mrs. Harold Winslow Simpkins, 5 Westmoreland place, introduced her daughter at the Saturday night dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club, and earlier in the evening, from 6 to 8 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Morgan Christy entertained 250 members of the younger set at a reception at their home, 4905 Argyle place, to present their daughter, Miss Lida Lee Christy. Yesterday marked Mr. and Mrs. Christy's twenty-first wedding anniversary.

There were about 100 guests—debutantes and their escorts—at the Simpkins party. They arrived at the club at 8 o'clock and were greeted by the hostess, the guest of honor and the latter's two guests, Miss Phyllis Richard and Miss Betty Powers of New York, and by Mrs. Simpkins' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Drew Brown.

Yellow and white floral decorations arranged for Thanksgiving eve were augmented by the many gift flowers sent to Miss Nathalie, most of them arranged at the grilled doors of the card room as a background for the receiving line. Miss Simpkins wore a white crepe gown, quilted and made on simple lines, with which she carried an old-fashioned bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The long table, covered with silver cloth, was arranged in the alcove dining room. For decoration, bowls of pink roses alternated with silver candelabra holding lighted pink tapers. Debutante guests with Miss Simpkins and her visitors, included Miss Martha Bixby, Miss Becky Wells, Miss Frances Howell Lewis, Miss Louise French, Miss Mary Jane Allen, Miss Theoline Bostwick, Miss Margaret Adreon, Miss Laura Hale Rand, Miss Mary Louise Ewing, Miss Virginia Jane Price, Miss Agnes Galt, Miss Marian Spink Merrell, Miss Suzanne White and Miss Caroline Gatch and her guest, Miss Kay Ahern.

Miss Simpkins will depart tomorrow for the East, accompanied by Miss Richard and Miss Powers, to resume her studies at Vassar College, where she is a sophomore. She is a former student at Mary Institute and was graduated from the Ethel Walker School in Simsbury, Conn. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Scott. During the Christmas holidays she will return for a month to participate in debutante parties, several of which have been planned especially in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Christy and Miss Lida Lee stood before a background of white chrysanthemums banked at the living room mantel to greet their guests. The debutante wore the heaven-blue tulle gown over a foundation of silver cloth, in which she served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball. Sequins are thickly studded on the bodice and are scattered over the skirt, which falls bouffant to the floor. Her slippers were silver, matching a silver cloth sash tied in front with long streamers. At the center of the bodice Miss Christy fastened a large sunburst of lilies of the valley. Her mother was gowned in black satin, with which she wore chartreuse orchids.

A buffet table, lace-covered, was arraanged in the dining room for hors d'oeuvres. The decorative colors were pink and white. A prismed crystal bowl filled with pink roses and white snapdragon formed the centerpiece, and at each end stood crystal candelabra ornamented with flower-filled cornucopias and holding lighted white candles. A strolling accordion player entertained the guests during the receiving hours. In addition to debutantes and their escorts, the list included second year girls.

The next party in Miss Christy's honor will be a large dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Rand and their daughter, Miss Laura, the night of Dec. 7 at the Rand home.

A Mary Institute graduate with the class of 1936, Miss Christy spent the following year at Wellesley College. Last winter she was an assistant instructor in the athletic department of Mary Institute and this past summer a counselor at Camp Cimarroncita, Ute Park, N. M.

W. Geoffrey Kimball Party.

Mr. and Mrs. William Geoffrey Kimball, Barnes road, have invited a few friends for cocktails this afternoon after the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra concert of contemporary music at the Municipal Auditorium, to meet Carleton Smith of New York. Mr. Smith will act as commentator at the concert this afternoon. He is music critic for Esquire and Coronet magazines and last summer acted as intermission commentator for the New York Philharmonic Orchestra broadcasts.

DEBUTANTES

Margaret Stobie To Be Winter Bride

PELHAM, N. Y., Nov. 26.

OF interest to St. Louisans is the announcement here of the engagement of Miss Mildred Margaret Stobie, daughter of Mrs. Harold R. Stobie of Pelham, to Dr. Arthur Gerard De Voe. The bride-elect is also the daughter of the late Maj. Harold R. Stobie, O. B. E., of Edinburgh, Scotland. Dr. De Voe's parents are Col. and Mrs. Ralph Godwin De Voe of Fort Bliss, Tex.

Mrs. Stobie, the former Miss Mildred Ely, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ely of St. Louis and a sister of the late Lewis B. Ely of New York and St. Louis. Frank Ely was one of the founders of Ely-Walker Dry Goods Co. there.

Miss Margaret attended Wells College, The Art Student League, the Grand Central Art School in New York and Oxford University. When quite young, she lived in St. Louis with her family for two years during which time she was a student at Mary Institute. She became a close friend there of Mrs. Jules Desloge Campbell, 6675 Washington boulevard, whose mother, Mrs. Arthur A. Bonsack, 5500 Cabanne avenue, was a friend of Mrs. Stobie. A year ago Miss Stobie visited Mrs. Bonsack and her daughter in St. Louis, as well as Miss Mary Ellen Wilfley, daughter of Mrs. Xenophon P. Wilfley, 6636 Clayton road. Late last summer, she spent several weeks in Bermuda with Miss Wilfley, who is now living in New York. They were classmates at Wells.

Dr. De Voe was graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy, Yale University and Cornell Medical College. He is a member of the staff of Presbyterian Hospital in New York.

The wedding is planned for the latter part of January.

St. Louisan Attends Father's Wedding

MOUNT KISCO, N. Y., Nov. 26.

MRS. JULIUS S. WALSH BATES left last night for her home, 11 Black Creek lane, Clayton, Mo., after attending the wedding here yesterday of her father, Richard Duane Humphreys, and Miss G. Anna Ver Planck, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Converse Ver Planck of White Plains. Mr. Humphreys is the son of Mrs. Edward Walsh Humphreys of New York.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. H. Dye Prichard in St. Mark's Episcopal Church here, and a small reception followed at "Barnstable," the bridegroom's home. No announcement had been made of the engagement, and news of the wedding was a surprise to friends. The bride wore a dark blue ensemble and a corsage of white orchids. She was attended only by her sister, Miss Helen E. Ver Planck. Mrs. Bates' brother, Ellis Humphreys, was his father's best man.

The bride was graduated from Barnard College, in 1909, and is a member of the Barnard Club of White Plains and of the Lawrence Farms Golf Club, here. Mr. Humphreys is a Harvard graduate. His children, in addition to Mrs. Bates and the best man, are Mrs. Enos Richardson of Brookes Bank, Va.; Mrs. William Jay Iselin of Greenville, S. C., and Miss Mary and Miss Deborah Humphreys of Mount Kisco.

Family Reunion at Christmas.

Capt. and Mrs. Clarence Lamont Arnold of Pasadena, Cal., who have been visiting Mrs. Arnold's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wiggins, 17 Portland place, left a few days ago for the East to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with their son, John Van Riper, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Capt. and Mrs. Arnold, their son and daughter, Miss Ellanore Scott Van Riper, who attends the Bishop School, La Jolla, Cal., will spend the Christmas holidays in St. Louis.

News and Views Of St. Louisans In New York

Parents Meet Students for Reunion Over Thanksgiving Holidays — Dinner Given for Miss Maude Overall.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

THANKSGIVING and the week-end holiday is open season for college students and other visitors in New York. Parents have a way of meeting the students for a bit of family reunion and a chance to take in the new shows, which by this time of the year, if they have survived at all, are going strong.

This year, Mrs. Bertram B. Culver and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. B. B. Culver Jr., were among the St. Louisans spending the holidays here. Harrison Culver came from Williams to spend the week-end with them at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. White and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Collins were also at the Waldorf, where they were joined on Wednesday night by their sons, Tom W. White Jr. and Tom Collins Jr., both Amherst undergraduates.

Thomas B. Armistead Jr. and John Armistead, also students at Amherst, came to New York to be with their mother, Mrs. Thomas B. Armistead. Mrs. Armistead and her daughter, Miss Jane, arrived from St. Louis about two weeks ago to attend the Amherst-Williams football game, and since then have been guests at the Junior League Club rooms, in the Waldorf.

Miss Maude Overall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall and a debutante of last year, was in New York this week. She was a guest of honor Monday night at a dinner given by Harold M. Van Husan in the Iridium Room of the St. Regis Hotel. Mr. Van Husan, a graduate of the class of 1937 at Yale, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Van Husan of 455 East Fifty-seventh street.

Miss Edwina Crunden, daughter of Mrs. Gerard H. Cox, 65 Duck Pond road, Glen Cove, L. I., and of Walter Crunden of Clayton, is opening a shop in her apartment at 55 East Sixty-fifth street, on Monday. It is to be known as the Crunden Studios and because of her taste in selecting odds and ends as well as objects of art, the opening is causing a flurry of interest among her friends. Miss Crunden has lived in New York since leaving St. Louis several years ago.

Miss Crunden collects her wares from importers and antique shops and displays them in her white and yellow modern dining room. White bookshelves, along the walls, contain selected pieces of French and English china, cigarette boxes, ash trays, etc. Glass, such as liquor sets, table bells, vases and boxes are displayed on glass shelves hung across the windows.

Another part of the room is given over to Chinese pieces. Miss Crunden seems to have a flare for creating delightful things out of quite ordinary materials. There are Japanese flower prints framed in bamboo and a large mirror, framed in unfinished wood, rubbed down with pumice stone.

Walking along East Sixty-fifth street, in approaching the Crunden Studios, customers take note of a small stairway, with hand rails and the whole, set on a regular flight of steps, leading up to 49 East Sixty-fifth street. This little auxiliary stairway, resembling a miniature of a gangway used on board ship, is always watched over by a policeman. It is no other than Mrs. James Roosevelt who lives here and the extra steps with railings and easy stairs are always in readiness for a visit from her son, President Roosevelt.

St. Louisans at the St. Regis this week included Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom and her daughter, Miss Margaret. James H. Grove arrived at the St. Regis last Saturday, for a several days' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Herbert Walker of Old Westbury, L. I., are here, and have an apartment at Hampshire House, on Central Park South. They spent the summer at Kennebunkport, Me., as is their usual custom. Mrs. Walker, a sister of Mrs. Max Kotany and James H. Wear of St. Louis, has many friends there where she and Mr. Walker lived, before moving to New York.

Mrs. A. Shapleigh Boyd Jr., the former Miss Amy Jones, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. W. Rand Jones of Pomander Walk, Teaneck, N. J. Mrs. Jones entertained last Sunday afternoon at a tea, in honor of her daughter.

Mrs. David B. White and her daughter, Miss Suzanne, a debutante of this year, arrived at the Plaza last Saturday morning. Miss White went to New Haven for the Yale-Harvard game, that afternoon. After a few days in New York, Miss White returned to St. Louis for the Thanksgiving debutante festivities there.

Mary Ann Miller Is Married to Martin E. Sheets

MISS MARY ANN MILLER, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dan Tucker Miller, 6242 Alamo avenue, became the bride of Martin Edrington Sheets Jr. last night at 8:30 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Hulbert A. Woolfall performed the ceremony. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Edrington Sheets, 961 South Skinker boulevard.

Dr. Miller gave his daughter in marriage. The bride's gown was of ivory satin on Empire lines, with Brussels point lace from her mother's wedding gown edging the heart-shaped neckline and long satin train. Her long tulle veil and face veil fell from a wreath of orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Betty Cressler as maid of honor, and Mrs. James S. Harrison Jr. and Miss Jane Morgens as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in deep rose slipper satin, the dresses also on Empire lines, fashioned with short puffed sleeves, square necklines and short trains. They wore coronets of corded slipper satin to match their gowns, and carried arm bouquets of wine chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Miller was gowned in wine lace and Mrs. Sheets in dark green velvet. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

Mr. Harrison was best man. Ushers were Wilson Cann, Arthur Max, George Edgar Fifield III and Herbert Morisse.

A small reception was given after the wedding at the Miller home. Mr. Sheets and his bride will go to New Orleans and the Gulf Coast on their wedding trip. They will live in St. Louis.

Among guests from out of town at the wedding were these from Terre Haute, Inr.; Mrs. J. F. Roedel, grandmother of the bride; Miss Helen Roedel, her aunt; Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Miller, an uncle and aunt; Mrs. Arthur O. Gillis, also an aunt; John Roedel, a cousin; Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Kivits and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Foulkes.

Patricia Schrader Wed to H. J. Bennin

MISS PATRICIA SCHRADER and Herbert J. Bennin were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Westminster Presbyterian Church. The Rev. David L. Stitt, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marie E. Schrader, 5660 Kingsbury boulevard, and of Kurt A. Schrader, 645 Polo drive, at whose home a small reception was held after the wedding. Mr. Bennin, who lives in St. Louis, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bennin of Chicago.

The bride wore a blue wool costume suit, the dress fashioned on simple lines and the jacket trimmed in caracul fur. She wore wine colored accessories and orchids at her shoulder. Mrs. Carl Krummenacher, her only attendant, was gowned in delft blue crepe, also with wine accessories. She wore gardenias. Walter Bennin of Chicago attended his brother as best man.

Mrs. Schrader was gowned in black crepe with touches of green at the neckline, and Mrs. Bennin, who with her husband came to St. Louis for their son's wedding, also wore black crepe. Both wore gardenias.

Additional out-of-town guests at the wedding included: Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bennin, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cornell and Miss Bertha Mason of Milwaukee, Wis.; and Mr. and Mrs. William Reetz, Joseph McMahon and Miss Helen Plimmel of Chicago.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bennin will live in St. Louis.

The bride attended Washington University and the University of Missouri. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

MISS BETTY BALL LAFEAN who is the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. James Moores Ball, at Hotel Chase. Miss Lafean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howell Lafean of York, Pa., former St. Louisans.

Miss Jane Owen Wed To J. L. Langstaff Jr.

THE marriage of Miss Jane Owen, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Owen, 11 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, and J. Lewis Langstaff Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lewis Langstaff, 347 Page avenue, Webster Groves, was solemnized Thanksgiving day at 5 o'clock in the Webster Hills Methodist Church. The Rev. Benjamin Ritpath performed the ceremony by candlelight before a chancel banked with ferns and palms.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was gowned in white satin made with a long full skirt which flared into a short train. She wore a tightly fitted lace jacket fastened in front with small pearl buttons. A satin and lace Juliet cap held the fingertip length illusion veil in place. Her bridal bouquet was a shower arrangement of white rosebuds. Mrs. Arthur Lee von Rump, sister of the bride, was the only attendant. Her gown was made on lines similar to those of the bride's gown. The underneath dress was of ice blue satin and the lace jacket was of dusty pink. She wore a Juliet cap to match the jacket. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses.

George Vernon Langstaff, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Immediately after the reception held at the home of the bride's parents the pair departed for an extended wedding trip. Upon their return they will make their home in the county.

Mrs. Frank B. Coleman, program chairman, will present Frank Parker, diseur, who will read "The Scarecrow," by Percy Mackaye. Following this there will be a reception in the tea room. Assisting Mrs. McKinney in receiving will be Mrs. T. E. Francis, Mrs. Mary Gravely, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Edward Burke, Mrs. H. H. Muchall, Mrs. Ruth Kelso Renfrow, president of the Eighth District; Mrs. Walter Mills and Mrs. Edward Huck. Miss Hazel Howe, chairman of hospitality, will be assisted by Mrs. F. Huntington Smith, Mrs. Norbert Schrader, Mrs. John Donovan, Mrs. H. J. Bock, Mrs. John Heman, Mrs. A. M. Schumate, Mrs. Joseph Volmer and Mrs. Harry Walters. Mrs. Harry Castlen and Mrs. Charles Morris will serve at the tea table.

Schlueter-Siegel Invitations Received

CARDS have been received for the marriage of Miss Mary Jane Siegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ralph Siegel, 7102 Maryland drive, and Walter Julius Schlueter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schlueter, 7928 Teasdale avenue. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night, Dec. 7, at the First Congregational Church. A reception will be held afterward at the St. Louis Women's Club.

Many pre-wedding parties are being given for Miss Siegel and her fiance. Her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Siegel, was hostess at a dinner dance in the Crystal Terrace of the Park Plaza last night. Miss Sara Jane Avant will give a luncheon for Miss Siegel at the St. Louis Woman's Club Tuesday and Wednesday Mrs. George E. Groves, Miss Siegel's aunt, will give a luncheon at her home, 5419 Maple avenue.

Among the parties last week was a luncheon given Wednesday for the bride-elect by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Clifford A. Schlueter, of Fox Run lane. Mrs. Roy R. Siegel, Mrs. Siegel's aunt, and Mrs. Charles M. Huttig gave a dinner dance at the Bridlespur Hunt Club Wednesday night. On Friday Mrs. Richard Vernon Clark Jr. entertained at luncheon at the Bellerive Country Club.

Several pre-wedding parties have been arranged for the first week in December. Miss Helen Cornwell, 536 Overhill drive, will give a luncheon at her home Friday. A cocktail party will be given the following afternoon by the prospective bride's grandmother, Mrs. A. B. Groves and her aunt, Miss Phyllis Groves, 5419 Maple avenue. Richard Schlueter will be host at a breakfast Sunday morning, Dec. 4, at Oltz House on the Craig road. Mr. and Mrs. Siegel will entertain the bridal party at the Coronado Hotel Tuesday evening, Dec. 6, after the wedding rehearsal.

Norma Heisserer Is Wed To Eric V. Nelson

MISS NORMA ELIZABETH HEISSERER, daughter of Mrs. Theon S. Heisserer, 19 North Taylor avenue, and Eric V. Nelson of Rochester, N. Y., formerly of St. Louis, were married Saturday morning, Nov. 19, in the rectory of the St. Louis Cathedral. The Rev. Sylvester Tucker performed the ceremony. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson Nelson of Brattleboro, Vt.

Mrs. Warren E. Brown was her sister's only attendant and Noel Rorby was best man. Only the immediate families attended the wedding.

The bride wore a simple black wool gown, with a jacket of old rose velveteen trimmed with a collar of skunk. She carried a skunk muff and wore a hat to match her jacket. Her flowers were a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley.

A small rception was given at the bride's home after the cermony.

The bride is a graduate of the Academy of the Visitation, attended Washington University and studied art in New York. Mr. Nelson is a graduate of Columbia University, and attended St. Lawrence University, also in New York.

Kiskaddon Family Has Annual Reunion

MISS ANNETTE E. KISKADDON, who is attending Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., arrived Thanksgiving for the annual family reunion at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew H. Kiskaddon, 518 South Clay avenue, Kirkwood. She returned to college last night.

Among other members of the family here for the occasion was Miss L. Jeannette Kiskaddon of Chicago, Ill., sister of Mr. Kiskaddon. She is spending the weekend as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Sandfos, 320 Central place, Kirkwood.

Toy Shop Party At Woman's Club

SANTA CLAUS' fabled toy shop will be re-created in the colonial banquet hall of the St. Louis Woman's Club Saturday night for the first dinner dance to be given this season by the club's Junior Committee. Life-sized cardboard soldiers in red and white uniforms will stand guard at each of the 12 supporting pillars, and a frieze of toys will encircle the room. Blocks and other toys will be piled on dinner tables for centerpieces instead of the usual flowers.

Junior members, some of them dressed to represent familiar toys, will give the floor show. Mrs. Arthur Charters Gaines will do a "mechanical" tap dance, and Miss Jane Winter and Miss Mary Elizabeth Hunter will impersonate Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy in a specialty number. A red satin-garbed chorus, their frocks made with square necks, puffed sleeves and flared skirts, will dance a "Toyland" dance, with black letters spelling the word fastened on white satin squares attached to their bodices. Members of the troupe are Mrs. Edward G. Bischoff, Mrs. Elliot Fairback, Mrs. Arthur H. Feuerbacher Jr., Mrs. Joseph W. Folk, Mrs. Francis H. Disbrow, Mrs. Edward G. Rolwing Jr. and Mrs. Theodore Schroth. Community singing will be led by Clark McAdams Clifford.

The Junior Committee in charge of the dance is composed of Mrs. Louis S. Dennig, junior chairman; Mrs. T. Middleton Levis, decorations; Mrs. Robert A. Black Jr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Howard Jr., entertainment, and Mrs. Feuerbacher, invitations.

Reservations have been made for the party by Mrs. Neal Wood, Mrs. Russell Lortz, Mrs. Charles Peters, Mrs. Rolwing, Mrs. Robert Latzer, Mrs. James L. Westlake, Mrs. Robert L. Jordan, Mrs. Frederick Brickenkamp, Mrs. Jerome F. Kircher, Mrs. Alvin C. Vasey-Jackman Wedding Takes Place at Home

MISS MARGERY ELIZABETH JACKMAN was the fourth member of her family to wear her grandmother's wedding dress when she became the bride of James Edward Vasey Jr. yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sears Jackman, 5373 Cabanne avenue.

The Rev. Robert E. McKeon read the service before an old-fashioned mirror in the living room which had on either side a tall standard of white chrysanthemums illuminated by burning tapers. About 75 members of the two families were present.

The dress is designed with an ivory-colored grosgrain silk skirt made with panniers and a bustle and slightly raised in front to reveal a lace petticoat. The close-fitting bodice has a heart-shaped neckline and is laced up the back. The loose veil, also belonging to the bride's grandmother, was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a nosegay of lilies of the valley, rosebuds and gardenias.

Miss Genevieve Field Davis of Kirkwood served as maid of honor in a pale green taffeta dress made with a hooped skirt. The basque waist was trimmed with old ivory lace and she carried a colonial bouquet of ivory pompons. John Sanders was best man.

An informal reception followed the ceremony. White flowers were arranged around the wedding cake which centered the table. After a brief wedding trip, the pair will live at 5610 Enright avenue.

Mr. Vasey, a graduate of Washington University, is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. The Jackman family formerly lived in Kirkwood.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

THE White House was one of the few official households in Washington where turkey was not served at Thanksgiving because the President and Mrs. Roosevelt ate their dinner with the patients at the Warm Springs Foundation Hospital in Georgia.

The traditional Thanksgiving luncheon at Friendship, belonging to Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, was not held this year. This year Mrs. McLean has been ill, and with her son, Edward Beale McLean Jr. in Colorado with his bride and her eldest son, John R. McLean, since his marriage a resident of Long Island, only Mrs. McLean and her sub-debutante daughter, Miss Evalyn Washington McLean, are at Friendship for the winter.

Now that it is settled that the King and Queen of England are to live at the White House during their stay here there is renewed interest in the arrangements for them there. The White House is not spacious enough for royal entertaining per se. But the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will manage to provide the space necessary and Mrs. Roosevelt already has given out some details concerning their entertainment.

Inasmuch as Queen Elizabeth was born in Glamis Castle in Scotland supposed to be haunted by the ghost of the murdered Banquo, she will not mind an occasional glimpse of the ghost of Dolly Madison in the Monroe room the Queen is to use as a sitting room where the wraith is reputed to sit and gaze out of the window at Twentieth Century Washington.

The story persists that in the Lincoln bedroom where the King is to sleep Lincoln's apparition is occasionally seen.

The Monroe room in which the King and Queen will meet their guests was used as a study by Wilson, Harding and Coolidge. Mrs. Hoover searched high and low for authentic furniture to restore it to the appearance it has when Mrs. Monroe used it as her private sitting room.

There is a portrait of Mrs. Monroe in the room. Part of the President's marine collection of pictures hangs on the wall. They will interest the King greatly, no doubt, for he served for a time in his father's navy.

On the mantel is a crystal-gazing ball in which the Royal visitors may read the future if they will.

In former days the desk in this study was made from the timbers of the Resolute sent to England as a gift to Queen Victoria by the President and the people of the United States as a token of good will and friendship in the search for Sir John Franklin.

One of the most thrilling ghost stories is told by Mrs. George Barnett, widow of the former commandant of the United States Marine Corps. Her ghost is that of the first commandant of the corps who ever lived in the commandant's house at the Marine barracks.

When Gen. and Mrs. Barnett first went to live there she was awakened from sleep one night and saw standing in the doorway an officer clad in a strange old uniform. Startled, she tried to speak. The figure stared at her, then to her horror suddenly disappeared. The family laughed at the tale and thought it only a dream. Then one day a portrait was discovered of the first commandant to live in the house. It was brought to Gen. Barnett and Mrs. Barnett. As soon as Mrs. Barnett saw it she exclaimed: "Why, it is the officer I saw in that dream." He never appeared to any of the Barnetts again.

One of the most interested spectators of the struggle to preserve the cherry trees from destruction to provide a site for the Thomas Jefferson Memorial is Mrs. William Howard Taft, widow of the former President and Chief Justice to whom the original cherry trees were presented by Japan when her husband was President. The cherry trees were sent in acknowledgement of dogwood trees which had been sent as a gift to Japan.

Country Day Staff Member to Wed

THE date for the wedding of Miss Eleanor LaMar McCandless, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. McCandless of Bronxville, N. Y., and Archbald Stark, an instructor at St. Louis Country Day School, has been set for Tuesday, Dec. 27. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Stephen Stark of Boston, Mass.

The ceremony will be performed at the home of the prospective bride's parents, 103 Kensington road, by the Rev. John Powell, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church of Bronxville. A reception will be given afterward.

Miss Matilda Alston will attend Miss McCandless, and Fritz Kaufhold of Northfield, Mass., will be best man. After a honeymoon in Florida, the pair will live in St. Louis.

Mr. Stark has been making his home here with Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Hughes, 5 Lindworth drive, Ladue Village. Mr. Hughes is athletic director of the Country Day School. Mr. Stark is a graduate of Mount Hermon School near Greenfield, Mass., and of Haverford College. Before coming to St. Louis this fall he was a regional field worker for the State of Pennsylvania for the American Youth Hostels, Inc. In this work he traveled in France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Japan, studying youth movements for world peace. Miss McCandless is a graduate of the Norwich (Conn.) THE dramatic department of Webster College will present "The Cradle Song" at the college Little Theater Friday night, Dec. 9, at 8:15 o'clock. Members of the cast include: Miss Rosemary Boehm, Miss Helen Buckley, Miss Aline Daly, Miss Dorothy Henderson, Miss Mary Jane Houlihan, Miss Mary Margaret Koenitz, Miss Victoria Mortland, Miss Deanne Pauley, Miss Beatrice Perez, Miss Josephine Raftery, Miss Frances Louise Rothermick, Miss Antoinette Sevier, Miss Rosemary Sullburk and Miss Mary Lou Travers.

Harry Richard McClain will direct the play.

THE Post-Dispatch cannot undertake to guarantee the safe return of unsolicited photographs.

Activities Resumed At Little Theater

WINTER activities at the Little Theater of St. Louis, 812 North Union boulevard, will be resumed this week with the opening Wednesday night of "Blind Alley," scheduled for a 10-day run. During intermissions, the following members of this year's hostess committee will preside at tables in the gallery where coffee is dispensed: Mrs. Harry Gleick, chairman; Mrs. J. Eugene Baker, Mrs. William Glasgow Bruce Carson, Mrs. John Crago, Mrs. Edward Dicke, Mrs. George W. Freiberg, Miss Charity Grace, Miss George A. Hope, Mrs. Frederick Litschel, Mrs. Nelson Pope, Mrs. Leonard Visser and Mrs. Catherine Crunden Wade.

After the opening performance the Players, of which F. Ray Leimkuehler is president, will give a buffet supper in the crypt of the theater for members and their guests. Saturday night, before the performance, the Artists' Guild will give a crypt dinner. Percy Ramsay is president, and R. Walston Chubb, vice-president of the guild.

Harold Bassage is directing the current production. The cast includes: Julian Luckett, Miss Frances Buss, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fry Jr., Joseph Lewis, Keith Gunther, Miss Betty McGrew, Mrs. William McBratney, Herman Waldman and Allan Gordon Jr.

In addition to the 10 regular performances, there will be two others, one sponsored by the student chapter of Kappa Alpha at Washington University, and the other by the Flynn Park Parent-Teacher Association.

Miss Dorothy Bohlmann Is Married at Home

THE marriage of Miss Dorothy Bohlmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Bohlmann, 90 Arundel place, and Conrad Frederick Kellermann, will take place Saturday, Dec. 10, at 12 o'clock noon at the Bohlmann home. The Rev. R. W. Janetzke, formerly of Mount Olive Lutheran Church, will perform the ceremony. It will be an informal wedding. A wedding breakfast will be served afterward.

Miss Ruth Dougherty will be Miss Bohlmann's only attendant, and Marvin Schneller will be best man. Mr. Kellermann is the son of Mrs. Ida Kellermann, 3220 Barrett street.

Miss Bohlmann has been entertained at several parties during the last week, among them an evening party Wednesday given by Mr. Kellermann's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Schuerman, 6417 San Bonita avenue. Miss Dougherty, daughter of Mrs. Irene Dougherty, 4961 Laclede avenue, will entertain at a bridge tea Saturday afternoon, Dec. 3, and the next day, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schoknecht, 8709 Nashville avenue, brother-in-law and sister of the prospective bride, will give a cocktail party for the engaged pair.

Back at Country Lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lee Renfrow have returned to their country place, Lee Anna Lodge, Eureka, Mo., after spending the last week with friends in St. Louis.

Dr. W. H. Aufranc Weds Margaret Loeffel

MISS MARGARET LOEFFEL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Loeffel, 25 Sarah avenue, Webster Groves, became the bride of Dr. William Henry Aufranc, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Aufranc of Columbia, Mo., Thanksgiving morning at 11 o'clock at the home of her parents. The Rev. James H. George performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a street length frock of rose crepe made with a high round collar and short puffed sleeves. Her corsage was of white bridal roses. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Jean Loeffel. She wore powder blue crepe and wore yellow roses. Clarence Aufranc of Columbia, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Aufranc attended Washington University and was graduated from the University of Missouri where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. Dr. Aufranc was graduated from the University of Missouri and the Medical College of Virginia.

After a wedding trip through the South the pair will make their home in Kennett, Mo.

Book Review Tuesday.

Mrs. H. H. Mecker, 4946 Devonshire avenue, will review "A Southerner Discovers the South" by Jonathan Daniels, at the Buder Branch Library Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The public is invited.

Here's the story behind this special event! Last Summer—in fact, 120 days ago—we said this fall we are going to give St. Louisans the biggest chair value we can possibly find. So we went to one of the country's foremost makers of fine chairs and said we're in the market for something sensational. It was the dull time of the year and, in order to keep his shops running full time, he made us these chairs at a tremendous savings. And that's not all. We went directly to the showrooms and hand-picked every covering—gorgeous imported and domestic tapestries, damasks, rayon damasks and brocatelles! (Because they were short lengths, we got them at ridiculously low prices.) Now these superb creations are here! We could go on writing about their beauty and quality for days . . . but we want you to come in and see the inside story: The frames, the construction, all the details that make them top-ranking values! Once you see them and sit in them, you'll agree with us they're the most luxurious chairs obtainable at this rare low price. Here are chairs that will make the handsomest Christmas gifts★ imaginable.

Weddings and Engagements

Rovak-Reinfeld

THE wedding of Miss Marie Lucille Reinfeld, daughter of Mrs. Florence Reinfeld, 5736 Westminster place, and Abe S. Rovak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rovak, 5933 Pershing avenue, took place at 3 o'clock Thanksgiving afternoon at the home of Rabbi Samuel Thurman, 420 Melville avenue.

Marvin Ely Reinfeld of Shaker Heights, O., gave his sister in marriage. Mrs. Marvin Reinfeld also was here for the wedding, and their young daughter, Carol Jean Reinfeld, was flower girl. They were guests of Mrs. Marvin Reinfeld's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Irving L. Sorger, 725 South Skinker boulevard, who were among the guests at the wedding. Harry Rovak was best man for his son.

The bride wore a royal blue velvet afternoon gown with matching hat and wine accessories. She wore orchids.

A wedding dinner was given after the ceremony in the English room of Hotel Chase. Later the couple left for the East. On their return they will live with the bridegroom's parents.

Eike-Benz.

Miss Evangelista Benz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Benz, 3109 Meramec street, and Edward Eike, son of Frank Eike, 4224 Louisiana avenue, were married Wednesday morning, Nov. 16, at St. Anthony's Church.

The bride wore a gown of ivory brocaded velvet, made princesse, and her ivory tulle veil was fastened by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried her mother's prayer book, covered with gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Theresia Benz, sister of the bride and maid of honor, was gowned in green brocaded velvet, and the bridesmaids, Miss Loretta Eike and Mrs. John Moore, wore rust brocaded velvet. All carried arm bouquets of fall shaded chrysanthemums.

Joseph Eike Jr., nephew of the bridegroom, was best man, with Jerome Harris as groomsman.

William Benz III, nephew of the bride, acted as ring bearer, and Miss Joan Betty Eike, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

A wedding breakfast was given at the Edgewater Club after the ceremony, and later the couple left for their wedding trip.

Osherwitz-Dubinsky

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dubinsky, 727 Heman avenue, University City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Henrietta Dubinsky, and Meyers Osherwitz of Duncan, Ok., son of Mrs. Oscar Osherwitz of Dayton, O.

Announcement was made at an informal birthday party given recently in honor of the prospective bride by her parents at their home. The wedding will take place in St. Louis Jan. 15.

Rubin-Grossman

Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Grossman, 7246 Amherst avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Hattie and Isadore Rubin. Mr. Rubin is the son of Mrs. Emma Rubin, 5579 Bartmer avenue. Miss Grossman and her fiance are graduates of Washington University.

Harris-Markenson

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Markenson, 5186 Kensington avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose, and Harry J. Harris, which took place Tuesday. Rabbi Julian Miller performed the ceremony. Mr. Harris made his home with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Moskowitz, 7225 Tulane avenue, prior to his marriage.

After a motor trip South the pair will live in St. Louis.

Nau-Cheatham

The wedding of Miss Julia Cheatham, daughter of G. F. Cheatham of Fayetteville, Tenn., and Clifford Nau, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Nau, 3101 Laclede road, Maplewood, took place last Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Giddings Presbyterian Church of St. Louis. For the past year the bride has made her home in St. Louis at 4011 Westminster place.

The Rev. W. H. Cheatham of Longview, Tex., brother of the bride, performed the ceremony. Another brother, J. D. Cheatham, gave her in marriage. The bride wore a white satin princesse gown and long tulle veil held by a coronet of tulle, orange blossoms and tiny calla lilies. She carried white snapdragon and gardenias in her shower bouquet.

Miss Virginia Wright, Miss Opal Arisman and Miss Evelyn King of Nashville, Tenn., were bridesmaids, whils Mrs. Herb Rickell, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. William Blair was best man and ushers included Roy Putnam, Benjamin Cheatham, brother of the bride; Jay Yergan, James J. Parks, Euel Cheatham, another brother, of Longview, Tex., and Roy Radford. Wilma Richardson was flower girl at the wedding and Harold Dean Bevels, nephew of the bride and son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bevels of Old Hickory, Tenn., was ring bearer.

After an informal reception at the Nau home, the couple left for a short honeymoon. They will live in Maplewood.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Bevels of Old Hickory; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cheatham of Goodletsville, Tenn., brother and sister-in-law of the bride, and their daughter, Miss Doris; James Cheatham, another brother, of Fayetteville; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schlag and Mr. and Mrs. Thurlo Ragland of Festus, Mo.

Sarno-Grossman

Miss Rosalynd Grace Grossman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Grossman, 726 Leland avenue, will become the bride of Dr. Samuel Melvin Sarno in a quiet wedding to take place this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sarno, parents of the bridegroom, at St. Joseph, Mo.

The bride attended Washington University and was graduated from Harris Teachers' College. Dr. Sarno received his bachelor's degree from the University of Missouri and his medical degree from the University of Louisville. He is a member of Phi Delta Epsilon medical fraternity.

The pair will make their home at Morehouse, Mo., after a short wedding trip.

Wolf-Kranzberg

Mr. and Mrs. Clemens Friedman, 1209 Iona place, announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Dolores Kranzberg, and D. Daniel Wolf at a dinner at Hotel Chase Thanksgiving eve. Mr. Wolf is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolf, 6416 Alamo avenue. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Pircher-Hilt.

The marriage of Miss Helen Hilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius J. Hilt, 5523 Rhodes avenue, and William J. Pircher, took place Thanksgiving morning at 10 o'clock at the Old Cathedral. Mr. Pircher is the son of Joseph Pircher, 2150 Linton avenue.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an ivory satin princess gown and carried lilies of the valley. Miss Florence Weidinger attended her as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. J. F. Hartmann, sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. B. Hill, sister-in-law.

Gerald Heck of Belleville, Ill., was best man, and ushers were Mr. Hartmann, Mr. Hilt, Tom Nash and John Pircher, brother of the bridegroom.

Barbara Belenzon served as flower girl and James Hartmann, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Castilla for the bridal party and immediate families, and a reception was held in the afternoon at the Hilt home.

Mr. Pircher and his bride left on their wedding trip. They will live at the Hilt home on their return.

Schenkel-Miller

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Virginia Ruth Miller, daughter of Mrs. William A. Miller Jr., 3048 New Ashland place, and of the late Mr. Miller, and Gilbert H. Schenkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst W. Schenkel, 4254 Penrose street.

The news was told at an informal party given last night by Mrs. Miller at her home.

Mr. Schenkel attended the University of Missouri.

ST. CHARLES ITEMS

MISS MARGARET ANNE SCHIERDING, daughter of Mrs. Elenora Schierding, 320 North Sixth street, will become the bride of Robert V. Niedner, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Niedner, 115 South Sixth street, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The wedding will be in Immanuel Lutheran Church and the father of the bridegroom will conduct the double ring ceremony. A reception will follow the wedding, after which a 7 o'clock dinner will be held at the St. Charles Country Club for the immediate families and wedding party.

Miss Virginia Niedner, sister of the bridegroom, arrived Thanksgiving day from Valparaiso, Ind., where she attends college, to be a bridesmaid at the wedding. Miss Ruth May is to be the other bridesmaid. Miss Schierding will be given in marriage by her brother, Earl Schierding. Her brother-in-law, Kurt Achelpohl, will sing "Oh, Promise Me."

The bride's dress of ivory taffeta, appliqued in creamy velvet flowers, has a long train, depending from a flaring skirt. The bodice of the dress is tight, a plain V-neck and sleeves puffed below the elbow and coming to a point over the hands. The fingertip veil is caught to the head by a Juliet cap, adorned with orange blossoms. On her arm will be gardenias and roses. Both of the bridesmaids will wear colonial type dresses of ashes of roses taffeta made with slight trains, and will carry colonial bouquets of small chrysanthemums, colored the same shade.

Elroy Schierding, brother of the bride, and Walter Niedner, the bridegroom's brother, will be best man and groomsman, while another brother of the bridegroom, Frederick Niedner, and Herman Willbrand Jr., are to be ushers. The pair plan to make their home here, where Mr. Niedner has a law office.

Several pre-wedding parties for Miss Schierding have been held recently, one a family shower for 30 relatives by her mother at the family home. Another was given by Miss Ruth May last Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Frank May, 803 Clay street.

Miss Anna Mae Fischbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fischbach, 517 North Fifth street, was married to Cornelius L. Welch, son of Mrs. Coletta Welch of St. Louis, in a Thanksgiving day wedding held at 10 o'clock in the morning at the Borromeo Catholic Church. Father David E. Hamilton performed the ceremony, which was followed by a wedding breakfast-dinner at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families and attendants. A reception for friends was held that afternoon.

The bride's dress was of white matelasse made on princesse lines with short bolero jacket. The neckline of the dress was square, and the skirt had a short train. Her fingertip circular veil was caught to the head by a satin Juliet cap; her colonial bouquet was of white roses and pompon chrysanthemums. Her sister, Miss Lenore Fischbach, her only attendant, had a similar dress of teal blue. She wore silver flowers in her hair. She had peach-colored gloves and carried talisman roses, made into a colonial bouquet. Little Mary Jo Boschert, the flower girl, wore peach-colored taffeta and carried a tiny bouquet. The bridegroom's attendant was Ray Cunningham of Riverview Gardens, Mo. Miss de Lillis Buse sang during the service.

After a trip to Chicago the pair will be at home Dec. 1 at 4022 Palm street, St. Louis.

The annual Thanksgiving eve dance was held at the St. Charles Country Club by the St. Charles Junior Service League. The dance was open to guests of the league and members of the Country Club. Miss Elaine Tainter was chairman of the committee which sponsored the dance.

Miss Corinne Debrecht, daughter of Henry J. Debrecht, 1305 North Second street, became the bride of Herbert Koch of St. Louis, in a wedding at 2 o'clock Thanksgiving day at the parsonage of the St. Peter's Church. The Rev. Arthur Behrman conducted the ceremony. A wedding dinner was served for the immediate families by the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Debrecht, 1401 North Third street. In the evening, a reception and dance was held for friends at the Moose Hall.

Only the immediate families attended the wedding. The bride wore a Russian-styled afternoon dress, a multi-gored skirt of boy-blue alpaca crepe attached to the full blouse with crystal buttons. The waist of deep yellow chiffon was tucked in front with buttons up to a round collar. Her hat was of boy-blue velour with shoulder-length black veil falling from it. Her other accessories were black. She wore talisman roses in a shoulder corsage. Miss Mildred Dallmeyer, her attendant, wore an alpaca crepe dress of vintage red with gabardine hat of the same shade, trimmed in velvet bows and a black veil. John Bredensteiner was best man.

The bride has been given several showers recently, one being held for 40 friends at the Elks' Club Nov. 14 with Mrs. August Schultehenry, Miss Mildred Dallmeyer, Miss Marie Ohlms and Miss Virginia Suellentrop as hostesses. Another, a miscellaneous shower, was given Monday night by Mrs. Frances Ernst, 820 North Kingshighway, for 11 guests.

Miss Bernice Thoroughman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Thoroughman, 1031 Vine street, was married to Raymond Gray, son of Mrs. Iola Gray and William Gray, Wednesday afternoon at the Lutheran parsonage by the Rev. Frederick Niedner. They left immediately after on a short wedding trip. The bride wore an afternoon dress of dark green crepe with bolero jacket. Her sister, Miss Phyllis, and the bridegroom's brother, Woodrow Gray, were attendants.

KIRKWOOD SOCIAL NOTES

In the DAILY MIRROR Next Week:

"SHIELD OF OUR LIBERTIES: THE BILL OF RIGHTS." Guarantees of civil and religious freedom contained in the first ten amendments to the Constitution are the basis of our national achievements and of the self-reliant character of our people, says James Truslow Adams, in the New York Times Magazine.

"THE ILLIBERALISM OF THE NEW DEAL." In breaking down the reactionism of his predecessors, President Roosevelt has created a reaction of his own with ominous restrictions of our liberties, according to this thoughtful article from the current Fortune.

"GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE." The initiative and referendum in Oregon, first state to try to direct legislation, has failed to bring the democratic millennium. The voters are kept busy resisting crack-pot schemes and efforts of vested interests to use the device for their own ends . . . An extract from Richard Neuberger's new book, "Our Promised Land."

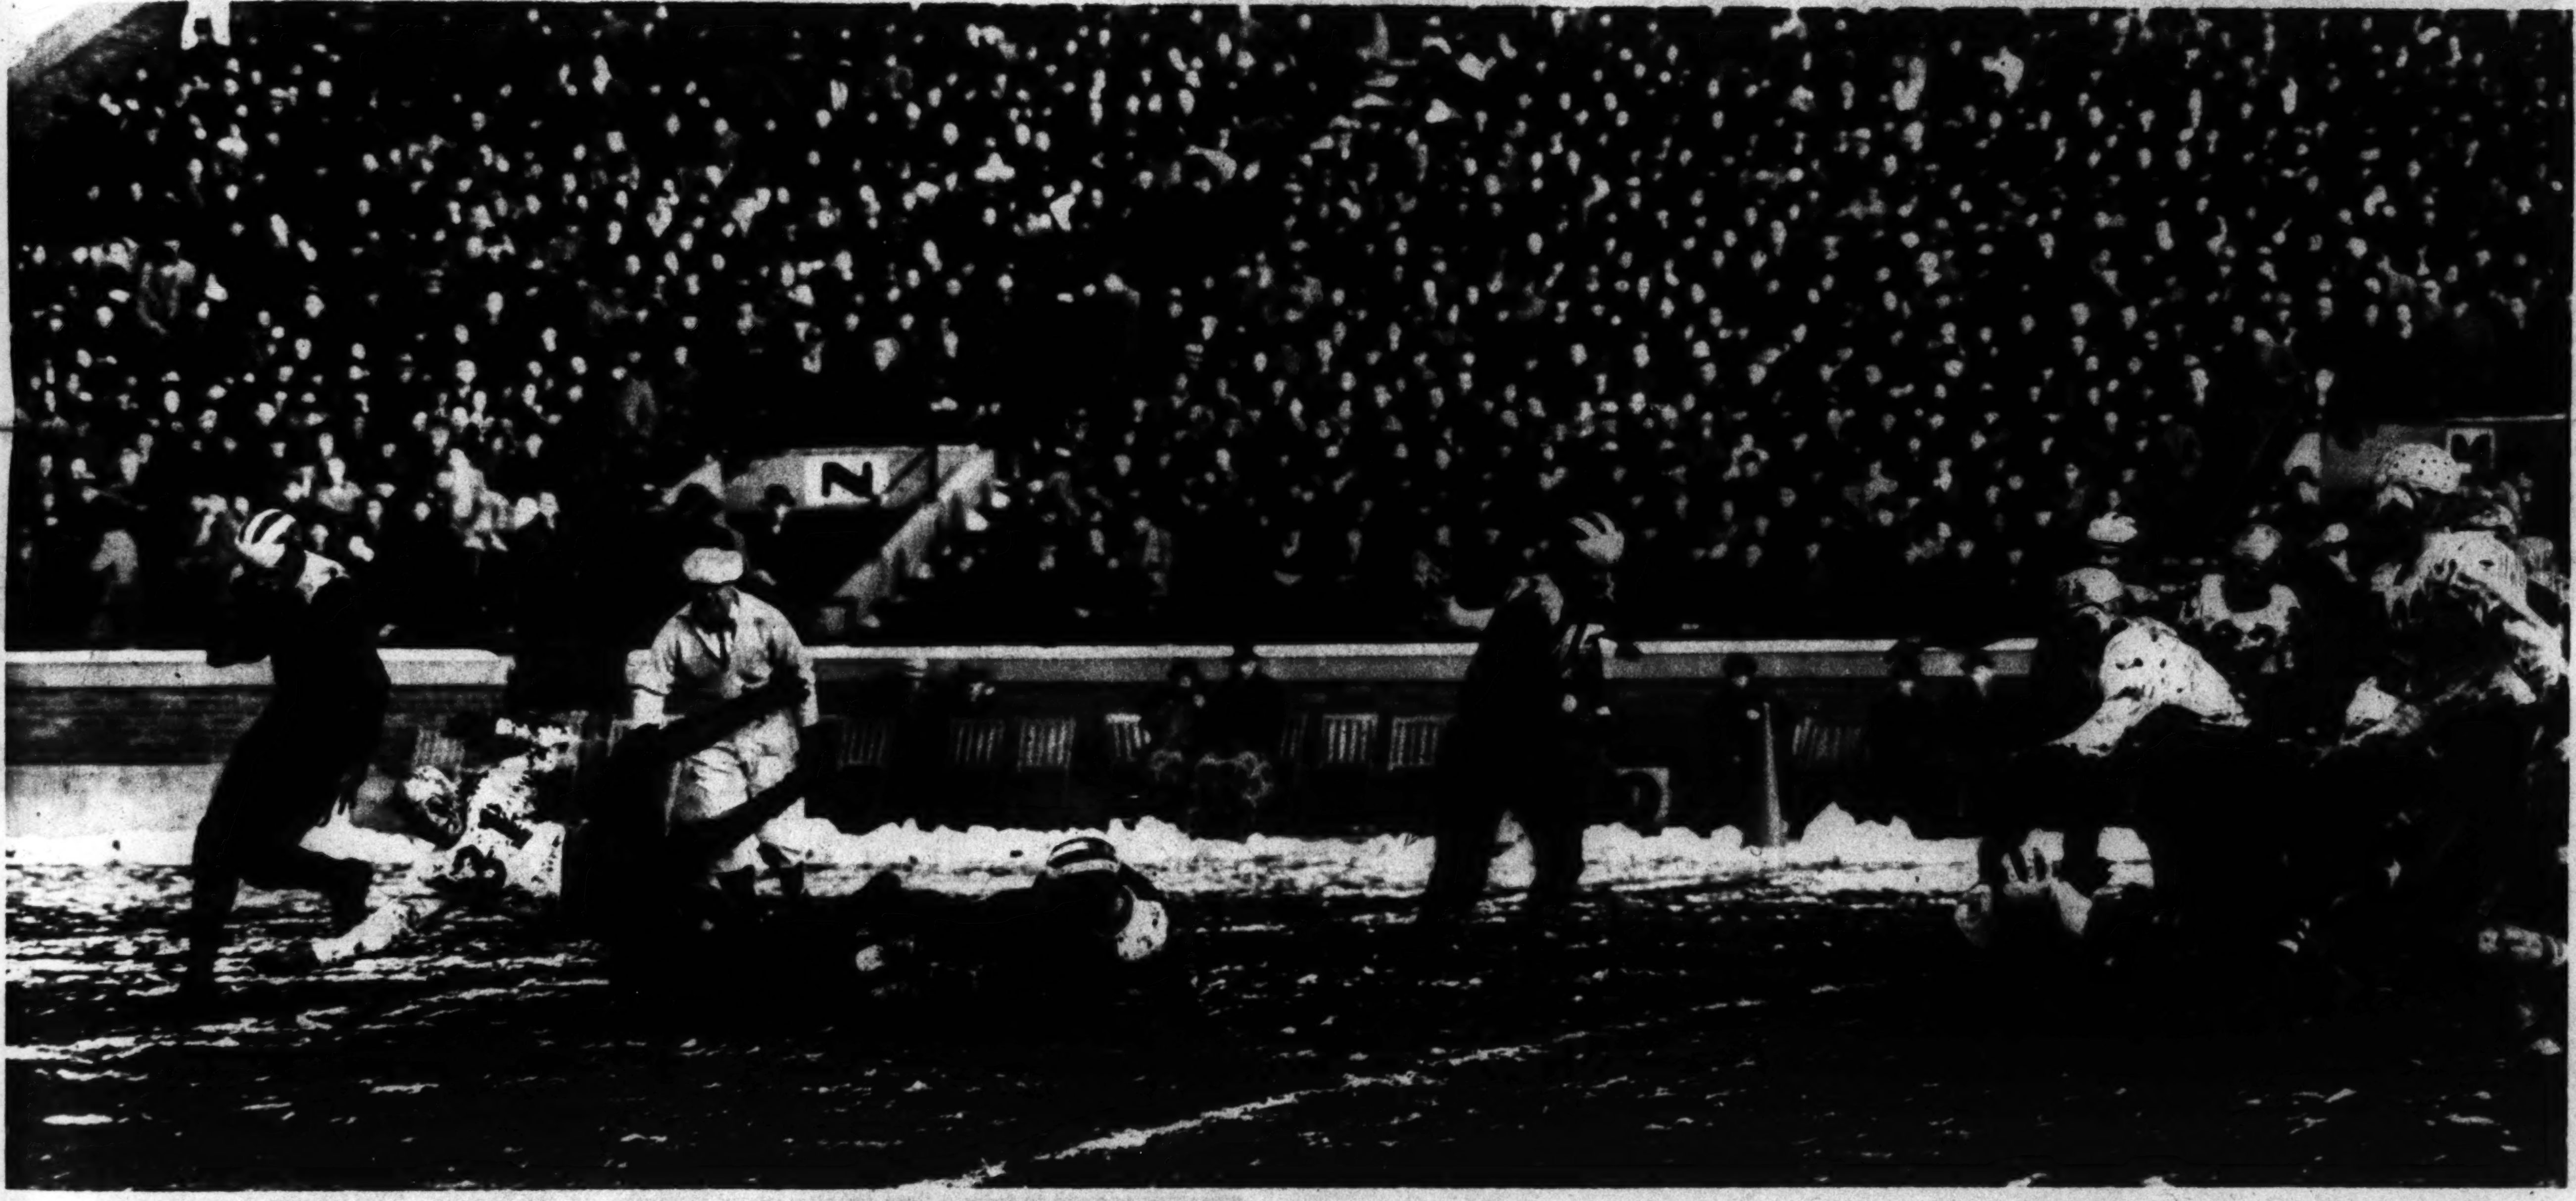
Washington and St. Louis Battle to a Tie



By a Post-Dispatch PICTURES Staff Photographer

Begrimed Left End Seibert (31), Washington U., is blocked from tackling Halfback Denny Cochran, St. Louis U., in the annual Thanksgiving day football game between the schools at Walsh Memorial Stadium. In the center, Guard Carlson (45) is ready to block other Washington tacklers. A capacity crowd alternately sat and stood on seats swept of snow throughout the thrilling contest which ended in a scoreless tie.

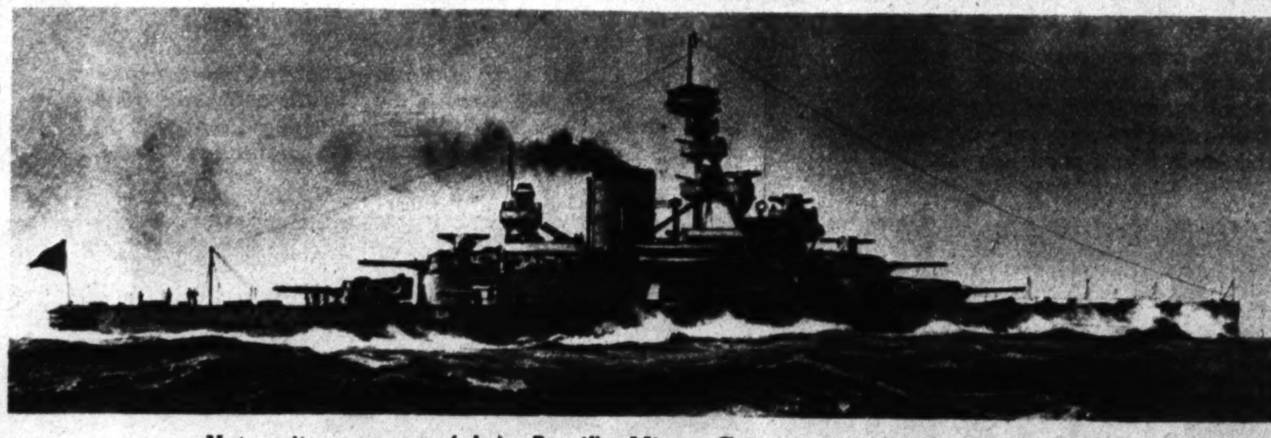
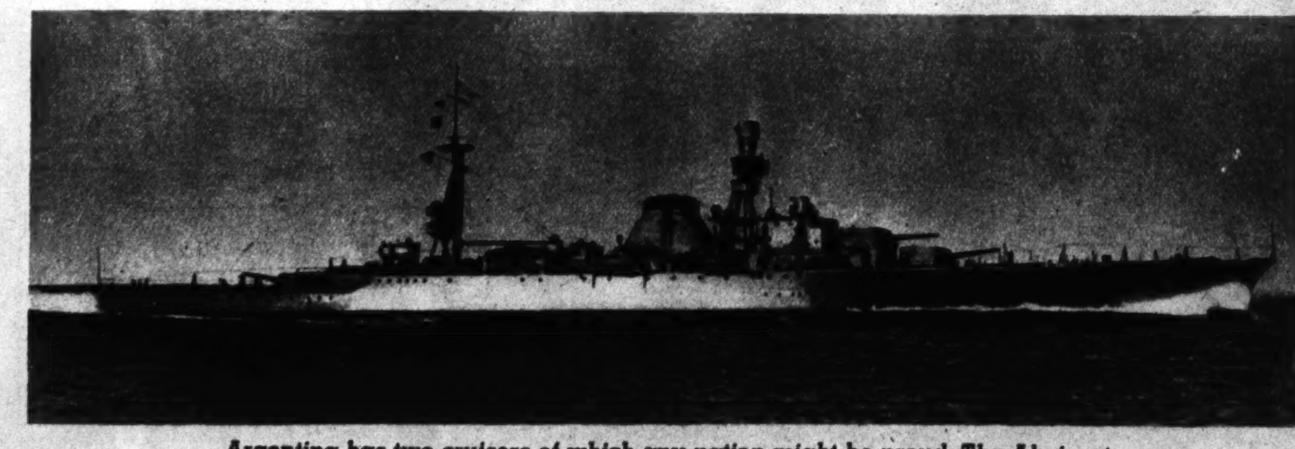
Map Showing Naval Bases and Their Strategic Significance in Western Hemisphere.

Chile's pride, Almirante Latorre, the most powerful battleship in South America, displaces 32,000 tons and mounts 10 14-inch guns.



Not quite as powerful is Brazil's Minas Geraes, completed in 1910 and modernized in 1934. It carries 12 12-inch guns.



Argentina has two cruisers of which any nation might be proud. The Almirante Brown, carries six 7.5-guns, three planes, makes 32 knots.

Defense of the Americas

An Appraisal of the Fighting Strength and Strategic Set-Up of the Western Hemisphere Nations

CANADA and the 20 Latin-American republics can do much to aid the United States in upholding the Monroe Doctrine if it ever becomes necessary to defend any part of the Western Hemisphere from aggressive action on the part of any or all of the totalitarian states of Europe and Asia. The resources of these possible allies of the United States include more than a million soldiers in uniform or reserve, warships enough to form a fleet ranking about seventh in the navies of the world, an air force of about 200 planes, vast stores of important raw materials and a series of highly strategic naval bases.

A complete accord for common defense of this hemisphere would give the United States the advantage of South American naval bases and stations that would be vital in protection of the Panama Canal—center of this nation's defense scheme. With these bases and the combined fleets of South America and the United States, the Western Hemisphere, in the opinion of military experts, should be able to defeat any aggressive expedition before it could gain a foothold in this half of the world. But once an enemy force obtained sufficient naval command of the shores of any part of the hemisphere, troops and planes could be brought in and bases for a powerful invasion set up.

Defense of the Western Hemisphere consists mainly in preserving command of its waters since bombing planes would have to fly across at least 2000 miles of water—the shortest distance between South America and Africa. First of all, the naval bases must form a series of sheltered harbors where a fleet will be safe from weather and enemy submarines. The bases must provide stores of food, fuel, ammunition and spare parts. They must have facilities for repairs, particularly drydocks where ships damaged by torpedoes and shells can be repaired. They should be within 2500 miles of each other since that is the fuel endurance of destroyers, the warships with smallest radius of action. Where they are not close enough, oil tankers must accompany the fleet. Battleships carry sufficient fuel for 15,000 miles but must have the support of destroyers and cruisers for fleet action. The Atlantic Coast of the United States with its many naval bases and stations—Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Washington, Portsmouth and Charleston—is quite secure. For the Gulf, there are Pensacola and Guantanamo, Cuba, with the New Orleans base to be reopened soon. The Panama Canal, strategic link between Pacific and Atlantic, is heavily fortified and in every way a good fleet base. In the Pacific, San Francisco, San Diego and Puget Sound are fleet concentration points with little Unalaska a big factor as an air and flotilla base. Pearl Harbor, at Honolulu, is the key to the United States defenses in the Pacific. The frontier lies along the Unalaska-Midway-Wake-Canton-Samoa air patrol.

The South American bases and stations on the Atlantic side begin with Brazil and its harbors of Para, Pernambuco and Rio de Janeiro, most spacious harbor in the world. Argentina is well supplied with Buenos Aires, Puerto Belgrano and Rio Santiago, near La Plata. Rio Santiago can drydock the largest battleships, as can Puerto Belgrano. On the Pacific side, Chile has Talcahuano, which can drydock warships of all sizes, and Valparaiso, which can take only destroyers. Callao, near Lima, Peru, is the only naval station between Valparaiso and the Panama Canal.

Argentina, possessing two battleships, each mounting 12 12-inch guns, two fine cruisers, completed in 1929, nine destroyers and three submarines, has the best naval force of the South American countries. The most powerful battleship in Southern waters is Chile's 32,000-ton Almirante Latorre, mounting 10 14-inch guns. But Chile is inadequate in light craft, having no cruisers, nine destroyers and three submarines. Brazil has two 20,000-ton battleships mounting 12 12-inch guns that were commissioned back in 1910 but modernized in 1934. She has, however, only two small cruisers, one destroyer, and one submarine.

In addition, alliance with these countries would give the United States access to the 21 "strategic" materials in some of which she is deficient. Brazil would supply the highly valuable manganese and also rubber. Argentina could supply great quantities of wool and hides. Bolivia is the leading producer of tin. Mexico has huge quantities of oil that could be shipped to Atlantic ports more readily than by rail from the midcontinent fields.

Means of making the common defense of the Western Hemisphere more secure are to be discussed at the Pan-American conference that will open on December 9 at Lima, Peru.

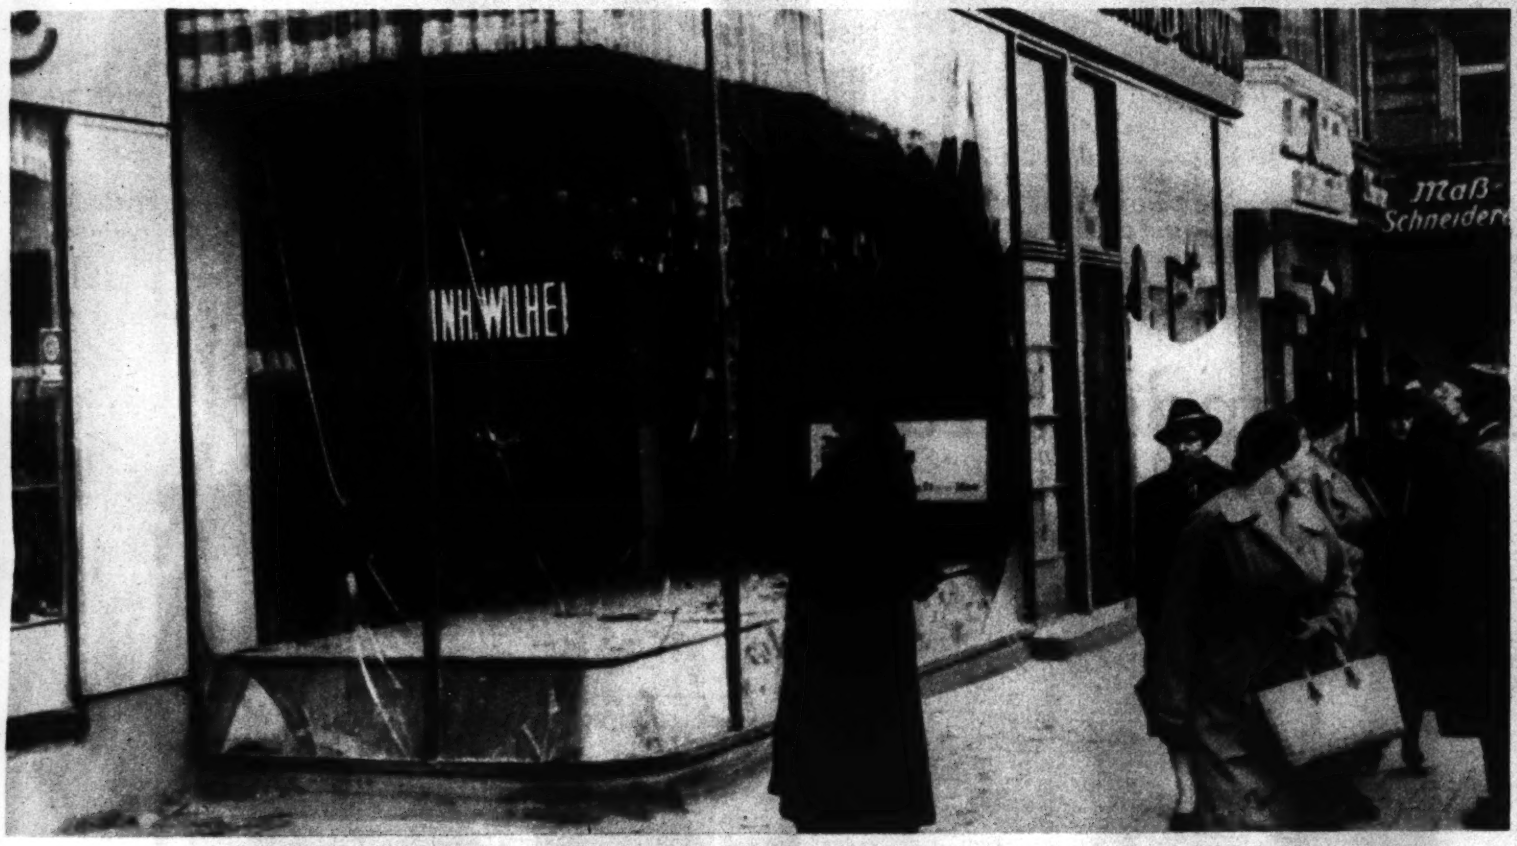
Nazi Anti-Semitic Attacks Reach New Intensity



Another Berlin store front punished by Nazis in the latest outburst for being in the service of a Jew.

THE outburst of persecution of Jews set off in Germany by a Jewish youth's assassination of the third secretary of the German Embassy in Paris has been the most intense and widespread of any since Hitler became ruler of the Reich. It has followed, however, much the same technique as previous anti-Semitic campaigns waged by the Nazis: Various official decrees and orders depriving Jews of civil rights and possessions, and many unofficial attacks—unrestrained by Government authority—on their persons and property. In the latest orgy of Nazi terrorism, many thousands of Jews have been arrested, many thousands stripped of property, jobs, business—rendered destitute—while marauding Nazi bands have wrecked stores and homes, burned synagogues, seized the chattels and beaten the bodies of their Semitic fellow countrymen. The Hitler government, not content with such basic measures as closing all retail business to Jews after January 1, has even seen fit to forbid them to make bets or use bridle paths.

Already there are indications that the instigators of the persecutions may discover it was a tactical error, for public opinion in democratic countries, notably the United States and Great Britain, has been so outraged by the persecution that a disastrous drop in Germany's already dwindling foreign trade may result.

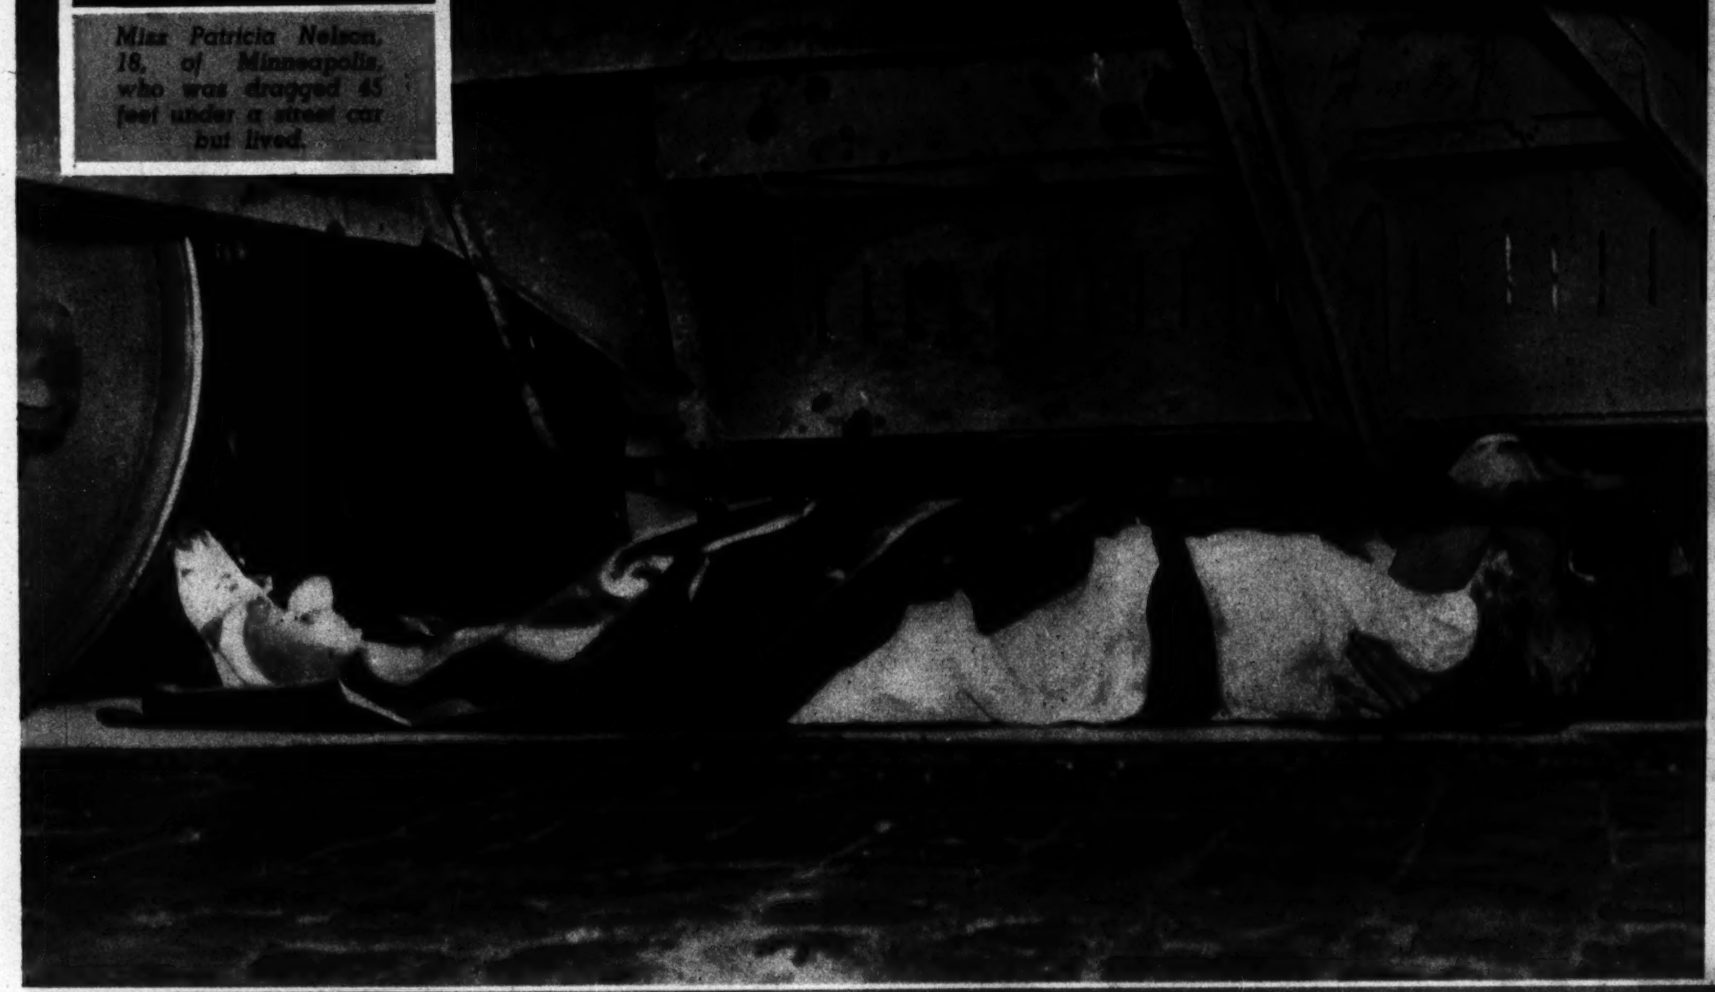
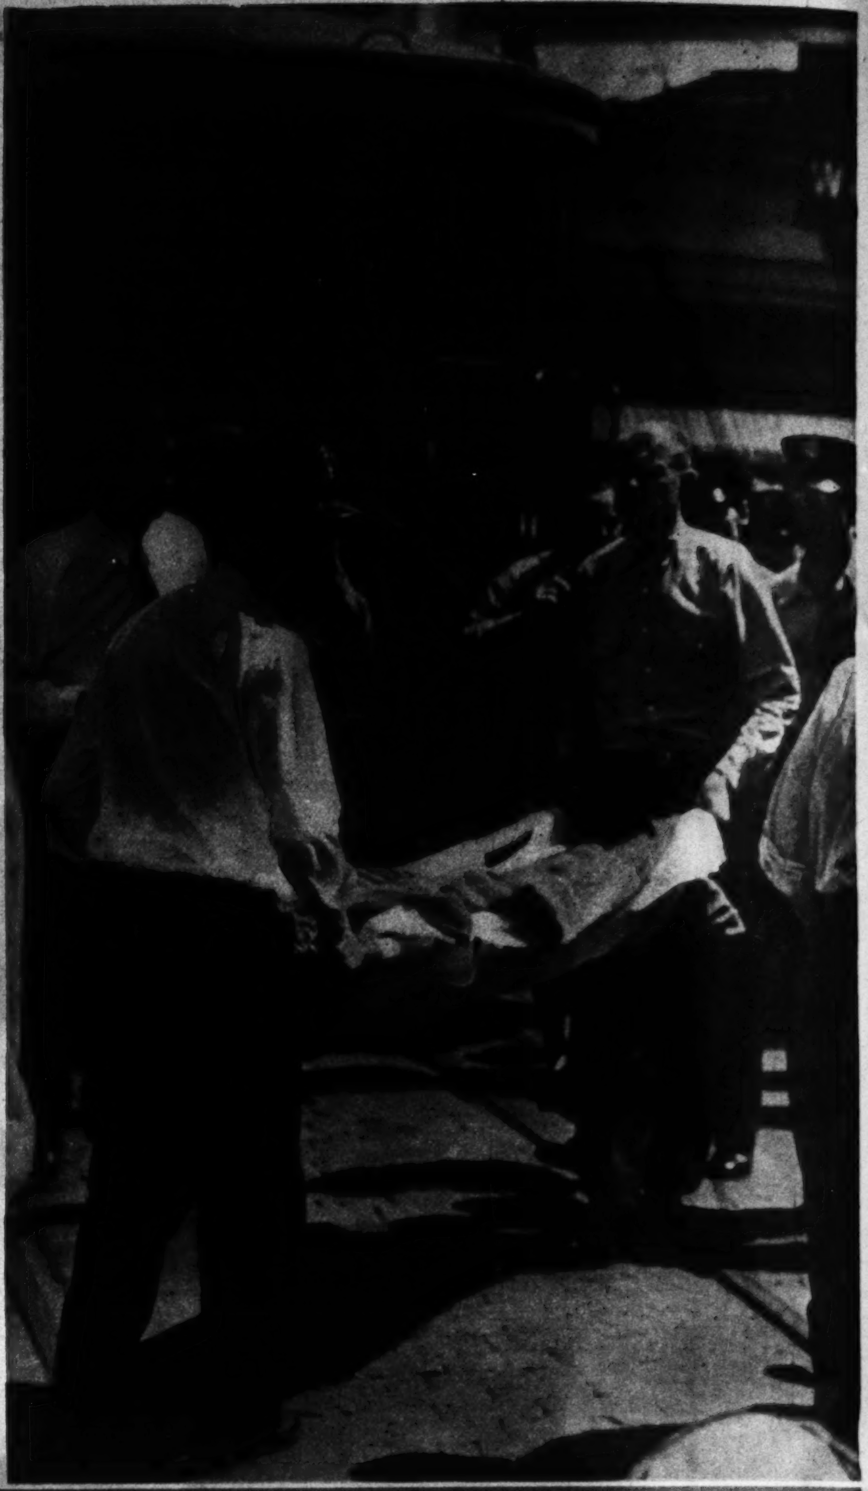
Dragged 45 Feet by Street Car and Still Lives





One of the most unusual accidents ever photographed. The girl lay for 15 minutes like this under the street car in Minneapolis while rescuers jacked up the car. She had been thrown from her bicycle in a collision with the car, pinned under the rear platform, and dragged 45 feet before the car stopped. A huge crowd gathered and a priest was called for last rites.

But in a hospital it was discovered that she hadn't even lost consciousness, but had been unable to talk while being rescued. Attorneys claim she suffered permanent injury to right arm, hip, and spine.

Prince Finds 'True Love' at Last

Prince Luis and his 81-year-old wife, whom he says he will divorce so he may marry Thelma Atterbury.

PRINCE LUIS FERDINAND d'ORLEANS-BOURBON, first cousin of ex-King Alfonso of Spain, has at last found true love, or so he says. In 1929, the Prince, who had been stripped of his titles by Alfonso five years before and expelled from France because of a scandal there, became the betrothed of Mabelle Gilman Corey, former musical comedy star and divorced wife of a steel king. She was about 50, and he about 40 years old. She had a fortune of $2,000,000. But a misunderstanding about a marriage settlement caused cancelation of the wedding. Two years later the Prince married the Princess de Broglie, of a French royalist family. She was 73 and also had $2,000,000. The marriage was strenuously opposed by her children and grandchildren in a legal action, but the court refused to prevent it after a hearing during which she asserted, "I want to spend a few happy years before I die." Now the Prince has announced, in New York, that he will divorce the Princess and marry Thelma Atterbury, one-time Ziegfeld Follies dancer who is about 33.

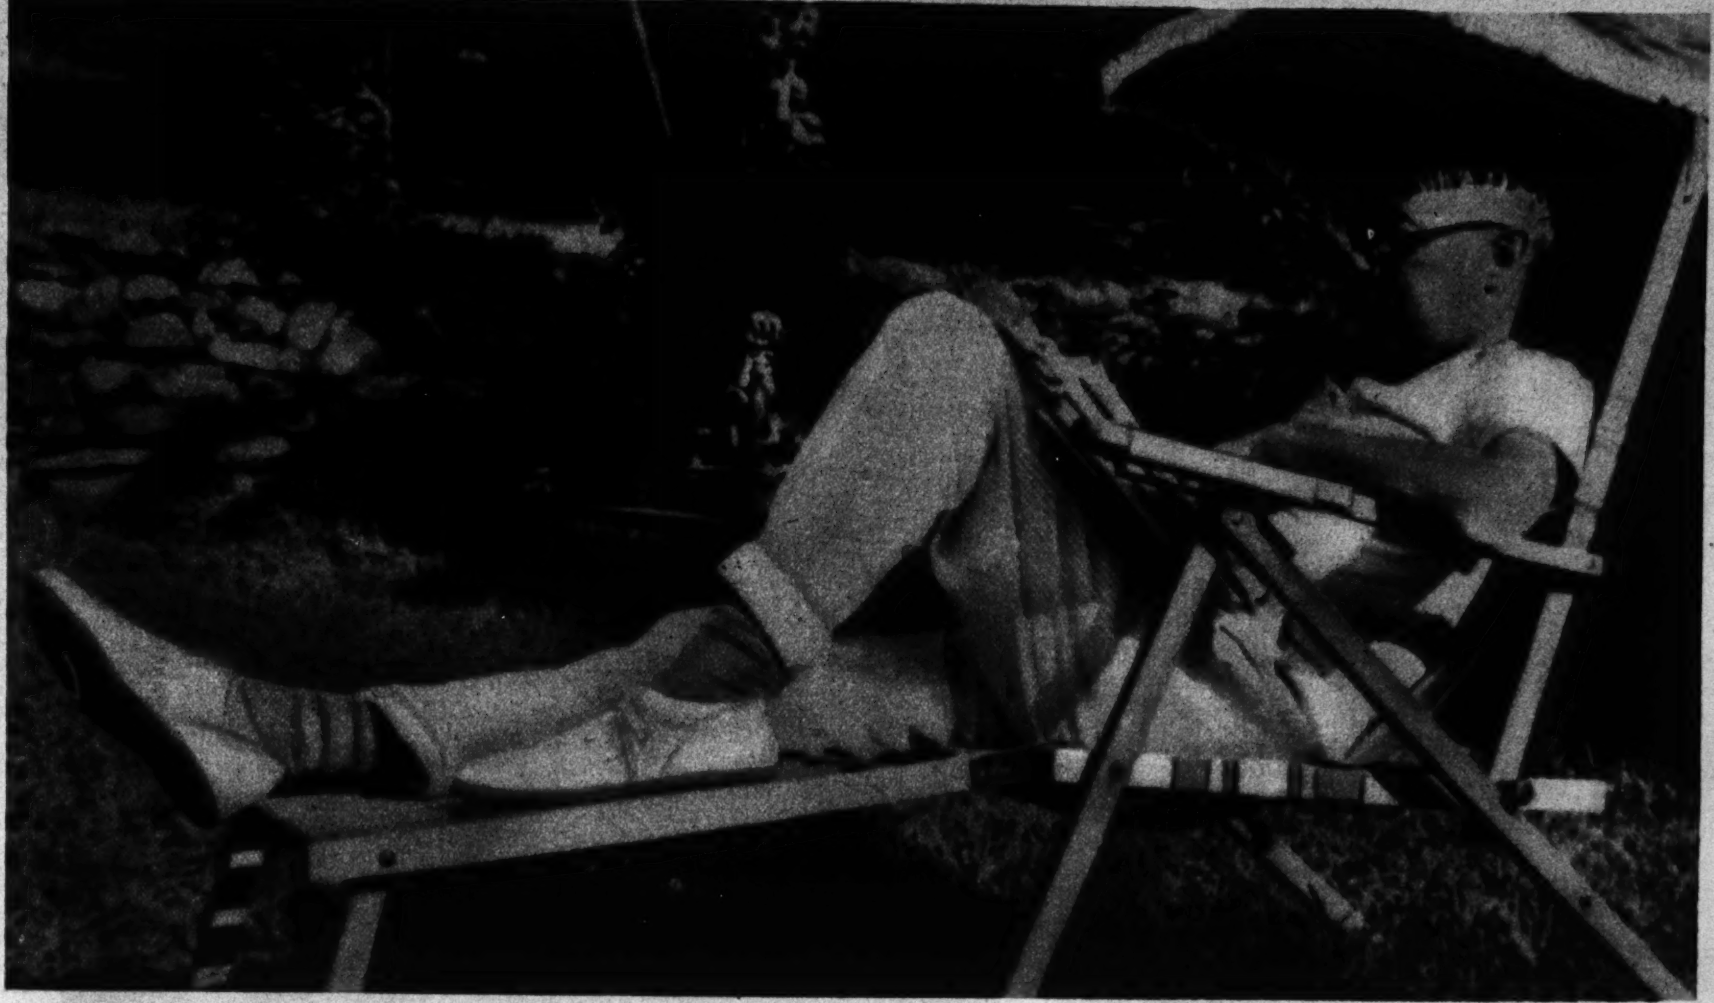
Helped Her Husband Commit Suicide

Now thick-lensed spectacles and a frown of concern disguise the comeliness indicated in this photograph of Mrs. Marie Burckhalter, posed on the porch of her home at Hastings-On-The-Hudson, where she recently assisted in her husband's suicide.



Shortly before Eugene Burckhalter, chemical company president, ended his life with the aid of his wife, this snapshot of him was made. (Associated Press Photo)

A CASE-HARDENED assistant district attorney at White Plains, New York, listened early last week with startled incredulity while a plain, spectacled woman with gray-streaked hair gave an unemotional account of how she had aided her husband to kill himself. It was the calm manner of Mrs. Marie Burckhalter that led the prosecutor, E. T. Gallagher, to continue questioning her after a verdict of suicide was returned in the death of her husband, Eugene, 47-year-old president of the Southern Chemical Corporation, Mount Vernon. He had ended his life Nov. 19 with carbon monoxide gas by running his automobile motor in the closed garage of his Westchester County home.

The original idea of suicide was her husband's, Mrs. Burckhalter insisted, but after she had agreed that it was the thing for him to do, she spared no effort in making the venture successful. Without once shifting her steady gaze from the prosecutor's surprised countenance, she related the sequence of events, beginning with Burckhalter's declaration that fatal Saturday that he wanted to die because he was in ill health and had been drinking heavily. At first she ridiculed him when he made fumbling efforts to lead a hose from exhaust pipe to the car interior. Then realizing he meant business, she set to work like a dutiful wife, completed the physical preparations and, when it appeared that he was losing his nerve, fixed him an eggnog to strengthen his faltering steps toward the garage. Before he reached the door, she used the last exposure on a role of film to take a snapshot of him. Then she went shopping.

Her unusual co-operation left nothing for Burckhalter to do in carrying out his melancholy intention except to close the door and step on the starter. Mrs. Burckhalter had fastened a vacuum cleaner hose to the car to carry the deadly fumes and had pushed the end of the hose through a back window into the car, helping her husband close the air space with paper. When Gallagher learned that she was beneficiary of her husband's $10,000 insurance policy and that the 44-year-old widow had appeared frequently at sporting events and theaters with Melvin Kittel, 34, a salesman, the prosecutor delayed cremation (ordered promptly and "without publicity" by the widow) until analysis of vital organs. Mrs. Burckhalter declined to go to the funeral, saying she didn't believe in funerals.

Pending arraignment Tuesday, Mrs. Burckhalter was held on $10,000 bail, formally charged with manslaughter; Kittel, assuring authorities that he was going to do all within his power for his widowed friend, was held in $2000 bail as a material witness.

The widow Burckhalter, charged with manslaughter under a statute on "abetting a suicide," on bail for hearing Tuesday.

Mrs. Burckhalter went on a 20-minute shopping trip after she fixed the automobile in this garage so her husband could asphyxiate himself. He died shortly after she returned.

She remarried the well-to-do chemical manufacturer in 1936, after a 12-year separation including nine years of divorce. He was 47, she is 44.

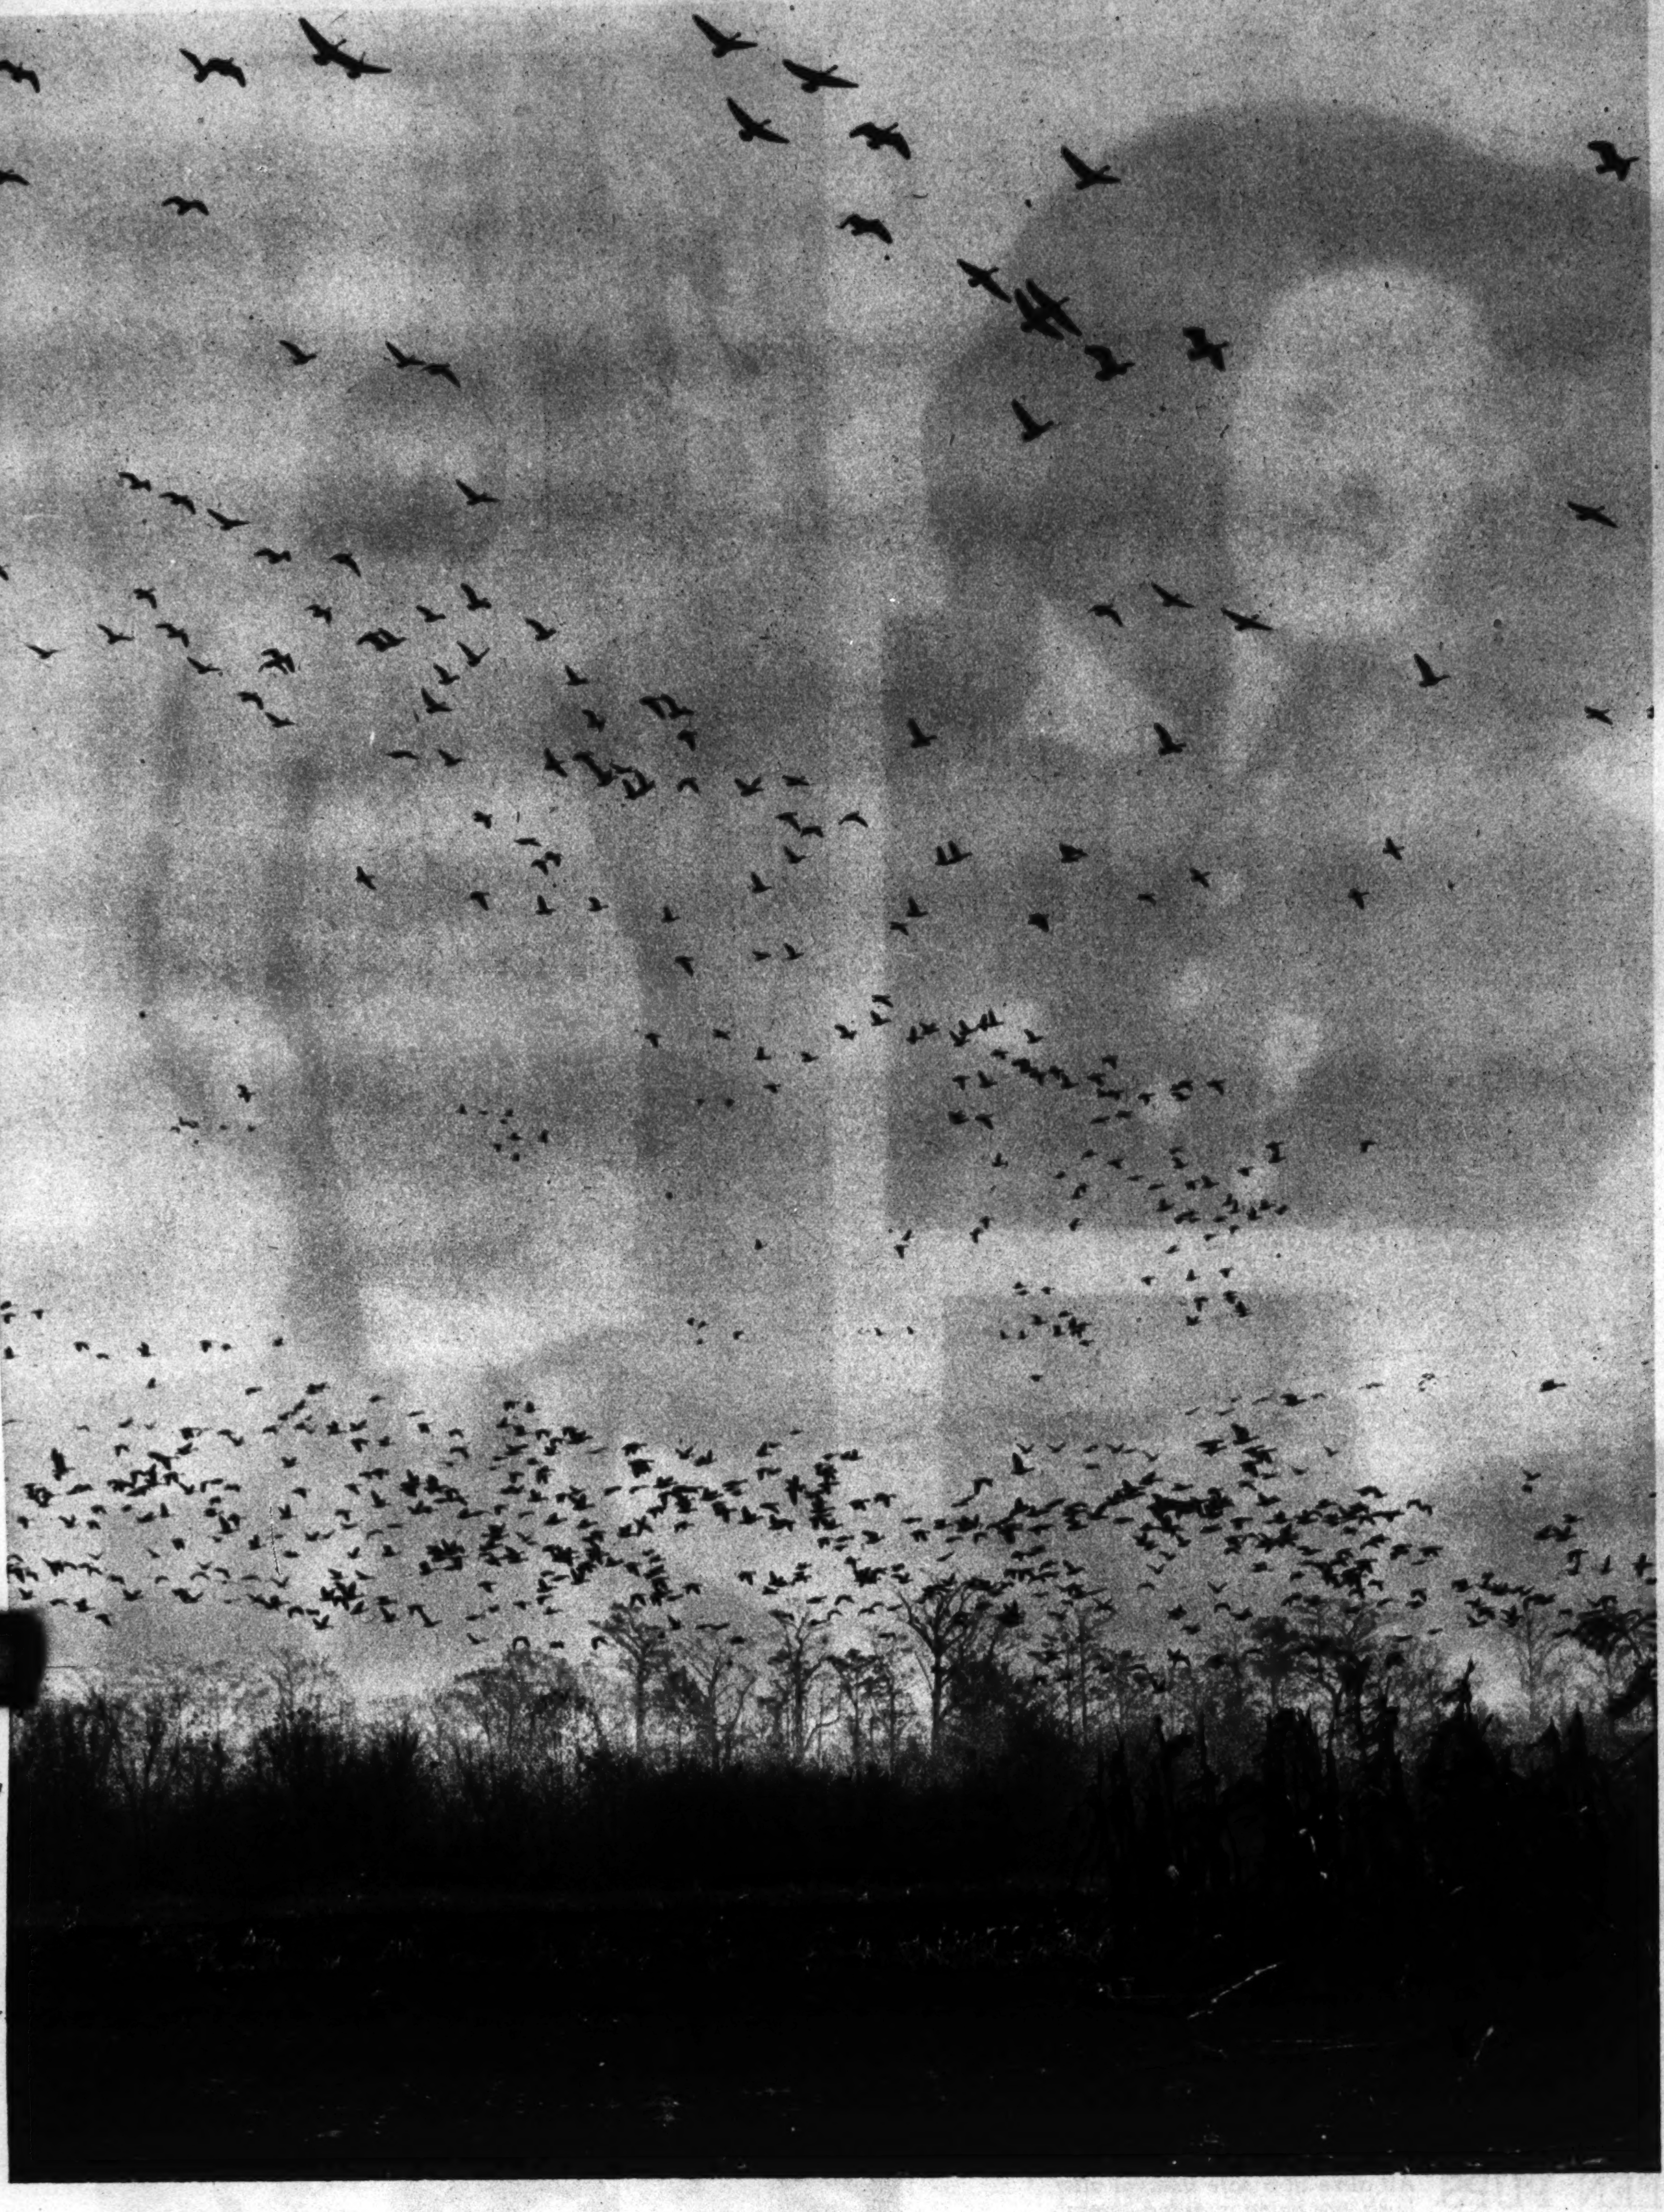
Illinois' Sanctuary for Geese



SINCE 1927 Illinois has maintained a sanctuary for wild geese at Horseshoe Lake, about 15 miles from Cairo. An area of some 3000 swampy acres, actually an island surrounded by a ribbon of water, it has been a natural refuge for wild fowl for generations. Clint Murphy, Post-Dispatch staff photographer, recently made these pictures showing some of the vast flocks of geese which have paused in migration at the sanctuary.

Warm weather this fall delayed the flight of many flocks, reducing considerably the heavy traffic noted in previous years when from 50,000 to 75,000 wild geese were reported at the refuge at once. For the benefit of feathered visitors, Illinois grows wheat, corn, cane cowpeas and other delicacies to tickle a goose's palate.

PAULETTE GODDARD

Progress of a Beautiful Unknown

Engaged, happily married or en route to Reno? She recently signed as "Mrs. Charles Chaplin," ending two years' silence on the subject after announcing her engagement to the famous comedian. Hollywood insiders say she is a cinch for Scarlett.

HER movie past is untriumphant, her present uncertain and her future a matter of speculation. Paulette Goddard was an "unknown" until she appeared about two years ago as Charlie Chaplin's leading lady in a silent picture. She made public her engagement to the comedian while their film, "Modern Times," in which she portrayed a street gamin, was still on the screen. The engagement remained unconfirmed and undenied and if it culminated in marriage, a curious public failed to find out. She entered a golf tournament last July as Mrs. Charles Chaplin, then threw a bone to gossips by announcing she was on her way to Reno to "start a ski club." St. Louis film fans just saw her at Loew's in "The Young in Heart," produced by David O. Selznick, who has viewed with intense pleasure Miss Goddard's screen tests for the coveted role of Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone With the Wind." A movie directory lists her as 27 years old. She will next be seen in "Dramatic School."

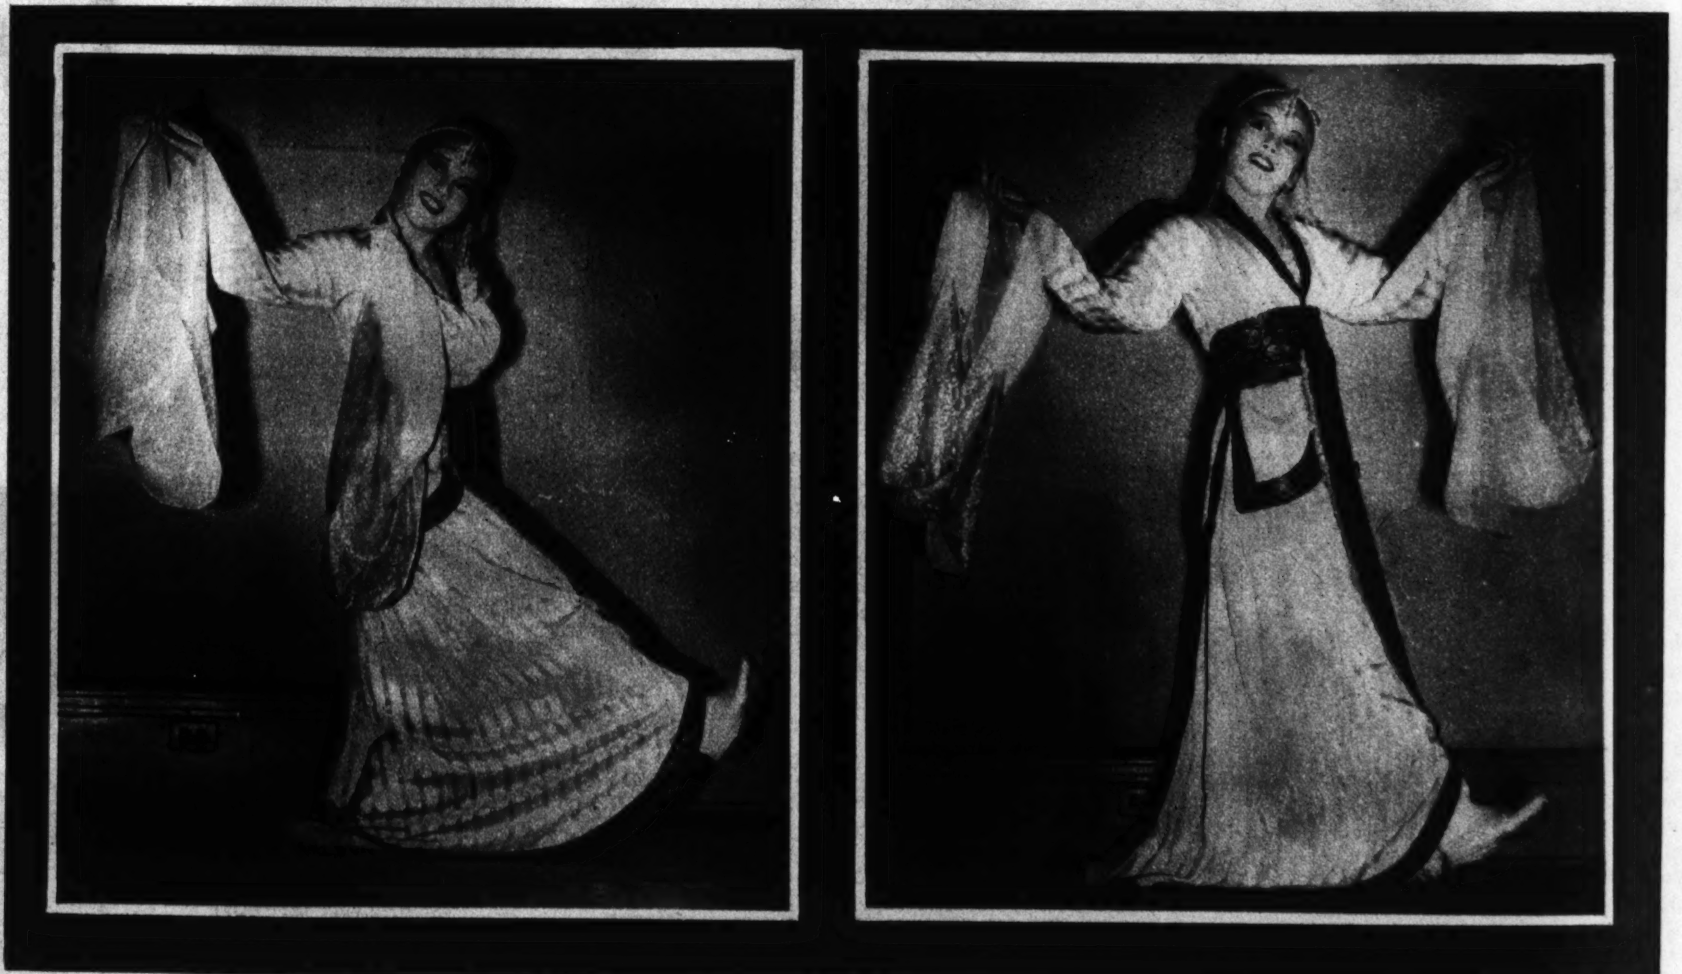
More action for the audience is provided in "Buddhist Temptress." The Korean artist here depicts the conduct of Chinese girl who, in fable, disrupted a Confucian Buddhist monastery.



Suggested by the pattern of an ancient fresco, Sai Shoki brought to Broadway the dance "Fresco of Rakuro."

A LITHE, aloe-eyed maiden from Korea, after several seasons of dancing in the New York theater, still is receiving generous praise from critics who were enthusiastic from the beginning over her distinctive interpretations, combining "the color of Japan, the form of China and the line of Korea,"—in other words, all the mysterious glamour of the Orient. The danseuse, Sai Shoki, having returned Korea to the cultural map, has prolonged her stay in the United States in response to the applause which greeted her unique technique, particularly noted in movements of shoulders, use of the arms and delicate leg action.

MISS ELIZABETH GARRISON MORFIT and Dr. Theodore Eugene Sanders Jr. were married Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Garrison Morfit, 5155 Westminster place. Mrs. Sanders, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mason Morfit of Baltimore and the late Mr. and Mrs. James Long Sloss, is a graduate of Mary Institute, former maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball, and is a member of the Junior League. Her husband, a graduate of the University of Nebraska Medical School, is a member of the Department of Ophthalmology of Washington University School of Medicine. He formerly lived in Omaha, home of his mother, Mrs. Theodore Eugene Sanders.

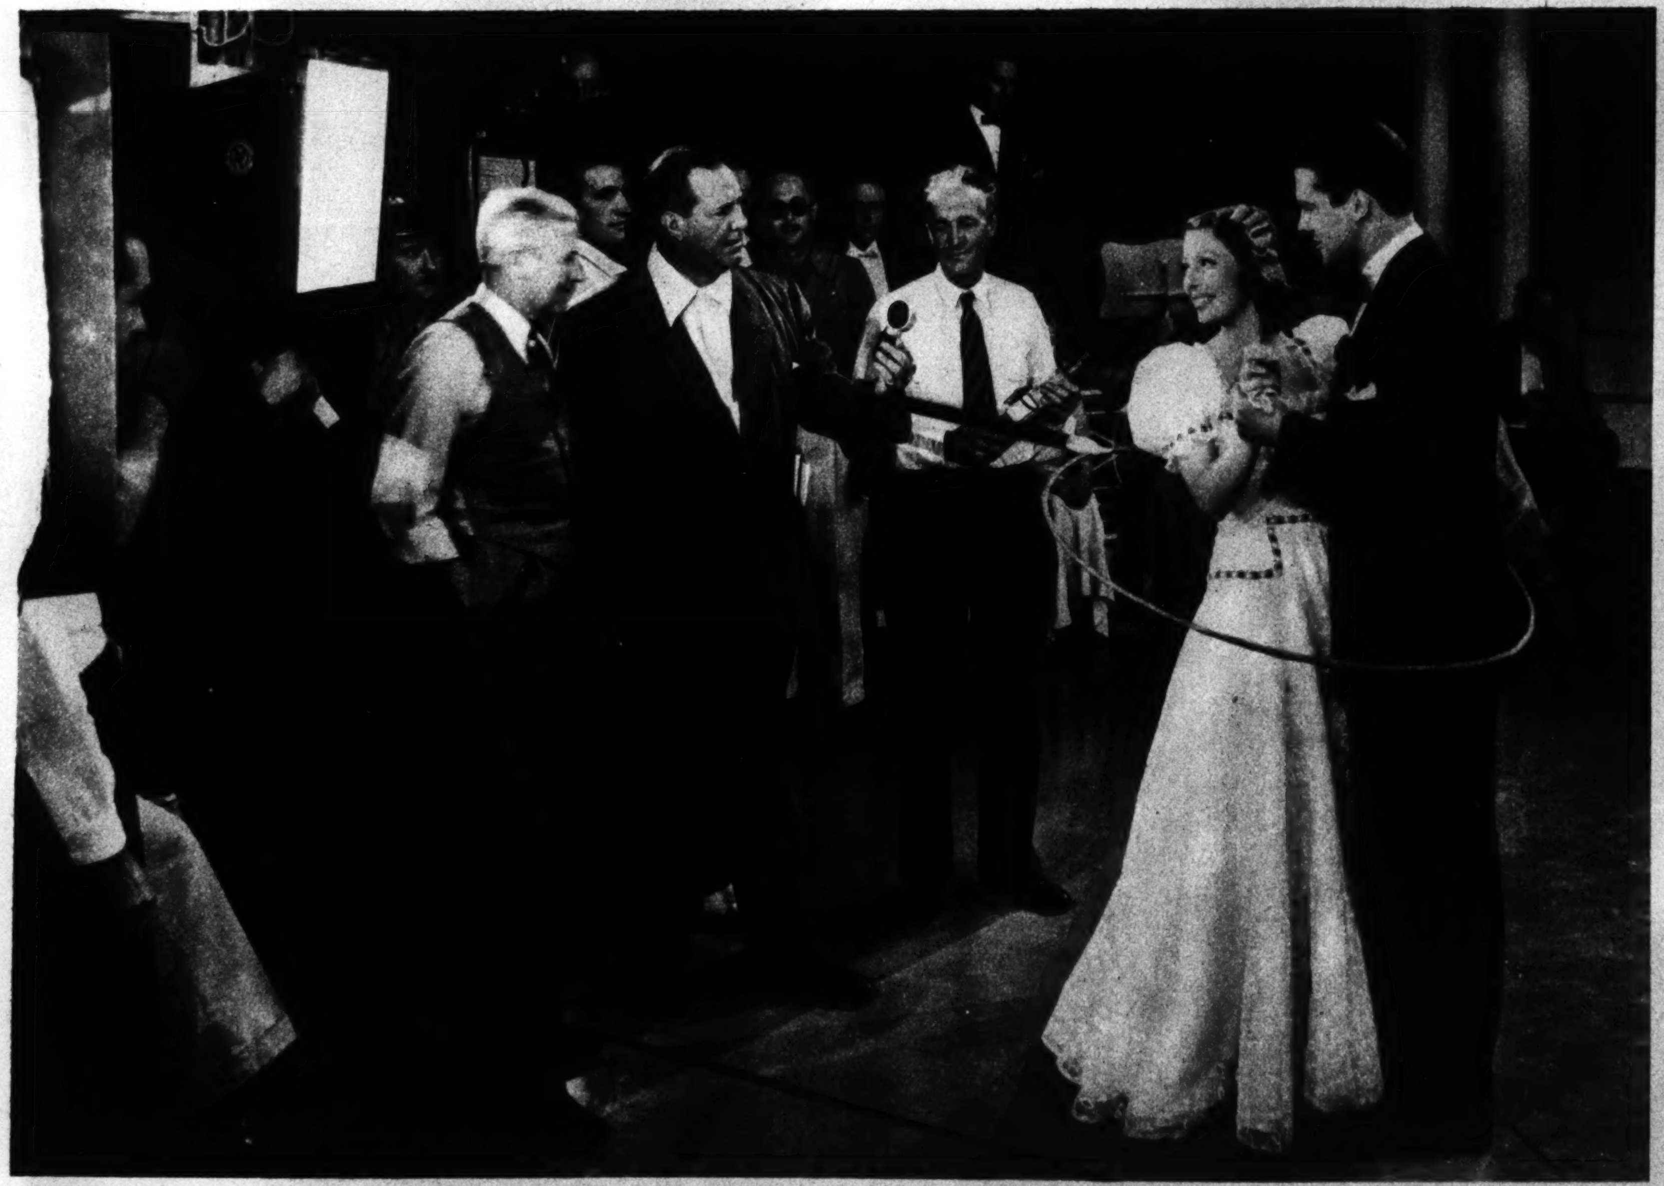
It's All Done by Direction



The movie public is largely unaware of the large number of minor problems that beset directors and cameramen in the making of a picture. Here Director David Butler, with a Technicolor light gauge in hand, has put a hoop around Loretta Young and Richard Greene to keep them in perfect focus as the camera follows them about on wheels during a long dancing scene. The picture is "Kentucky."

'BEAUMONT AND ST. MARTIN'

Dean Cornwell at work in his New York studio on a mural.

FOR the first time in its history, American medicine is being championed by an American artist, Dean Cornwell, illustrator and mural painter, whose heroic canvas "Beaumont and St. Martin" is being exhibited throughout the nation. First in a series depicting "Pioneers of American Medicine," it will be displayed in St. Louis next June at the American Medical Association convention. Dr. William Beaumont, St. Louis surgeon, won fame more than 100 years ago by his studies of the digestive process through observation of Alexis St. Martin, half-breed trapper who became known as the "man with a lid on his stomach." When Beaumont was serving as an army surgeon in Michigan, he treated St. Martin, who had suffered such a gaping stomach wound that it could not be closed. Through this hole, the surgeon literally could watch the functions of the stomach and extract juices for chemical analysis. The painting shows Beaumont with his patient in the trapper's cabin. Other figures are an Indian girl and a baby. Cornwell, born in Louisville, Kentucky, in 1892, tried a little of everything from playing the trumpet as a professional musician to part ownership of a wholesale ice cream plant. He has been a newspaper artist, an illustrator and a mural painter, in the last capacity having painted in the Los Angeles Public Library a mural said to be the largest executed by one man since Michelangelo completed his decorations for the Sistine Chapel.

Performances will be repeated next Saturday night and on December 6 and 8. The group, made up entirely of students, puts on six plays a season. Eugene Wood, head of the school dramatics department, is producer and director. Members of the cast, electricians, property makers and handlers, and business and publicity managers are students enrolled in the senior and junior dramatics courses. Last year, because of certain pungent lines in "The Petrified Forest," the organization was the center of a mild tempest.

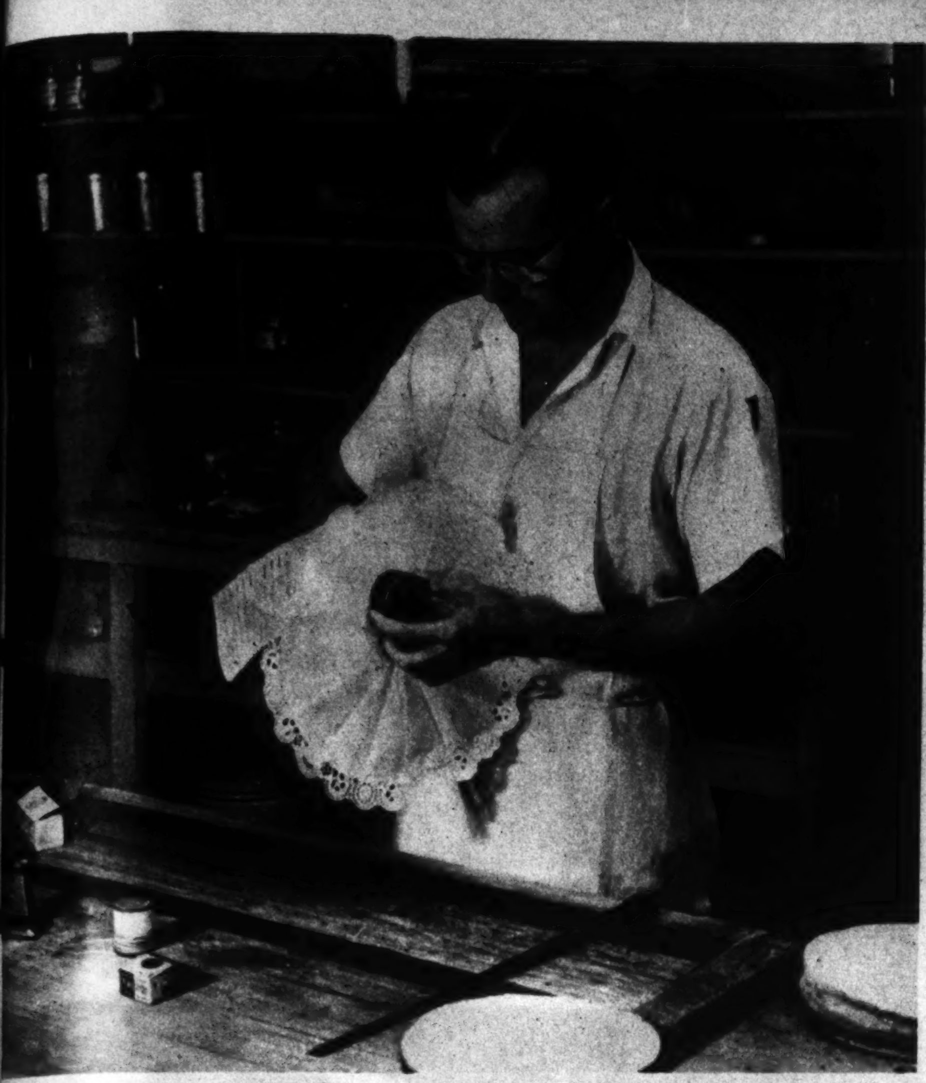
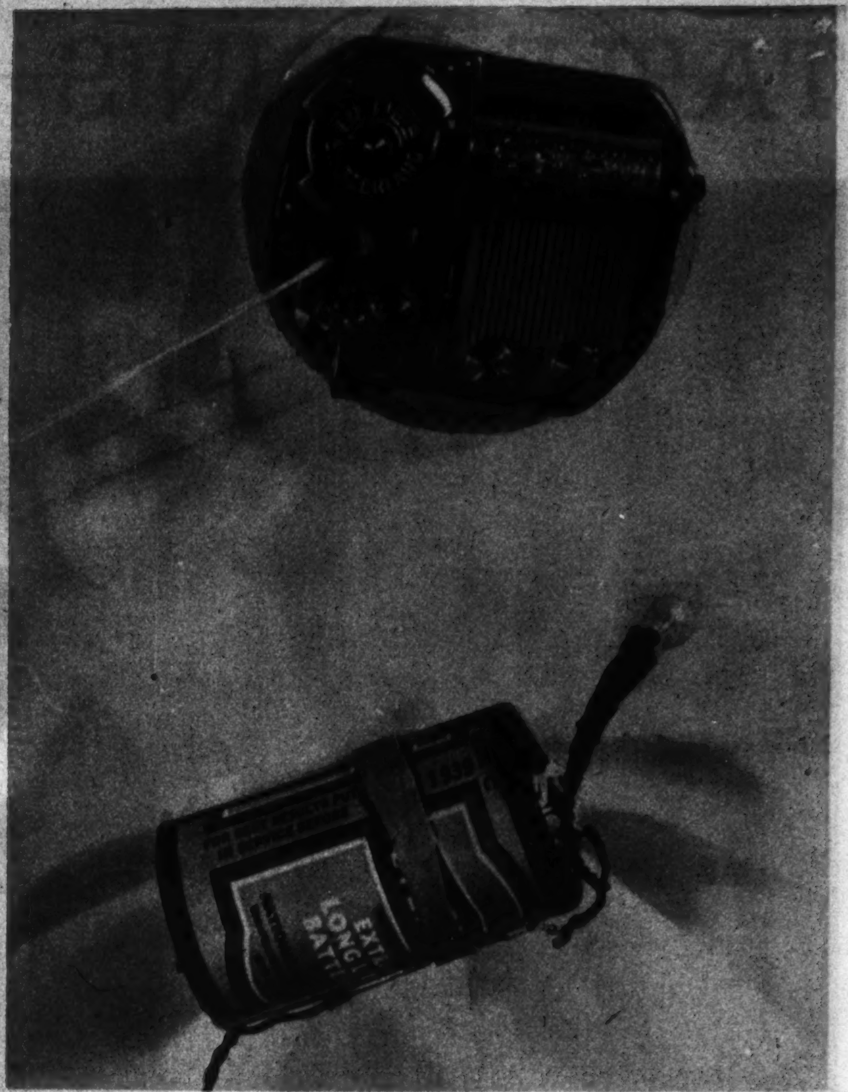
CAKES— with LIGHTS and MUSIC

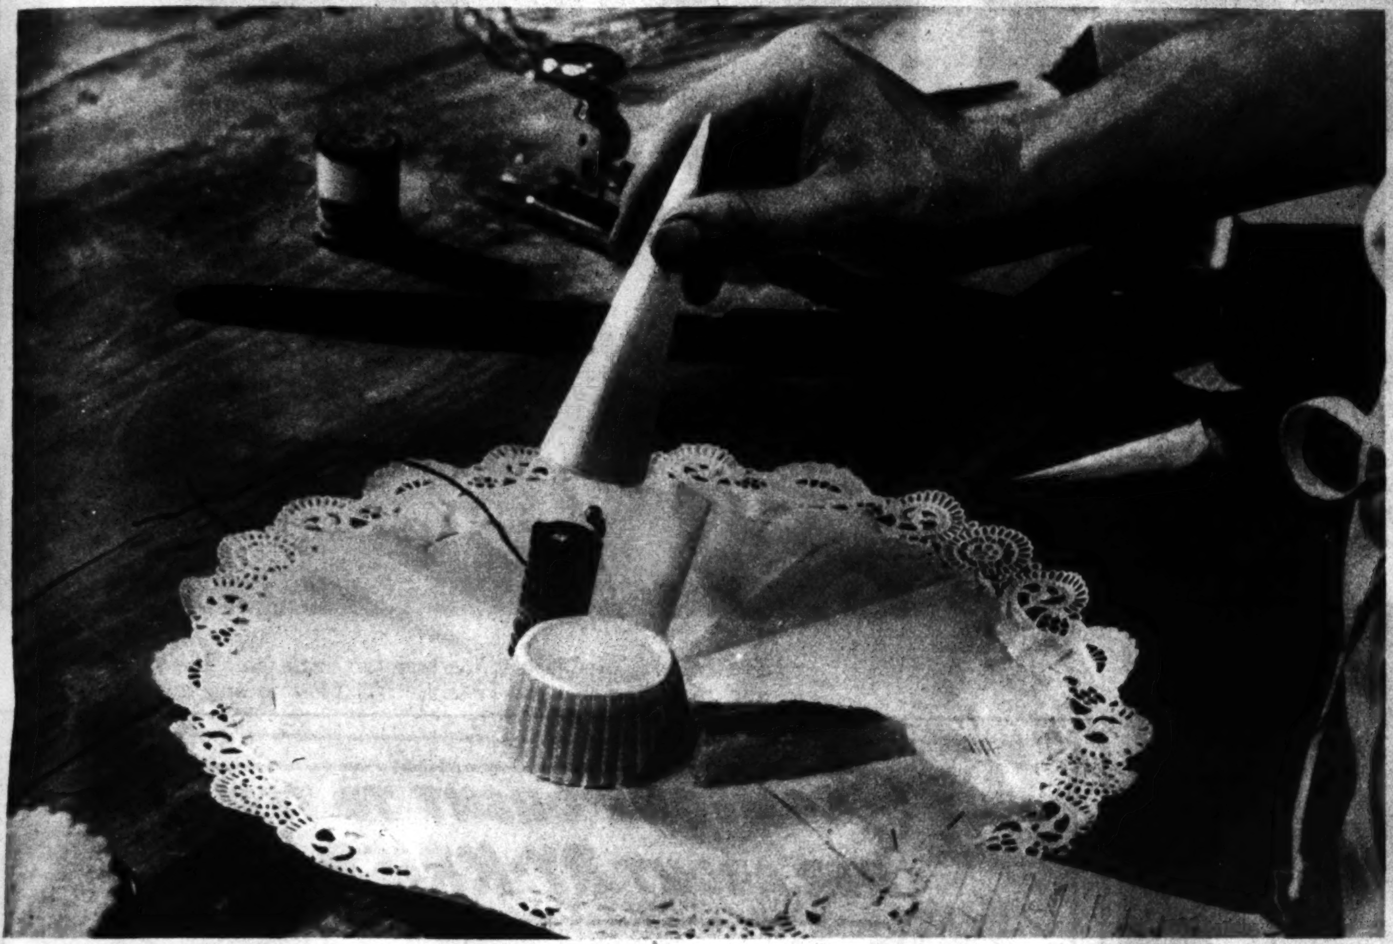


Baker Carl Seagren begins wiring a cake for sound.

ALMOST everyone knows about the Mother Goose pie, baked with four-and-twenty blackbirds that began to sing when the crust was broken. Now, for "a pretty dish to set before a king," cakes are being wired for sound to achieve the same effect. A New York confectioner manufactures cakes, installs decorative illumination and by a neat device conceals in the frosted delicacy a small music box, set to play any one of several tunes. The music box begins to play when the cake is cut. An electrical contact between machine and bulb lights up the pastry. Originator of the idea is Carl Seagren. He also is responsible for novel designs, sketched in jelly, on the icing of cakes.

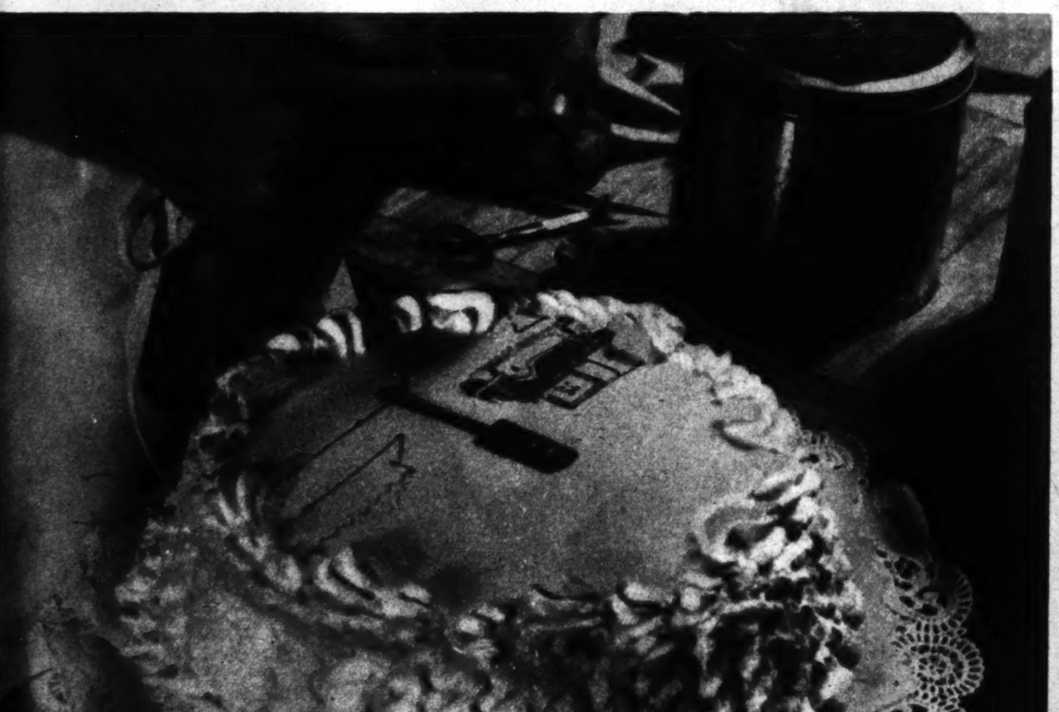


Miniature music box, which begins to play when the knife severs a restraining thread, and battery with light bulb attached.

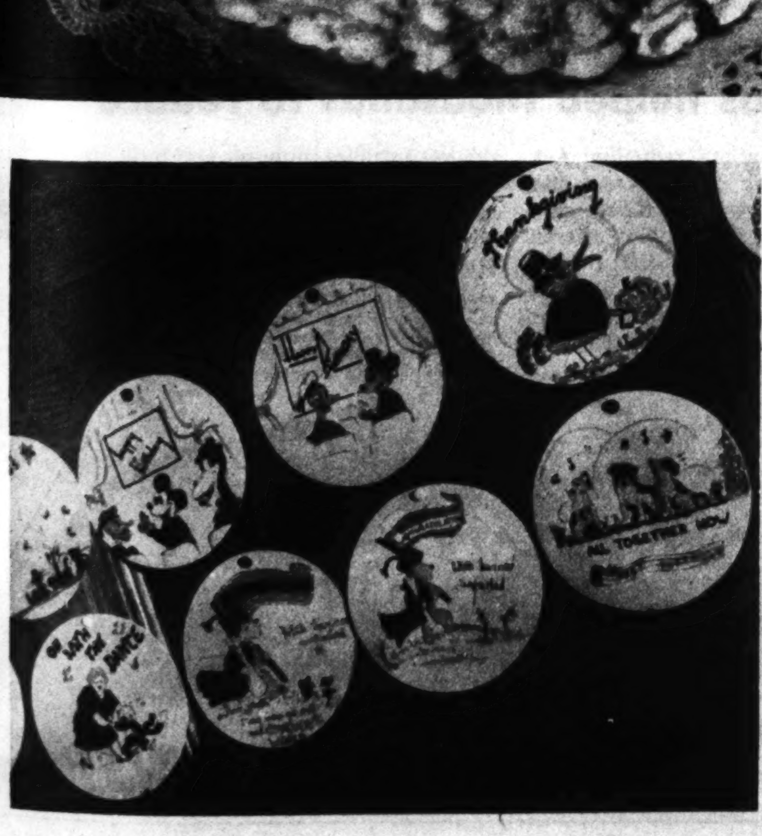


Paper cup and cone cover the box and battery.

Space is made for the mechanical ingredients.



When completed this cake—for a retiring employe of a department store—will show a store truck halted by a red traffic light. His favorite tune will begin when the cake is cut.



Some of the standard designs offered customers. Music boxes play "Happy Birthday," "Easter Parade," "Flying Trapeze," "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," other tunes.

1. Take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore from cold, dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in 1/3 glass of water and gargle.

3. If temperature does not go down—if throat pain is not quickly relieved—Call your family doctor.

HERE is a bit of sensible advice on what to do to relieve the symptoms of a cold the moment you feel a cold coming on.

Just follow the pictured directions above: Take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water — instantly. Next — dissolve three Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third of a glass of water and gargle with this mixture twice. Do this at once to relieve the pain, rawness and symptoms of sore throat accompanying colds almost immediately. THEN — because any cold can lead to serious consequences . . . SEE YOUR DOCTOR. He will tell you what treatment to follow.

In all probability, he will tell you to continue with the Bayer Aspirin because it acts to relieve the painful discomforts of a cold with remarkable speed. And because it acts to reduce fever.

This simple treatment has largely supplanted the use of strong medicines in the treatment of cold symptoms. And thousands will tell you it is the simplest and most effective method yet discovered.

When you buy, always ask for "BAYER ASPIRIN" by its full name — never ask for "aspirin" alone. Take this precaution to be sure you get the genuine Bayer.

PAINS—Fast-acting Bayer Tablets are used by millions on doctors' advice for fast relief of Headache — pain from Rheumatism, Neuritis, Neuralgia.

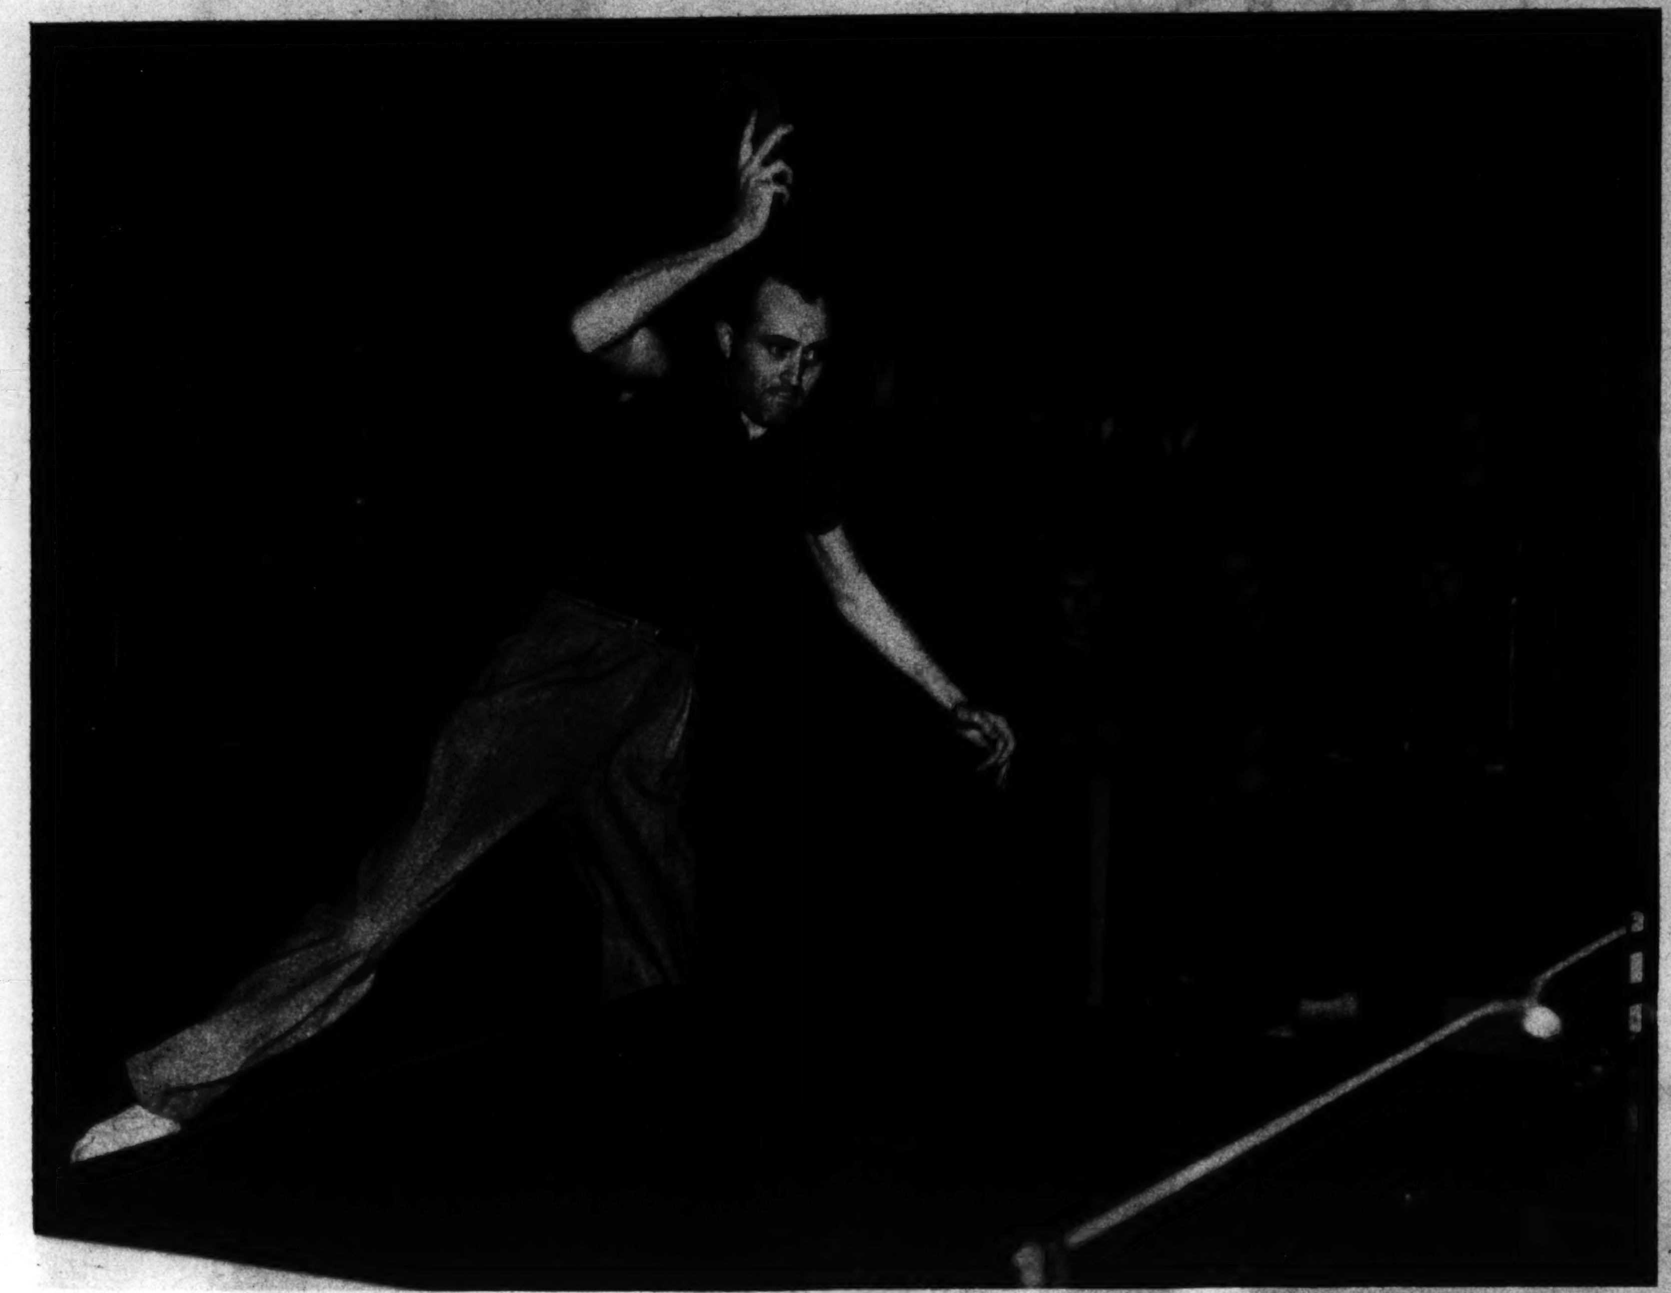
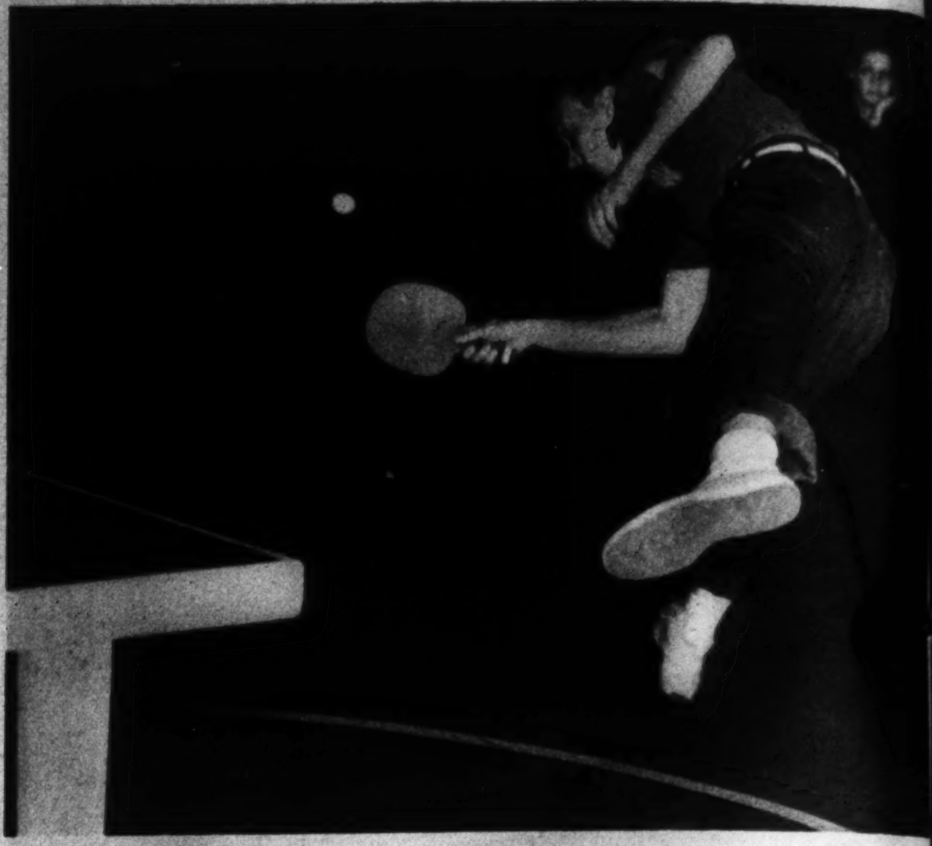
TABLE TENNIS—Champion Stuff



This high-speed flashlight photograph shows the ball hit the net, still depressed by force of the shot. Sandor Glancz is exhibiting.

UNINITIATED spectators who watched play in the two-day table tennis tournament ending a week ago at St. Louis University Gymnasium were astounded by the vigor required for the game. More commonly known as "ping pong," a trade name popularized by the copyright owner, the game for years suffered from the misconception that it was a "sissy" pastime. A demonstration by experts is convincing contrary evidence.



Jimmy McClure of Indianapolis, co-holder of the world's doubles title, is caught off balance in the St. Louis University Gymnasium.

The colorful McClure takes one far back from the table and makes a brilliant return. His play is spectacular.

Glancz, New York expert, hastens to pick one from table's edge.

Sure and steady, the play of Bohumil Vana, 18-year-old Czechoslovakian, affords less excitement but wins championships. He's the world's singles champion. And he won from both his fellow exhibitors in St. Louis.

McClure swings it, and the speed camera catches the ball as it passes directly above the net.

Fast footwork—in reverse — enables Glancz to keep the ball in play after handling this difficult return.

SOMEONE OUGHT TO TELL HER ABOUT RY-KRISP
ABNER DEAN

Overweight? Try this new, safe plan which has helped thousands to reduce Forget all your old ideas about reducing. Ask your grocer for a package of Ry-Krisp and start losing weight the proven Ry-Krisp way. This method, explained in the booklet offered below, involves no hard-to-follow diet, no exhausting exercise. Just eat sensibly, exercise moderately and eat 2 or 3 Ry-Krisp wafers at each meal as your exclusive bread. Ry-Krisp is important because each wafer has only 20 calories yet supplies minerals and bulk often lacking in reducing diets. Best of all, these whole rye wafers have a hearty tang and goodness your whole family will enjoy. So start now to serve Ry-Krisp at every meal.

FREE REDUCING BOOKLET. Amazing new booklet explains how an average individual can enjoy his own choice of foods and still lose ¼ pound a day. Send for booklet today, stating whether it is for man or woman. Address Ry-Krisp, 3426 Checkerboard Square, St. Louis. Offer is good only in U. S. and Canada.

To protect you, the name Ry-Krisp is baked in every wafer. Accept no substitute.

ASYLUM for ORPHAN DEER

This baby, only 10 hours old, was found hidden here in a dense thicket.

YOUNG deer get almost as much care as babies in the Pisgah National Forest Game Refuge in North Carolina. The United States Forest Service nurtures several hundred fawns each year under scrupulously sanitary conditions and protects them from predatory animals until they are big and fleet enough to watch out for themselves in the forest.

Fred Ruff, forest service technician, occasionally has to administer a dose of castor oil to a fawn. His young son watches with deep sympathy.

Instead of a wildcat, it's a Federal game warden who finds him. Natives of the district are paid $4 for every fawn they find alive.

And the fawn is placed in a nursery pen along with others of his size. Expert care keeps the death rate of the fawns down to five per cent, although they are very susceptible to disease.

Lunch from the bottle. And it's pasteurized milk.

LET OTHERS BOIL!

Freeze-up is a major hazard of winter driving. Put in "Eveready" "Prestone" anti-freeze, and your car has guaranteed protection all winter long!

Put in ordinary anti-freeze, and you keep worrying, checking and replacing lost anti-freeze, even if you escape costly freeze-ups.

HERE'S THE BIG DIFFERENCE:

"Prestone" anti-freeze can stand engine heat as well as winter's cold. It will not boil off. It contains no alcohol. It stays put when ordinary anti-freezes boil away.

You can have more fun this winter. You can really protect the other drivers in the family as well as yourself, from freeze-up troubles. And you can do it economically, because you only buy "Prestone" anti-freeze once-a-winter.

Smile with "Prestone" anti-freeze, let others boil!

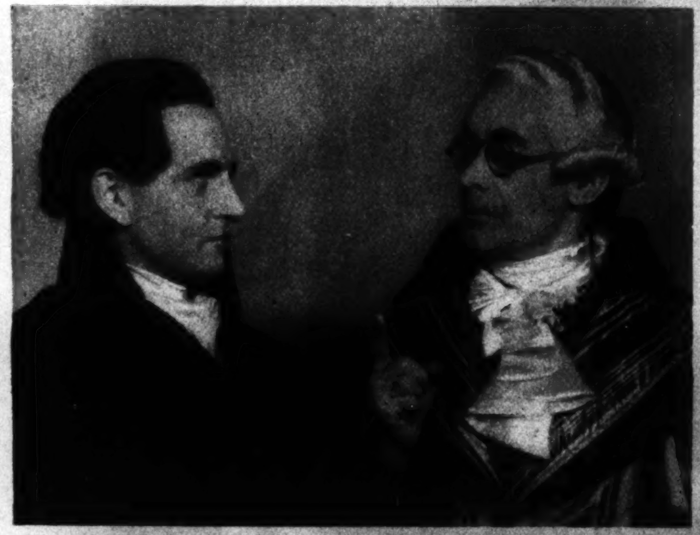
THE LONG DEAD GREAT RETURN VIA THE STAGE

CHARACTERS out of history have been fairly swarming on the stages of New York theaters this season. Peter Stuyvesant, Abraham Lincoln, Oscar Wilde, Robespierre and Marie Antoinette are among the public figures of the past whose careers have been contributing to the entertainment of 1938 theater-goers. Some of the historical plays are established box office hits, notably Maxwell Anderson's "Knickerbocker Holiday," a musical show.

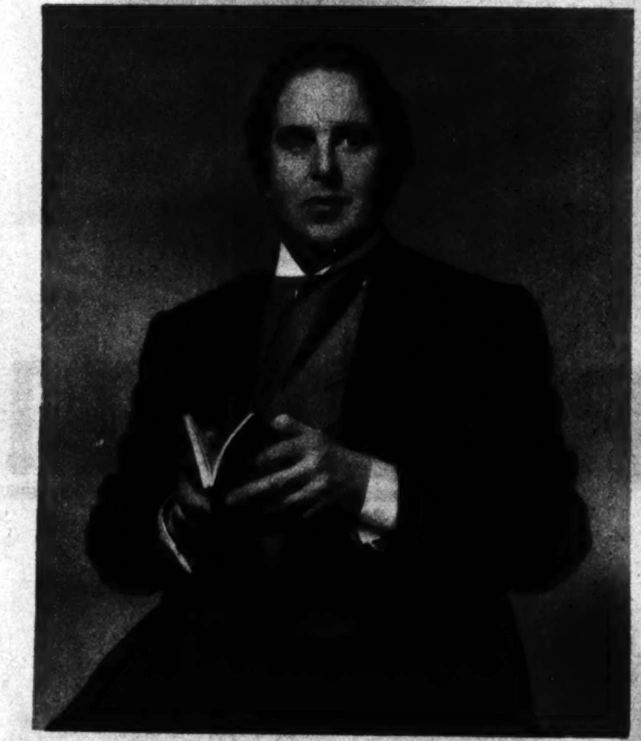
Walter Huston as one-legged Peter Stuyvesant of New York in "Knickerbocker Holiday."

Raymond Massey (an Englishman) in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," by Robert E. Sherwood.

Eva LeGallienne, the Marie Antoinette of "Madame Capet," historical play that failed.



Martin Gable as Danton and Alexander Sokoloff (gray wig) as Robespierre in Orson Welles' Mercury Theater play, "Danton's Death."



Robert Morley in title role, "Oscar Wilde."

Ray Middleton plays Washington Irving in Maxwell Anderson's "Knickerbocker Holiday."

PLUMB TREACHEROUS, THEM FUDDYS— YE CAIN'T TRUST ONE O'EM 'ROUND A BEND IN THE ROAD!
WHAT HAPPENED? DID THEY AMBUSH YOU?
I RECKON THET WAS IT— LEASTWAYS, HE WAR A-SQUATTIN' BEHINT A BUSH!
TSK-TSK-TSK— AS TREACHEROUS AS A RATTLE-SNAKE—TELL ME ABOUT IT!
WAL, I WAR A-HUNTIN' OVER TOTHER SIDE O' THE MOUNTING WHEN I SPIED ME A FUDDY, A-TRAIPSIN' 'LONG, ALL ONSUSPECTIN' LIKE—
YES, GO ON—
WAL, SEZ I TO M'SE'F, HYAR'S A CHANCET T' GIT ME A FUDDY— SO I EASES BEHINT A TREE AN' PULLS A KEERFUL BEAD ON 'IM—
BUT YOU'RE THE ONE WHO GOT SHOT!
THET'S WHAR THE SNEAKIN' PART COMES IN—
AFORE I COULD SQUEEZE THE TRIGGER, SOME PESKY FUDDY UPS AN' POPS ME F'M BEHINT A BUSH —NOW THET'S WHUT I CALLS PLAIN LOW-DOWN TREACHERY!

I'VE GOT TO EARN SOME MONEY, IF I EXPECT TO STAY IN SCHOOL, BUD
MY TUITION IS PAID FOR THE WHOLE YEAR, NED, BUT MY PINE-APPLE SUNDAE FUND IS MIGHTY LOW
IF COACH BRANT HADN'T ADVISED MY DAD TO STOP MY ALLOWANCE, I'D BE SITTING PRETTY
THERE MUST BE A LOT OF PERSONAL SERVICES COLLEGE STUDENTS COULD PERFORM—
NED—THAT'S IT—A PERSONAL SERVICE BUREAU!
YOU MEAN WE'D SUPPLY STUDENTS WITH ALL SORTS OF THINGS?
YOU MEAN YOU'D SEE THAT I GOT UP IN THE MORNING?
RIGHT, JAKE—WE'D SEND A FRESHMAN OVER TO PULL OFF THE COVERS—WE'D CHARGE A QUARTER, 10 CENTS TO THE FRESHMAN AND 15 CENTS TO THE BUREAU
SUPPOSING I WANT A FOURTH PLAYER FOR A BRIDGE GAME
IN THAT CASE WE'D SEND TWO FRESHMEN—ONE TO PLAY AND ONE TO SHUFFLE THE CARDS FOR YOU
THIS IS BIG—COLOSSAL—STUPENDOUS! LET'S CALL GAIL DONALDSON AND GET THE WOMAN'S ANGLE!
SAY, WE'LL GET RICH—WE'LL ENDOW INSTITUTIONS AND ALL THAT SORT OF THING!
IF A STUDENT DOESN'T LIKE HIS HIGHER MATHEMATICS, WE'LL STUDY HIS LESSONS FOR HIM
SURE, AND IF IT EMBARRASSES HIM TO GET FLUNKED IN TRIGONOMETRY, WE'LL DO HIS BLUSHING FOR HIM
FOR EXAMPLE, JAKE, IF THAT GIVES YOU A HEADACHE, WE'LL GET SPOTS BEFORE OUR EYES FOR YOU!
BONG!
THERE YOU ARE—A CONCRETE EXAMPLE OF WHAT WE MEAN!
I CAME AS FAST AS MY SHAPELY FEET WOULD CARRY ME—WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?
LISTEN, GAIL—THIS WILL AMAZE YOU—ABSOLUTELY STARTLE YOU OUT OF YOUR MOCCASINS!
SERIOUSLY, YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING THERE
WE'LL REMEMBER PEOPLE'S WEDDING ANNIVERSARIES FOR THEM!
ANYBODY GOT AN ASPIRIN?
IF WE CAN'T DO IT, WE'LL HAVE IT DONE—THAT'LL BE OUR MOTTO!

YA KNOW, MY FATHER IS VERY PECULIAR IN LOTS O'WAYS.
WHAT'S ONE O'THEM?
WELL, FOR INSTANCE, MAMA USED TO SAY THAT HE'D BUY TICKETS FOR A SHOW AN' THEN ALWAYS TAKE HER ON THE WRONG NIGHT.
AN' THEN WHEN THE USHER WOULD POINT IT OUT TO HIM, TELLIN' HIM HE WAS KEEPIN' OTHER PEOPLE WAITIN', HE'D ARGUE WITH THE USHER. MAMA ALWAYS SAYS THAT SHE WENT TO A LOT O'THEATERS, BUT SHE NEVER SAW A SHOW.
HOW DOES PAPA REMEMBER WHEN TO GO TO WORK AN' WHEN TO QUIT?
OH, HE GOT RAISED TO A VERY HIGH POSITION JUST 'CAUSE HE USED TO STAY LATE AN' FORGET TO GO HOME UNTIL THE OFFICE CLEANERS MADE HIS DESK AN ISLAND IN THE MOPPIN'.
WHAT'S ANOTHER PECUNIARITY OF YOUR FATHER'S?
WELL, HE USED TO PUT MONEY IN STRANGE PLACES AN' THEN FORGET WHERE HE PUT IT.
FOR INSTANCE, HE PUT FIVE DOLLARS IN A BOOK IN THE LIBRARY AN' WE'VE NEVER BEEN ABLE TO FIND IT. HE SAYS IF ANYBODY FINDS IT, THEY CAN HAVE IT.

DON'T BLAME LOVE FOR WALKING OUT IF YOU GET DRY, LIFELESS "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN!
READ THIS GIRL'S STORY!
BUT BILL'S RIGHT, MARY! YOU HAVE CHANGED! YOUR COMPLEXION'S SO DRY AND LIFELESS LATELY, AND MEN HATE THAT "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN!
I THINK YOU'RE USING THE WRONG SOAP. WHY DON'T YOU CHANGE TO PALMOLIVE?
WHY DO YOU THINK PALMOLIVE WOULD MAKE A DIFFERENCE?
OLIVE OIL—THE SECRET!
BECAUSE PALMOLIVE IS MADE WITH OLIVE AND PALM OILS, NATURE'S FINEST BEAUTY AIDS! THAT'S WHY IT'S SO GOOD FOR DRY, LIFELESS SKIN. ITS GENTLE, DIFFERENT LATHER CLEANSES SO THOROUGHLY, SOFTENS AND REFINES SKIN TEXTURE... LEAVES COMPLEXIONS RADIANT!
SO MARY GOT RID OF "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN AND LOVE WALKED IN AGAIN!
IT'S MADE WITH OLIVE OIL! THAT'S WHY PALMOLIVE IS SO GOOD FOR KEEPING SKIN SOFT, SMOOTH, YOUNG!

On the basis of unofficial turns, Republicans won control the House of Representatives, to 74.

Winner Not Designated.

The State canvassing board has not yet met to designate officia legislative winners. With seve counties still officially unreport the canvass may not be held another 10 days.
